God in the Times of its greatest Purity and Perfection, shewing the stupendious Progress it made throughout the World, and the glorious Conquests it obtain'd over all the Powers of Darknefs.

But Your Majesty being no less remarkable for Goodness, than for Greatness, low as the Performance is, I am still encouraged to offer this Address, and to lay this History before Your Majesty, as the great Protector and Nourishing Mother of the noblest Branch of that Church here treated of and describ'd, and the true Defender of that Faith which was deliver'd by the Mouth of our Blessed Saviour, propagated by the Labours of his Apostles, and seal'd by the Blood of his Martyrs.

Your Majesty having shewn a hearty Love for Your Subjects, and a generous Regard for Your Allies, is become not only the Joy and Delight of our Nations, but also the very Hopes and Life of Europe; and the Eyes of its Inhabitants are fix'd upon Your Majesty, looking out for Protection and Assistance, as from a Deliverer sent from Heaven to break their Chains, to dissipate their Fears, and to secure to them the Blessings

Blessings both of Peace and Liberty. These are noble Acts, the Compleating of which Providence seems to have reserv'd for Your Majesty's Reign, to render it glorious and triumphant: But Your Majesty's tender and affectionate Care for the Church of God, and those fresh Endeavours to destroy its greatest Enemies, Vice and Immorality, raise Your Majesty's Fame to the full Height, and cause it to triumph above all the Glories of this World.

The Freeing of Europe, and the Restoration of Peace, are Works truly great, and worthy of the Crown Your Majesty wears; but the Nourishing God's Church, and the Extirpation of Impiety, surpass all Temporal Rewards, and will meet with an immortal and incorruptible Crown in the ineffable Glories of Eternity. The Former only makes this World happy, but the Latter adds Happiness even to Heaven itself; and whilst the One gives Joy to the Inhabitants of the Earth, the Other bears it to the Angels and blest Spirits above; raising Transports of Joy in that Place where all Joys are to be found, and creating Pleasures in those peaceful Regions where no true Pleasures can be wanting.

That

That Your Majesty may succeed in all the great Works You have so happily begun, is the hearty Prayer of all good Men and true Subjects, and can be no less of him who with all possible Veneration is,

THE P R E F A C E.

THE great Usefulness of the Subject of this Work, and the particular Incouragement it has met in the World, have strongly engag'd me to examine it a second Time, and revise it carefully for another Impression.

As to the Subject in general, it is the greatest and most sublime in its Nature, that ever I did, or can ever Hope to attempt; such as deserves the noblest and most learned Pens of our Nation; as may appear only from the Title, and the Beginning of the Introduction. It is a History greater than that of the Creation, even of the Salvation of Mankind, of the wonderful Propagation of the Gospel, and all the glorious Effects of it; which, IF DONE TO PERFECTION, might tend more to the Honour of God and the Christian Religion, and the real Benefit of the World, both as to Faith and Morality, than all the Discussions, Arguments and Sermons that Men can invent; and would in true Excellency be inferior to nothing but the Holy Scriptures. It is the History of Christianity in its utmost Purity and Prevalency, while it continu'd independent of all human Supports; in which are to be found the best of Sermons, and the noblest Sufferings; the profoundest Mysteries, and the greatest Miracles; besides many other uncommon and surprising Events, the Object of Mens Faith and Admiration.

These were sufficient Inducements to me formerly to undertake this Design, and now to revise and correct it; and tho' it be not brought to that Perfection as to deserve the Commendation before-mention'd, yet, after naming the great Assistances I had from the most eminent Men, I may venture to recommend it as, at least, an useful and laudable Performance; the Honour and Reputation whereof I freely surrender to Them. It is upon their Account also that, without Breach of Modesty, I might mention the Approbation the first Impression receiv'd from those of no little Worth and Knowledge; and likewise the Success it had in supporting some against the Efforts of Deists and others, who wou'd either undermine, or much weaken the Christian Religion. I mention this to the Comfort both of my Assistants and my self: And for this Reason, after imploring a Blessing upon it from Heaven above, I here beg the reasonable Promotion of it from all pious Confessors, who are zealous for the Honour of their blessed Saviour, the glorious Apostles, and Evangelists, and the noble Army of Martyrs of those Ages.

I am sensible that since the first Appearance of this Work there have been some Writers, who have advanc'd such Notions, as, if strictly true, wou'd by consequence invalidate many material Parts of my History. But upon a strict Review, in order to a more correct Edition, I did not find it necessary to alter any one Passage upon their Account. They did not immediately attack Me, nor had I Leisure, nor Inclination to engage Them. I shall only say, I believe this History stands upon a more sure Foundation than to be overthrown by their Arguments, and that the Matters of Fact will out-balance any Human Reasonings: And I further hope that this Work may live, when the Occasion of these Controversies shall be dead and forgotten.

But to come more immediately to the Particulars of this History: The Introduction is design'd to give a full Light to the succeeding Parts, that so all might be intelligible to the meanest Capacity. It is a sort of a smaller Explanation of the Old Testament, which illustrates many Passages in the New; and it is so necessary, and almost essential a Part of the rest, that it cannot be separated, without maiming the whole Body.

The First Book of the Three gives a compleat Account of all the Actions of our blessed Saviour, with several of the Jewish and Roman Affairs. And tho' this in a manner is only taken from the four Evangelists, Josephus, Dion-Cassius, Tacitus and Suetonius, yet I found it necessary to consult a great Number of modern Commentators, Harmonists and Chronologers: By whose Assistance, not only our Saviour's Actions are reduc'd to an exact Method and Order of Time, but almost every single Verse in the four Gospels is so explain'd, or set in such a Light, that I believe their Sense cannot be mistaken any further than I have been mis-led my self. The chief Commentators here us'd were Mede, Hammond, Lightfoot, Grotius and the Criticks; and the chief Harmonists, Chemnitius with his Finishers, Garthwart, Richardson, Lightfoot and Craddock, with some others of the same Nature, tho' not Name, as Bishop Taylor, Walker, &c. The Labour here taken, and the Perfection aim'd at, I hope will be an Answer to any who shall think the first Book too long for the rest rest of the History: For it cou'd not be made shorter without a vast Diminution of its Usefulness to the middle, or inferior sort of Readers.

The Second Book comprehends and explains The Acts of the Apostles, written by St. Luke, and all the rest that are authentick, with a greater Variety of Affairs than the First. The Third Book contains the Acts and Sufferings of the Primitive Christians, with a still greater Variety than the other. These two were not only taken from the New Testament, Josephus, Philo, Eusebius, Lactantius, Orosius, and Sul. Severus, but also from most of the Christian Writers in the four first Centuries, besides all the Roman Historians. All which are digested in as clear a Method, and in as intelligible a Manner, as independant Stories, incoherent Fragments, and heaps of Confusion wou'd permit. I have generally avoided, tho' not absolutely rejected, the Authorities and Relations of Nicephorus, Metaphrastes, Suidas, with other uncertain Writers of those Ages. Those more Modern have been of greater Use and Advantage to me; and that my Book might be defective in no sort of helps, I consulted all those of the greatest Note, either Foreigners, or Englishmen. Among the Former, I made use of the Magdeburg Centuriators, Baronius, Brietius, Capellus, Valesius, Spanhemius, Noris, Pagi, Ruinart, Godeau, Le Sieur, Fleury, Du-Pin and Tillemont; among the Latter, I us'd Fix, Usher, Simpson, Montague, Pearson, Howel, Stillingfleet, Cave, Dodwell, Wake and Wotton. From these, and many others, I have occasionally borrow'd with all Freedom; avoiding nothing which I thought might contribute either to the Usefulness, or the Ornament of my Book.

The Quotations are almost wholly of the Ancients, from whence the Materials were originally taken, being sometimes in the Body of the Book, but most commonly in the Margin. They were made short, that they might not be offensive to the Eye of the Reader; but if any think them not particular enough, because the Page and Chapter of the Book are not nam'd, I have this to answer, That there is scarce any considerable Passage in the History, but from these short Quotations, the Place from whence it was taken may immediately be found by the Help of a good Index, which now few old Books want: And the quoting of Pages, &c. is of no Use to a Reader, who has not the same Editions with the Author.

That nothing might be wanting to make the Work compleat, besides a Map of the Holy Land, taken from the best Geographers, I have added a large Chronological Table, collected from the Works of the nicest Authors, and the Information of one of the

the greatest Chronologers now living. This shews all the Branches of the History in an easie, short and natural View; and is more particular in the Parts, and compleat in its Kind, than any other in the English Tongue.

As to this Second Edition, I have not much to say, but only That it is more correct than the former, and in some few Places alter'd and improv'd. I wou'd have done more to it, had I found any Occasion for it: For after I had examin'd the former Impression, and consulted many judicious Friends, I could not learn that there was a real Occasion for any considerable Alterations; which has given me a greater Reason to value it than I had before.

Only I must not omit one Passage, where, in Point of Chronology, some worthy Persons have judg'd me to have been mistaken; and I cannot affirm that I am not. It is a nice Matter relating to the true time of the Martyrdom of St. Ignatius, which I have plac'd in the 10th Year of Trajan's Reign, A. D. 107. The famous Bishop Pearson was once of the same Opinion, as well as Archbishop Usher; but at last having conquer'd several tedious Chronological Difficulties, and proceeding upon very exact Calculations, Bishop Pearson has fix'd it to the Year 116; upon which he has made an excellent Dissertation, lately publish'd with the new Edition of Ignatius's Epistles at Oxford. Mon. Pagi, and Bishop Lloyd are both of this last Opinion; as may be seen in the Critick of the Former upon Baronius, under the Year 107. Yet still the Reasons and Arguments us'd by Mons. Tillemont, in his 17th Note upon the Reign of Trajan, are so strong against this Opinion, and for the other, that I did not think it necessary to make any Alteration. I am sensible that there are Difficulties attending both Sides, that are not easily surmounted; and therefore I shall leave it to the Judgment of such as shall please to examine the Dissertations of those two great Men, Bishop Pearson, and Mons. Tillemont, to determine of this Point as they see Cause.

As to other Objections, I know of none worth the Reader's Notice; if any shall hereafter be discovered, and Those who observe them will please to favour me with a private Information of them, it shall be accepted with all Gratitude and Acknowledgment; and accordingly Amendment shall be made the first Opportunity.

T H E INTRODUCTION.

Containing a short Description of the Holy-Land, with a particular Account of the Jews; their Government and Legal Constitutions, their various Revolutions, Mixtures and Divisions; Observations upon the gradual and regular Manifestation of the Messiah; with some Historical Matters preceding the Nativity of our SAVIOUR.

I.  MY Design, in this following Attempt, is to give a plain and intelligible Account of the chief Ecclesiastical Affairs in the Three first Ages of the Christian Church, and in part of the Fourth; to trace Christianity from its Birth and Infancy, through all its terrible Conflicts, to its full Growth and Vigour; to shew it in its Purity and Perfection, sometimes languishing and expiring, then reviving and prevailing in all Nations, till it became triumphant over the Pagan World, conquer'd all the Powers of Hell and Earth, and commanded the additional Support of human Constitutions. But in this great Variety of Affairs, many Things have been defectively and confusedly transmitted to us; so that in writing such an History, Method and Perspicuity are almost as necessary as Fidelity and Impartiality. Therefore all things ought to be represented with an artful Simplicity, and in such a regular Manner, as they may be most easily comprehended, and best retained; which I shall endeavour to effect, partly by a Chronological Disposition of the Matter, and a Periodical Ordering of the main Parts, partly by a convenient Mixture of the Jewish and Roman History, and partly by recounting such Circumstances and preceding Accidents, as will give the greatest Light to the succeeding Story. And since Geography is a very necessary Illustration of History, it will not be improper to begin with some Account of that Country where Christianity had its Birth, and where the true Religion for many Ages was principally known; for which Reason it is most commonly call'd by the Name of the Holy-Land,

The Holy-Land, first call'd the Land of Canaan, and the Land of Promise, lyes in Asia, near the most Western Part of that Quarter of the World, and is bounded on the East by Arabia Deserta, from which it is partly divided by Mount Gilead, and Mount Arnon; on the West, or rather North-West, by

by the farthest End of the Mediterranean Sea, and some of that Part of Syria call'd Phœnicia; on the North, or North-East, by the rest of Syria, from which it is divided by Anti-Libanus, and Mount Hermon; and on the South, and South-West, by Arabia Petræa, and particularly by that Part of it call'd Idumæa. It is situated in a very warm Climate, between 30 Degr. 4 Min. and 33 Degr. 2 Min. of Northern Latitude; and between 64 Degr. 49 Min. and 68 Degr. 20 Min. of Longitude; being in Length, from the Northern Parts of Galilee, to the Southern Parts of Judæa, about 200 English Miles; and in Breadth, from the Eastern Parts of Peræa, to the Western Parts of Samarina, about half as much, and in some Places less: So that it contain'd a Spot of Land not half so large as the Kingdom of England. Yet notwithstanding the Smalness of the Limits, and the Heat of the Climate, it surpass'd all Countries in the World in Fertility and Pleasantness; being a Land flowing with Milk and Honey, abounding with the most delicious Fruits and choicest Grains, replenish'd with beautiful Hills and Fountains, with luxurious Vales and Plains, and pleasant Groves and Forests, fill'd with such Numbers of rich Cities and Towns, and blest with such a sweet Temperature of Air, that God thought fit to assign it for the Habitation of his Elect People, and promis'd it to the Father of the Faithful, and his Posterity, as a Type of the Celestial Canaan, the Seat of the most perfect Felicity. This Country is divided into two unequal Parts by the River Jordan, and two Lakes, which are call'd the Sea of Galilee, and the Dead Sea. Jordan runs almost from North to South, or rather from North-East to South-West; and that Part of the Country which lyes on the West, or North-West Side of this River, is the largest, and most considerable for Fruitfulness; but especially for being the Place where the principal Actions of our Saviour were perform'd; which have occasion'd some to call this Part alone by the Name of the Holy-Land; and the other, The Country beyond Jordan. This is the only Natural Division of this Country; as for National Divisions, I shall speak of them as Occasion shall require, and proceed next to

The Inhabitants, and first the Canaanites.

The Inhabitants of this Land, who were principally descended from Canaan, the fourth Son of accursed Cham or Ham, one of Noah's three Sons; from whom this Country was call'd the Land of Canaan. For immediately after the Confusion of Languages at Babel, and not much above 100 Years after the Flood, Canaan with his eleven Sons pass'd through Syria and Phœnicia, and took Possession of almost all that Part of the Country on the West Side of Jordan, afterwards spreading themselves partly on the other Side of the River. Five of his Sons were left to inhabit Phœnicia and the Coasts of Syria; and from the other six, together with himself, sprung seven remarkable Nations; who, for their Sins, afterwards by God's particular Appointment were to be utterly extirpated; namely, the Canaanites, the Amorites, the Jebusites, the Hittites, the Hivites, the Perizzites, and Gergeshites; of whom the three first were the most potent. The Numbers of these People increasing, their Families were subdivided into many inferior Branches and Sovereignties; so that when Joshua enter'd this Land, he found above thirty Kings amongst them. Besides which, they gradually admitted of several other Nations to be their Neighbours, and partly to mix with them; as particularly the Philistines on the Western Coasts, a Gigantick People of the Race of Misraim, the second Son of Cham; the Moabites and Ammonites, beyond Jordan, both Descendents of Lot by his own Daughters; with part of the Midianites and Edomites, Descendents of Midian and Esau; both inhabiting the Southern Parts and Borders of Arabia. So that this Country, for several Ages after the Flood, was inhabited by a Mixture of divers Nations; most of them Idolatrous to a high degree, and in a special manner hateful to God.

These Nations daily increas'd in Wealth and Numbers, and liv'd surrounded with Plenty and Pleasures; tho' not free from frequent Wars and Contests

Usher.

Contests among themselves: Yet they never met with any dangerous or fatal Disturbance, till near 800 Years after the first Plantation of the Land; when the Israelites, under their great Commander Joshua took forcible Possession of it, subdu'd these People, and in a few Ages enslav'd and destroy'd all the old Inhabitants. This memorable Invasion of the Israelites was in the 2553d Year of the World, 897 Years after the Flood, and about 1451 before our Saviour's Nativity; the Land of Canaan having been promis'd to them 470 Years before by the immediate Voice of Heaven. Therefore that I may pursue the Story regularly, it will be necessary to look a little back, and make some Enquiry into the Original and Circumstances of these People call'd Israelites.

They were call'd Israelites, from their first Founder Israel, or Jacob, the The Israelites. Son of Isaac, and Grandson of Abraham; and likewise Hebrews, from Heber, one of the Progenitors of that Patriarch, and of the Fourth Generation after Noah. These were particularly separated by Heaven, and in a short Time became a numerous and formidable Nation, had the Assistance of God's miraculous Hand, and were made a Scourge and a Terror to all their Opposers and Neighbours. Tho' they were for some Time under a miserable Servitude in Aegypt, yet Heaven came triumphantly in to their Succour, sent all kinds of Plagues among their Oppressors, and deliver'd them out of their Hands; loading them with the Riches of that Country, and amazingly destroying the King thereof, and his innumerable Army. After which, and their miraculous Passage through the Red-Sea, they were led by Moses into the Desarts of Arabia; in which wild Place they for their Sins were oblig'd to wander forty Years: Yet still they were protected from above, and supported by a continual Succession of Miracles, 'till they arrived at the Borders of the Land of Canaan. So that these People were sufficiently distinguished from all others in the World; and not only by God's immediate Protection, but likewise by his peculiar Promises; especially that of the Messiah, the Saviour of the World, who was to spring from their Nation. For which Reason, they were strictly prohibited not only from joining with the Worship of other Nations, but likewise from intermixing with them by Marriages, or any other kind of natural Alliance.

But what still farther distinguish'd these People from all others, was their Their Laws. Laws and Customs, which were establish'd by God himself; and, excepting the Moral Precepts, were in the main peculiar to this Nation; consisting of two kinds, Ceremonial and Political. The former were instituted for a double End; partly for the more orderly Worship of God, and to preserve the People from Idolatry; but principally to be Types and Figures of the Evangelical State, Shadows of good Things to come, visible and symbolical Representations of the Messiah, and those mighty Blessings and Privileges to be introduc'd by Him; which no doubt was the Reason why God was so peculiarly punctual in the Directions he gave about the minutest Circumstances of the Temple-Ministration, because every Part of it had a Glance at a future and better state of Things. The Number of their Ceremonies and Customs was great, and the Observation so burthensom, that the whole Nation groan'd under the Weight of the Yolk. They were principally such as related to God's Worship; and may be reduc'd to, 1. Such Things as concern'd the Worship it self: 2. The Circumstance of the Place where: 3. The Time when: and 4. The Persons who were to attend it. Of all which it will be convenient to give some brief and general Account.

The Worship of the Israelites, besides their Prayers, consisted chiefly in Their Worship. two Things, Sacrifices and Sacraments. The former were the constant and most solemn Part of their publick Worship; for they had their continual Burnt-Offering, a Lamb offered every Morning and Evening with a Measure of Flower, Oil and Wine; and the Charge defray'd out of the publick Treasury.

The rest of their Sacrifices may be consider'd either as they were Expiatory or Eucharistical. The former were those that were offer'd as an Atonement for the Sins of the People, to pacify the Divine Displeasure; which they effected by virtue of their typical Relation to that great Sacrifice which the Son of God was in the Fulness of Time to offer up for the Sins of the World. These were either for the Expiation of Sin in general, or design'd for particular Offences; of which were two kinds; the Sin-Offering, for involuntary Offences committed through Error, Ignorance, or Surprize; and the Trespass-Offering, for premeditated Transgressions, which the Party cou'd not pretend to have been the Effects of Surprize or Chance. Eucharistical Sacrifices were Testimonies of Gratitude for Mercies receiv'd from God; of which there were three kinds especially; namely, the Meat-Offering, compos'd of things without Life, and the Fruits of the Earth; which the Worshipper offer'd as a thankful Return for the daily Preservation and Provisions of Life: The Peace-Offering, made up of Living Creatures; offer'd either out of a grateful Sense of some particular Blessing conferr'd, or as a voluntary Offering to which the Party by Vow oblig'd himself, in Expectation of some Benefit or Deliverance to come: And the Thanksgiving-Offering; a mixt Sacrifice, consisting of Living Creatures and the Fruits of the Earth, which they might offer at their own Pleasure, only with some Limitations. What other Provisions we find concerning Ceremonial Uncleanesses, Purifications, First-Fruits, the First-Born, Tenths, &c. are easily reducible to some of those Heads already mention'd. The other Part of their Worship concern'd their Sacraments; which were two, Circumcision, and the Paschal Supper, or the Passover: Circumcision was the Federal Rite by God annex'd as a Seal to the Covenant which he made with Abraham and his Posterity, and was accordingly renewed and taken into the Body of the Mosaical Constitutions. This was to be administred the eighth Day after the Birth of the Child; which the Jews understand not of so many compleat Days, but the current Time, six full Days, and part of the other two. The other Sacrament was the Passover, or the Eating of the Paschal Lamb; which was instituted as an Annual Memorial of their miraculous Deliverance from their Aegyptian Bondage: This was celebrated with extraordinary Ceremony and Solemnity, because it so eminently typify'd the immaculate Lamb of God, and Man's Spiritual Deliverance from the Bondage of Sin and Hell.

Shew Place of Worship.

Next we are to take notice of the Places of their Publick Worship, which were either the Tabernacle made in the Wilderness, or the Temple afterwards built at Jerusalem; between which there was no other Difference as to the essential Design, (tho' in the Beauty and Workmanship) than that the Tabernacle was a moveable Temple, as the Temple was an immovable Tabernacle. No other Place was allow'd for Sacrifices and the Service belonging to them, these being a Type of that only Mediator Jesus Christ, in whom alone Mens Sins cou'd be expiated: So that for them to erect an Altar, or offer Sacrifices in any other Place, tho' it were to the true God, was a typical Idolatry, implying a Multiplicity of Mediators; of whose Unity, this one Place of Worship, and this one Altar, was a compleat Sign. The Parts of the Tabernacle, or Temple, were three; the Holiest of all, the Holy Place, and the Outward Court. Into the first of these, call'd Sanctum Sanctorum, none entred but the High Priest, and that but once a Year, it being a Type of Heaven. In this was the Golden Censer, the Golden Pot of Manna, the Rod of Aaron that budded, and the Ark of the Covenant; in which last were the two Tables of the Law, and over it the Cherubims of Glory who looking towards each other, shadow'd the Mercy-Seat, which was the golden Covering to the Ark; where God veiling his Majesty, was wont to manifest his Presence, to give Answers, and to shew himself reconcil'd to his People. The second Partition, tion, call'd the Holy-Place or Sanctuary, was that Place where the Priests only enter'd to perform their daily Ministrations; in which was the Golden Candlestick, with seven Branches, the Table furrounded with a Border and a Crown of Gold; upon which was plac'd the Shew-Bread for the Priests; and the Golden Altar of Incense, whereon they burnt the sweet Odors every Morning and Evening. The third Division, call'd the Outward Court, and the Court of Israel, was the Place appointed for the People to offer up their Prayers and Sacrifices; into which no unclean or uncircumcis'd Person was permitted to enter. In this Part stood the Brazen Altar, upon which the sacred Fire from Heaven, by which the Sacrifices were consum'd, was continually preserv'd; and the Brazen Laver, wherein the Priests wash'd their Hands and Feet, when going into the Sanctuary; and both they and the People, when ready to offer Sacrifices. To the Temple after several Ages an Addition was made of a fourth Court, call'd the Court of the Gentiles; into which all unclean Persons and Profelyte Gentiles might enter; and in this was the Corban, or Treasury belonging to the Temple. To these Laws concerning the Place of Worship, we may reduce those that relate to the holy Vessels and Utensils of the Tabernacle and the Temple; as Candlesticks, Snuffers, Dishes, and the like; all which, as well as the other Institutions, had their proper Mysteries and Significations.

The stated Times and Seasons of their Worship are in the third place to be consider'd; and they were either Daily, Weekly, Monthly, or Yearly. Their Daily Worship was at the Time of the Morning and the Evening Sacrifice. Their Weekly Solemnity was the Sabbath, which was to be observ'd with all imaginable Care and Strictness; they being commanded to rest from all servile Labours, and to attend the Duties and Offices of Religion. Their Monthly Festivals were the New-Moons, wherein they were to sound the Trumpets over the Sacrifices and Oblations, and to celebrate them with great Expressions of Joy and Triumph, in a grateful Remembrance of the Blessings conferr'd upon them the preceding Month. Their Annual Solemnities were either Ordinary or Extraordinary; The Ordinary were those that return'd every Year; of which the first was the Passover, to be celebrated upon the fourteenth Day of the first Month, or March; as a Memorial of their Deliverance out of Ægypt; and to continue with many other Ceremonies, for seven Days. The second was Pentecost, call'd the Feast of Weeks; because it was exactly seven Weeks, or fifty Days after the Passover. It was also of seven Days Continuance, and instituted partly in Memory of the Promulgation of the Law at Mount Sinai, fifty Days after the first Passover in Ægypt; and partly as a Thanksgiving for their Harvest, which usually was fully gathered in about this Time. The third was the Feast of Tabernacles, begun on the fifteenth Day of the seventh Month, or September, continuing eight Days; at which Time they dwelt in Booths or Tabernacles made of green Boughs, as a Memento of their sojourning in Tents in the Wilderness, and a sensible Demonstration of the transitory Duration of the present Life. These were the three great Solemnities, wherein all the Males of Israel were oblig'd to appear before the Lord, and for many Ages at Jerusalem where the Temple stood, and to present themselves and their Offerings in Testimony of their Homage and Devotion. Besides which they had some Festivals of lesser Note, such as the Feast of Trumpets, and that of Expiation. The Extraordinary Annual Solemnities, were those that recurr'd but once in the Periodical Return of several Years; such was the Sabbatical Year, which was every seventh Year, wherein the Land was to lye fallow and the People were to forbear Ploughing, or in any manner cultivating the same. But the great Sabbatical Year was that of Jubilee, which return'd at the End of seven ordinary Sabbatical Years; that is every fiftieth Year; the Approach of which was solemnly solemnly proclaim'd by the Sound of Trumpets: In it all Servants were released, all Debts discharg'd, and mortgag'd Estates reverted to their proper Heirs; which nobly shadow'd out the Freedom and Privileges of the Evangelical State.

Lastly, we are to consider the Persons by whom their publick Worship was administer'd: And these were, first an High-Priest, who had his proper Offices and Rules of Duty, and his peculiar Habit and Consecration; secondly, Ordinary Priests, whose Business was to instruct the People, to pray and offer Sacrifice, to bless the Congregation, and to judge in cases of Leprosie and such like; and thirdly, the Levites, who were to assist the Priests in preparing the Sacrifices, to bear the Tabernacle while it lasted, and lay up and cleanse its Vessels and Utensils, to guard the Courts and Chambers of the Temple, to watch weekly there by Turns, to sing and celebrate the Praises of God with Hymns and Musical Instruments, and to join with the Priests in judging and determining Ceremonial Cases. There were many Orders and Courses of Priests among the Israelites, and tho' all of them were Types of Christ, yet it was the High-Priest who did eminently typifie him, and that in several Particulars: As in the Unity and Singularity of his Office; in the Qualifications of his Person, which was to be in all Respects perfect and comely; in the Manner of his Consecration; and in his singular Capacity, that he alone might enter into the Sanctum Sanctorum; which he did once a Year upon the great Day of Expiation, with extraordinary Pomp and Solemnity, killing Sacrifices, burning Incense, sprinkling the Victim's Blood upon the Mercy Seat, going within the Veil, and making an Atonement within the Holy Place. All which immediately referr'd to that one Mediator between God and Man, the Man Jesus Christ, who, by the Sacrifice of himself, and through the Veil of his own Flesh enter'd, not in the Holy Place made with Hands, but into Heaven it self, now to appear in the Presence of God for us.

Besides these Ceremonial Laws already enumerated, the Israelites had several other particular Commands, and Ritual Constitutions about Meats and Drinks, and other Things relating to human Life. Such was the Difference they were to make between the Creatures, some to be clean, and others unclean; such were several sorts of Pollutions and Uncleanesses, which were not Sins in their own Nature, but Ceremonial Defilements; and of this Kind were several Provisions about Apparel, Diet, and the ordering Family Affairs; all evidently of a Ceremonial and Typical Aspect, but too long to be insisted on in this Place. Wherefore I shall proceed next, (tho' but to a bare mentioning) of

Their Political Laws.

The other Sort of Laws given to the Israelites, which, besides those purely Moral, were Political and Judicial. These were the Municipal Laws of the Nation, enacted for the well Ordering of the State, and were a kind of an Appendage to the second Table of the Decalogue, as the Ceremonial Laws were to the first. They may be conceiv'd under these four Heads: First, such as respected Men in their private and domestick Capacities, concerning Husbands and Wives, Parents and Children, and Masters and Servants: Secondly, such as concern'd the Publick and Commonwealth, relating to Magistrates and Courts of Justice, to Contracts and Bargains, to Estates and Inheritances, and to Executions and Punishments: Thirdly, such as belonged to Strangers and Matters of foreign Nature; as Laws concerning Peace and War, Commerce and Dealing with Persons of other Nations: And lastly, such as secured the Honour and Interest of Religion, Laws against Apostates, and Idolaters, Wizards, Conjurers and False-Prophets, against Blasphemy, Sacrilege, and such like Crimes. All which Laws were peculiarly calculated for the Israelites; and tho' proceeding from the wisest Law-giver, they were not obligatory to other Nations, besides such of them as were were Branches of the Law of Nature, the Reason of Them being immutable and eternal.

Thus were the Israelites distinguish'd from all other People and Nations, as well by the Favours and Promises from Heaven, as their peculiar Laws and Customs. They were distinguish'd from each other only by their twelve Tribes, as being Descendants of the twelve Sons of Jacob or Israel; and when they enter'd the Land of Canaan, they divided it into twelve Parts or Portions, one for each Tribe. The Northern Parts were given to the Tribes of Aser, Neptali, Zabulon, and Issachar; the middle Parts, to that of Ephraim, and half of Manasseh; the Southern Parts to those of Judah, Benjamin, Dan and Simeon; and the Country beyond Jordan, to those of Ruben, Gad, and the other Half of Manasseh. Levi, which makes a thirteenth Tribe, being selected for the special Service of God, was dispersed among all the other Tribes, had 48 Cities, the Tenths of all the Profits of the Land; and many other great Advantages and Privileges. At the first Entrance of the Israelites, and the Division of the Land, they had many miraculous Victories, and stupendious Successes; yet the old Inhabitants were not immediately destroy'd nor subdu'd, being particularly reserv'd by God for many Years to be Scourges, and Thorns in their Sides, whenever they became stubborn or idolatrous. Their Government at this Time was a kind of an Aristocracy, or rather, as the Fathers call it, a Theocracy; the Legislative Power being more immediately in God himself, and the Executive, as it is generally believ'd, in the Congregation of the Elders; which consisted of 70 Persons, and was usually stil'd the Sanhedrim, or grand Council: Only upon all Exigencies, they had a supreme Officer call'd a Judge, whose Authority was more properly that of a General of an Army, than a Governor of a Nation. This Government continu'd, under sixteen several Judges, from the Death of Moses, and the Passage into Canaan, 356 Years according to the most exact Chronologers. During which Space, the Tabernacle was principally fix'd at Shiloh, a City of the Tribe of Ephraim, almost in the Middle of the whole Country; and the Israelites met with many severe Oppressions from their Neighbours, and no less signal Deliverances from Heaven; which Vicissitudes continually hapned according to the Measures of their Obedience or Rebellion.

At length after a great Reformation of Religion by Samuel, the last of the Judges, in the Year of the World 2909, the Israelites grew weary of this kind of Government, and mutinously cry'd out for a King; which so provok'd the Almighty that he sent them Saul, a Prince warlike and brave, but cruel and tyrannical, and disobedient to his Creator; till at last he was abandon'd by him, and plung'd into all the Miseries that attend Confusion and Despair. He was succeeded by David, a Man after God's own Heart; who happily restor'd the Church, took Jerusalem, and made it the Royal City of the Nation; conquer'd several Countries, and much enlarg'd his Dominions, even from Aegypt to Euphrates; the utmost Limits promis'd by God to Abraham's Seed above 880 Years before. But for some Sins which he committed, he was not permitted to effect that great Work, the Building of a Temple; yet at his Death, he left more Treasure, and vaster Sums we find for that Design, than ever was recorded in any History either sacred or profane. After 40 Years Reign his Son Solomon succeeded him, a Prince the most renowned in the World, both for Wisdom and Magnificence, who undertook and finish'd what his Father David had design'd: having the Honour of being the first Man in the World, who erected a Temple to the true God. The 150000 Persons employ'd in the Undertaking, the 3600 general Overseers, together with the seven Years Building, give us a noble Idea of the Greatness of the Work; which was so surprizingly beautiful and glorious, that it was accounted counted one of the greatest Wonders of the World. This was finish'd in the 3000th Year of the World, and about 486 after the first erecting of the Tabernacle; at which Time, when the Temple was dedicated, the Majesty of God became conspicuous in it, by a Cloud of Glory, and Fire from Heaven. Now was the State of Israel in the Height of its Splendor and Glory, and so continu'd in the utmost Peace and Plenty most of this Reign; which lasted 40 Years. A King so wise and knowing, a Court so pompous and magnificent, a People so rich and flourishing, were never known before or since that Time. But the great Errors and Infirmities of Solomon in his latter Days caus'd God to deprive the Nation of this mighty Prosperity, and to put an End to the united Monarchy of Israel, which had, excepting two Years, continu'd intire about 120 Years from the first Establishment of Saul. Yet it is believ'd that it was not so absolute a Monarchy, but that the Sanhedrim retain'd a very great Power and Authority, tho' not equal to that in the Time of the Judges.

The Division of the Kingdom.

Upon the Death of Solomon, in the 3030th Year of the World, and 974th before our Saviour's Nativity, his Son Rehoboam by his indiscreet Roughness caus'd Ten of the Twelve Tribes to revolt from him; so that the Nation became divided into two distinct and independent Kingdoms, one call'd the Kingdom of Judah, and the other the Kingdom of Israel; the former adhering to Rehoboam, and the latter chusing Jeroboam for their King. The Kingdom of Judah contain'd all the Southern Parts of the Land, and about a Fourth of the whole, being about 100 Miles in length, and 60 in breadth; consisting of the two Tribes of Judah and Benjamin, and so much of Dan and Simeon as lay intermix'd with Judah; its Royal City being Jerusalem in the Tribe of Benjamin. The Kingdom of Israel contain'd all the Northern and middle Parts of the Land, together with the Country beyond Jordan, consisting of the rest of the Tribes; the Royal City, during the Time of this Kingdom's Continuance, being Samaria in the Tribe of Ephraim, not much above 30 Miles North East of Jerusalem. Notwithstanding the Smallness of these two Kingdoms, their Power and Forces were extraordinary; as appears from their vast Armies which they sent into the Field, particularly when Abijah the second King of Judah after the Division led an Army of 400000 Men against Jeroboam King of Israel, who brought double the Number; which latter was defeated with the loss of 500000 of his Men. Not long after Abijah's Son Asa led an Army against the Arabians or Ethiopians consisting of 580000 Men; yet was much exceeded by his Son Jehoshaphat, who had list'd 780000 Men out of the Tribe of Judah, and 380000 out of Benjamin, in all 1160000 Men: An infinite Proportion, for a Spot of Land not much larger than one particular County in England; and surpassing all Belief, had not the Holy Scriptures affirmed it, and God himself promised it to Abraham, That his Seed should be as the Dust of the Earth, and the Stars of Heaven for Multitude.

The Kingdom of Israel.

Upon the Division of the Kingdoms, Jeroboam judg'd no way more effectual to secure his new acquired Sovereignty, than by diverting his Subjects from the Temple and the Worship at Jerusalem; therefore out of a cursed Policy he erected two golden Calves in Dan and Bethel, one in the Tribe of Neptthali, and the other in Ephraim; persuading the People there to make their publick Adorations and Sacrifices, appointing Priests and other Officers for that purpose. From which time the true Religion began visibly to ebb and decay, and Idolatry to gain ground after a notorious manner: And tho' God permitted the Kingdom to continue under the Government of nineteen several Kings, all of whom were idolatrous and impious; yet he soon made it decline, and after the space of 254 Years from the Death of Solomon, finally destroy'd it by the Hand of Salmanasser King of Assyria, who not only ravag'd the Country, but carry'd ry'd all the ten Tribes captive into his own Dominions, and planted other Nations in their Room. So that this Kingdom became a part of the great Assyrian Empire; only the Moabites and Ammonites by their Industry regain'd some part of their ancient Dominions in the Country beyond Jordan. This great Alteration and first Dispersion of the Israelites happened in the 3283<sup>d</sup> of the World, and 721 Years before our Saviour's Nativity; and as to their State and Fortunes afterwards we have no certain Account. The first Dispersion of the Israelites.

In the mean time the Kingdom of Judah was somewhat more prosperous, and continu'd 133 Years longer than the Kingdom of Israel, under the Government of twenty several Kings. These two Tribes of Judah and Benjamin were more obedient to God and their King, firmly adhering to the Worship of the Temple; tho' even here Idolatry in some Places maintain'd its Ground, having taken Root in the Reign of Solomon, who had been betray'd into these Follies by his exceeding Fondness to his Wives. Tho' some of the succeeding Princes much endeavour'd to destroy it, yet it was reviv'd again by others, and with other Impieties so much encreas'd, that when the Preachings of the Prophets, and the Example of the other Tribes Punishment, would not avail, God thought fit to deliver the whole Nation into the Hands of Nebuchadnezzar King of Babylon, who first conquer'd the King and Kingdom, and nineteen Years after led all the Inhabitants captive to Babylon, and utterly destroy'd the City of Jerusalem, together with the glorious Temple, after it had stood 416 Years, the Wonder and Envy of the World. This was the second memorable Captivity of the Israelites, beginning 114 Years after the other, tho' not completed till the Destruction of Jerusalem and the Temple; when all Things were left in a miserable Condition, and the Inhabitants made a Scorn to all Nations. The Kingdom of Judah. The second Dispersion of the Israelites.

After 70 Years Captivity, in the 3468th Year of the World, and 536th before our Saviour's Nativity, Cyrus the Great, King of Persia and Babylon, by means of a Divine Impulse, restor'd these two Tribes to their ancient Habitations, and gave them Commission to rebuild their City and Temple. Which last Work was immediately begun, and continu'd with great Diligence by Zerubbabel and others; but with so much Opposition from the neighbouring Inhabitants, that it was not finished till twenty Years after. And after all the Care and Zeal of the Undertakers, this second Temple was far inferior to the first, not only in the outward Beauty and Magnificence, but also in the want of five inward or more spiritual Advantages, which were accounted the Glory of the Israelites; namely, the Ark of the Covenant, the Fire from Heaven that lay upon the Altar, the Shekinah or Presence of the Divine Majesty on the Mercy Seat, the Urim and Thummim, and the Spirit of Prophecy, which departed from the Nation not many Years after. About 61 Years after the Dedication of this Temple, the Buildings of Jerusalem were all finish'd, and the Walls compleated, 454 Years before the Æra of our Saviour's Nativity; in which Year, Usher and the best Chronologers place the Beginning of Daniel's 70 Weeks. And about this time, as Josephus informs us, these two surviving Tribes of Judah and Benjamin lost their ancient Name of Israelites, and have ever since been called by the Name of Jews. There was not only an Alteration in their Name, but also in their Language and their Government. Their Language was chang'd from the pure Hebrew to one compos'd of Chaldee and Hebrew, since call'd the Syriack; which Language they continually us'd till the last Destruction of Jerusalem by Titus. And their Government was now no longer Regal, but rather Sacerdotal, the High Priest having the greatest Authority; but the greatest Power was retain'd by the Sanhedrim. Priests.

Josephus. For 122 Years after the finishing of the Walls of Jerusalem, the Jews, tho' confin'd to small Dominions, and despis'd by their Neighbours, continu'd tinu'd in a tolerable Degree of Quiet and Prosperity. At which time, the whole Land of Canaan or Israel became subject to the Macedonian or Grecian, as before it had been to the Babylonian and Persian Empires. This was effected by Alexander the Great; after whose Death this Country fell to the Share of the Kings of Syria, by whom it began to be call'd by the Name of Palestine, and was divided into these five distinct Provinces, three on the West Side, and two in the Country beyond Jordan. 1. Galilee, the most Northern Province, bordering upon Syria and Phœnicia, and containing the old Habitation of the four Tribes of Aser, Neptali, Zabulon and Issachar; being divided into the Upper and Lower, and about 85 Miles in Length, and 70 in Breadth. 2. Samaria, on the South of Galilee, and bordering upon the Mediterranean Sea, containing the old Habitation of the Tribe of Ephraim and half of Manasseh; being about 75 Miles Long, and near 50 in Breadth. 3. Judea, South, or rather South-West of Samaria, containing the Habitation of the Tribes of Judah and Benjamin, together with Dan and Simeon; being almost the same with the old Kingdom of Judah, and about 100 Miles in Length, and 60 in Breadth. Beyond Jordan were, 4. Traconitis, on the East of Galilee, bordering upon Syria, and containing the old Habitation of the other half of Manasseh; being a Country less fruitful than the rest, and about 70 Miles in Length, and 50 in Breadth. 5. Peræa, (which Name was sometimes given to all that Country beyond Jordan) on the South of Traconitis, and East of Samaria and Judea, containing the old Habitation of the two Tribes of Gad and Reuben, and somewhat more; being about 110 Miles in Length, and near 60 in Breadth. This was the Division of the whole Land, which continu'd to our Saviour's Time; when another Province was added by the Romans to this Country, call'd Idumæa, which took in some of the Southern Parts of Judea, and Part of Arabia.

The third Dispersion.

Of these five Provinces, the Jews only possess'd that call'd Judea, and for a considerable space not all that, being hated and oppress'd by all their Neighbours, especially the powerful Nations of Ægypt and Syria, two great Branches of the Macedonian or Grecian Empire. The King of the former, Ptolemæus Lagi, shortly after the Death of Alexander, enter'd Judea, took Jerusalem it self, and carried infinite Numbers both of the City and the Country captive into Ægypt. This was the third remarkable Dispersion of this People, which happen'd in the 320th Year before Christ, and 216 Years after their Return from Babylon. After this, they were extremely harass'd by the Kings of Syria, especially by Antiochus Epiphanes, who in the 170th Year before Christ, enter'd Jerusalem, made a miserable Slaughter of the Inhabitants, prophan'd and pillag'd the Temple, and compell'd many by Tortures both to eat forbidden Meats, and offer Sacrifice to Idols. At which time God rais'd up Mattathias a Priest, and the Head of the Asmonean Family, who together with his three brave Sons and Successors, Judas Maccabæus, Jonathan, and Simon, became so successful in asserting the Liberty of their Country, that the Jews in few Years not only freed Judea from the Syrians, but likewise enlarg'd their Dominions to the gaining of almost all the old Possessions of the twelve Tribes of Israel, together with Idumæa, whose Inhabitants they compell'd to be circumcis'd. Inasmuch, that in 62 Years, Aristobulus, one of the Successors of the Maccabæes, thought fit to take the Crown upon him, and was the first King over the Jews after the Babylonian Captivity; their Sacerdotal Government, as it is called by some, having continu'd, without any noted Intermision, 428 Years.

The Jews subjected to the Romans.

But this new Regal Government continu'd not free and independent above 46 Years; at which time Pompey, the great General of the Romans, coming coming down like a Torrent upon the East, was by the Usurpation of Aristobulus II. and the Indiscretion of his Brother Hircanus; made Master of all this Country: So that Palestine from this Time became a Province of the Roman Empire; which happened 62 Years before the vulgar Aera of our Saviour's Nativity. Yet notwithstanding this Conquest, the former Laws and Customs were continu'd to this Country, as also the Sacerdotal Government, which remain'd about 22 Years longer in its full Force; till Herod an Idumean Prince, accidentally obtain'd the Kingdom of Judaea of the Senate of Rome, and in three Years became Master of the whole Country, which he enlarg'd, and brought to a greater degree of Grandeur and Magnificence, than ever it had been in since the Reign of Solomon: Yet at the same Time he depress'd the Priesthood, extirpated the Maccabean Family, and miserably enslav'd the Inhabitants. This was the first Foreigner to whom the Jews became immediately subject; in whose Reign our Blessed Saviour came into the World: So that the ancient Prophecy of the Scepter's departing from Judah, is by the best Criticks suppos'd to begin to take Place at this Time, though it was not intirely completed till the last Destruction of Jerusalem, and the fatal Dissolution of the Jewish State.

II. From this short Account already given, it will appear, that at the time of our Saviour's coming into the World, the Inhabitants of the Land of Canaan or Palestine were a Mixture of divers Nations both of Foreigners and Natives; and that the Jews themselves were but a Remnant of an often scatter'd, conquer'd, and captivated People; but two intire Tribes of twelve, and those tributary both to Herod and the Romans. The Foreigners who resided in this Country were principally Grecians and Romans, the former being the Reliques of the Macedonian Empire, and the latter, Magistrates, Governors, and Soldiers, to keep it in Obedience, and to receive the Tributes. The rest of the Inhabitants, tho' of many different Extracts, may principally be conceiv'd under these two following Names. 1. Jews, and 2. Samaritans; of whom, for Dispatch sake, I shall first take Notice of the latter.

1. The Samaritans were principally Descendents of those Assyrians whom Salmanasser sent to inhabit the Kingdom of Israel, when he carry'd the ten Tribes captive; originally Pagans, and call'd Cuthites by the Jews, either from the Name of their Country, or by Way of Reproach. But mixing with the Remainder of the Tribes, and being punish'd with Lions, and instructed by some Israelitish Priests, they gradually receded from their Pagan Idolatries; and after the Babylonian Captivity, they became zealous in the Worship of the true God. They were circumcis'd, offer'd Sacrifices, perform'd the Ceremonies of the Law, and expected the Messiah, who was to deliver them from all Calamities, and teach them all Things: Yet they never comply'd with Judaism any farther than to own the five Books of Moses, rejecting all the Prophets and the other Sacred Writings. And tho' they had Priests and Sacrifices like the Jews, yet they would not allow Jerusalem to be the Place of publick Worship; therefore to divert the common Sort from the Temple of God, by the means of Sanballat, a great Prince of their Nation, they erected another Temple of great Magnificence, upon Mount Gerizim, near Sichem, and not far from Samaria; imitating the Policy, tho' not the Idolatry of Jeroboam, the first King of Israel after the Division. This Temple was built 204 Years after the Babylonian Captivity, and 332 before our Saviour's Nativity, and prov'd a great weakning to the Jewish Church; for all profligate Wretches, Malefactors, and excommunicated Persons among the Jews, immediately repair'd to this Place, and join'd with the Samaritan Worship. This, with the former Resentments, occasion'd such violent Heats between the Jews and Samaritans, tho' immediate Neighbours, that they would have no Commerce or Correspondence with each other, and one continually branded the other with the most reproachful Titles imaginable. About 200 Years after, the Jews growing powerful by the Valour of the Maccabees, the Samaritans were subdu'd by John Hircanus, who destroy'd Samaria and their Schismatical Temple, and confin'd them to a narrower Spot of Land, even to that little Province of Samaria, which I have before describ'd. Yet this did not extinguish their Hatred and Prejudices, but they still kept Mount Gerizim for their Place of publick Worship, and continu'd their Schism till the total Destruction of both Nations by Titus the Emperor.

The Principles of the Samaritans, besides their rejecting all the Scriptures but the Books of Moses, were their denying the future Judgement, the Resurrection of the Dead, and the everlasting Life, because they thought those Doctrines not reveal'd in the Pentateuch; in which they agreed with the Jewish Sadduces. They were likewise noted for being much addicted to Sorcery, Magick, Witchcraft and Inchantments, with all other curious and unlawful Arts; which gave Occasion to the Jews, when they design'd to reproach our Saviour with having a Familiar Spirit, to call him a Samaritan. Besides which, they were so swell'd with their imaginary Perfections and Holiness, that they thought themselves defil'd by any Company or Conversation but their own. Therefore if they convers'd or traded with any Foreigner, at their return, they sprinkled themselves with Urine: But if through Negligence or Necessity they had touch'd them, they wash'd themselves and all their Cloaths at the next Fountain; in which Superstition they resembled the Sectaries of the Jews. They maintain'd themselves to be the Descendants of Joseph, and Heirs of the Aaronical Priesthood; yet they had several Divisions and Sects among themselves, more particularly these three, the Dositheans, the Sebueans, and the Gortheni. 1. The Dositheans were so called from Dositheus or Dosibui, suppos'd to be the first Priest sent into this Country by the King of Assyria. These disagreed with the rest of the Samaritans in owning the Doctrine of the Resurrection; did eat nothing that had Life, like the Pythagoreans; abstain'd from Marriage, like the Jewish Essenes; and in the Point of Sabbath-keeping exceeded the Pharisees; it being resolv'd amongst them, That in whatsoever Posture a Person was found on the Sabbath-day Morning, he ought to continue in the same the whole Day without Alteration. 2. The Sebueans, so nam'd from Sebua or Sebuiab, one of the Associates of Dositheus; who, tho' they kept the same publick Festivals with the Jews and other Samaritans, yet observ'd not the same Time; transferring the Passover to August, the Pentecost to Autumn, and the Feast of Tabernacles to the time of the Passover: For which Reason they were not permitted to worship at the Temple of Gerizim. 3. The Gortheni kept the same Festivals, and observ'd the same Times of those Solemnities as the Law required; but contrary to the Law they kept only one of the seven appointed Days, and neglected the rest as Days of ordinary Labour.

Their Sects.

The Jews.

2. The Jews were most properly such as inhabited the Country of Judæa; but because in our Saviour's Time all were called Jews, who observ'd the Law of Moses and all the Prophets, we shall take notice of them in their full Extent, and under these three Denominations and Distinctions. 1. Hellenists, 2. Profelytes, and 3. Jews in a proper Sense, who are often called by the Name of Hebrews.

The Hellenists.

The Hellenists or Grecizing Jews, were such as were real Jews by Descent and Profession; but living dispers'd in almost all Parts of the Roman Empire, they made use of the Greek Tongue, the most general Language of

of that Age, in their publick Offices of Religion, and also the Septuagint's Translation of the Old Testament: For which Reason they were called Hellenists, in Opposition to the other Jews, who in their Worship made use of the Hebrew Tongue only. They are likewise call'd Jews of the Western-Dispersion, occasion'd principally by the Oppressions of the Egyptians and Syro-Macedonians; and were very numerous, especially in Aegypt, Libya and Cyrene. These were as superstitious in their Sabbath, as tenacious of their Circumcision, and of the other Rites and Ceremonies of their Law, as the Jews of Palestine; for which Reason they were continually despised and hated by the Romans and Grecians, and other Gentiles, among whom they resided. Yet notwithstanding their Strictness, they were not thoroughly esteem'd by the Hebrew Jews, but reckon'd by them as Jews of an inferior Rank, upon the Account of the Heathen Language they us'd, and the Heathen Countries they inhabited.

The Profelytes were such as were Gentiles by Birth and Descent, but conform'd themselves to the Jewish Customs, and were admitted into their Religion: And these were of two distinct Kinds, one call'd Profelytes of the Covenant, and the other Profelytes of the Gate. The first were accounted as real, tho' but adopted Jews, bound to the same Observances with them, and convers'd as freely with them, as if they had been so born; neither might they eat, drink, or deal with the Gentiles more than the other, lest they became unclean. They worship'd in the same Court of the Temple with the Hebrews, where others were prohibited Entrance; and were Partakers with them in all Privileges both Divine and Human, differing in nothing but their Race and Parentage. The usual Way of the Jews making these Profelytes, was by Circumcision, Baptism and Sacrifice, if they were Males; and by only Baptism and Sacrifice, if Females; as Maimonides and the chief of the Rabbins assure us. Baptism was an ancient Custom among the Jews, and many Ages before our Saviour's Appearance in the World. Many account it as ancient as the Patriarch Jacob; but most do agree that it was practis'd before the Delivery of the Law in the Wilderness. And as Circumcision was us'd to the Children of the Jews, so was Baptism also to the Children and Infants of the Profelytes; the Talmud giving this Reason for it, That they may privilege a Person, tho' he be incapable of knowing it; but they ought not to disprivilege a Person without his Knowledge. 2. The Profelytes of the Gate, were such Gentiles as were by the Jews admitted to the Worship of the God of Israel, and the Hopes of a future Life; but were not circumcis'd, nor yet conform'd to the Mosaical Rites and Ordinances; being only oblig'd to the Observation of those Precepts which the Hebrew Doctors call The seven Precepts of the Sons of Noah, and are recorded under these following Titles: "First, to renounce Idols, and all idolatrous Worship. "Secondly, to worship the true God, the Creator of Heaven and Earth. "Thirdly, to shed no Man's Blood. Fourthly, to refrain from all unlawful Lufts and Mixtures. Fifthly, to shun all Rapine, Theft and Robbery. "Sixthly, to administer true Justice. Lastly, not to eat the Flesh of any Beast taken from it alive; by which all Cruelty was prohibited. These Profelytes, tho' they were admitted to worship in the Temple; yet because they were uncircumcis'd, they were so far look'd upon as Gentiles, as not to be admitted into the same Court with the Profelytes of the Covenant; but were accounted as unclean, and had their particular Court assign'd them in their Worship of God, which was call'd the Court of the Gentiles and of the Unclean. As the first of these in the New Testament are call'd simply Προσήλυτοι, the latter are called Σεβόμενοι or Worshippers; and were much more numerous in all Parts of the Roman Empire than the former. Their Conditions were more free and unconfin'd, and their Precepts more easie and natural than the

the other; and their Principles fitting them for the Reception of the Gospel; they became the most apparent Cause of the first great spreading of Christianity.

*The Jews
strictly so call'd.*

*Their Corrup-

Lastly, We are to take notice of the Jews in a more proper Sense, who were often distinguish'd by the Name of Hebrews, and were the Inhabiters of Palestine, and more principally that part of it call'd Judæa. These were the Persons with whom our Blessed Saviour was pleas'd chiefly to converse, at a remarkable time when they were but the Relicts, and even the Dregs of an often broken, and then detested Generation; when to be a Jew was a Name of Disgrace, and to be circumcis'd a Mark of Infamy: So that then they might well be a peculiar People, not only because God separated them from all other Nations, but because all other Nations separated from them. God had now seem'd to have forsaken them, by his withdrawing from them the Spirit of Prophecy, and his frequent and immediate Revelations, formerly the Glory of their Nation; and likewise by his leaving them to the Mercy of every Tyrant and Conqueror. All which was but the just Punishment of their numerous Impieties and Corruptions; which had been provoking in all Ages, but more fragrant in this. Before the Babylonian Captivity, Idolatry was their great Crime; for which God so often punish'd them, and more particularly with that seventy Years Slavery. But after their Return, they gradually ran into a contrary Extreme, which was a rigid Superstition; and this encreasing, and receiving in some Notions of the Grecian Philosophers, it not only produc'd an insupportable Pride and Obstinacy, but likewise several Sects and Heresies amongst them. By this means their Lives and Morals became extremely corrupted, Lust and Avarice prevailing in a shameful manner; and as the Roman Yoke grew heavier, so their Notions of the Messiah became grosser than formerly; expecting instead of a spiritual, only a temporal Prince and Deliverer, who should raise them to the height of worldly Grandeur. So that scarce ever any Church or Religion in the World was more basely degenerated, or more miserably corrupted, than that of the Jews, at the time of the Manifestation of our Blessed Saviour.

To descend a little to Particulars, we may pertinently take notice of these four; their Temple, their Priesthood, their Law, and their Sects. 1. Their Temple had lately been rebuilt by Herod, to almost an incredible degree of Beauty and Magnificence; yet as it had been prophan'd by Antiochus, Pompey, and Crassus, so it was likewise by Him, making it subservient to his impious Policies and Designs. And the Jews themselves were no less guilty of Prophanation, turning all that part of it call'd the Court of the Gentiles into an Exchange and Market; so that the Place where Men were to meet with God, and to converse with Heaven, became Ware-houses for Merchants, and Shops for Usurers and Extortioners. The Worship formerly perform'd there with the most pious and devout Affections, was now become a meer Shell and outward Shew; Rites of human Invention had jostled out those of Divine Institution, and their very Prayers were made Snares to catch the unwary People, and to devour Widows and Orphans. 2. Their Priesthood was so chang'd and confounded, that it retain'd scarce any thing but its ancient Name: The High Priests, who by their original Institution were to succeed lineally, and to retain their Office for Life, were become almost annual, and which is worse, venal; Herod exposing the Priesthood to Sale, scarce admitting any who paid not well for his Patent. By which Means this high Station was fill'd with the Refuse of the People, by Men of weak Abilities, and debauch'd Manners, who had neither Parts nor Piety to recommend them, he

he being accounted best and worthiest who offer'd most. 3. Their Law which had been deliver'd with the utmost Grandeur and Majesty, and for which they pretended the greatest Veneration, was by them miserably corrupted and depraved, especially the Moral Part of it; and that by their gross and absurd Interpretations, as also by their Oral Law and Traditions. The Scribes and Pharisees, who rul'd the Chair in the Jewish Church, had by false and corrupt Glosses debas'd the Majesty and Purity of the Law, and made it serve the Purposes of an evil Life: They taught the People, that the Law requir'd no more than external Righteousness, that if there was but a visible Conformity of Life, they needed not be solicitous about the Government of their Minds, or the regular Conduct of their Thoughts or Passions; so that if Men did but preserve a laudable Appearance in the World, the secret Purity of the Soul was needless: And farther, that a punctual Observance of some external Precepts of the Law, would compensate for the Neglect or Violation of the rest. Their Oral Law and their Traditions was another Way of weakning and debasing the Written Law of God; and of these they were so fond, that they prefer'd them before the Writings of Moses, some of them pretending that they were deliver'd by God himself to Moses, and so transmitted to Posterity. These brought them into infinite Niceties, and superstitious Practices, such as their frequent Washings and Purifications; in which, and innumerable other Trifles, they were so exceeding scrupulous, that they made the Neglect of them of equal Guilt with the greatest Immorality, not fearing to assert, "That he who eats Bread with unwashen Hands is as if he lay with an Harlot." 4. The Sects and Divisions among the Jews Their Sects. are lastly to be taken notice of; and these were partly religious, partly political, and partly distinct. Tho' there were many Branches and Distinctions among the Jews, yet what are most proper for our Purpose to be taken notice of, may be comprehended under these seven Denominations. 1. Pharisees, 2. Sadducees, 3. Essenes, 4. Scribes, 5. Publicans, 6. Herodians, and 7. Galileans.

(1.) The Pharisees were so called from the Word Perash, importing The Pharisees. Exposition, or rather Parash, implying Separation, because they were separated from all others in their extraordinary Pretences to Piety. It is uncertain when this Sect began to appear in the World, tho' it is most commonly believ'd to be about 300 Years before our Saviour's Birth. However, in a short time it became a bold and daring Sect, not fearing to affront Princes, and Persons of the greatest Quality; they were crafty and insinuating, and by a Shew of mighty Zeal, and infinite Strictness in Religion above the ordinary Rate of Mankind, had procur'd themselves a strange Veneration from the People. They fasted twice a Week with all imaginable Nicety, inured themselves to all kinds of Austerities, and discriminated themselves from the Herd and Community, not only by their sown and sanctified Countenances, but also by some peculiar Notes and Badges of Distinction; such as their long Robes, their broad Phylacteries or Scrolls, and their large Fringes and Borders of their Garments, whereby they made themselves known from the rest of the World. They were no less exact in the Payments of their Tithes, even to Things of the least Value, and smallest Concernment; and were as careful in paying the Best of their Increase, the Top of the Heap, the Flower of the Wheat, the first Running of the Wine, &c. Yet notwithstanding their specious Pretences to an extraordinary Sanctity and Severity, they were but religious Villains, and the most insolent and implacable Generation that ever any Age produc'd; disdainng and trampling upon all but their own Party, and accounting the rest Slaves, and Sons of the Earth. They were spiteful and malicious, gripping gripping and voracious, merciless Dealers, and most superlatively censorious and uncharitable; and to sum up their Morality at once, it is hard to say which was most predominant, their insatiable Avarice, their insupportable Pride, or their unfathomable Hypocrisie. As to their Principles, they believ'd, that the Souls of Men are Immortal, and had their Dooms awarded in the subterraneous Regions; that there is a Metempsychosis or Transmigration of pious Souls out of one Body into another; that all Things came to pass by Fate, and an inevitable Necessity; and yet that Man's Will is free, that all Persons might be rewarded and punished according to their Works. They likewise held, that the Oral Law of the Jews was of far greater Moment than the written Word; and that the Traditions of their Forefathers were above all Things to be embrac'd and follow'd, the exact Observance of which would entitle a Man to eternal Life: And in this they ascrib'd so much Sanctity to frequent Washings, especially when they came from publick Places, and before Meals, that if any came to an House where there was not Water enough both to drink and wash, the Pharisee would chuse the latter, tho' he died with Thirst.

The Zealots.

The Pharisees were distinguish'd into several Branches, the most remarkable of which were call'd by the Name of Zealots, by some accounted a distinct Sect. These were a most outrageous and ungovernable People, fierce and savage, who being zealous Assertors of the Honour of God's Laws, and the Strictness and Purity of Religion, assum'd to themselves a Liberty of Questioning notorious Offenders, without staying for the ordinary Formalities of the Law; nay, when they thought fit, and as the Case required, they executed capital Punishment upon them with their own Hands. Thus when a Blasphemer cursed God by the Name of any Idol, the Zealots that next met him might immediately kill him, without bringing him before the Sanhedrim. They look'd upon themselves as the true Successors of Phineas, who in an extraordinary Zeal for the Honour of God, inflicted immediate Death upon Zimri and Cozbi; which Action was so pleasing to God, that he made with him and his Seed after him the Covenant of an everlasting Priesthood, because he was zealous for his God, and made an Atonement for Israel, as Moses assures us in the 25th of Numbers. In Imitation of him, these Men assum'd a Power of executing Judgment and Punishment in extraordinary Cases, and that not only by the Connivance but also with the Permission of the Rulers and the People; till in after-times, under a Pretence of this Liberty, their Zeal degenerated into all Kinds of Licentiousness and wild Extravagance; so that they became the Pest of the State, and the total Ruin of it, as shall be related afterwards.

The Sadducees.

(2.) Next were the Sadducees, opposite to the Pharisees both in Temper and Principles; so call'd either from Sadock, who liv'd near 300 Years before our Saviour's Birth, and is suppos'd to be the Founder of the Sect, or from Sedeck, which signifies Justice, as tho' they were the only exact Distributers of Justice, and able to justify themselves before the Tribunal of God. These pass under a very ill Character, even among the Writers of their own Nation, being stil'd impious Men, and of very loose and profligate Lives; which is no more than the natural Consequence of their Principles, this being one of their main Dogmata or Opinions, That the Soul is not Immortal, and that there is no future State after this Life. The Occasion of which dangerous Heresie is said to have been a Mistake of the Doctrine of their Master Antigonus Sochæus, who was wont to press his Scholars not to be like mercenary Servants, who serve their Masters purely for their own Advantage, but to serve God for his own Sake, without Expectation of Rewards. Which being misunderstood stood, they at last concluded, that their Master had absolutely denied any State of future Rewards; and having laid this dangerous Foundation, these unhappy Superstructures were built upon it, “ That there is no Resurrection of the Dead; That the Soul is not Immortal, nor exists in a separate State; “ That there is no spiritual Substance distinct from Matter; and that there “ is no Divine Providence, but that God is perfectly plac’d as beyond the “ Commission, so beyond the Inspection of what Sins or Evils are done in “ this World. These pernicious and atheistical Principles justly expos’d them to the Reproach and Hatred of the People, who were wont to stile them particularly The Hereticks, as also Infidels and Epicureans; no Names being thought ill enough for Men of such Opinions. They were great Opposers of the Pharisees, and utterly rejected their Traditions for which they were so zealous, teaching that Men were to keep to the Letter of the Law, and that nothing was to be impos’d upon their Belief or Practice, but what was expressly contain’d in the Pentateuch. In which, as well as in many other of their Notions, they follow’d the Heresie, tho’ not the Schism of the Samaritans. Josephus observes that they were the least numerous of the religious Sects, but usually Men of the better Rank and Quality; who having greatest Opportunities of following a loose and debauch’d Life, were ready to take Sanctuary in those Opinions which most extinguish’d the Apprehensions of an After-reckoning. For this Reason the Sadducees ever appear’d most vigorous in preserving the Peace, being the most severe and implacable in their Punishment of all Tumults and Seditions, lest they should interrupt their soft and easie Course of Life, the only Happiness their Principles allow’d them to expect.

(3.) The Essenes were a Sect distinct, and very different both from the Pharisees and Sadducees; of whose Name and Original we have no very certain Account. They began in the Times of the Maccabees, above 150 Years before Christ’s Nativity, after the violent Persecutions of Antiochus had forc’d great Numbers of the Jews to retire to the Woods and Mountains. Many of whom being pleas’d with these undisturb’d Solitudes, form’d themselves into Religious Societies, leading a Monastick and contemplative Course of Life, and following in many Things the Pythagorean Philosophers; particularly in Community of Goods, abstaining from lawful Pleasures, forbidding of Oaths, ascribing the Conduct of Affairs to Fate and Destiny, prohibiting the Use of Wine, and using only inanimate or unbloody Sacrifices. They liv’d remote from all Cities and Places of publick Concourse, being usually about four or five thousand in Number, and very strict and methodical in their Rules and Discipline. They paid a due Reverence to the Temple, by sending Gifts and Presents thither; but yet worship’d God at Home, and us’d their own Rites and Ceremonies; in which they were Schismatics, and differing from all other Jews. Every seventh Day they met at their Synagogues, were very harmless and innocent in their Manners, and exact Observers of the Rules of Justice, somewhat beyond the Practices of other Men. They industriously tilled and cultivated the Ground, and liv’d upon the Fruits of their own Labours; admitting none into their Society, unless he brought all that he had into their common Treasury, and that not till after three Years Probation. Out of a peculiar Regard to Wisdom and Virtue they neglected all Care of the Body, renounced all conjugal Embraces, abstained very much from Meats and Drinks, some of them not eating and drinking for three, others for five or six Days together; accounting it unbecoming Men of such a Philosophical Temper and Genius, to spend any part of the Day upon the Necessities of the Body. Their Way they call’d σεβασμειν, Worship, and their Rules σοφίας δόγματα Doctrines of Wisdom; their Contemplations were sublime and speculative, and of Things beyond the ordinary Notions of other Sects; they study'd the Names and Myſteries of Angels, and in their whole Carriage they bore a great ſhew of Modesty and Humility. We find no mention of this Sect in the new Testament, they not concerning themselves with Christ or his Apostles; yet it is the Opinion of many judicious Men, that our Saviour and St. Paul did sometimes allude to the Customs and Discipline of these People.

The Scribes.

(4.) We are to take Notice of the Scribes, which Word does more properly signify the Name of some Office or Function, than of any Sect; they being more antient than any Sect among the Jews. These were Persons of great Repute, being call'd in the New Testament Scribes of the Law, Teachers of the People, Doctors of the Law, and sometimes Lawyers; and as such, this Office began immediately after the Babylonian Captivity, above 500 Years before Christ, Ezra himself being one of the first. They were generally the most learned Men of the Nation, and regularly of the Tribe of Levi, their Office or Function consisting principally of two Branches. First they were the only Persons that were to copy out the Bible for any such as had occasion for it: For every one was not thought fit to transcribe the Original Scriptures, nor any vulgar Pen permitted to copy Things of so sublime a Nature. Therefore these were a peculiar and special Order of Men appointed to take care of the Preservation of the Purity of the Text, in all Bibles that should be copy'd out, that no Error or Corruption shou'd creep into the Original of the Sacred Writ. Secondly, they were the publick and common Preachers among the People, being more constant Teachers than any other of the Clergy; taking upon them not only to be the Preservers and Providers for the Purity of the Text, but also the most certain and constant Interpreters and Expounders of it in Sermons. In which Respect they may be compared to the Canonists in the Church of Rome, or the Divinity Lecturers in some publick Academies; and they grew into such Repute in the Jewish State, that it was hard to say, whether the Pharisees or they were held in greater Veneration. For what the Pharisees gain'd in the common People by their Pretensions to an extraordinary Sanctity, these obtain'd more justifiably by their Zeal for the written Word, which they preserv'd from the common Dangers of Corruption and Contempt. And tho' these Scribes were more properly an Order than a Sect; yet since they were so closely link'd with the Pharisees, and concurr'd with them in most of their Superstitions and Corruptions, we may look upon them as a strong and potent Faction, of great Authority and Influence in all Affairs of Moment.

The Publicans.

(5.) The Publicans were Persons of no particular Sect, nor of any religious Function, but were certain publick Officers employ'd by the Romans to collect their Tributes, Tolls and Imposts; which Office was formerly of great Account and Reputation among the Romans, and conferr'd upon none less than the Equestrian Order; but afterwards falling into the Hands of inferior Farmers, and the worst of the Natives, it became base and infamous. But two things especially concurr'd to render this Office odious to the Jews. First, the Persons who manag'd it were usually covetous, and great Exactors; for having themselves farm'd the Customs of the Romans, they generally us'd all Methods of Extortion and Oppression, to enable them both to pay their Rents, and to raise Advantage to themselves: And upon this Account they became infamous, even among the Gentiles themselves, who frequently speak of them as Cheats, and Thieves, and publick Robbers, and worse Members of a Community, more voracious and destructive in a City, than wild Beasts in a Forest. Secondly, these Tributes were not only a Grievance to the Purses of the Jews, but also an Affront to the

Liberty and Freedom of their Nation; for they look'd upon themselves as a Free-born People, and that they had been immediately invested in this Privilege by God himself, and accordingly beheld this as a daily and standing Instance of their Slavery, which of all other things they could least endure. To which we may add, that these Publicans were not only oblig'd by the Necessity of their Employment to have frequent Dealings and Converse with the Gentiles, which the Jews held unlawful and abominable, but also being generally Jews themselves, they rigorously exacted these things of their own Brethren, and thereby seem'd to conspire with the Romans to entail perpetual Slavery upon their own Nation. Upon all which Accounts, Publicans became so universally abhorr'd by the Jewish Nation, that it was accounted unlawful to do them any Office of common Kindness or Courtesie, nay they held it no Sin to cozen and over-reach a Publican, and that with the Solemnity of an Oath; they might not eat or drink, walk or travel with them; they were look'd upon as common Thieves and Robbers, and Money receiv'd of them might not be put to the rest of a Man's Estate, it being presum'd to have been gain'd by Rapine and Violence; nor were they admitted as Persons fit to give Evidence in any Cause. They were so infamous, as not only to be banish'd all Communion in the Matters of Divine Worship, but to be avoided in all Affairs of civil Society and Commerce, as the Pests of their Country, Persons of an infectious Converse, and as vile a Class as Heathens and Sinners, with whom they were generally rank'd.

(6.) The Herodians, whom we are next to mention, were a Party of The Herodians. Men who were extraordinary Favourers and Assistants of Herod the Great, and also of his Son after him; but whether they were of a particular Sect or Heresie, or only of a Faction, Authors are not well agreed. Those who account them of the former Kind, suppose them to be Persons, who partly surpriz'd at the Grandeur and Magnificence of Herod's Court, and partly to ingratiate themselves with that Prince, maintain'd him to be the expected Messiah. But they seem more probably to be only a Faction or Party, who were great Espousers of Herod's secular Interest, and Supporters of his new-gotten Sovereignty. For Herod being a Stranger, and having by the Roman Power usurp'd the Kingdom, and afterwards govern'd it tyrannically, became generally hateful and burthensome to the People; so that besides the Assistance of a Foreign Power, he wanted some to join with his Interest who were Natives. These were peculiarly active in pressing the People to pay Tribute to Cesar, Herod being oblig'd by the Charter of his Sovereignty to be careful of the Tribute due to the Romans; and they could not do him a more acceptable Service, than by this means endearing him to his great Patrons at Rome. In Matters of Opinion they seem'd to have join'd with the Sadducees; for what St. Matthew calls the Leaven of the Sadducees; St. Mark styles the Leaven of Herod. Probably they had induc'd Herod to be of their Principles, that as they had zealously asserted his Right to the Kingdom, he might favour and maintain their impious Opinions. And it is not unlikely but a Person of such enormous Vices as Herod, might very easily be tempted to take shelter under Principles so directly serving the Purposes of a wicked Life.

(7.) Lastly, we are to take some Notice of the Galileans, which Name The Galileans. either signifies a particular Faction directly opposite to the Herodians, and called also by the Name of Gaulonites, or else the Inhabitants of that Part of Palestine call'd Galilee. But since that Faction of the Galileans, or Gaulonites, began after our Saviour's Birth, we shall refer our Account of them to their proper Place, and here only take Notice of the Galileans as they were Inhabitants of the Province of Galilee. These anciently were for the most part Descendents of those Affyrians whom Salmanasser sent to inhabit the Kingdom of Israel, when he carry'd the Ten Tribes captive; then Pagans, and of the same Extract with the old Samaritans, of whom they were a part. But mixing with the Remainders of the Four Tribes of Aser, Neptthali, Zabulon, and Iffachar, they in a great measure forsook their Paganism; and afterwards being subdued by the Maccabees, and receiving great Numbers of the Tribes of Judah and Benjamin among them, before our Saviour's Time, they became true and orthodox Jews, and as great Abhorers of the Gentiles and Samaritans as the Jews in Judaea were. They were exact Observers of the Temple Ministration, and constant Repairers to Jerusalem at the usual Times, and generally so zealous in their Religion, that no Threats nor Force could oblige them to offer Sacrifice for the Health of the Roman Emperors. They were also People of great Courage and Hardiness, and of no less Plainness and Unpoliteness; differing from the other Jews in several Customs, (but not such as could cause a Schism in Religion) and also in their Dialect, which was of a much broader and rougher Pronunciation than that of Judaea. Tho' they were true Jews in all Respects, yet upon the Account of their near Communication with the Gentiles, their mixt Extract, and their rough Simplicity, they were extremely despis'd by the Inhabitants of Judaea, as Persons mean and ignoble, and half Strangers. So that the Name of a Galilean was in some sort a reproachful and despicable Title, and Galilee a Province from whence no extraordinary Person was expected. Yet notwithstanding the Galileans were the most illiterate, and most despis'd part of the Jews, they were the Persons with whom our Saviour was pleas'd principally to converse, and from whom he chose most, if not all, of his Apostles.

III. Such was the State and Condition of the Inhabitants of Palestine, when our Blessed Saviour came into the World, miserably corrupted and divided, and both in Policy and Religion declining, and running headlong to Ruin and Desolation. And tho' there was an extraordinary Appearance of Grandeur and worldly Prosperity in the Court of Herod, and still more in the Roman Empire, yet the Times were exorbitantly bad, and deplorable, and the whole World as it were involv'd in Wickedness and Idolatry. However in these degenerate Times, and to the above describ'd degenerate People, did the All-merciful God send his eternal Son from the ineffable Glories of the Heaven of Heavens, to debase himself even to the Form of one of the meanest and most despis'd of all rational Beings; and this to redeem lost Mankind, tho' before he promis'd the Blessing, they had not the least Right to claim it, the least Merit to procure it, nor the least Reason to expect it. This is that superlative Work which we are assur'd the Angels themselves desire to look into, and the Credit of which the Devils and wicked Men continually endeavour to enervate; and so stupendious, that it is beyond all the Tongues of Men and Angels to express. Upon which Occasion one emphatically observes, Suppose we could grasp in the whole Compass of Nature, as to all the Particulars and Varieties of Being and Motion, yet we should find it a vast, if not an impossible Leap from thence to ascend to the full Comprehension of any one of God's Attributes; much more from thence to the mysterious Oeconomy of the Divine Persons; and most of all to the astonishing Work of the World's Redemption by the Blood of the Son of God himself, condescending to be a Man, that he might die for us. But since these are Heights above the Reach, and Depths beyond the Fathom of all mortal Intellects, we shall only take some Notice of the wise Methods of Providence in the regular Manifestation of this great Redeemer, and the gradual Appearance of the Sun of Righteousness, whose Course was correspondent to that of the Sun in the Firmament, from its first Dawnings to its full Splendor.

Immediately after the fatal Lapse of Mankind, God, that he might not leave them without all Comfort, before he denounc'd the Judgments due to their Transgressions, promis'd a Redeemer, who was to destroy the Sovereignty of Satan. And this was the first glimmering Appearance of that great Light which was to shine throughout the World; which tho' feebly represented, and as at a vast Distance, was yet suitable to the Weakness of the Eyes that then beheld it, enough to keep them from a total Darkness and Despair, and sufficient for a true Faith to lay hold on. And herein both the Wisdom and Mercy of God did wonderfully display themselves; that when he promis'd the World a Redeemer, he us'd such Means and Methods, that Human Kind, in the midst of all its miserable Blindness and vile Corruptions, should become capable both of seeing and receiving so mighty a Blessing: And this not by any extraordinary Addition of Strength to Man, or supernatural Restoration of his original Faculties, but by an amazing Condescension in his Divine Nature, and by accommodating his Manifestations, not only to the Lowness of Mankind in general, but even to the Frailties and Infirmities of the lapsed State. All which eminently appear in all his Revelations, more especially of his Blessed Son, which were manifested by many Steps and Degrees, and at several Periods of Time, as the World became fit and prepared to receive them. And in these he did not only treat Mankind with all the Tenderness of a Father towards his Children, but in all the Declarations of his Will, he freely convers'd and discours'd with them according to their own Stile and Capacities, and with as much Familiarity, as if there had been some kind of Equality between the mighty Creator of Heaven and Earth, and mere Dust and Ashes.

The first Promise of a Redeemer was made to a Woman's Seed in general, and for many Ages not confin'd to any one Branch of Human Kind; so that any of Adam's Progeny, for what was then revealed, might have hoped to be the happy Parent of that Seed which shou'd deliver Man from the Slavery of the Devil. And thus it continu'd for above two thousand Years, in which Space the Church of God, tho' never extinguish'd, seem'd to have been limited to a very small Compass, and sometimes to a single Family. But at length, when God was pleas'd to call Abraham from his own Country, the Promise was made more Special, and particularly confin'd to the Offspring of his Loins; God several Times declaring to him, That in his Seed all the Nations of the Earth should be blessed. Abraham had two Sons, Ishmael the Son of his Bond-Woman, and Isaac the Son of his Wife; and from which of these two the Messiah shou'd proceed, was undeterminable, till God entail'd the Blessing upon Isaac, declaring to Abraham that in Isaac should his Seed be call'd, and repeating to Isaac the Promise made formerly to his Father, That in his Seed all Nations of the Earth shou'd be blessed. Isaac also had two Sons, Esau and Jacob; but the Elder was excluded, and the Promise entail'd upon Jacob; God likewise declaring to him, That in his Seed all the Families of the Earth should be blessed. From Jacob sprung the twelve Patriarchs, and from them the twelve Tribes of Israel, among whom the Promise of the Messiah was entail'd upon that of Judah; So that the Promise was now made more special, and confin'd to a particular Tribe, as 232 Years before it had been to that Nation that was to spring from the Loins of Abraham. And now the very Time of the Appearance of the Messiah, who is there term'd Shiloh, was likewise pointed out, namely before the Scepter and the Lawgiver departed from Judah; that is, before the temporal Government and Oeconomy of the Jews were dissolv'd.

For

For above 230 Years after this, we have no exprefs Propheſie concerning the Meffiah, yet in that Space God was pleas'd to make a farther Manifeſtation of him by other Means, namely by inſtituting a great Number of typical Ordinances, and lively Representations of his Perſon and Function, which were to be continu'd by an uninterrupted Succeſſion, till he himſelf came to diſſolve them. At this Time the Church of God was much enlarg'd, even to the Compaſs of a whole and numerous Nation; and God having appointed certain ſpecial Rules and Laws for its Obſervation, his great Prophet Mofes, before he left the World, gave the People a more particular Knowledge of the Meffiah that was to come, to whom all were to hearken as an extraordinary Perſon ſent from God to procure Happineſs to Mankind. The Tribes of Iſrael being ſettled in the Land of Canaan, and very greatly increas'd, more eſpecially that of Judah, about 400 Years after the Death of Mofes, God thought fit to make the Promise of the Meffiah yet more ſpecial; as there had been three great Limitations of it before, the firſt to the Seed of the Woman, the ſecond to the Nation of the Iſraelites, and the third to the Tribe of Judah; this laſt was made to the Family of David, a Perſon whom God had exalted to be King of his People, as a Type of that Bleſſed King to come. The Promise was not only entail'd upon his Family, but alſo the Perſon of the Meffiah was more fully represented to him than to any before him, as appears from the Writings of this inſpired Prince, where he is clearly deſcrib'd in ſeveral Paſſages. "He ſhew'd the Dignity of his Perſon by " calling him Lord; yet he represented him as a ſuffering Meffiah, that " ſhould be betray'd by one of his Diſciples; ſhould feel violent Agonies,
 " be expos'd to cruel Mockings, and have Vinegar and Gall given to him;
 " that he ſhould be nail'd to the Croſs, and have his Garments divided " among the Soldiers; yet he ſhould be the true Paſchal Lamb, for not a " Bone of him ſhould be broken; after which he ſhould ariſe from the Dead,
 " and not ſee Corruption, and laſtly he ſhould aſcend triumphantly into " Heaven.

Above 200 Years after the Death of David, ſeveral other Prophets began to foretel the Meffiah, eſpecially that noble Perſon Iſaiab, who was ſo particular concerning Him, that he is by ſeveral call'd the fifth Evangelift, or the Evangelical Prophet. He inform'd the Iſraelites "of the Divinity
 " of his Perſon, and of the extraordinary and miraculous Manner of his " Birth, which ſhould be of a pure Virgin, and of the Family of David;
 " that he ſhould have a Forerunner to make Way for him; that he " ſhould begin to preach in the Province of Galilee, be endu'd with " incomparable Gifts and Graces, and perform many Miracles; that " he ſhould be a Man of Sorrows, be beaten, ſpit upon, treated as a " Malefactor, ſuffer for our Sins, and be a Propitiatory Sacrifice for " all Mankind; and that he ſhould obtain a decent Burial, and be " deliver'd by a glorious Reſurrection. From Hoſea the Iſraelites were " inform'd of his flying into Ægypt, and from Micah ſoon after of the " very Place of his Birth, " which was to be Bethlehem-Ephratah, the " leaſt of the Cities of Judah, but honour'd above all the reſt with " the Nativity of a Prince, who was to be Ruler in Iſrael, whoſe
 " Goings forth had been from everlaſting. Jeremiah alſo after him aſſerted
 " his Divinity, " and that he ſhould ſpring from the Poſterity of David,
 " with whom ſeveral other Propheſies agree: So that beſides the " conſtant and ſtanding Types and Representations, there was frequently
 " ſome new Revelation concerning this great Prince to come. But " in the Time of the Babylonian Captivity, Daniel, by a Meſſage from " the Angel Gabriel, gave a more lively and particular Account of the " Meffiah

Messiah than ever, declaring, “ that he should come into the World “ to introduce a Law of everlasting Righteousness, and to die as a “ Sacrifice and Expiation for the Sins of the World, and particularly “ should put a Period to the Levitical Sacrifices and Oblations. And whereas other Prophecies had only in general defin’d the time of his Appearance, this particularly determin’d the Period, “ that it should “ be at the end of seventy prophetic Weeks, that is, at the Ex- “ piration of 490 Years, after the rebuilding of the Walls of Jeru- “ salem.

From this time there were not many Revelations of the Messiah, and but three Prophets succeeded Daniel, namely, Haggai, Zechariah, and Malachi who all declare something concerning Him. The former, animating the People, who were much dejected by reason of the mean Appearance of the second Temple, inform’d them, “ that the Glory of “ the latter House should be greater than of the former, which should be “ effected by the Manifestation of the Desire of all Nations: which manifestly shew’d the Dignity of his Nature; for the first Temple had the Presence of God on the Mercy Seat, but this second was to be more glorious by means of a more lively Presence of his Son, the only true Sacrifice, of whom all others were but Types and Shadows. Zechariah immediately after inform’d them of the Humiliation of this Prince, “ that he “ should come riding into Jerusalem upon an Ass, that he should be “ sold for thirty pieces of Silver, and that the Soldiers should pierce “ his Body. After him succeeded Malachi, the last of the Prophets, who, about the Restoration of Jerusalem, and the Beginning of the above-named seventy Weeks, concluded his Prophecy with exhorting the People to a firm Adherence to the Law of Moses, “ till the great Prophet of “ the Church should appear, whose Forerunner, John the Baptist, should “ first come, in the Spirit and Power of Elias, to turn the Hearts of the “ Fathers to their Children, and the Disobedient to the Wisdom of the “ Just. After this, for above 400 Years, till the second Appearance of the Angel Gabriel foretelling the Birth of John, all kinds of immediate Revelation ceas’d among the Jews, and all other extraordinary Privileges and Favours were also remov’d not long before; as the Divine Presence on the Mercy Seat, the Urim and Thummin, and other things formerly mention’d. So that the Jews became in a great measure like other Nations, had no peculiar Advantages and Prerogatives to shew above other People, had no greater Distinctions than their ordinary and fixed Laws, and nothing to boast of but their former Revelations. And God’s withdrawing these Favours, was not only justly due to their Degeneracy and Corruptions, but was also highly conducing to the Manifestation of the Messiah; for it is necessary that the Stars and inferiour Lights should disappear and vanish before the Beams of the rising Sun. The want of these Benefits, as it was a manifest Sign of God’s Displeasure, and a Foretoken of his rejecting a wicked Generation, so it was also a proper and powerful Means of awakening them to a more lively Expectation of a new and perfect State of things: And as the exact time of the Messiah was particularly mark’d out, so about the time of his Appearance, the Jews were in such a great Expectation of him, that many of them were ready to imagine and conclude Herod the Great to be the Person.

Thus was God pleas’d to make Way for his only Son among his pe- Secondly to the culiar People; but as this great Blessing was design’d for the Bene- Gentiles. fit of the Gentiles as well as Jews, and for all that should believe in him, so Providence was no less careful to make Way for him in the Pagan World; and this was effected by divers Methods, particularly by some open Revelations, and prophetic Words put into the Mouths of Gentile Prophets; but more especially by means of several Dispersions of the Israelites and Jews. Among the prophetic Persons we may reckon Balaam, who gave a lively Account of the Messiah under the Name of a Star coming from Jacob; Hydaspes, Trismegistus and the *Sybil*s, who were all very particular concerning this Prince: Tho' these three latter have been very much question'd by some modern Critics, yet they were never fully disprov'd, their Arguments being rather Presumptions than Proofs. And now it was that not in Jewry alone was God known, but he whose Name was great in Israel, did make Way for the Knowledge of himself among all the Nations of the Earth. In order to this, the Nation of the Israelites, the great Store-house of Divine Knowledge, which before was an inclosed Garden, was now thrown open, and great Numbers of the Inhabitants transplanted into foreign and remote Countries. And this was done several times by the special Hand of Providence; but more especially at the times of the three great Captivities formerly taken notice of, viz. the Assyrian, by Salmanasser, in the Year 721 before Christ; the Babylonian, by Nebuchadnezzar, in the Year 607; and the Ægyptian, by Ptolemy Lagi, in the Year 320: Which Captivities occasion'd many other lesser Dispersions of this People, so that in our Saviour's Time there were Jews dwelling in all the principal Countries of the World, Jews of every Nation under Heaven, as St. Luke expresses it, Acts 2. 5. These Captivities and Dispersions, tho' they seem'd to have been only the just Punishment of a disobedient and corrupted Nation, yet prov'd of infinite Advantage to the rest of the World, which was excited and enlighten'd by those People who were not worthy to inhabit their own Country. By these, the World had the Opportunity of looking into the holy Scriptures, and of being inform'd both of the Necessity and the Nature of a Mediator; and by these, great Numbers of Profelytes were made, especially those call'd Profelytes of the Gate, whose Principles being so very conformable to the Laws of true Reason and Nature, they became the most visible Cause, as I hinted before, of the first Propagation of Christianity.

The general Expectation of him.

Partly by means of these dispersed, tho' generally detested Jews, partly by means of several peculiar Revelations to the Gentiles, and partly by the exceeding Growth of human Learning, not long before our Saviour's Birth, the whole World, as well as the Inhabitants of Palestine, was awakened into an Expectation of the Appearance of some extraordinary and wonderful Person, who was to be exceedingly beneficial to all Mankind. Particularly the Romans were alarm'd upon every slight Occasion, and once so terrified upon the Noise of Nature's being about to bring forth a King, that about the time of Augustus's Birth, the Senate made a Decree, tho' never executed, that no Male born that Year should be brought up; and those whose Wives were with Child, conceiv'd great Hopes, applying the Prophecy to themselves, as Suetonius reports it. The like kind of Alarms and Expectations are mention'd by Dion Cassius and Tacitus, as well as Josephus himself. So that there was a sort of an universal Impulse, to call it no more, imprinted upon the Minds of the whole Earth, which was a Divine Apparatus to introduce the Son of God into the World, with the general Curiosity and Commotion of all Nature. So true was that Prophecy of Haggai's, which calls him the Desire, and consequently the Expectation of all Nations.

IV. Such was the Expectations, and such the Circumstances of the World about the Time of our Saviour's Appearance; the State of the Roman Empire, and of Learning being at the highest, and the State of the Jews and of true Religion almost at the lowest: Yet in Judæa there was a remarkable Appearance of Grandeur and State, by reason of the magnificent Court of Herod the Great; a Prince whose profuse Temper taught him sometimes to flatter and oblige, tho' much oftner to injure and oppress his Subjects. On the one side, he freely conform'd to the Jewish Religion, and was circumcis'd, and likewise rebuilt their Temple with all the Courts and Out-Buildings to a most surprizing Degree of Beauty and Glory; on the other, he introduc'd many of the Pagan Customs and Games us'd at Rome, suppress'd and chang'd the High Priest's Office as he thought fit, and prophan'd even the Temple it self. He was exceedingly jealous and ambitious, cruel and tyrannical, and rag'd among the Jews like a Bear and a Lion, devouring and wasting on every side. He had slain their legal King, extirpated the whole Race of the Maccabees, and with them several of his own intimate Friends, and destroy'd the whole Body of the Grand Sanhedrim, and substituted others in their Places. Nor was his Rage confin'd to the Jews, but descended to his own Family and nearest Relations, even to the executing his beloved Wife Mariamne, and his own Sons Alexander and Aristobulus, upon slight and trivial Pretences. So that setting aside some Appearances of Generosity and Greatness, there never was a more merciless Governor, or a compleater Tyrant than He: A manifest Sign that the Scepter was departing, if not departed from Judah, when instead of that, a Rod of Iron was put into the Hands of a bloody Executioner to bruise and break the Inhabitants all in Pieces.

In the thirty fifth Year of this Prince's Reign, when all the former Prophecies were almost compleated, and all holy Persons in a longing Expectation of a glorious Redeemer, God was pleased to make his last Manifestations concerning his Son, being about to shew him in the most conspicuous and lively manner. But because it was not fit that so great a Person should come into the World without an eminent Harbinger to introduce and usher in his Arrival, a great Forerunner was design'd him; to prepare his Way, and to be a Morning-Star to this Sun of Righteousness. This Harbinger was promis'd to an eminent Priest of Judæa call'd Zacharias, who with his Wife Elizabeth, of the same Tribe of Levi and the Progeny of Aaron, were celebrated for their unspotted Lives; but had the Disgrace of Barrenness laid upon them, being then very ancient, and past Hopes of Issue. Zacharias executing his Office at Jerusalem according to his fixed Course, which was that of Abia, or the eighth Course; and great Multitudes being assembled at the Temple, probably on a Sabbath Day, he by Lot was appointed to enter into the Body of the Temple with his Censer to burn Incense, while the People were offering up their Supplications in that Court call'd the Court of Israel. At the Altar of Incense he was exceedingly surpriz'd with the Sight of an Angel from Heaven, who stood on the North Side of it; which being an unusual Vision, rais'd a great Terror in him. But the Angel immediately remov'd his Fears, assuring him, That his Prayers were heard, and his Wife should bear him a Son, call'd by the Name of John: That he and many others should meet with extraordinary Joy and Comfort at his Birth: That this Son should be a Person of Austerities, abstaining from Wine, and spirituous Liquors, and so Great in the Sight of God, that he should be replenish'd with the Holy Ghost from his Mother's Womb. That he should convert great Numbers of the Jews from their Corruptions, going before the Messiah in the Spirit of the great Reformer Elias, to prepare his Ways for him, and to dispose Men to receive him. Zacharias was astonish'd at this News, and rashly desir'd to be satisfy'd as to the Truth of it, since he thought it beyond the Course of Nature, both he and his Wife being very ancient. Whereupon the Angel let him know, That he was no less than Gabriel, a special Attendant on God's Throne: and dispatcht purposely to inform him of this great Happiness: But since he was so incredulous as to require a Sign, he should have one, which should be a Punishment of his Unbelief as well as a Confirmation of his Faith, namely, that till after the Birth of the Child he should be entirely dumb: intimating, as many believe, that the Silencing of the Levitical Priesthood was now approaching, when Men were to expect another kind of Worship.

During this Intercourse, the People abroad were surpriz'd at his long tarrying, expecting that he should come forth and give them the usual Blessing; but upon his Appearance their Wonder encreas'd, perceiving by his making of Signs that he was unable to speak to them, and rightly judging that he had seen some extraordinary Vision within the Temple. This happened towards the latter end of the Month of September, according to the most common Account; but some others believe it to have been about the beginning of June, particularly Dr. Lightfoot, who infers it from the ordinary Courses of the Priests. After Zacharias's Course was finish'd, which continu'd a Week, he repair'd to his own Habitation, which was Hebron, in the Mountainous Part of the Province of Judaea, an ancient City about 24 Miles almost South of Jerusalem. Where, when his Wife Elizabeth perceiv'd her self with Child in her old Age, she retired her self from the World, probably till her Delivery, that she might be free from all Defilements, and have a truer Certainty and Sense of God's miraculous Favour, in taking away the Reproach of Barrenness, and giving her a Son, of whom such extraordinary Hopes were conceiv'd.

And then to Mary.

Thus did the Almighty think fit to revive his former Way of Revelations, and then to proceed to the clearest and noblest Manifestations of his Son; which began to be display'd about six Months after, in the thirty sixth Year of the Reign of Herod. At which time the same Angel Gabriel, who appear'd to Zacharias, and above 500 Years before to the Prophet Daniel, was sent from God into Galilee, an opposite Province of Palestine, and to a mean City call'd Nazareth, about 60 Miles almost North of Jerusalem. And now was the fifth and last Limitation of the Promise of the Messiah, the first being to the Seed of the Woman, the second to the Nation of the Israelites, the third to the Tribe of Judah, the fourth to the Family of David, and this last to the Person of a most holy Virgin call'd Mary; a Person of low Condition, espous'd to Joseph, of the same Family of David, but of no higher Profession than a Carpenter: An Instance of the profoundest Humility, as well as sublimest Mercy. At the Angel's Approach to this pious Maid, he immediately congratulated her with her being most highly in Favour with the Almighty, and being blessed above the rest of her Sex. Which surprizing Words, and unusual Sight rais'd a strange Commotion in her Breast, and no less Admiration at such an uncommon Salutation. But the Angel bad her suffer no Disturbance in her Mind, since she was so highly esteem'd by God: For she should have the Happiness of bearing a Son call'd by the Name of JESUS, or a Saviour, who should be the long expected Messiah, to whom God should give the Throne of his Father David, and his Sovereignty and Kingdom should have no Period. Mary not doubting the Angel's Veracity, but admiring at the Greatness of the Work, modestly desir'd to be inform'd how this could be brought to pass, since she was to continue a Virgin, according to the ancient Prophecie. Whereupon the Angel very readily told her, That this was to be effected by the invisible Power and Operation of the Holy Ghost overshadowing her; for which Reason the Holy Person to be brought forth should be no less than the Son of God: And to shew that nothing was impossible to the Almighty, her Cousin Elizabeth, who was ancient and many Years barren, was now gone six Months with Child. Being fully satisfy'd with this Answer, the pious Virgin with all Modesty and Humility accepted of the Divine Bounty; and upon the Angel's Departure, the Holy Ghost wrought in her this great Mytery, for which she had formerly been fitted and dispos'd by the plentiful Effusion of his Graces; she being then about 15 Years of Age, as it is conceiv'd by several; or 20, as others believe.

39--56.

The Angel's Message, and Consequence of it, immediately rais'd in this Virgin an extraordinary Desire of visiting her Cousin Elizabeth; therefore with all Speed she undertook a Journey of about 80 Miles to Hebron. Where, entring Zacharias's House, Elizabeth upon hearing her first Salutation, immediately perceiv'd the Child to spring up in her Womb; and being inspired with the Gifts of the Holy Ghost, she cry'd out, Blessed art thou above thy Sex, and Blessed the Fruit of thy Body! How vast is my Felicity, to be visited by the Mother of my Lord! And declaring the extraordinary Accident of her unborn Child, she farther pronounc'd her Blessed for the Greatness of her Faith, assuring her of the Accomplishment of all that the Angel had told her. Whereupon Mary, without any Swelling or Ostentation, broke out into a Rapture of Thanksgiving, glorifying and praising the Almighty with all the Faculties of Soul and Spirit, for looking down upon the mean Condition of her self, which should cause all succeeding Generations to pronounce her Blessed: Humbly acknowledging that this Favour proceeded from an omnipotent Being, whose Name was Holy, and whose Mercy extended to all Generations that obey'd him: One who by his powerful Arm had destroy'd the Imaginations of the Proud, thrown down the Haughty from their Thrones, elevated and furnish'd the humble and needy Souls, while the High and Wealthy were utterly rejected: And One who could not forget his select People, and his Promise of the Messiah made to the great Patriarch Abraham and his Progeny for ever. Thus were their Joys testified on both Sides, being as great as any on this Side Heaven; and Mary to gain a full Assurance of her own Pregnancy, tarry'd with her Cousin about three Months, and then return'd to her own Habitation at Nazareth.

Mary visits
Elizabeth.

Luke 1.
57--80.

Shortly after the Virgin's Departure, Elizabeth was deliver'd of her Son, John born, and all her Neighbours and Relations repaired to her to congratulate the Favours she receiv'd from Heaven: And on the eighth Day, when the Child was to be circumcis'd and nam'd, they all gave him the Name of Zacharias, as his Father was call'd; but Elizabeth oppos'd them, declaring that he should be nam'd John: Whereupon they alledg'd that none of her Family was call'd by that Name, and made Signs to his Father to shew his Pleasure concerning it; which he did by requiring Writing-Tables, and writing That his Name should be John. This was a great Surprize to them, and a greater when they found that upon this His Speech was immediately restor'd to him, which he employ'd in the Praises of the Almighty. So that there was a great Rumour and Astonishment through all the neighbouring Parts of the Country; and all who heard the Report, lodg'd it in their Breasts; admiring what manner of Child this should prove. But Zacharias now perceiving the Mytery of the Incarnation, and being inspired with a Prophetick Spirit, blessed the merciful God of Israel, for his Redemption of his People by a mighty Saviour, rais'd out of the Family of David; who had been promis'd from the Beginning of the World, to Eve, Abraham, and the succeeding Prophets; that Mankind might be freed from the Slavery of their Spiritual Enemies, and be obedient to their Creator in true Holiness, without Fear and Servility. As for his own Son, He should be nam'd the Prophet of the High God, to go before him, to prepare his Ways, and to manifest Salvation to his People by the Remission of their Sins; and all this through the unbounded Mercy of God, who sent the Sun of Righteousness amongst them, to illuminate those in Darkness and the Vale of Death; and to guide them into the Ways of eternal Peace and Happiness. All which was accomplish'd in process of Time; and God, that he might prepare this Infant for the Office he design'd him, daily strengthen'd him with all spiritual Gifts, and kept him in the Desarts of Judea till the appointed Time of his appearing to his People.

Mary suspected.

During this Space, the holy Virgin being return'd to Nazareth, still conceal'd the Mystery that God had wrought in her from her espous'd Husband Joseph; but her pregnant Symptoms soon discover'd it, and tho' her Deportment had been pious and chaste to a Miracle, yet he was assur'd that she was with Child. This rais'd no little Concern in his Breast; but being a merciful good Man, and extremely unwilling to inflict a publick Punishment upon her, he resolv'd upon a Separation with all Privacy. But between his Resolution and the design'd Execution of it, an Angel from Heaven appear'd to him in a Vision, courteously saluting this mean Artificer by the Title of Son of David; assuring him, That there was no Reason for any farther Concern, for his Wife's Conception was the immediate Work of the Holy Ghost; and that she should bear a Son, whose Name he should call Jesus, or a Saviour, because he should save his People from their Sins. Joseph with great Satisfaction submitted to the Angel's Command, and gladly remain'd with his Wife, living in perfect Chastity both before and after her Delivery, according to the Opinion of most Interpreters. So that, as St. Matthew observes, here was a remarkable Completion of Isaiah's Prophecy, which says, That a Virgin shall conceive and bring forth a Son, who shall be call'd Immanuel, which signifies God with us. Matth. 1. 18-25.

Christ's Genealogy.

Thus we see the profound Humility of our Blessed Lord, who chose not to descend from Heaven with the Glories of a triumphant Monarch and Deliverer, but privately to enter into the Womb of a mean Virgin; from thence to be brought forth as an Infant, and then to appear in the World in the Form of the lowest Rank of Mankind. And this eminently display'd the Wisdom as well as Mercy of the Almighty; for as he design'd to build the Exaltation of Jesus higher than all, so he laid his Humiliation lowest; that as Pride had been the Destruction of Mankind, so Humility should be their Restoration: An admirable Pattern to be imitated by all his Followers. Yet notwithstanding our Saviour's voluntary Appearance under these mean Circumstances, we are to remember that even in his Human Capacity he was true Heir to the Kingdom of Israel, which had been by God entail'd upon David and his Posterity; so that he was the King of the Jews in a natural and legal, as well as a spiritual and divine Sense. And this appears, not only from former Prophecies, Types, and other Circumstances, but also from the Genealogy of our Saviour's Ancestors, given us by the two Evangelists Matthew and Luke; which Genealogies, tho' they have their Difficulties, and their seeming Disagreements, yet they both manifest him to have been of the Line of David. The former draws the Pedigree of his reputed Father Joseph; and the latter, that of his Mother Mary: The former shews his Political or Royal Pedigree, and his Ancestors as they were Heirs to the Crown of Israel; and and the latter shews his natural Descent through the several Successions of those from whom he took Flesh and Blood: The former being a Jew, and writing to the Jews, represents him as the Son of David and Abraham, in whom they had so great an Interest; but the latter being a Gentile, and writing to them, and being about to shew him bruising of the Serpent's Head, he represents him as the Seed of the Woman, from whom Gentiles as well as Jews were to expect Salvation. And this is the most receiv'd and constant Opinion of orthodox Divines, which clears the main Difficulties of the Evangelists Accounts, and shews Joseph to have been of the Elder and Royal Branch, and Mary of the Younger Branch, but both of the Family of David.

Jesus's being rightful and legal King of the Jews, and that only by his reputed Father's Side, is an unanswerable Argument, both against those who affirm Joseph to have had Children by a former Wife, as also against those who deny the perpetual Virginity of Mary; affirming that Joseph had other Children by her after the Birth of Jesus. For had Joseph had any Children, either by Mary, or any other Wife, they as coming from the elder Branch by Joseph their Father, must have claim'd the Inheritance of the Kingdom in his Right, and not Jesus the Son of Mary, who descended from a younger Line, and therefore could not legally inherit, but upon Default of Issue from Joseph the only remaining Heir of the Elder. So that Jesus was the very last of the Royal Line of David, which was fully terminated in him, who is also God blessed for evermore, and his Throne is for ever and ever.

From the Nativity of our Blessed Saviour, to the Beginning of the Gospel, and first Preaching of John Baptist, according to the vulgar Computation.

Containing the Term of 28 Years and above 6 Months.

I.  AT the Time of our Blessed Saviour's first Appearance A. D. 1. in the World, the Romans by many Steps and Advances had made themselves Masters of the most considerable Parts of Europe, Asia, and Africa; and the State of their Empire was then in the utmost Perfection, as to regular Establishments, liberal Arts, and outward Magnificence; but much declining as to the inward Vigour, and rigid Virtue of its ancient Subjects. This mighty Empire was now govern'd by Augustus Caesar, one of the most renowned Monarchs that ever appear'd in Pagan History; a Prince so remarkable for his vast Capacity and Policy, his sagacious Penetration and Management, his profound Knowledge and Wisdom, and withal, his singular Generosity and Humanity, that his Character cannot be much easier drawn, than his Actions can be represented, in a few Words. When he was but eighteen Years of Age, and the Roman Common-Wealth in a greater Ferment than it had been since the Building of the City, he enter'd upon Designs far above his Years; and in his Progress waded through innumerable Difficulties, till by his Policy and Management he freed himself from all Rivals and Pretenders, and made himself Emperor of the World, neither by Inheritance, nor Usurpation, nor Conquest, nor Election, but by a strange Mixture of all these together. The Beginnings of his Sovereignty, or rather his first Endeavours

AUGUSTUS,
Emperor of Rome.

deavours for Sovereignty, were too much mingled with Blood and Cruelty to be wholly vindicated; but in the Progress of it, his Actions became more unblameable, and were attended with such a Prosperity, that he not only allay'd all the Storms in the Roman State, but thrice shut up the Temple of Janus in Token of a Peace with all the World, which was oftener than it had been for above 700 Years before. So that considering the mighty Affluence of Pleasure and Plenty, and the Pomp and Splendor of this Reign, together with the extraordinary Encouragement of all Kinds of polite Learning, none need to wonder that the Court of Augustus has been celebrated above all others in the World.

His general Taxation.

This Emperor having shut up the Temple of Janus the third and last time, bringing an universal Peace, not only to the Roman Empire, but probably to the whole World, after a Reign of 38 Years from the Death of Julius Caesar, he enter'd upon his twelfth Consulship together with L. Sylla. In which Year, being freed from all Troubles and Contests, he determin'd to enquire into the Strength and Riches of all his Dominions; and in order to that, he issu'd out a general Edict that all Persons in the Roman Empire, with their Estates and Conditions, shou'd be register'd at certain appointed Places, according to their respective Provinces, Cities, and Families, probably that they might be tax'd accordingly. For this purpose Cyrenius or Quirinus was sent over with extraordinary Power into Syria, which also included Judæa and King Herod's Dominions, to enroll that Part of the Empire; which probably occasioned St. Luke to call him Governor of Syria. By Virtue of this Edict Joseph and his espoused Wife Mary, being both of the Tribe of Judah and Family of David, were oblig'd to remove from their Habitation at Nazareth, and take a Journey of above 60 Miles into Judæa, to a City call'd Bethlehem; which tho' a small Place, was the Mother City of the Tribe of Judah; as Jerusalem was of Benjamin. This declining City, above five Miles South-West from Jerusalem, was the Place where this Couple were to be enroll'd, notwithstanding the near Approach of Mary's Delivery; and this was the Birth-place of David himself, and by God foretold to be that of his great Anti-type the Messiah. And as this was necessary to the Completion of God's Word, so he wisely deriv'd the Cause of their coming hither as far as Rome, and brought it about without either Miracle or Revelation: And thus the Decree of a Pagan Emperor became the Occasion of the Accomplishment of the Decrees of Heaven.

Jesus born.

It was in the Beginning of the 37th Year of the Reign of Herod, and in the Month of December, according to the most receiv'd Opinion, that Joseph and Mary arriv'd at Bethlehem, for this Enrolment. In which City they might have expected a good Entertainment after a troublesome Journey, but the great Conflux of People upon this Occasion had already fill'd up the Inns and Houses of Reception, so that they were constrain'd to repair to a Stable for Lodgings; which, according to Tradition, was a sort of a Cave cut out of a Rock, a common Receptacle for Beasts on the East Side of the Town. In this mean Place, was the Blessed Virgin deliver'd of her Holy Burthen, without Pain, since it was conceiv'd without Sin; and she her self perform'd the Office of a Midwife, bound the Infant in swadling Cloaths, and laid it to rest in a Manger: A noble Instance of the Humility of our Lord, who as the last Scene of his Life was represented among Thieves, so his first was among Beasts. But, as one observes, this Stable was then a Temple full of Religion, full of Glory, when Angels were the Ministers, the Holy Virgin the Worshiper, and Christ the Deity. This memorable Nativity happened 4000 Years after the Creation of the World and the Fall of Man, according to Usher, and many other great Chronologers, in the first Year of the 194th Olympiad, in the 749th of the City of Rome, in the 39th Year of Augustus from the Death of Julius Caesar, the 26th from his Overthrow of Anthony at Actium, and the 22d from his full Establishment in the Empire by the Senate and People, he himself and L. Sylla being Consuls. This is the truest Æra we can find of our Blessed Saviour's Birth, beginning just four Years before the vulgar Computation now in use, which commenc'd in the 43d of Augustus, under the Consulships of Cor. Lentulus, and Cal. Piso; and this is apparent from the Reign and Death of Herod, and from many Circumstances in the Roman and Jewish History: But to avoid Confusion in our succeeding Chronology, we shall follow the vulgar Account now in use in all Christendom. The Day of this Birth, according to the most receiv'd Accounts and antient Traditions, was the 25th of December; tho' Mede, Lightfoot, and some others have given very remarkable Arguments to prove it was in September, and more particularly at the Feast of Tabernacles.

8--21.

Notwithstanding the Privacy and Obscurity of our Saviour's Entrance into the World, the same Night God was pleas'd to make a pompous Revelation of him to certain poor Shepherds, who were attending their Flocks not far distant, in those Plains where David the Father of our Lord had often attended his. For in the midst of their innocent Employment, an Angel from Heaven, surrounded with most refulgent Rays of Glory, descended upon them; which strange Sight caus'd a great Consternation amongst them. But the Angel soon remov'd their Fears by assuring them, That he brought them such News as should prove the infinite Joy of all People; for a Saviour was born that Night in Bethlehem, who was no less than Christ the Lord. But to prevent their Expectation of an Earthly Prince, he told them, That the Token of knowing this Person, should be his being wrapt in swaddling Cloaths, and lying in no better Place than a Manger. Upon this, immediately there appear'd an innumerable Company of the Militia of Heaven, all breaking out into this triumphant Doxology, Glory to God in the highest Heavens, Peace to the Earth, and Good-will to Mankind! Thus as all the Angels sung at the Beginning of the old World, at the Creation, Job 38. 7. so much more at the Beginning of the New, at the Redemption. Upon the Angel's Departure into Heaven, the over-joy'd Shepherds immediately hastened to Bethlehem, where they found Joseph and Mary, and the Infant in a Manger, as the Angel had inform'd them; and they return'd praising and extolling the Mercies of God, and publishing in all Places what they knew concerning this Child, to the exceeding Amazement of all that heard them. But Mary on the contrary kept all these Things secret, and lodg'd them in her Breast as the Subject of her private Meditations. And as She and Joseph were exact Observers of the Law of Moses, and to testify that the Child was the Son of Abraham, they circumcis'd him on the eighth Day, and call'd his Name Jesus, according to the Appointment of the Angel Gabriel before his Conception: A Name to which all Creatures shall pay a Reverence.

22--24.

Having been punctual in observing the Law of Circumcision, they were no less exact in the Performance of two other Commandments of the Law; one concerning Mothers, and the other the First-born of their Bodies. The first oblig'd every Woman, after her Delivery, not to touch any holy Thing for a fix'd time, nor to enter into the Temple for forty Days after the Birth of a Son, and at the end of that Term to go thither to be purify'd; for which Purpose she was to offer a Lamb for a Burnt-Offering, if able, or else a pair of Pigeons or Turtles, which being sacrific'd by the Priest, she was clean. The second enjoyn'd all Persons to bring their First-born Males, both of Man and Beast, to be presented to God at the Temple, the latter to be sacrific'd, and the former to be redeem'd for five Shekels, or about ten Shillings; and this in Commemoration of God's slaying all the First-born of the Ægyptians to deliver the Israelites. In Obedience to these two Laws, forty Days after her Delivery, the Holy Virgin with Joseph went up to Jerusalem, to offer the Sacrifice prescrib'd by the Law for her Purification, tho' her Son's immaculate Conception needed not that Ceremony: And St. Luke observes that she offer'd the Sacrifice prescrib'd to such as were indigent, namely, two Turtle Doves, or two young Pigeons. This was perform'd at that remarkable Gate of the Temple, call'd the Gate of Nicanor, at the great Passage between the Court of the Women, and the Court of Israel and the Priests; in which Passage the Child Jesus was presented to the Lord, deliver'd into the Hands of the Priest, and redeemed according to Law. Thus was the only begotten Son of God, and the First-born of every Creature, presented at his own Temple, which began to verifie the Prophecie of Haggai, namely, That the Glory of the latter House should be greater than of the former.

His Reception
by Simeon.

But as there was no publick Act about this Child, but was attended by something miraculous and extraordinary; so at the same Instant a pious and devout Person of the City, nam'd Simeon, was directed by the Spirit of God into the Temple. This Simeon, suppos'd to be the Son of the famous Hillel, had long waited for the Redemption of Israel, and had been promis'd by the Mouth of Heaven, that he should not leave the World before he had seen the illustrious Person who should effect it. And when the Child was brought in, this ravish'd old Man took him in his Arms, and being excited by a Divine Inspiration, bless'd the Almighty, begging, That according to his Promise he might be dismiss'd this World, since his bodily Eyes had beheld his Salvation, design'd for all Nations; a Light to illuminate the Pagan World, as well as to be the Glory of the Jewish State. From thence he turn'd to his astonish'd Parents, and blessing them also, declar'd to Mary, That this Child should be the Occasion of the Ruin or Happiness of many Israelites, and a Mark at which obdurate Sinners should level their malicious Obloquies; which tho' they should prove the Discovery of many Hearts, yet like a sharp Sword they should pierce her very Soul with Sorrow: Which some think was a Prophecie of her Martyrdom. Now that the Divine Testimony concerning our Lord might be ratify'd by two Witnesses in the Temple, and those of both Sexes, about the same time came an antient Widow of the Tribe of Aser, call'd Anna, 84 Years of Age; one noted in the Gospel for her constant Observance of the Temple-Ministration, and her frequent Fasting and Prayers. She likewise by a prophetick Spirit, gave God Thanks for this infinite Mercy, witnessing Jesus to be the Messiah, declaring the same to all such in Jerusalem as waited for his coming. After the legal Performances Joseph and Mary with the Child return'd to Bethlehem with great Joy and Satisfaction, and there continu'd till they were order'd by God to remove; tho' St. Luke, who designedly omitted many things related by St. Matthew, seems to intimate their settling at Nazareth in Galilee.

And by Anna.

A. D. 2. II. During these memorable Transactions, Herod at Jerusalem was embarras'd with many Mischiefs and Troubles, such as usually attend Tyrannical Governments, as not only Fears and Jealousies, but also real Conspiracies against his Person; which were carry'd on by several of his nearest Relations, particularly his Brother Pheroras, his Wife the High Priest's Daughter, and his Son and design'd Heir Antipater. These treasonable Designs were detected by means of the unnatural Death of Pheroras, and other Accidents: Several Persons were tortur'd, others executed, his Wife divorc'd, her her Father depos'd from his High-Priesthood, and his Son Antipater imprison'd, in order to receive Sentence from the Court of Rome. But these things were scarcely effected, before this jealous Prince was alarm'd with a new and unexpected Accident, which was the Arrival of certain learned and eminent Astronomers or Magicians from Arabia or Chaldaea, to Jerusalem. These having seen in their own Country a strange and extraordinary Star, and understanding by some old Prophecy, such as that of Balaam, or some new Revelation, that this signify'd the Birth of the Messiah promis'd to the Jews, they travell'd to the Metropolis of Judaea, there enquiring after this New-born Prince, that they might testify their Adoration and Homage. Their Publick Character and Appearance, and their open calling him the King of the Jews, drove the King into a great Consternation, and the whole City into no little Commotion, as both fearing and hoping something extraordinary. But Herod, resolving to destroy this suppos'd Rival in his Kingdom either by Policy or Force, immediately assembled the whole Body of the Sanbedrim, consisting of the most Learned of the Jews, and demanded of them the very Place where the Messiah should be born. They readily answer'd him Bethlehem of Judaea, for which they alledg'd the Sense, tho' not the very Words of Micah's Prophecy concerning that Matter. Upon which Herod with the utmost Privacy sent for the above-mentioned Astronomers, and carefully enquiring of them the exact time of the Star's first Appearance, dispatch'd them to Bethlehem, ordering them to make a diligent Search for this young Prince, and upon Discovery, to bring him word to Jerusalem, that he might go and pay him Homage as well as they.

His second Revelation to the Magi:

These Persons have receiv'd the King's Instructions, departed towards Bethlehem, and in their Way were surpriz'd with a new Sight of the same miraculous Star they had seen in their own Country, which went before them, and like the fiery Pillar in the Wilderness, directed them to the very House where Jesus and his Mother were lodg'd. The Sight of this was an extraordinary Comfort to these Travellers; who observing the Star's last Station, enter'd the House, and finding the young Child with his Mother Mary, without despising his mean Appearance and Attendance, fell prostrate to the Ground, according to the Eastern Custom, and ador'd him. And having brought with them the richest Products of their own Country, they humbly made Presents to him of Gold and precious Odors, particularly Frankincense and Myrrh; in all which Gifts, several believe that there was some mystical Meaning. Thus was God pleas'd to manifest his Son by supernatural Means not only to Jews, but also to Gentiles; but by different Methods as well as to different Understandings and Qualities. The former were poor illiterate Shepherds, the latter learned Philosophers, probably of no mean Quality: The former, acquainted with the true Worship of the Creator, had an Angel for their Guide; the latter, contemplating the Creature, had a Star for theirs; the All-wise God accommodating his Revelations to the peculiar Circumstances of Mens natural Genius's and Educations.

Who acknowledge him with Adoration.

The Eastern Strangers design'd to have return'd to Herod at Jerusalem, but God, who knew the Heart of that Tyrant, prevented them by a Vision at Night, and directed them into their own Country by another Way. And at the same Night he sent his Angel to Joseph, ordering him to arise immediately and take both Mother and Son with him, and fly as far as the Country of Egypt, and to continue there till farther notice; informing him, That Herod had a bloody Design of destroying the young Child. Joseph, who was all Obedience, immediately got ready with his Wife, and with their greatest Treasure Jesus, undertook a Journey of above 200 Miles into

His Flight into Ægypt.

Ægypt; the late Present of Gold being of special Use to them in the defraying of their Expences in a foreign Country. Thus did our Lord begin to take Possession, as it were, of his promis'd Inheritance of the Gentiles, which accomplish'd that propheticall Prefiguration of Hosea's, Out of Ægypt have I call'd my Son. At their first Arrival, as may be collected from Eusebius and Athanasius, the Child Jesus being by Design or Providence carry'd into a Temple at Hermopolis in the Province of Thebais, the Idol Gods fell down, like Dagon at the Presence of the Ark, and suffer'd their timely and just Dissolution: Which remarkably verify'd a Prophecie of Isaiah, which says, That the Lord should come into Ægypt, and the Idols of Ægypt shou'd be mov'd at his Presence. Isai. 19. 1.

Herod's Massacre of the Infants.

In the mean Time Herod impatiently waited for the Return of the Strangers; but shortly finding himself deluded, and his most secret and subtle Designs blasted, he fell into a violent Rage and Fury. And resolving to effect that by open Severity which he had been disappointed of doing by Policy, he immediately sent out his Soldiers, and made a bloody Massacre of all the Children in the City of Bethlehem and the neighbouring Towns, that were two Years of Age and under; that he might be certain to include the whole Time, and more, from the first Appearance of the Star seen by the Eastern Astronomers: A Barbarity surpassing all Belief, had not Herod been the Contriver and Projector. This deplorable Cruelty was accompany'd with such Lamentations and Bewailings, that the Evangelist thought fit to mention the Sorrows and Bemoanings taken notice of by Jeremiah concerning the Babylonian Captivity, as having a more eminent Completion at this Time. The Abyssines of Æthiopia in their Liturgy, and the Greeks in their Calendar, do commemorate the Number of 14000 that were slain at this Time; which exceeds all Probability. However the Execution was so nicely rigorous, that one of Herod's Sons, then at Nurse, was also slain in the Number. Upon which Account, Augustus hearing of this and his other Cruelties to his own Family, afterwards declar'd, That he had rather be Herod's Hog than his Son, as Macrobius assures us: For the Religion of his Nation was a Security for Swine, but no Religion cou'd be any Security for his Child.

Matth. 2. 6-16.

His strange Distemper.

Not long after this Herod began to feel the Vengeance of Heaven upon him, being stricken with a strange and terrible Distemper, which made him exceedingly passionate and jealous of the just Hatred and Contempt of his Subjects. And this was heightned by Means of a bold Attempt made by several young Men of the City, who finding the King declining, and also hearing of his Death, pull'd down the large golden Eagle, which he had prophanely set upon the main Portal of the Temple; which being done in a tumultuous Manner, caus'd the Death of many of the Spectators by the Soldiers; and their own severe Executions by Herod's Command. His Distemper daily encreas'd after an unheard-of Manner, and he himself labour'd under the most loathsome and tormenting Accidents that can be imagin'd; as gradual Heats and grievous Ulcers in his Entrails and Bowels, a furious Cholick, a voracious and insatiable Appetite, venomous Swellings in his Feet, Convulsions in his Nerves, violent Asthma's, Rottenness in his Joints and Members, accompany'd with prodigious Itchings, crawling Worms, and intolerable Smells; so that he was a perfect Hospital of incurable Diseases. Yet all these furious Torments did not take away his Hopes of Recovery; for which Reason he sent for Physicians from all Places, and refus'd no Medicines that they judg'd proper for him. He also shifted his Post, and pass'd over the River Jordan to the hot Baths of Callirrhoe, which were both medicinal and potable, where his Physicians try'd many Experiments in vain upon him; from whence he remov'd to Jericho, his last Station, about 20 Miles almost East of Jerusalem.

Joseph.

But

But as the Bodies of Beasts grow hard and callous by Stripes, and the Pressures of the Yoak; so did the Heart of Herod, by these Loads of the Divine Vengeance. For finding that he must die shortly, and fearing nothing more than the Rejoycings of the Nation at his Death, he resolv'd that the last Scene of his Life should equal, if not surpass all the rest. Therefore having by the strictest Summons gather'd together all the Nobility and most considerable Men of every City, Town and Village in Judæa, he commanded his Soldiers to shut them up in a spacious Place call'd the Hippodrome. And then calling his Sister Salome, her Husband Alexas, with a few choice Friends, he told them with Tears, That he was sensible of the Jews Hatred His cruel Orders, to his Government and Person, and that his Death would be a high Satisfaction to them; therefore his Friends ought to procure him some Solace and Diversion in the midst of his bitter Anguish; which if they perform'd according to his Order, the Mournings and Lamentations at his Death would be as great and magnificent as ever any Prince had. And this Order was, that on the same Hour he should expire, the Soldiers should surround the Hippodrome, and put all the enclosed Persons to the Sword, and then publish his Death; which would cause his Exit to be doubly triumphant, first for the posthumous Execution of his Commands, and secondly for the Quality and Number of his Mourners. Upon the Promises of his Friends to perform his Orders, and receiving some acceptable News from Augustus of the Execution of an Enemy, and of Power granted him to punish others, he began to revive; but his Torments still encreasing, shortly after he endeavour'd to stab himself, but was prevented by Achiabus his Grandchild. The Belief of his Death at this time encourag'd his imprison'd Son Antipater to attempt an Escape, but he was not only prevented, but also beheaded by his Father's Command, who five Days after dy'd himself, having by his Testament divid- And Death. ed his Dominions between his three Sons Archelaus, Antipas, and Philip. This happen'd between the 25th of November, and the 20th of March following, in the 750th or 751st Year of Rome, according to the nicest Chronologers; tho' most probably in the latter, and about a Year and a Quarter after our Saviour's Nativity, in the 70th of his Age, and the 37th of his Reign.

Joseph.

III. For many Years, the Land of Palestine or Canaan was entire, and govern'd by one Person; but shortly after Herod's Decease, by his Will and Caesar's Appointment, it was divided into three distinct Governments. Tho' A. D. 3. for a short Time Archelaus was look'd upon as King, and his Father's Suc- Arche'aus own'd his Successor. cessor, by the Soldiers and People; all acknowledging him with great Applauses, upon the Account of his specious Promises, and the Satisfaction they received from the Delivery of all those noble Persons whom his Father had design'd for Slaughter. But he had scarcely finish'd his Father's Obsequies, which were very solemn and magnificent, before many in the City began to bewail Matthias and his Associates, who had been put to Death for pulling down the golden Eagle; tumultuously requiring that their Memories should be honour'd by a publick Mourning, and their Accusers condemn'd. And this Sedition encreasing at the Feast of the Passover, about that Time they procur'd great Numbers to join with them, and secur'd themselves in the outward Courts of the Temple: Which caus'd Archelaus immediately to send out an armed Party of a thousand Men against them; but being repell'd with some Loss, he sent his whole Body of Foot, with a strong Party of Horse, who falling in with them, put about 3000 to the Sword, and forc'd the rest to the neighbouring Mountains. And having thus quell'd the Sedition, he with all Haste repaired towards Rome with his Mother and his choicest Friends, to obtain the Confirmation of his Father's Testament by by Augustus, and to procure himself to be settled in the Kingdom of Judæa; committing the Government of his Household and his Affairs to his Brother Philip.

The Jews
Troubles.

In the Absence of Archelaus, the Jews fell into new Troubles and Confusions; first occasion'd by Sabinus, the Emperor's Agent in Syria, who enter'd Jerusalem, seiz'd upon Herod's Palace, and by his Avarice grievously oppress'd the Inhabitants: Insomuch that on the Feast of Pentecost, great Numbers repaired thither from all Parts of the Land, resolving to be reveng'd on Sabinus, and possess'd themselves of the Porticos and Cloysters of the Temple. But the Roman Legion there under Sabinus, vigorously attack'd them, set fire to some of the Buildings, and burnt down a considerable Part of the Cloysters, to the Destruction of many; and then pushing forwards, pillag'd the Treasure of the Temple where the sacred Money was kept, and carry'd off above four hundred Talents. But the Jews rallying again in vast Numbers, and with part of Herod's Soldiers, besieg'd Sabinus in the Palace; which oblig'd him to send immediately to Varus Governor of Syria to come to his Relief. At the same Time, the Jews who had taken too little notice of the true Messiah, were punished with several false Messiahs, or pretended Kings of the Jews; particularly Simon, one of Herod's Servants, remarkable for his Shape and Stature; who being follow'd by great Multitudes, pillag'd and ravag'd all the Country about Jericho. Athronges an obscure Shepherd, but of extraordinary Bulk and Strength, was another who aspir'd to the Crown, and for a considerable Time retain'd all the Marks of Sovereignty, wasting all the Country about Jerusalem. In Idumæa about 2000 of Herod's old Soldiers assembled together, to the great Damage of that Province; and in Galilee, Judas or Theudas (mention'd Act. 5. 36.) the Son of a famous Robber, with a Party of desperate Men, made Incursions into Judæa. These and many other Troubles were quell'd in no long Time, partly by some of Herod's Party, and principally by the coming down of Varus out of Syria with all his Force; who reliev'd Sabinus in Jerusalem, and put an end to these Seditions with the Crucifixion of no less than 2000 Persons. Thus God began to punish the Jews, both for their Corruptions, and their being so regardless of his Son, after he had sufficiently manifested him both at Bethlehem and Jerusalem.

Archelaus oppos'd.

In the mean time, Archelaus at Rome met with much Opposition and many Obstacles, not only from his Enemies, but several of his suppos'd Friends, who accus'd him of many Crimes before Augustus, and pleaded for his Brother Antipas, who had been appointed Successor to Herod in a former Testament. But Augustus had not fully determin'd to whom he should give the Preference, before fifty Ambassadors or Representatives of the Jewish Nation were, by Varus's Permission, arriv'd at Rome, and with no less than 8000 of their own Country Men in the City, repair'd to Augustus in their distressed Country's Behalf; First declaiming against the Memory of Herod, alledging, That he had been the most cruel Tyrant that ever reign'd, and so barbarous, that those who escaped with their Lives, thought themselves less happy than those who were executed. For he had not only torn his Subjects Bodies with Tortures, but also defaced the Cities of his own Country, to beautifie those of Strangers, and permitted Foreigners to massacre the Jews without Revenge. And their Country was so impoverish'd and wasted with Injustice, that during Herod's Reign they had suffer'd more Murthers and Miseries than their Ancestors had from the Babylonian Captivity to his Time. That being inured to the Yoke, they had readily acknowledged Archelaus, notwithstanding he was the Son of such a Tyrant, and publicly mourned for his Father's Death. But that he to shew himself the genuine Offspring of Herod, began his Reign with the Slaughter of 3000 Citizens, who fell a Sacrifice to his Rage even in the very Temple. Wherefore their humble Petition was, that Augustus would judge the Remainder of the Jews worthy of Compassion, and not abandon their Nation to Herod's Family, but that he would join it to the Province of Syria, and put it under the immediate Subjection of Roman Governors. Augustus having heard these Complaints, and the Answers of the other Party, shortly after gave Archelaus half the Dominions of his Father, with the Title of Ethnarch, promising him that of King, if his Carriage deserved it; and dividing the other half into two Tetrarchies, he gave one to Herod-Antipas, and the other to his Brother Philip: So that we are to consider Palestine now as divided into three distinct Jurisdictions. 1. That under Archelaus consisted of the Provinces of Judæa and Samaria, together with Idumæa, a little Province taken out of Arabia, and of late including part of Judæa; all amounting to 500 Talents Yearly. 2. That under Herod-Antipas consisted of the Provinces of Galilee and Peræa beyond Jordan; amounting to 200 Talents. 3. That under Philip consisted of the Province of Trachonitis, including Batanæa and Auranitis or Ituræa in Syria; amounting to 100 Talents. Gaza in Judæa, and Gadara and Hippon in Trachonitis were join'd to the Government of Syria; Jamnia, Azotus, Phaselis and Ascalon were given to Herod's Sister Salome; and the Money which Herod gave to Augustus by Will, which amounted to 1500 Talents, he generously distributed among his Family, reserving for himself only some Jewels of small Value.

Matth. 2.

Luke 2.
39, 40.

The State of Palestine being thus established by Augustus, God now thought fit to call his Son out of Ægypt; therefore by his Angel in a Vision he inform'd Joseph of the Death of all such as sought the Child's Life, and order'd him to take Him and his Mother, and return into the Land of Israel, or Palestine. All which he diligently perform'd; and arriving in Judæa, he was inform'd of the Return of Archelaus, and his governing that Part of the Country; and knowing his natural Cruelty, and his near Relation to Herod, he fear'd to settle there. But being directed by God in another Vision, he turn'd to the Dominions of his Brother Herod-Antipas, in Galilee, to his former Habitation at Nazareth, where the strange Occurrences of our Lord's Birth were utterly unknown. Which being a mean and despicable Place, it afterwards gained Jesus the reproachful Title of a Nazarene, according to the Aim and Tenor of several Prophecies, as St. Matthew observes. And this obscure Education not only contributed towards his intended Sufferings, but likewise serv'd to confound the Wisdom of the haughty Scribes and Pharisees, who for their Contempt of these late Revelations, and their other Crimes, were justly hardened and blinded in their Understandings. He was now about two Years of Age, and for ten Years after, we have no certain Account of Him or his Parents, only that they annually repair'd with Him to Jerusalem at the Passover, and as his Body increas'd in Stature, so more especially the Faculties of his Soul were enlarg'd, being highly replenish'd with Wisdom and the Grace of God.

Not long after our Saviour's Settlement at Nazareth, Augustus, who had so often and easily dispos'd of the Kingdoms and Governments of the World, was extremely afflicted in his own Family, and by his own Daughter Julia, marry'd to his Wife's Son Tiberius, who by her luxurious Revels, and her adulterous Meetings had render'd her self infamous in the whole City. This Emperor, tho' a Pagan by Education and Profession, had so great a Sense, not only of the Scandal, but also of the Immorality of her Actions, that he once resolv'd to have put her to Death; but upon Reconsideration he banished her to a desolate Island called Pandataria, strictly prohibiting her the use of Wine, and all kinds of Delicacies, either in Diet or Cloaths; and permitted no Persons to approach her her who were not celebrated for their good Lives and Morals. Shortly after he was diverted by some Wars in Armenia, which, according to Noris, caus'd him to open the Temple of Janus the last Time, which had continu'd shut for about six Years in Token of an universal Peace; which Peace being as it were to introduce our Saviour into the World, he has also upon that Occasion been stil'd The Prince of Peace. But what Ecclesiastical Writers do more particularly observe of this Emperor, is, that upon his Entrance on his fourth Decennalia, or ten Years Government, he utterly refus'd the Title of LORD, which the People unanimously offer'd him; which many Christians believe not to have been without some Divine Influence, and particularly upon the Account of a Sybil's foretelling the Appearance of a greater Prince, to whom all the World should pay Adoration. And here we cannot easily omit a Relation mention'd by Suidas, who tells us that Augustus sending to the Pythian Oracle to enquire who should succeed him, was answer'd by that Dæmon, That an Hebrew Child, Lord of the Gods, had commanded him to return to Hell, and that no farther Answer was to be expected; and that upon this he erected an Altar in the Capitol, Primogenito Dei, To the First-Born of God. However in the same Year that he refus'd the Title of Lord, he appointed Tiberius for his Heir, obliging him to adopt his Brother Drusus's Son Germanicus; and being Pontifex Maximus, he made the last Regulation of the Roman Calendar, which continues in Use with us to this Day; tho' alter'd in some Countries by Pope Gregory XIII. above 120 Years ago. This Regulation was order'd by Augustus to be engraven in Brass, and was completed in A. D. vul. ær. 4.

The Government of Herod's Sons.

In the mean time the three Brothers, Archelaus, Herod and Philip govern'd Palestine without any open Sedition or Disturbance, each endeavouring to improve their Dominions by Buildings, and other publick Works. Archelaus re-edify'd the Palace in Jericho, and sumptuously adorn'd it; and drawing half the Waters from Neara, through the Field he had planted with Palm Trees, he built a Town in that Place call'd Archelais. Herod enclos'd Sepphoris with a strong Wall, and made it the chiefest Ornament of Galilee; and also fortify'd another City call'd Bataramphtha, on the Sea of Galilee, and nam'd it Julias in Honour of Julia, before her Disgrace. Philip repair'd Paneadas, on the Head of Jordan and Borders of Syria, and call'd it Cæsarea Philippi; and likewise repaired the Borough of Bethsaida, on the Sea of Galilee, and gave it the Dignity of a City, both for the Number of the Inhabitants, and for other Pre-eminencies. But Archelaus following the Steps of his Father, in a short time made himself odious to the Jews, not only for his dispossessing of the High Priests, and his illegal marrying his Brother Alexander's Wife Glaphyra, but also for several Acts of Cruelty and Tyranny: Infomuch, that after a Reign of nine Years and a few Days, the chief Governors among the Jews and Samaritans made a publick Complaint of him to Augustus; who being a generous Prince, and detesting all Oppressions, in a great Passion sent his Agent for him in Person to Rome, to answer to his Accusations. Archelaus was found feasting and banqueting with his Friends, and hurry'd away with great Precipitation to Cæsar; who upon a full Hearing both of his Crimes and Vindication, depriv'd him of his Dominions, confiscated all his Goods, banish'd him, and perpetually confin'd him to Vienna a City in Gaul. Upon this the Dominions of Archelaus were reduc'd into the Form of a Roman Province, and rul'd by a Governor of the Emperor's call'd by the Name of Procurator, but in some Cases subject to the President or Governor of Syria: So that there were two Alterations in Palestine between our Saviour's Birth and his Baptism; first, the Division of the whole Country among Herod's Sons; secondly, the subjecting the most considerable Parts of it, namely, Judea, Samaria and Idumæa to Roman Governors.

Immediately after the Banishment of Archelaus, Augustus sent over Coponius to be Procurator or Governor of Judæa, and with him Cyrenius or Quirinus into Syria, to make a second Taxation or Valuation of all Persons Estates in those Parts. Upon his Entrance into Palestine, the Inhabitants, tho' with some Regret, submitted; but in a short Time there arose one Judas a Gaulanite by Birth, but a Galilean by Habitation, and so call'd Act. 5. 37. who with Sados a Pharisee, excited the People to a Rebellion; alledging, That this Assessment was an open Acknowledgment of their Servitude, exhorting the whole Nation vigorously to maintain their Liberties, and giving them Assurance not only of Glory and Renown, but also of a full Deliverance from their Yoke. These Persuasions, together with the corrupt Expectations of a Temporal Prince or Messiah, now ready to appear, drew great Numbers after him, who under the Pretence of Liberty, and disowning all Foreign Authority, committed infinite Murthers and Disorders in several Parts of the Land. And tho' they were timely suppress'd, and the Multitudes dispers'd, yet still they were so potent as to create a fourth Sect among the Jews not known before; the other three being Pharisees, Sadducees and Essenes. These were not only a Sect, but also a Faction directly opposite to those call'd Herodians, and had the Name of Gaulanites from the Birth-place of their Captain, and sometimes Galileans, as in Luke 13. 1. because they were then more numerous in the Province of Galilee. As the Herodians join'd with the Sect of the Sadducees, so these join'd with the Pharisees, and more especially those call'd Zealots, already describ'd in the Introduction. And they became so zealous in asserting God alone to be their Lord and Master, that, as Josephus informs us, they would sooner chuse the most exquisite Torments for themselves and Children, than acknowledge any Man living for their Lord. And by joining with the Zealots, they together became the principal Cause of all the succeeding Miseries in the Jewish State, and the final Ruin of it at last.

Cyrenius having finish'd the Valuation of every Man's Estate, and confiscated the Goods of Archelaus, he depos'd Joazer the present High-Priest upon the People's Complaint and Sedition, and established Ananus in his Place, whom the Scriptures call Annas; and after that return'd to his Government in Syria, Varus being sent by Augustus to the German Wars. Coponius remain'd in his Province of Judæa; and in the second Year of his Government, in the Beginning of the Passover, Josephus tells us of a remarkable Prophanation of the Temple by certain Samaritans, who when the Gates were opened at Midnight, according to the Custom of the Feast, privately enter'd the Temple, and strewed the Porches and the principal Parts of it with dead Mens Bones; which was an extraordinary Offence to the Jews, and gave Occasion to the Priests to be much more careful and vigilant than formerly.

It was at this same Feast, according to the most probable Accounts, that our Blessed Saviour began to shew some Rays of his extraordinary Wisdom and bright Faculties; who now being twelve Years of Age, came up to Jerusalem with his Parents, according to Custom. His Parents having perform'd the usual Ceremonies of the Feast, and tarry'd the whole seven Days, return'd with great Numbers of their Neighbours and Acquaintance towards Galilee, accidentally leaving Jesus behind them at Jerusalem. But not doubting but he had join'd himself with the Multitude of the Galileans, they patiently travell'd a Days Journey; and at Night made a diligent Search for him among his Relations and particular Friends, but without any Success. It is not easie to imagine the Greatness of their Fears and Apprehensions at that Time, which caus'd them to return hastily to Jerusalem, and make all possible Enquiry in that Place. But on the third Day after they mifs'd him, to their exceeding Surprise, they found him in one of the Rooms of the Temple, probably in that of the grand Sanhedrim, sitting amidst the learned Doctors and Masters of Israel, hearing and propounding Questions to them; which he did in such a Manner as caus'd the Astonishment of all his Auditors, who were confounded at the Ripeness of his Understanding and Answers. His Parents were also amazed to find him in that Place; and his Mother telling him with what Impatience they had sought him, and blaming him for putting them into so great a Fright; he made Answer, Why was this Search? Did you not know, that I must be employ'd in the House or Service of my Father? Intimating, as some good Criticks observe, that they had till then sought for him in a wrong Place: However they did not then understand his Answer; but Mary carefully lodg'd all his Words in her Heart. Soon after Jesus return'd home to Nazareth with his Parents, living in Subjection to them; and as he encreas'd in Body and Stature, so the Faculties of his created Soul were enlarg'd, and he daily grew more and more in Favour with God and Man.

Augustus's Regulations.

About the same Year, Augustus made strict Laws concerning Marriages and Divorces, which are taken Notice of by several Ecclesiastical Writers; and were occasion'd by the great Numbers of the loose and unmarried Equites. These the Emperor judg'd so fatal to good Policy and true Morality, that upon a full Assembly, after a high applauding of the marry'd Sort, and a severe Reprimand of the others, he impos'd great Fines upon every Knight that continu'd unmarried after the Term of a Year. Yet to shew that he would discourage nothing that had the Appearance of Virtue and Abstinence, he bestow'd considerable Rewards on such as had vow'd a perpetual Virginity. And that no publick Promoter of Looseness might escape his Censure, shortly after he banish'd his Favourite Ovid, the celebrated Poet, for his amorous Epistles, and his Art of Love; the Softness thereof being thought capable of enervating and corrupting a larger Empire than that of the Romans. About the same Time he remov'd Coponius to another Place, and sent M. Ambivius into Judæa in Quality of Procurator or Governor; in whose Government Salome Herod's Sister dy'd, and gave all her Possessions to the Emperor's Wife Livia. Shortly after, and two Years before Augustus's Death, his design'd Successor Tiberius was join'd with him with almost equal Authority in the Government of the Empire; which has caus'd some eminent Chronologers to reckon the Years of Tiberius's Reign from this Æra, particularly in Luke 3. 1. which 15th Year of the Reign of Tiberius, according to them, is meant the 13th from the Death of Augustus.

M. Ambivius having continu'd between two and three Years in Judæa, Annius Rufus was sent by Augustus into his Place; and he was the third Roman Governor in those Parts. Not long after, Augustus having made his Will, and deliver'd it to the Vestal Virgins, he repair'd upon some Business to Nola near Capua: And there finding himself dangerously ill, he sent for Tiberius, and his choicest Friends and Acquaintance, to whom he recommended many wife and useful Things, particularly declaring to them, That he had found Rome built with Clay, but he had left it of Marble, meaning not so much the Beauty and Strength of the Buildings, as the Majesty and Firmness of the Empire. And that he might leave the World with the Triumphs of a Pagan Philosopher, he call'd for a Looking-Glass, caus'd his Hair to be comb'd, and his wrinkled Cheeks to be smooth'd up, and as Actors upon the Stage, he ask'd his Friends, whether he had play'd his Part well in this World: And upon their answering Yes, he cry'd Plaudite! and expir'd in the Embraces of his beloved Wife Livia, bidding her Remember their Marriage, and Farewel. Thus dy'd Augustus on the 19th day of August, in the Consulships of the two Sexti, above 57 Years after the Death of his Great-Uncle Julius, A. D. vul. ær. 14.

Augustus dies.

He

He dy'd to the unexpressible Grief of all his Subjects, having conquer'd greater Difficulties, met with greater Success, completed greater Designs, and establish'd a greater Empire than any Prince in the World. According to the Paganish Superstition he had Temples erected to him, Divine Honours decreed him, and a large Sum of Money was given by Livia to Numerius Atticus, a Senator, for having sworn that he saw him ascending into Heaven, as Proculus had anciently sworn of Romulus.

IV. The Romans, during the Administration of Augustus, had all the Happiness of a free People, and were restrain'd from nothing but those Mischiefs which a corrupted Liberty produce; but shortly after his Death they met with great Alterations, and a quite different Treatment from his Successor Tiberius, whose Wisdom consisted of a mysterious Slyness and Suspicion, and his Policy of continu'd Artifices and Dissimulation. Yet in the Beginning of his Reign he made a great Shew of Modesty and Affability, and perform'd many laudable Actions towards the Reformation of Mens Lives and Manners: Particularly he regulated the Licentiousness of the Theatre, banish'd the Astrologers and Magicians from Rome, restrain'd the Delicacies of Eating-Houses and Taverns, severely punish'd the Looseness of young Persons of either Sex, prohibiting by Proclamation the Kisses which were daily given by way of Salutation, and administer'd Justice with great Exactness and Diligence. But afterwards, giving a Loose to his deprav'd Temper and Inclinations, he became guilty of all Kinds of Enormities and Oppressions, and prov'd to be the most subtle and designing Tyrant in Nature. Dion observes, that he never shew'd any Inclination to what he desir'd, nor ever spoke as he thought; he look'd fullenly on his Friends, cheerfully on his Enemies; was fair to those he design'd to punish, and severe to those he thought to pardon; and his Maxim was, That a Prince's Mind must be known to no Man. Hence all who were concern'd with him were in continual Danger; and to understand, or not to understand his Mind, was of equal Peril: For some were ruin'd for agreeing to his Words, because they disagreed to his Mind; and others were ruin'd for agreeing to his Mind, because he perceiv'd that they had discover'd his Thoughts. In short, he was a most exquisite State-Jugler, a most jealous and barbarous Governor, a Debaucher of the Roman Empire, a Corrupter of all that was good, and an Introducer of all that was bad in it.

A.D. 14.

TIBERIUS

the third Roman Emperor

Joseph.

In the second Year of this Emperor's Reign, Rufus was recall'd from Judæa, and Valerius Gratus sent to succeed him, who was the fourth Governor in those Parts, after the Banishment of Archelaus. In the beginning of his Government, the Jews address'd themselves to Tiberius for an Easement of their Imposts, who referr'd it to his Nephew Germanicus, then going into the East, but with no Success that we can find. About two Years after, the Villany of three or four profligate Jews in Rome, in imposing upon a Noble Lady call'd Fulvia, caus'd Tiberius to use great Severities to all the Jews in the City: Particularly 4000 of them were sent to Sardinia into hard Service, and the rest threatn'd with Banishment, if they did not renounce their Religious Ceremonies by an appointed Day. All which Troubles, and some others, Philo attributes principally to the impious Designs of the Emperor's Favourite Sejanus; for after his Death, the Jews met with a more moderate Treatment. In the mean time, Gratus in Judæa made several Changes in the High-Priesthood; first deposing Annas, and appointing Ismael the Son of Fabius in his Place; and shortly after removing him, and putting Eleazer the Son of Annas in his Room; and about a Year after, he lastly made Joseph surnam'd Caiaphas, Son-in-Law to Annas, High-Priest; who continu'd in that Dignity till after our Saviour's Death. And tho' there could be but one High-Priest at the same Time, yet we are to take Notice, that Annas is nam'd with Caiaphas by St. Luke as if they were High-Priests conjointly, Luke 3. 2. Act. 4. 6. because Annas was illegally depos'd, and still rightful High-Priest; or because he was Father-in-Law and Sagan, or Deputy to Caiaphas; or because he was Nasi, or President of the Sanhedrim, and represented Moses as the other did Aaron; or lastly, because the Romans had broke the Rules of the original Institution. But in this the principal Criticks are not agreed.

A.D. 26. Gratus having continu'd in Judea eleven Years without any publick Disturbance, he return'd to Rome, and Pontius Pilate was sent Governor in his Place; a Person too like his Master Tiberius, of a fierce and irreconcilable Spirit, and of a cruel and covetous Disposition. He was made Procurator in the 12th Year of Tiberius's Reign, and began his Government very much to the Displeasure and Disturbance of the Jews, bringing the Emperor's Images into Jerusalem by Night, in Contempt of their Law which strictly forbids such Practices. This unusual Action gave exceeding Discontent to the City and all the Country; who upon the Report of it, immediately repaired to Jerusalem, and from thence in vast Multitudes to Cæsarea, where Pilate then resided, earnestly begging of him not to violate their Law, but to remove the Images to some other Place. But when Pilate deny'd their Request, because it would redound to the Emperor's Dishonour, the whole Multitude fell prostrate upon their Faces, weeping and lamenting, and continu'd in that Posture five Days and five Nights, as Josephus relates it. On the sixth Day he sat upon the Tribunal, and sent for the Multitude to give them a final Answer; and at the same Time he order'd his Soldiers suddenly to surround them, who with their drawn Swords threatned them all with immediate Death, if they would not desist in their Suit, and speedily return to their Habitations. But this had no Effect upon them; for they all unanimously offer'd their naked Throats, professing that they had rather dye than consent to the Violation of their Laws. Pilate amaz'd at their Constancy, and being order'd by Tiberius, remov'd the Images from Jerusalem to Cæsarea; a noble City built by Herod the Great, about 55 Miles almost North of Jerusalem, upon the Mediterranean Sea, and the most frequent Residence of the Roman Governors. After this Pilate gave the Jews a new Occasion of Sedition, by a sacrilegious Attempt upon some of the Sacred Money in the Temple, which he employ'd in bringing of Water by Conduits to the City. Which Work, tho' useful and beneficial to the City, yet the Inhabitants look'd upon it as so great a Prophanation, that when Pilate came to Jerusalem, they gather'd about him in vast Multitudes, openly murmuring at his Proceedings. But having before receiv'd Intelligence of their design'd Complaints, he caus'd Soldiers secretly arm'd to mingle themselves among the People in private Apparel, ordering them not to use their Swords, but to fall on with large Battoons, upon a Signal given. All which was executed in the Presence of Pilate upon his Tribunal, where many dy'd of the Blows receiv'd, and many were troden to Death by the Throng; which put an End to this Tumult and Sedition.

Thus severely did Pilate exercise his Government over the Jews. At the same Time Philip continued more moderate and peaceable in his Tetrarchy; and his Brother Herod not very burthenfom in his, tho' extremely vicious and corrupt in his Actions. This latter gaining the Friendship of Tiberius founded a City in Honour of his Name, and call'd it Tiberias, where he kept his Court and usual Residence, it being situated in the fruitfulest Part of Galilee upon the Lake of Genesareth, or the Sea of Galilee, which occasion'd that Lake to be often call'd the Sea of Tiberias. The City was peopled by Strangers, who repaired thither from all Parts, and by many of the the Inhabitants of Galilee, who were both encourag'd by great Privileges, and constrain'd by Authority to dwell there: And that becaue it was built in a Place full of Sepulchres, which by the Jewish Law was accounted unclean. This was finish'd about the first Year of Pilate's Government in Judaea. On the following Year, and 13th of Tiberius, he travell'd towards Rome to wait upon the Emperor, together with a half Brother of his call'd Herod, or Philip-Herodes; which, according to Josephus, cannot be Philip the Tetrarch, as it is most commonly believ'd. In this Journey, he fell in Love with Herodias, this Brother Philip's Wife, and Daughter to their Brother Aristobulus; and by a private Agreement with her, after his Return from Rome, he took her from his Brother, and marry'd her himself, committing at the same Time both Incest and Adultery. And to compleat the Injuries done to his former Wife, he divorc'd her, tho' she was Daughter of Arctas, King of Arabia-Petrea, a potent Prince, who afterwards found a sufficient Opportunity of Revenge. And marries his Brother's Wife.

Not long after this, and about a Year before the first Preaching of John Baptist, Joseph, the reputed Father of our Saviour dy'd, according to the most receiv'd Opinion; it seeming good to the Divine Wisdom, that he whose only true Father was in Heaven, after his Manifestation should have no reputed Father to appear on Earth; and by his Death he became legal Heir to the Crown of his Father David. What our Blessed Saviour's Employment was from the 12th Year of his Age till this Time, is only hinted at by the Evangelists; from whom we may collect, as also from other Writers, that he wrought with Joseph in the Trade of a Carpenter. And Justin Martyr tells us that his main Business was making of Ploughs and Yokes, and other Instruments of Husbandry for the Use of his Neighbours. After the Death of his reputed Father, he still follow'd the same Employment, till the time of his Manifestation, as appears from Mark 6. 3. whereas in other Places, by way of Contempt, he was call'd the Carpenter's Son, he is there call'd the Carpenter himself, as having alone practis'd that Trade. And we may also infer from the rude Treatment of the Nazarenes, his Towns-Men, and their Surprise, as also from the total Silence of the Evangelists as to his Actions, that tho' he grew in Favour with God and Man, his Life was a Life of Obscurity in respect of his Excellencies, and that he shew'd no miraculous Marks to distinguish him from the rest of the World. And this was the mean and obscure Education of the Blessed Jesus, who instead of being taught in the most famous Schools of the Rabbins, or brought up in the Temple among the Priests, was constrain'd to earn his Bread by the Labour of his Body, and live under the Circumstances of the poorest Servant and Apprentice. Which was an Instance of the most amazing Condescension and Benignity; and not only so, but of the most surprizing Wisdom and Understanding: For he who was to guide and reform all Mankind, and to be their Example, thought fit to shew them the most perfect Instance of Humiliation; and he who was to be the Wonder, as well as the Saviour of the World, refus'd all Assistances of human Learning, that his Knowledge and his Works might be more manifestly and apparently the Effects of a supernatural Power. Joseph dies.

A.D. 29. I. AFTER our Blessed Saviour had liv'd above thirty Years in the profoundest Retirement and Privacy as to his Office, and fully completed the Age necessary for the Jewish Priesthood; when Daniel's Seventy Weeks were almost expired, and all Persons in the highest Expectation of the Messiah, God was pleas'd to begin the clearest and noblest Manifestation of his Person and Function. But as John was design'd for a Harbinger to go before him in his Birth, and Entrance into the World; so much more to make way for his publick Appearance and Ministerial Office. Therefore John <sup>Luke 3. 1, 2.</sup> was first order'd by the Mouth of Heaven to enter upon his Office, which was exceedingly rigid and austere, the better to search and heal the Corruptions of a most degenerate and profligate People. For which purpose he led the most severe and mortify'd Life in the Deserts on the Southern Parts of Judæa, spending his Time in Fastings, Prayers and Contemplation, without the least Delicacies either in Diet or Habit: A Life proper to rouse and awaken the languishing as well as corrupted State of the Jews. Nicephorus tells us, That his Mother Elizabeth fled with him into the Deserts, when he was eighteen Months old, to avoid the Fury of Herod the Great, when he destroy'd the Children at and near Bethlehem; and shortly after both she and his Father dying, he became expos'd to all the Dangers and Infelicities of an Orphan. But when his natural Parents were remov'd, God became his peculiar Guardian, who, according to the Greek Tradition, sent his Angel to be his Nourisher, as he had formerly done to Elias, when he fled from the Rage of Ahab, who was the true Type of this great Prophet and Reformer John.

John's Life.

His Ministry.

Prepared by so singular an Education, this Person, who was a Priest by Birth, and the greatest of all the Prophets, by an immediate Commission <sup>Matth. 3. 1. Mark 1. 1-4. Luke 3. 1, 2, 5.</sup> from Heaven, enter'd upon the actual Administration of his Office, lifting up his Voice like a Trumpet in the Deserts of Judæa, and about Jordan, being the Herald to proclaim the first Approaches of the long expected Messiah; accomplishing therein two ancient Prophecies, the one Malachi's, who calls him the Messenger or Angel of God to prepare his Way before him, Mal. 3. 1. and the other Isaiah's, who calls him the Voice of one crying in the Deserts, Prepare the Ways of the Lord, and rectifie his Paths; all Valleys shall be rais'd, Mountains levell'd, crooked Paths streightned, and rough Ways plain'd, Isa. 40. 3, 4. Which figurative Expressions import a new Regulation, and rectifying of Mens crooked and perverse Lives; or the removing all Obstacles and Impediments to Persons coming to Christ; for all Flesh was to see the Salvation of the Lord. St. Luke particularly points out the Time when he receiv'd his Commission from God, which was in the 15th Year of the Emperor Tiberius, when Pontius Pilate was Governor or Procurator of Judæa, Samaria, and Idumæa; Herod Tetrarch of Galilee and Peræa; Philip Tetrarch of Trachonitis with Ituræa; and Lisanius Tetrarch of Abilene, a little Province in the Limits of Syria; in the High-Priesthood of Caiaphas, to whom Annas seem'd join'd, for for one of those Reasons formerly mention'd. This remarkable Period of Time is by St. Mark emphatically call'd the Beginning of the Gospel, or those glorious Things to be introduc'd by the Messiah; a noble Æra to be observ'd by all Christians, when the Renovation of the old World began, or a kind of a Creation of a new. The time of the Year, according to the vulgar Computation, was about Midsummer, when John is suppos'd to begin to be 30 Years of Age. Lightfoot and some others, who believe our Saviour to have been born in September, and likewise that John was now beginning to be 30 Years of Age, are of Opinion that he began to Preach about the Passover. But Usher and his Followers do with most Probability suppose his Preaching to begin upon the tenth Day of the seventh Month, five Days before the Feast of Tabernacles, upon the great Day of Expiation, when the High-Priest enter'd the Holy of Holies, which was penitential, and join'd with so solemn a Fast, that whosoever did not afflict his Soul at that time was to be cut off from the People. This, according to him, answers to our 19th Day of October, and was likewise the Day, that by a solemn sounding of the Trumpet, the 30th and last Jubilee was proclaim'd among the Jews; which publick Time remarkably agrees with the Nature and Freedom of the Gospel, of which the Jubilee was a Type, and also with Isaiah's Prophecie of proclaiming the acceptable Year of the Lord, Isa. 61. 2.

Luke 3.
3--6.
Matth. 3.
2--6.
Mark 1.
4, 5.

This great Prophet began his Preaching about the River Jordan, with a solemn calling for Repentance and Reformation, proclaiming, That the Kingdom of Heaven, or the Messiah, was now approaching: And to gain the greater Authority to his Sermons, he preach'd Repentance by his Example as well as Words, his Garb and Diet being most course, and suitable for a Penitent. The former was only a rough Hair-cloth thrown about him, and fastned with a Leathern Girdle, literally making good the Character of Elias, who is describ'd as an hairy Man, girt with a leathern Girdle about his Loins, 2 Kings 1. 8. The latter was only Locusts and Wild-Honey, such as pure Nature had produc'd in those desert Places; and his Abstinence was so great, and his Food so uncommon, that the Evangelist says of him, That he came neither eating nor drinking; so much eclipsing the ostentatious Fastings of the Pharisees, that they maliciously reported he had a Devil. His free and resolute Preaching, together with the great Severity of his Life, soon procur'd him a vast Auditory, and numerous Profelytes of all Ranks and Qualities, from Jerusalem, and all Judea, and all the Region about Jordan, who confessing their Sins before God, were enter'd into this new Institution by Baptism; from whence he deriv'd the Title of the Baptist or Baptizer. And whereas Baptism was anciently and continually us'd among the Jews for the Admission of Profelytes to their Church and Religion, it was now propos'd by John to the Jews themselves to be receiv'd by them, shewing by it that they were now to be enter'd and transplanted into a new Profession. Many Things contributed to this great and sudden Conflux of People, as the solemn Time and Year of John's Preaching, and the great Multitudes at Jerusalem at the Feast of Tabernacles; the high Expectation of the Messiah just about this Time, and the Hopes he gave them of his immediate Appearance; and particularly the Belief that the Messiah expected a repenting Nation; for it was a common Saying among them, If Israel repent but one Day, the Messiah immediately cometh.

His Preaching :

And Baptism.

Matth. 3.
7, 8.
Luke 3.
7--14.

Among the great Multitudes that came to John's Preaching and Baptism, were many of the Pharisees and Sadducees; People of the most haughty and wicked Dispositions, brought hither both by Fear and Curiosity; upon whose offering themselves, John cry'd out, O venomous Progeny! Who has warn'd you to fly from the Vengeance denounc'd against this Nation? Therefore produce Fruits that will manifest the Sincerity of your Repentance; and do not presume presume to boast of your being the promis'd Seed of Abraham; for I must tell you, That God is able to raise up such a promis'd Seed from these very Stones. And the Axe of God's Judgments is now already laid to the Root of the Tree; so that every Tree that bears not good Fruit, shall be hewen down and consum'd in the Fire. Upon this solemn Denunciation, the Body of the People with no small Concern, demanded of him What they should do to escape: He immediately advis'd them to an extensive Charity; particularly, that He who had two Coats shou'd give to him who wanted one; and so likewise in Meat and other Necessaries. Among the Multitude were also many Publicans and Roman Soldiers, Persons highly detested of the Jews, who coming to his Baptism, demanded of him What they shou'd do: Both of these he advis'd to beware of those Crimes to which their Employments made them most liable; particularly that the Publicans shou'd use no Methods of Extortion and Exaction; and the Soldiers shou'd offer at no Violence, nor false Accusations, but rest satisfy'd with their usual Pay.

Follow'd by all Sects.

*He foretels the

These solemn Admonitions, accompany'd with so much Innocence and Authority, procured a mighty Veneration from the People, so that they generally conceiv'd that he himself was the Messiah. But to remove all Thoughts of this Nature, he freely declar'd, That he only baptiz'd them with Water to Repentance and a new Life, but there was one coming after him who should baptize them by the Effusion of the Holy Ghost, which shou'd purge them like Fire. And that this Person so much exceeded him in Power and Excellence, that he was not worthy to do him that mean Office of bearing or unloosing his Shoes. That he had his Fan ready for Separation, and wou'd effectually cleanse the Floor of his Church, gather the good Wheat into his Repository, and consume the Chaffy Hypocrites with unextinguishable Fire. These and many other Things did John preach to the People; going into several Parts, but principally keeping to the River Jordan for the Conveniency of Water; where he daily made great Numbers of Profelytes, several of whom were Foreigners, as we may collect from St. Luke, Acts 19. 3. These were the first Dawnings of the Gospel, and John was truly the Morning Star to Jesus the Sun of Righteousness. And from this Time, as our Saviour observes, the Kingdom of Heaven suffer'd Violence, and the Violent took it by Force; which appear'd from the Multitudes that throng'd and press'd into it, and chiefly of those who had the least Appearance of Right to it; as younger Brothers before the Elder, Gentiles before Jews, Publicans and Prostitutes before the Scribes and Pharisees: who by their Vigilance and Importunity like violent Invaders snatch'd the Kingdom from those to whom it was first offer'd.

The first Year of Christ's publick Ministry.

A.D. 30. II. After John had preach'd and baptiz'd for several Months, our Bles-Tiber. <sup>16</sup>/<sub>17</sub> sed Lord Jesus thought fit to remove from his private Retirement at Nazareth, and to enter upon his publick Ministry. In order to which, he pass'd over into Judæa, to the River Jordan, where John was then baptizing: And tho' he who was without Sin needed not the Baptism of Repentance, yet being made Sin for Mankind, he scrupled not to perform the Sacrament of Sinners; and accordingly offer'd himself to be baptiz'd by John. The Baptist had never seen his Face till now, being educated in a distant Part of the Country; but he was immediately inspired with so discerning a Spirit that he knew him, and so much of his Worth, that he utterly declined the Office, declaring, That himself needed to be baptiz'd by him; therefore he admir'd at Jesus's Humility in coming to him. But Jesus satisfy'd him, That it was requisite for the Accomplishment of all Righteousness, both for the Sanctification of the Institution, and the Fulfilling of the Law, which oblig'd all Priests to be inaugurated by Washing or Baptism. Upon which he admitted of the Honour, and baptized Jesus in the River Jordan; so that the same River which made Way for the Israelites Passage into the Earthly Canaan, now made Way for the Passage of Mankind into the Heavenly. Immediately after there was made a more illustrious Manifestation of the Trinity; for upon our Lord's Addresses to Heaven, the Skies were divided with great Radiency, and the Holy Ghost gloriously descended upon him after the manner of a Dove, accompanied with the Voice of the Father from Heaven, pronouncing him to be his beloved Son, in whom he was well pleased with Mankind. So that Christ was installed into his Ministerial Function by Baptism and the Unction of the Holy Ghost, as the Jewish Priests were constantly installed into theirs by Washing and Anointing.

The Day of our Saviour's Baptism is most commonly believ'd to be the 6th of January, the same on which we celebrate the Epiphany; he being according to the vulgar Computation 29 Years of Age and 12 Days. Which Age and Computation seem to be warranted by St. Luke 3. 23. or at least by most of his Translators, who translate ὡς ὅτε ἔτι ὄν τετακνύει ἀρχόμενος, began, or beginning to be about thirty Years of Age, which is often interpreted to be his Entrance upon his 30th Year, or Completion of his 29th. But this will not agree with the Age of the Jewish Priests and Levites, who, according to what I can find, were oblig'd to be 30 Years of Age compleat before their Inauguration. Therefore some interpret ἐτι ὄν τετακνύει ἀρχόμενος his Entrance upon the following Year after he was compleatly thirty: But others more justly look upon ἀρχόμενος as a mere Expletive or Pleonasm, and therefore left out in the old Syriack Version; the Verb ἀρχομαι being frequently us'd as such in the New Testament, particularly in the same Chapter, v. 8. and many other Places. So that that Word does not disprove our Saviour's being above thirty Years of Age when he was baptiz'd. This Sentence will also admit of another Interpretation, satisfactory I presume to those who will not readily allow ἀρχόμενος to be an Expletive, which is according to the Mons Translation of the New Testament, running thus, He was thirty Years of Age when he began [the Exercise of his Ministry.] Either of which Interpretations will serve for our Purpose. And since St. Luke only design'd to shew that our Saviour had compleated the Age for the Priesthood, and not the exact Year; we conclude, from all the main Circumstances of History and Chronology, that he was then about 33 Years of Age; and, if born in the 25th of December, and baptized the 6th of January, just 33 Years and 12 Days.

Our Lord being thus prepared for his Prophetick Office, by the Incitation or Impulsion of the Holy Ghost, was carry'd into the Desert of Judea, not far from the Place of his Baptism, there to be tempted by the old Serpent, and to enter upon that famous Combat foretold Gen. 3. 15. Here he continu'd forty Days and forty Nights without any Sustenance, as Moses and Elias, as Types of Him, were formerly enabled to do; being in the midst of wild Beasts, attended with all the Miseries of Solitude and Watchings, and continually attack'd with the inward Suggestions and Temptations of the Devil, as we gather from Mark 1. 13. and Luke 4. 2. At the End of which Time, being assaulted with Hunger, Satan assum'd a bodily and visible Shape, and vigorously set upon him with a threefold Temptation. First of Distrust and Despair of his Father's Care of him, in abandoning him to that Condition, persuading him that he was not the Son of God, and putting him to prove himself so by making the Stones become Bread. But our Saviour immediately answer'd him out of Deuteronomy, intimating, That

*Bread was not the only Support of Man's Life, but the Providence of God, which continually attended the Observers of his Word. Whereupon the Devil enter'd upon a contrary Experiment, trying how far Presumption and Pride would affect him; taking him up and setting him upon the highest Part of the magnificent Temple of Jerusalem; which was so high on the South Side next the Valley, that Josephus tells us, that no Man's Sight could reach the unmeasurable Distance. Here he put him upon shewing himself to be the Son of God, by throwing himself off, and flying in the Air, probably in View of the Inhabitants of that glorious City, attacking him with a Text out of the Psalms, subtilly apply'd, namely, That God would give his Angels Charge over him, to bear him up in their Arms, and keep his Feet from dashing against the Stones. But Jesus as soon answer'd him with another Text out of Deuteronomy, commanding Men not to tempt God; which tho' us'd upon another Occasion, was very applicable here, which was not to tempt God to an unnecessary Conservation. The Devil finding himself twice defeated, united all his Arts and Force, and resolv'd to tempt him with the Charms of Ambition, the most boundless of all Passions; and accordingly transported him through the Air to the Top of an exceeding high Mountain, suppos'd to be Pisgab; where by an Angelical Power he made a lively Representation to him of all the Kingdoms in the World, with all their dazzling Glories at one View: And then he told him, That these, with all their Pomp and Splendor were deliver'd to his Disposal, and shou'd be given him, if he would but acknowledge his Benefactor, and adore him. Which unparalell'd Boldness and Blasphemy provok'd the Indignation of our Lord, who peremptorily commanded him to depart from him, pronouncing a third Text out of Deuteronomy, which positively says, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and shalt serve him only. Whereupon the Devil left him for that Time, and Angels from Heaven came in to refresh him after this triumphant Combat, wherein he began so signally to bruise the Serpent's Head, and after he had forty Days done Penance for Man's Sins, and consign'd to his Church the Doctrine and Discipline of Fasting, in order to the resisting and conquering all the Temptations of the Devil.*

John's Testimony of Jesus.

III. During our Saviour's Temptation in the Desert, his faithful Forerunner John continu'd his Baptism and Preaching with all Diligence; and upon our Lord's strange and sudden Removal from the People, when the Voice had pronounc'd him the Son of God, he cry'd out to them, That this was the very Person whom I mention'd to you, one who comes after me, yet preferr'd before me, for he really was before me. After which, he or the Evangelist, adds, And we have all receiv'd out of his Plentitude a Sufficiency of all Graces. For Moses only gave us the Law, which was severe and obscure; but Jesus Christ has brought Grace and Truth, or Mercy and Perspicuity. He is the only begotten Son, who is in the Bosom of his Father, and has reveal'd God to us, whom no Man has ever seen.

He is thought to be the Messiah.

Notwithstanding John spoke thus honourably and clearly of the Messiah, yet his own Worth and Fame were so spread abroad, that the grand Sanhedrim at Jerusalem were in dispute whether he was the Person or not; and accordingly deputed a set Number of Priests and Levites, who were Pharisees, to demand of him who he was; it being their Business to take Cognizance of all such Matters. John very readily acknowledg'd to them, That he was not the Messiah, nor, as they suppos'd, Elias, whom they imagin'd would personally appear among them; nor yet any other Prophet risen from the Dead, or he mention'd by Moses, Deut. 18. 18. Upon which Answers they were very urgent with him to declare who and what he

he was, that they might return an Answer to those who had deputed them. He immediately let them understand that tho' he was not Elias himself, yet he was the Prophet whom Isaiab had foretold of the same Nature, the Voice of one crying in the Deserts, Rectifie the Ways of the Lord. Upon this they demanded of him, since he was neither the Messiah, Elias, nor any of the ancient Prophets, Why did he presume to baptize Persons, which belonged to Men of a more publick Station? To whom he made Answer, That his Baptism was only of Water, but the Efficacy depended upon one among them, of whom they had no Knowledge; one who succeeded him in Time, but so surpass'd him in Dignity, that he was not worthy to unloose his Shoes. St. John tells us that these things were transacted at Bethabara beyond Jordan; to which Place John had then remov'd his Station, to gain new Profelytes and Disciples. This is generally suppos'd to have been the Place of the Israelites first Passage into Canaan; but others with more Probability place it in Trachonitis, not far from Jordan, where it falls into the Sea of Galilee.

29---34.

The next Day, after the Departure of the Pharisees, our Saviour return'd from the Desert and came to Bethabara; where John, upon the Sight of him, alluding to the Lamb for the daily Sacrifices, cry'd out, Behold the immaculate Lamb of God, which takes away the Sins of Mankind! adding, that this was the Person of whom he had said so much, namely, that tho' he came after him, he was before him both in Dignity and Existence: And that formerly he had no Knowledge of his Person; but His Coming and Baptism was purposely to make Way for the Other's Manifestation to Israel. And he farther assured them, That he saw the Spirit of God descending from Heaven like a Dove, and remaining upon him; and tho' he had not till then seen the Face of Jesus, yet he was inform'd by God, who had sent him to baptize, that whomsoever he saw attended with those Signs, was the very Person who was to baptize with the Holy Ghost. And since he had seen all this, he now solemnly witness'd him to be the Son of God. And this was the second publick Testimony of John concerning the Person of the Messiah. John's second Testimony of Jesus.

35---42.

Upon these Attestations, our Lord retired himself; but the next Day two Hours before Sun-set, he pass'd by the same Place, where John stood with two of his Disciples, one call'd Andrew, who afterwards follow'd Jesus, and the other John, as it is commonly believ'd. Upon Sight of him, the Baptist again pointed him out as the true Sacrifice for Sin, calling him The Lamb of God; which so excited the two Disciples, that they immediately follow'd Jesus; who turning himself, demanded of them whom they sought? They immediately call'd him Rabbi, a Title given to no ordinary Person, desiring to know where he lodg'd; and the other courteously invited them to the Place, where they went and continu'd with him all Night. His Communication had such Effect upon them, that Andrew the same Night or the next Morning, haſtned to an elder Brother of his call'd Simon, and told him the joyful News of their having found out the long expected Messiah, and brought him immediately to Jesus. Our Lord no sooner saw him, but (that He might not want as solid Proofs of his Divinity as John's Testimony was to his Brother) he call'd him by his Name, and declar'd his Parentage; and after that chang'd his Name from Simon to Cephas or Peter, which signifies a Rock; intimating that he shou'd be afterwards a principal Foundation Stone in his Church. Thus was our Saviour made known to three of his Disciples at one Time; tho' they were not publickly call'd to that Office till about a Year after. His third.

Andrew, John,

43---51.

The Day following Jesus thought fit to encrease the Number of his Disciples; for having cross'd Jordan, or perhaps the Lake, and arriv'd in Galilee, he found a Person nam'd Philip, an Inhabitant of the City Bethsaida, the Dwelling-

Dwelling-Place of Peter and Andrew. Upon the first Sight of him, he commanded him to follow him, the constant Form he afterwards us'd in the Choice of his Disciples, and those who inseparably attended him; so that Philip was the first of all the Apostles who had the Honour of a publick Call. Upon this, Philip with great Joy sought out an intimate Friend of his call'd Nathaniel, who is generally believ'd to be the same with the Apostle Bartholomew; and finding him under a Fig-tree, probably at his Devotions, he told him, That they had found out the Messiah, whom Moses and the Prophets had foretold, and that Jesus of Nazareth the Son of Joseph was the Person. Nathanael, a little confounded at the Name of Nazareth instead of Bethlehem, demanded Whether any good Thing could come from thence? But the other desired him to come and satisfy himself; and upon his Approach towards Jesus, he immediately pronounc'd Nathanael a true Israelite without Guile! A Name which his Integrity had probably gain'd him among his Neighbours. Therefore he was surpriz'd, and desir'd to be inform'd how Jesus knew him; who readily told him, That he had seen him under the Fig-tree before Philip came to call him. Convinc'd with this Instance of our Lord's Divine Knowledge, he declar'd him the Son of God, and the King of Israel. Whereupon our Saviour told him, That since upon such an Instance he could believe him to be the Messiah, he should have greater Arguments to confirm his Faith, namely, he should afterwards see the Heavens opened, and the Angels ascending and descending to attend the triumphant Ascension of himself; whom, out of Humility and Love to Mankind, he there, as in many other Places, stil'd The Son of Man.

The Testimony of Nathanael.

Jesus goes to a Marriage:

Our Saviour having thus gain'd five Disciples, tho' solemnly call'd but one, the next Day thought fit to make a more undeniable Manifestation of himself, for the Confirmation of their Faith; which he did at a Marriage Feast at Cana, a Place not far from Nazareth and the Sea of Galilee, where he and his Disciples were invited. His Mother was there before; which, together with her Care about the Feast, cause most Persons to believe that the Marriage was for some Relation of hers, and particularly in the House of Cleopas or Alpheus, Husband to her Sister or Cousin-German Mary. At this Solemnity there was a great Want of Wine; and the Holy Virgin pitying the unseasonable Scarcity, apply'd her self to her Son, hoping he would use some Means for a Supply. But Jesus, to shew that in those Actions where the Service and Honour of God were concern'd, no Respect ought to be had to Men, made Answer, Τὸ ἐμοὶ καὶ σοὶ, What is that to me and you? my Hour is not yet come; or, This is not a convenient Juncture. His Mother still expecting something extraordinary, order'd the Servants to obey his Commands with the utmost Exactness; and he not long after order'd them to fill six large Water-Pots full with Water, which stood there for the ordinary Washings at Meals, each containing about twenty Gallons of our Measure. This being done, and the Pots full to the Brim, he immediately commanded the Servants to fill out, and carry the Liquor to the Governor of the Feast, for him to distribute to others according to Custom. All which was done without his and most of the Guests Knowledge; so that when the Governor tasted this excellent Wine, he was extremely surpriz'd, and with a pleasing Air told the Bridegroom, That usually People brought out their best Wine in the Beginning of the Feast, and the worst when the Guests had drank plentifully; but he contrary to Custom had reserv'd the best Wine till the latter End.

Where he works
his first Miracle.

This Change of Water into Wine was the first Miracle that Jesus wrought, for St. John calls it the Beginning of Miracles; which was perform'd chiefly to manifest his Glory to his Mother, Relations and Disciples, and was a great great Confirmation of their Faith. After which our Saviour departed from thence with his Mother, Brethren or Cousins, and those Disciples he had, to Capernaum, the Metropolis of all Galilee for Riches and Traffick, situated upon that Lake call'd the Sea of Galilee, a Place where he afterwards had his chief Residence and Habitation. But he continu'd here not above a Fortnight or three Weeks, before he thought fit to go towards Jerusalem to the great Feast of the Passover, which happen'd on the 6th Day of our Month April, and the 16th Year of the Reign of Tiberius the Emperor, and about three Months after his Baptism.

John 2.
13--17.

I. OUR Lord arriving at Jerusalem at the great Feast of the Passover, when A.D. 30, there was the most numerous Concourse of People, began the first Tiber. 16
Manifestation of himself by a vigorous Regulation of a publick Abuse and Prophanation of the Temple at these Times, which was this. The Law requiring that all such as dwelt at a great Distance, should buy their Sacrifices at Jerusalem, and likewise that all Males from twenty Years of Age and upwards, should pay half a Shekel to the Lord; these with the several voluntary Oblations of People of all Ranks, occasion'd a Necessity of changing greater Coin into less, and very often of Foreign Coin into that which was current in the Nation. Now the Rulers gradually had introduc'd Money-changing, and the Sale of Oxen, Sheep and Doves for Sacrifices, into the outward Court of the Temple, call'd the Court of the Gentiles, a spacious Place surrounding all the other Courts, together with the Body of the Temple. And this was done under a Pretext of having the Sacrifices near and ready for the People; tho' in reality it was a covetous Design of extorting and taking Advantage of the Peoples Necessities, and likewise Pride and Contempt of that Court where the Gentile Worshipers were permitted Entrance; for whom they had so little Esteem, that they join'd them with Beasts in their Devotion. Our Saviour look'd upon these Practices as notoriously scandalous and prophane; and therefore with a Scourge made of the Cords belonging to the Beasts, he drove all the Sellers and Barterers from the Sacred Ground, overthrew the Money-Changers Stalls, and pour'd down all their Money; particularly commanding the Dove-Sellers to remove their Goods, and not make his Father's House an House of Merchandize. This zealous Act of our Lord brought to the Remembrance of his Disciples what his Father David had formerly said, viz. His Zeal for God's House had even devour'd his Spirits.

John 2.
18--22.

Jesus shewing so much Bravery and Authority, the Jews were exceedingly surpriz'd and incens'd, and demanded of him What Miracle he would shew to evidence his Commission for acting after such an extraordinary Manner? He immediately mention'd to them one of the greatest of his Miracles, which would be a sufficient Evidence, namely, That they should destroy this Temple, and he would rebuild it in three Days. The Jews still more surpriz'd, and concluding he meant that Frabrick built by Herod, reproachfully ask'd him, How

How he could build up that Temple in three Days, which was began 46 Years since, and not yet completely finish'd? But the Evangelist observes, that he meant his own Body, which might well be call'd a Temple, since the Deity inhabited it, the Jerusalem Temple being only a Type of this. This was also unintelligible to his Disciples; but after his Resurrection they recollected what he had said, and were fully confirm'd in their Faith. And this we may look upon as a kind of a Pattern of Christ's Manner of shewing himself to the Jews; which was frequently such a Manifestation of himself as all could not then understand, because he would not occasion them to shorten the Course of his Ministry, or make himself justly thought a Malefactor: But yet it carry'd such Evidence with it, as that all well dispos'd Persons might be convinc'd he was the Messiah, and the Son of God.

Discourses with Nicodemus.

Tho' our Saviour refus'd to work any Miracle at the Instigation of the Jews, yet shortly after he wrought many, in the open View of the mixt Multitudes; but the Evangelist names them not, only that many believ'd in him who saw them. However Jesus wou'd not confide in these Persons, well knowing the Bottom of their Hearts, and that many of them were unsound and imperfect in their Faith. The sight of his Miracles was a great Surprize to the City, and particularly they excited the Curiosity of a Person call'd Nicodemus, a considerable Man in the grand Sanhedrim, and of the Sect of the Pharisees, who privately repair'd to Jesus in the Night, declaring, That he believ'd him to come immediately from Heaven, and that his Miracles were a sufficient Demonstration of it. Wherefore Jesus let this Pharisee know that such a Belief was insufficient, and that something more was expected; solemnly assuring him, That without a second and a supernal Birth, no Man cou'd enjoy the Benefits of his Kingdom. Nicodemus being surpriz'd, and demanding how a Man in Years cou'd enter into his Mother's Womb, and be born a second Time? Jesus inform'd him, That this Birth was not to be of a Woman, or the Flesh, for that wou'd produce nothing but Flesh, and corrupted Nature; but of Water, washing away Sins, and of the holy Spirit, giving the Power and Efficacy; without which, no Person shou'd enter the Kingdom of Heaven. And this Spirit inspired as it pleased; and like the Wind, which no Man knows from whence it comes or whither it goes, was only discernable by its Effects. Nicodemus still admiring, and even doubting the Possibility of these Things, Jesus gently reprov'd his Ignorance, in that being a Master of Israel, he knew not the Nature of Baptism and Regeneration, so frequently intimated in the Old Testament; again solemnly assuring him, That he spoke nothing but of what he had a certain Knowledge, tho' the Jews had not receiv'd his Testimony: And since he was not believ'd when he spoke in Similitudes taken from Earthly Things; How shou'd it be expected, when he deliver'd them as Heavenly Things? After which he proceeded to sublimer Mysteries, intimating that from him alone they were to be learnt, namely, the Son of Man, who came down from Heaven, and was still in Heaven, whither no Man cou'd ascend. That the brazen Serpent set up by Moses in the Wilderness, for the Cure of those bitten by Serpents, was only a Type of Him; that as the Lookers on one receiv'd Relief, so the Believers on the other should have eternal Life. And all this through the unexpressible Love of God, who gave his only begotten Son to the World, that all Believers in Him shou'd not perish, but enjoy everlasting Felicity: For he sent his Son not to condemn the World, but by his Merits to save it from Destruction. Therefore the Believers were safe, but the Unbelievers in an actual State of Condemnation, for not regarding the only begotten Son of God. The main Reason of which was, that tho' a Light was come to illuminate the World, yet they chose Darknes before it; for their Actions being evil, they hated the Light, and avoided it, lest they shou'd be detected and condemned. Whereas the Lovers of Truth approach'd the Light, that their Actions might become conspicuous, and appear to be the Work of Heaven.

Thus did our Saviour open to Nicodemus the great Doctrines of the New-Birth, Baptism, Free Grace, Faith, Obedience, and the Love of Truth; and made him a faithful tho' secret Disciple, as appears from some other Passages in St. John. But he wou'd not trust himself with the unstable and malicious Hierosolymites, and therefore left Jerusalem, and went about the Province of Judæa, where he continu'd about seven or eight Months. In which space we have no Account of his Actions, but only that he baptiz'd, and made more Profelytes than the Baptist himself. But St. John tells us that He baptiz'd not with his own Hands, but by the Hands of his Disciples. For, as it is observ'd, being employ'd in greater Affairs, in teaching and relieving the Peoples Necessities, he delegated this Office to his Disciples, as a Thing to be carefully continu'd after his Departure, in the Succession of them to the End of the World.

23--36.

II. During these Transactions, John faithfully continu'd the Course of his Ministry, and crossing the River Jordan, remov'd his Station from Bethabara to Ænon, near Salim, a Place remarkable for Springs and Waters, within or near the Precincts of Galilee, where he had a great Conveniency for Baptizing. Here the Fame of Jesus's Progress occasion'd a sharp Dispute between some of John's Disciples and the Jews concerning Baptism; inso-much that they complain'd to their Master, That the Person at Bethabara, of whom he had so honourably testify'd, baptiz'd as well as he, and was follow'd by all Men. The Baptist, who would not have made Disciples but to resign them to the Son of God, made Answer, That Jesus could not have had such Success but by the Will of Heaven; appealing to their own Memories, That he had declar'd himself not to be the Messiah, but as a Paranympus to go before him: That the other was the true Bridegroom of the Church, and himself his Friend or Attendant, who now had compleated his Joy in seeing the Bridegroom's Caresses. That therefore he was but the Morning-Star, whose Glory must decrease, as that of the Sun's increas'd. That he himself was of the Earth, and spoke of Earthly Things; but the other came from Heaven, and was above all; having the clearest Knowledge of what he testify'd: Altho' the Generality of the Jews had not receiv'd his Doctrine, depriving themselves of the Honour of setting their Seals to the Veracity of God, which was by undeniable Evidence deliver'd by him, as having the Holy Spirit without Measure, and so belov'd by his Father, as to have all Things deliver'd into his Hands. And that all Men might know what Person they slighted, and how great Salvation they neglected, he summ'd up all his Discourses, and concluded his Ministry with an important Sentence to this Effect; Whosoever believes on the Son of God, shall enjoy everlasting Life; but whosoever believes him not, shall never see Life, but is an Object of the Divine Wrath and Vengeance.

John having diligently perform'd the rigid Course of his Ministry, and being in the Dominions of Herod the Tetrarch, he boldly repaired to the Court of that subtle Prince, and with no less Freedom reprov'd him for his numerous Enormities, and more particularly for his cohabiting with Herodias, the Wife of his Brother Philip-Herodes, fearlessly pronouncing it unlawful. Herod was not immediately exasperated with this Holy Man; but on the contrary, believing him truly just and honest, had a great Veneration for him, fear'd him, was a diligent Hearer of him, and follow'd his Instructions in many Things. But John using the same Freedom to Herod, as Elias did to Ahab, met with the like Prosecution from the Wife Herodias, who who like a second Jezebel sought all Occasions to destroy him. By her Malice and Insultation, Herod became daily more averse to him, and to satisfy her Importunities, sent him to Prison, designing also to put him to Death; but he fear'd an Insurrection of the People, who had the highest Veneration for him, and justly accounted him a Prophet. The Pharisees also representing him as an Author of a new Sect, a Promoter of Seditions and Revolts, and a Person dangerous by reason of the Multitude of his Followers, Herod craftily made that his Pretence of Imprisonment, as appears from Josephus. And the better to remove him from the People, he sent him bound out of Galilee into Peræa, to a strong Castle call'd Machærus, near the Dead Sea, and towards the Borders of Arabia, where he continu'd above a Year in Prison. Thus ended the famous Ministry of John the Baptist, the greatest Prophet that ever was born of a Woman, after a Course of one Year and a little above a Month.

III. About the Time of John's Imprisonment, our Lord, who had been baptizing about seven or eight Months in Judæa, understanding the Pharisees Concern for his great Numbers of Profelytes, resolv'd to leave that Province and pass into Galilee, where the Pharisees had less Interest, there to enter upon a more solemn Part of his ministerial Function. In his Journey it was necessary for him to pass through Samaria, that Province lying between Judæa and Galilee; and about the middle of it he arriv'd near a considerable City call'd Sychar or Sichem, not far from the famous Mount Gerizim, in a Portion of Land which the Patriarch Jacob gave to his Son Joseph, where was a celebrated Well call'd Jacob's Well. Jesus travelling on Foot, and being wearied with the Journey and the Heat of the Weather, about Noon time sat down on the Well Side, sending his Disciples into the City to buy Provisions. In their Absence a Woman of loose Life came out of the City, to draw Water at this Well; and Jesus being thirsty, and desirous to entertain some spiritual Conversation with her, requested of her some Water to drink. The Woman perceiving him to be a Jew, uncivilly demanded of him, How he could offer any such Request to a Samaritan, since there were so great Feuds, and so little Dealings between each other? But Jesus told her, That if she had but known the Bounty of Heaven, and the Dignity of the Person who desir'd Water, she would have requested of him, and receiv'd from him living Water. The Woman understanding him in a literal Sense, told him, Since the Well was deep, and he had nothing to draw with, how could he produce such extraordinary Water; unless he could shew a better Well, and was greater than their Father Jacob, who with his whole Family had made use of this, and given it to them for an Inheritance? Whereupon Jesus to shew his Preeminence, inform'd her, That their Water would only give a temporary Satisfaction, but his a durable and lasting; and should become a Well in the Person springing up to everlasting Life. Upon this the Woman deridingly ask'd for some of that Water, that she might never have Occasion to come to that Well again. But Jesus to make her sensible that he knew her Heart, and her loose Life, nam'd her Husband to her, bidding her go and call him thither; and when she told him, That she had no Husband, he made Answer, That she had spoken truly, for tho' she had had five several Husbands, yet she now liv'd in a State of Adultery or Concubinage. This remarkable Discovery made her more humble, and to acknowledge, That he was a Prophet; and thereupon propounded to him that great Question controverted between the Jews and Samaritans, concerning the Place of publick Worship and Sacrifice, namely, Whether Mount Gerizim, according to their Father's Custom, or Jerusalem according to the Jews, was the true Place? Jesus readily inform'd her, That the Samaritan Worship was

4. 27 --

Immediately after the pronouncing of these Words, his Disciples returned from the City with Food, being surpriz'd to find him in Discourse with a Woman, and a Samaritan; but the great Respect they had for him prevented their demanding the Reason of it. But the Woman in great Haste left her Water-Pot, and with no less Wonder ran into the City, and desir'd the Inhabitants to go immediately and see a Person who had told her all the Secrets of her Life, and undoubtedly must be the Messiah: Which was done according to her Request. In the mean time Jesus's Disciples having prepar'd the Food, desir'd their Master to eat; but he told them, That he had other Meat unknown to them, intimating the Conversion of many Souls in the City. But they taking it in a literal Sense, and thinking some others had furnish'd him, Jesus told them, That his Meat was the Performance of his Father's Will, and the accomplishing his Work. Then pointing to the Multitudes coming out of the City, he said, You reckon it now four Months to Harvest, but behold yonder, and see what an evangelical Harvest there is already, just ripe with Expectation, and ready for the Sickle: And he who reaps here, shall receive the Wages of eternal Life; which will cause both Sower and Reaper to rejoice together; and accomplishes that Proverb, One soweth and another reapeth. I send you to reap where you have bestow'd no Labour; the Patriarchs and Prophets have labour'd here, and you enjoy the Benefits of their Labours. About the same Time the Woman, with the Inhabitants of the City, arriv'd at the Well, and earnestly requested of our Lord to tarry with them in their City, to which he readily comply'd: For tho' after this, during his own Ministry, he commanded his Apostles not to go to the Samaritans; and tho' the time of spreading his Glory to the World was not accomplish'd; yet as an Introduction to the Calling of the Gentiles, and in Compassion to these Peoples Wants and Desires, he was pleas'd to stay with them two Days. Here many believ'd in him only for the Woman's Relation of his extraordinary Knowledge; but many more upon the Account of his own Words, who declared to the Woman, Now indeed we believe, not upon your Testimony alone, but because we have heard him our selves, and are convinc'd that he is indeed the Messiah, the Saviour of the World: Which was more than any of the Jews at that time did acknowledge or believe; who look'd upon the Messiah as only a Saviour of their own Nation. And thus Sichem, which was the Place where the first Profelytes were made to the Church of Israel, Gen. 34. 24. and 35. 2. was the first Place profelyted to the Gospel.

After two Days tarrying, our Lord departed from this City, and leaving Nazareth in his Way, testifying, That a Prophet had no Honour in his own Country, he repaired to Cana, where he had chang'd the Water into Wine, being kindly entertain'd by the Galileans, who at the Passover had seen his Miracles at Jerusalem. To this Place came a certain Nobleman of Capernaum, suppos'd to be Chuza, Herod's Steward, who hearing of his Fame and Benignity, humbly begg'd of him that he would please to come down and cure his Son, who by a violent Fever was brought to the Point of Death. Jesus, perceiving this Person to apprehend him only as a Prophet, who

43 - 54.

After two Days tarrying, our Lord departed from this City, and leaving Nazareth in his Way, testifying, That a Prophet had no Honour in his own Country, he repaired to Cana, where he had chang'd the Water into Wine, being kindly entertain'd by the Galileans, who at the Passover had seen his Miracles at Jerusalem. could cure him if present, made Answer, Except they saw Signs and Miracles, they would not believe what he was. And upon the Nobleman's farther urging him to go with him, lest it should prove too late, he dismiss'd him with this kind Assurance, That his Son liv'd; signifying that he could cure him as well absent as present. This was believ'd by the Nobleman, and the Son immediately receiv'd the Benefit of his Father's Faith; for being met the next Day by his Servants, who inform'd him of his Son's Recovery, he enquir'd into the Hour when it began, and was told it was the seventh Hour, or about one a Clock, when his Fever left him. Which exactly agreeing with the Time that Jesus had told him of his Son's living, he and his whole Family believ'd, and became Profelytes to our Blessed Saviour. This, as St. John observes, was the second Miracle that he wrought in Galilee; which being done at the Request of so great a Man in Capernaum, was a happy Introduction towards his Settlement in that great City, which hapned not long after.

A.D. 31. IV. Shortly after the great Prophet John had finish'd the Course of his Ministry, our Blessed Lord, being return'd by the Guidance of the Holy Spirit into Galilee, thought fit to make more illustrious Manifestations of himself, and in that despis'd Province to begin a more solemn Part of his Ministerial Function. Both St. Matthew and St. Mark, speaking of John's Imprisonment, observe, That from that Time Jesus began in more especial Manner to preach the Gospel or Glad-Tidings of the Kingdom of God, proclaiming, That the great Time was accomplish'd, and the Kingdom of the Messiah at hand; therefore all must repent and believe the Gospel. This was done in many Parts of Galilee, where he daily taught and preach'd in the Synagogues, or Places of ordinary Worship, in such an extraordinary Manner, that he was admired by all, and his Fame was spread throughout all the Country. This may be called a second Æra or Beginning of the Gospel, and is so intimated by St. Peter to Corneilius, who told him, That the Word which was publish'd throughout all Judæa, began from Galilee, after the Baptism which John preach'd, Acts 10. 37.

Goes to Nazareth,

In this Progress he came to Nazareth, the Place of his Education, where a kind Entertainment was reasonably expected; and on a Sabbath-Day, being in the Synagogue, he stood up to read, as was usual for Lay-Men at that Time. Here the Prophecy of Isaiah was deliver'd to him; out of which he read these Words, "The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, for he has consecrated me to preach the Gospel to the Poor, sent me to cure the Broken-hearted, to pronounce Liberty to the Captives, and Recovery of Sight to the Blind, to free the Oppressed, and to proclaim the acceptable Year of the Lord." Upon this he clos'd the Book, return'd it to the Minister, call'd Angelus Ecclesie, and explaining the Prophecy, declar'd, That it was now accomplish'd in himself. Upon this the Eyes of the whole Congregation were fix'd upon him, admiring at his Discourse; but many who had known him in the Disadvantages of his Education, began to have too mean Thoughts of him upon the Account of his Extract, as if he had been Son to a Carpenter. Therefore our Lord knowing their Thoughts, told them, That they wou'd undoubtedly apply the Proverb of Physician cure thy self, as a Reproach to him, for not working Miracles in his own City as well as in Capernaum. But he farther assur'd them, That a Prophet was never justly esteem'd in his own Country; proving it by two eminent Examples, the first of Elias, who in a Famine of above three Years, was not sent by God to any of the distressed Widows of his own Country Israel, but to a Widow at Sarepta in another Country; And the other of Elisha, who cur'd a foreign Lord in Assyria of his Leprosy, when there were many Lepers in Israel, who wou'd not desire a Cure from him.

These Words so highly reflecting upon the Ingratitude and Insensibility of the Nazarens, provoked the whole Assembly; insomuch that they impiously <sup>there he is bar-barously treated.</sup> hurry'd him out of the City, and brought him to the Brow of the Hill on which it was situated, with a Design to cast him down from it and destroy him. But by a miraculous Power he withdrew himself from the Fury of these wretched People, and left their City.

Luke 4.
31.

From this barbarous Place our Lord repaired to Capernaum, and made <sup>he settles at Capernaum.</sup> that the chief Place of his Residence and Habitation, where it is conjectured that his reputed Father Joseph had some little Possessions, or at least a House. This Place being situated upon the Coasts of the old Tribes of Zabulon and Nepthali, St. Matthew observes that our Saviour's Habitation there remarkably accomplish'd a Prophecy of Isaiah, namely, In the Land of Zabulon, the Land of Nepthali, the Sea-Coast beyond Jordan, and in Galilee of the Gentiles, the Inhabitants who sit in Darkness saw great Light, and new Light sprung up to them who sat in the Region and Shadow of Death; intimating that all these Places, which had received the greatest Damages from Foreigners, shou'd afterwards receive the greatest Light of the Gospel, and most of the Presence of the Messiah; the not understanding of which Passage, and others following it, very much confounded the Jews, who little imagin'd that the Messiah's chief Residence should be in Galilee. Capernaum, as was formerly observ'd, was the Metropolis of all Galilee, situated in a very rich and populous Country, upon the Lake of Genesareth, or the Sea of Galilee; a famous Lake about 20 Miles in Length, and half as much in Breadth, replenish'd with all kinds of Fish, and surrounded with several remarkable Cities and Towns, which stood upon the Banks of it. On the East Side were Corazin, Bethsaida, Julias and Hippos; on the West, Capernaum, Tiberias and Tarichæa, besides other Places of inferior Note. And this Lake was highly convenient for our Lord's Ministry and Designs, his easie Passages, his breaking the Multitudes of his Followers, his Retirements, and also his avoiding the wicked Designs of Herod, and the untimely Prosecutions of the Scribes and Pharisees at Jerusalem.

V. Our Blessed Lord being thus settled in a convenient and populous Country, and finding the Ministry daily encreasing, thought fit to make Choice of some Disciples, who in a particular Manner should be Assistants and Witnesses of his Actions. Therefore walking by the Sea-Shore, he saw two Fishing Vessels, one belonging to Peter and Andrew, and the other to James and John; who being all Companions, after a tedious and unsuccessful Night, were gone ashore to wash and dry their Nets. As our Saviour was press'd on by the Multitudes out of Capernaum, he step'd into Peter's Vessel, desiring him to put a little from the Shore, and from thence he preach'd to the People. Sermon ended, he resolv'd to seal up his Doctrine with a Miracle, to give them a full Assurance of his Mission; therefore he order'd Peter to launch out farther, and let down his Nets for a Draught. Peter inform'd him of their unsuccessful Toiling all Night, but in Obedience to him he was willing; and upon letting down their Nets, they immediately inclos'd such a Multitude of Fishes, that their Nets began to break; so that they were oblig'd to call to their Partners in the other Vessel, to come in to their Assistance. This Draught was so great, that it fill'd both the Vessels, and so loaded them, that it endanger'd their sinking before they could get safe to Shore. All were amaz'd at this miraculous Sight, especially Peter, who in an Ecstasie of Admiration, and dreading the visible Appearance of so great a Power just by him, threw himself at the Feet of Christ, praying him to depart from him as a vile and sinful Person. But our Lord to abate his Fears, let him understand that he had nobler Work and Employment for him, That from this time he should catch the Souls of Men. Upon which he pronounc'd these Words both to him and his Brother Andrew, Follow me, and I will make you Fishers or Catchers of Men; using also the same Call to James and John, who with their Father Zebedee, were mending their Nets in the other Vessel. These four immediately obey'd his Call, being satisfy'd of his Divine Mission; and leaving their Vessels, Nets, and their Employment, they became constant and inseparable Disciples to our Lord; it being about a Year after their first Knowledge of him at Bethabara.

Jesus restores a
Capernaum.

Our Saviour after the Choice of these four Disciples, return'd with them into the City; and on the next Sabbath Day he enter'd the chief Synagogue, and preach'd to the People, with so much Efficacy and Authority, and so differently from their usual Teachers the Scribes, that all were astonish'd at him. Among the Multitudes of his Auditors, there was a Man whose Body was possess'd and actuated by an impure Demon, who upon the sight of him roar'd out in a hideous Manner, Let us alone! What have we to do with thee, thou Jesus of Nazareth? Art thou come to destroy us? I know that thou art the Son of God. Whereupon Jesus rebuk'd him, and commanded his Silence, and Departure out of the poor Wretch's Body; and the Demon finding he must relinquish his Possession, rack'd the Man with most violent Convulsions, threw him upon the Ground, with a dismal Outcry, and at length left him sound in Body and Mind. Such possessed Persons were very frequent among the Jews at this time; but the Cure of them was always look'd upon as beyond the Reach of human Power: Therefore the Spectators were seiz'd with the greater Surprize and Amazement, questioning among themselves what wonderful Doctrine and Authority this was, which commanded the Obedience even of the impure Spirits! so call'd because they delighted in all Impurity. Upon which his Fame was spread throughout all Galilee, and the neighbouring Parts.

sick Persons.

From the Synagogue, our Lord retired to the House of Peter and Andrew, who had lately remov'd from Bethsaida to this City: taking also James and John along with him. Here he was inform'd that Peter's Wife's Mother was seiz'd with a violent Feaver, and was desir'd to have pity on her Condition, which he accordingly had. For going to her Bed's side, and taking her by the Hand, he rebuk'd the Paroxysms, commanded the Feaver to depart, and in a Moment restor'd her to perfect Health; so that as if she had never been sick, she immediately arose, and waited upon the Company. This and the other Miracle in the Synagogue, caus'd the whole City to gather about Peter's House, as soon as the Sun was set, and the Sabbath ended, bringing with them all kinds of the Diseased and Possessed, begging the Bounty and Relief of this heavenly Physician. And he readily cured all their Diseases, by laying his Hand upon the sick Persons, in some Measure accomplishing that Prophecy of Isaiab, which says, He took our Infirmities upon himself, and bore our Diseases. He also cast out many Devils only by a Word, who cry'd out, That he was the Messiah and the Son of God! But Jesus would not permit them to discover that he was the Messiah, because of the ill Use likely to be made of it; for tho' all his Actions and his Discourses sufficiently manifested him to be the Person, yet for good Reasons, he usually declin'd owning it to the Jews in express and positive Terms.

Luke 4. 43, 44. All People thus flocking after him, the next Morning, to prevent the like Concourse, and to prepare himself for his design'd Journey, he arose very early, and retir'd to a private Place to make his Prayers to God. And Peter and his other Disciples follow'd him, and hoping now to advance themselves in his terrestrial Kingdom, told him, That all Men sought after him. But Jesus let them know, That he must now go to the neighbouring Towns, and preach to them; and that he came out for that Purpose. In the mean time, the People who sought him arriv'd at that Place where he was, and would have engag'd him to continue still in Capernaum; but he told them, That he must preach the Kingdom of Heaven to other Cities as well as theirs, and that his Father had sent him with that Design. And thereupon he made a Progress about Galilee, in which little Province Josephus tells us there were 204 Cities and Towns; where he preach'd the Gospel in the publick Synagogues, cur'd all kinds of Distempers and Diseases, and dispossest'd all Demoniacks. The Evangelist particularly mentions Demoniacks, Lunatics, and Paraliticks, as the principal Persons he recover'd in this Journey; which caus'd his Fame to be spread throughout all Syria, and engag'd infinite Numbers out of many several Provinces to follow him, not only out of Galilee where he taught, but also from the Region of Decapolis, Judea, Jerusalem, and the Country beyond Jordan.

Mark 1. 40--45.
Luke 5. 12--16.
Matth. 8. 3--4. In his Progress through Galilee our Lord was met by a Man overspread with a foul Leprosie, who falling prostrate at his Feet adored him, and cry'd, Lord, if it be thy Pleasure, thou canst make me clean. A Prayer so full of Faith and Humility, mov'd the Compassion of Jesus; who put forth his Hand and touch'd him, saying, 'Tis my Pleasure, be clean: And he was perfectly cur'd in that Moment. Our Saviour strictly charg'd him to discover it to no Man, till he had perform'd the Rite of the Law in that Case, presented himself to the Priest, and offer'd a Sacrifice for a Testimony of his Cleanness. But the overjoy'd Person, instead of Secresie, publish'd it abroad in all Places; which still so increas'd his Fame, that Jesus could not openly enter into his City Capernaum, lest such Multitudes of Followers should carry a Shew of Sedition, and the pressing of Lepers contrary to Law, cause great Inconveniences. And therefore after he had taught the Multitudes, and cur'd all their Infirmities, he withdrew himself to a desert Place, where he spent some Time in Prayer; after he had made a glorious Progress in Galilee of near three Months.

He cures a Leper.

Matth. 9. 2--8.
Mark 2. 1--12.
Luke 5. 17--26. Shortly after he enter'd privately into Capernaum, and probably Peter's House; but his Return was soon known to the City, and such a Multitude of People gather'd to him to hear his Sermons, and to bring their diseased, that both the House and the Space about the Door could not contain them. In the House were many great Persons, Pharisees and Doctors of the Law, from Jerusalem and Judea as well as Galilee, who, brought thither by their Curiosity, came and sat down by him, rigidly examining his Sermons and his Miracles. Among the sick Persons, a Paralytick was brought; but so infirm, that four Men were hired to bear him in his Bed. But finding it impossible to pass so great a Throng, being confident of our Lord's Compassion and Assistance, they boldly uncover'd the Roof of the House, and with Cords let the sick Man down in his Bed, before the Place where he sat. Jesus being pleas'd with so much Faith, and such Reliance upon his Mercy, and to display his Glory, first applyed himself to the Cure of his most valuable Part, his Soul, calling the Person Son, and bidding him be of good Courage, for his Sins were forgiven him. This extraordinary Mark of Authority provok'd the Indignation of the proud Scribes and Pharisees, who in their Hearts condemn'd him.

him as a Blasphemer, since none could forgive Sins but the Almighty God. But Jesus knowing their secret Thoughts, demanded of those envious and conceited People, Why they cherish'd such evil Imaginations; and whether they thought it more difficult to forgive that sick Man's Sins, than to make him whole, and take up his Bed and walk? But, proceeded he, that the Son of Man has Power to forgive Sins on Earth, the Recovery of this Man shall be a Proof; therefore he bad him, Rise, take up his Bed, and go home to his House; Which was immediately done, to the exceeding Amazement of the whole Company. Tho' the Power of Healing be much less than Forgiving Sins, yet because it is not so easie to impose a Cure upon the World, where Mens Senses are Witnesses, as Remission of Sins, which is secret and invisible; therefore all the People, who were convinc'd by their Eyes of the Efficacy of Christ's Words, Arise and walk, were satisfy'd of the Truth of the former, Thy Sins are forgiven thee. For which Reason they glorify'd the Almighty, who had manifested such Power on Earth, and being fill'd with a reverential Fear, declar'd, That they had seen strange and wonderful Things that Day.

The Calling of Matthew.

From hence our Lord remov'd to the Sea Side, as he frequently did, where was more Air and Room for such a Conflux of People. As he pass'd along, teaching great Multitudes that follow'd him, he at length came to the Custom-House, where he espy'd a rich Publican call'd Levi or Matthew, the Son of Alpheus, sitting in his Office; his Business being to gather the Customs of the Commodities that came by the Sea of Galilee, and the usual Tribute which Passengers were to pay that went by Water; an Employment sufficiently odious to the Jews, as has been formerly observed. Upon the first Sight of him our Lord, according to his usual Manner of calling Disciples, bad him follow him. Matthew, tho' doubtless incumber'd with many Businesses and Accounts, yet being touch'd by the Divine Power, forsook his gainful Employment, and follow'd him, becoming not only an Apostle, but afterwards one of the Evangelists. And thus we have had a particular Account of Christ's calling six of his twelve Apostles; namely, Philip, Peter, Andrew, James, John, and Matthew. Some of the Harmonists have made Matthew's Feast immediately to succeed his Call; but for good Reasons we have follow'd Chemnitius, Lightfoot, and some others, who place Jesus's going to Jerusalem to the second great Passover, immediately after Matthew's Call; which Passover happen'd on the 28th Day of our Month March, in the 17th Year of the Reign of Tiberius, and one Year wanting 10 Days after the last Passover.

The second Passover.

AT the great Feast of the Passover, our Lord repaired to Jerusalem a second Time after his Baptism, where he made a farther Manifestation of himself to the Jews upon this Occasion. In the South-East Part of the City, near the Sheep-Gate, was a famous Pool or Pond, and

and a Building call'd Bethesda, or the House of Mercy, which consisted of five Porticos; in which lay a great Multitude of poor impotent People, as Blind, Lame, Wither'd, &c. waiting for the moving of the Water of this Pool. For this Water serving for a holy Use, namely, the washing of the Sacrifices before they were offer'd in the Temple, as is most generally believ'd, an Angel from Heaven descended at certain Times, and moving the Water, infus'd such Virtue, that the first Person who enter'd it after this Motion, was cur'd of whatsoever Distemper he had. It is uncertain at what particular Times the Water receiv'd this extraordinary Virtue, and when this Miracle began. But many Criticks do rationally believe that it began not long before our Saviour's Appearance, and was a Presage of his near Approach, and perhaps of the Virtue of the Water of Baptism. On the Sabbath-Day Jesus repaired to this Hospital of sick Persons, out of whom he made Choice of one most impotent, and most unlikely to recover, having a languishing Infirmary of 38 Years Continuance: And to excite his Faith and Expectation, he first ask'd him Whether he would be cured? The Man not knowing him, sorrowfully told him, That he had no Man to put him into the Pool as soon as the Water was mov'd; but that while he was endeavouring, another always step'd in before him, and prevented him. Upon this Jesus bad him rise and walk, and to shew his Power over the Sabbath, to take up his Bed also; all which was immediately done, but much to the Displeasure of the Jews, who exclaim'd against him for bearing a Burthen on the Sabbath-Day, directly contrary to their Law. The Man excus'd himself by declaring, That he was so order'd by the Person who had miraculously cur'd him, thinking that a sufficient Warrant; which caus'd the Jews to make strict Enquiry after Jesus: But a Multitude being gather'd about the Place, he convey'd himself from thence. Shortly after, Jesus finding the Man in the Temple, probably returning Thanks for his Recovery, caution'd him, since he was restor'd to his Health, not to sin again, lest a greater Misfortune should befall him: Intimating that some extraordinary Crime had caus'd this.

John 5.
15-47.

The overjoy'd Man, without designing any Malice, immediately went and inform'd the Jews, That Jesus was the Person who had wrought his Cure. Upon which they violently prosecuted him before the grand Sanhedrim, designing to take his Life as a Prophaner of the Sabbath. Here in Defence of himself he declar'd, That his Father wrought continually, and he did but the same; which much more provok'd the Jews against him, not only as a Sabbath-Breaker, but as the greatest Blasphemer, who said God was his Father, and made himself equal with Him. In farther Vindication of himself, he shew'd that he was the Messiah, tho' not in express Terms; first manifesting his Power and Authority, and solemnly declaring, That tho' according to his Office he could do nothing without the Concurrence and Cooperation of his Father; yet so great was his Father's Love to him, that he had communicated all Power to him, such as should produce greater Things than they had yet seen: Particularly raising the Dead, as his Father had done under the Old Testament; and judging the World, which Power was wholly committed to him, that all Men might honour him equally with his Father; for without one, the other would be ineffectual. Then he solemnly assured them, That whosoever hearkned to his Words, and believed his Mission, should never be condemn'd, but pass from a State of Death to everlasting Life. Farther declaring, That the Time was coming, when the very Dead should hear the Voice of the Son of God; and such as heard, should live: For as the Father had Life within himself, so had the Son; and also Authority to pass Judgment at the last Day, not only as God, but also as Man. And they needed not to wonder at this, for the Time should come, when all Mankind in their Graves should should bear his Voice, and come forth; the Good to the Resurrection of Life, and the Evil to the Resurrection of Damnation. But in these judicial Proceedings, he could act nothing but by Commission; therefore his judgment was just, because he sought not his own, but his Father's Will who had delegated him. After our Lord had thus fearlessly shewn the Sanhedrim the Greatness of his Authority, he proceeded to several undeniable Testimonies of it, and first of John Baptist, to whom they had sent Deputies; a burning and shining Light, whom for a while they admired, of whose Testimony he was assured. Tho' he needed no Human Witnesses, yet he mention'd him, to convince them, and bring them to Salvation. Secondly, He had a greater Testimony than John's, even the Miracles he had wrought, which were undeniable Evidences of his Divine Mission. Thirdly, The Father himself had declar'd him his Son; but as they had neither heard his Voice, nor seen his Shape, so they regarded not his Words, disbelieving the Person whom he had sent. Fourthly, The holy Scriptures, which they had search'd, and acknowledg'd the right Way to Happiness, did abundantly testify of him; and yet they refus'd to come to him, and receive that Happiness. And he sought not the Applauses of Men, but the Honour of God, which he knew they wanted; since they receiv'd not him who came in his Father's Name, when they were ready to receive an Impostor who came in his own. Which Infidelity was the less strange, because they were so zealous for the Glory of Men, and so little for the Glory of God. Lastly, Moses, in whom they had the greatest Confidence, wrote concerning him; therefore he needed not to accuse them to the Father, since Moses would do it. But since they disbeliev'd their great Prophet's Writings, it was not to be expected that they should believe his Words.

He discourses with the Pharisees concerning the Sabbath.

We have no Account of the Issue of this remarkable Discourse; but by the Evangelist's Silence, we may conclude that there was such an irresistible Power in our Lord's Words, that tho' the Sanhedrim would not comply with them, yet they could not deny the Truth of them. However on the very next Sabbath Day, he gave the Jews a fresh Occasion of Complaint, in his Passage with his Disciples through some Corn Fields near the City, probably in going to some neighbouring Synagogue to preach. His Disciples being at this Time very hungry, took some Ears of Corn as they pass'd, rubb'd them in their Hands and eat them, a Thing usual on ordinary Days. Which piece of Labour was immediately observ'd by the malicious Eyes of some Pharisees then mix'd with the People, who exclaim'd against them, as doing an Action unlawful on the Sabbath Day. But Jesus to vindicate them, first urg'd the Example of pious David, who when he wanted Sustenance, enter'd into the House of God with his Followers, and did eat the Sacred Bread, unlawful to be touch'd by any but the Priests; shewing that Necessity takes away the Rigour of the Law. Secondly, The Example of their own Priests, who were accounted blameless, tho' on the Sabbath Days they perform'd the Labours of the Temple: Which Temple, if it justify'd their Actions, there was one present greater than the Temple, who could justify his Disciples. But if they had understood the Meaning of Hosea's Words, I chuse Mercy before Sacrifice, they would not so rashly have condemn'd the Innocent: But they inverted the Order of Things, supposing Man to be made for the Sabbath, and not the Sabbath for the Benefit of Man: And therefore the Son of Man was Lord even of the Sabbath Day.

Shortly after our Lord left Jerusalem, and return'd into Galilee, where on another Sabbath, or Saturday, he preach'd in a Synagogue, probably at his own City Capernaum; in which Place was a Man with a wither'd and mortify'd Hand, whom St. Jerom reports to have been a Mason. Here the Scribes and Pharisees were nicely observant, watching for a Pretence of an Accusation against Jesus, if he should offer to cure on the Sabbath Day;

Day; therefore they first demanded of him whether he thought it lawful to work Cures on the Day of Rest? Jesus knowing their malicious Intentions, immediately had the decrepid Person stand up in the midst of the Assembly, as an Object of Commiseration; and then desired these haughty Persons to answer him one Question, viz. Whether they thought it lawful on the Sabbath Day to do good, or ill; actually to save Life, or negligently to destroy it? This Question putting them to Silence, he farther demanded of them, Whether any Man of their Opinions would not venture to pull a Sheep out of a Pit on the Sabbath Day; and much more help a Man, who was far more valuable than a Sheep? An undeniable Proof, that they acknowledg'd it was lawful to do good on the Sabbath Day. Then looking about him with great Marks of Indignation for their strange Perverseness; he commanded the poor Man only to stretch out his lame Hand; which being obey'd, it was perfectly restor'd, and made sound as the other.

Tho' the Pharisees were silenc'd by his Arguments, and surpriz'd by the Miracle, yet so great was their Stubbornness and Prejudice, that they resolv'd to attempt even his Life; and that they might not fail of Success, they join'd with the Herodians, tho' perfectly opposite in Principles, consulting with those State-Sectaries how they might destroy him. But Jesus discovering their impious Designs, withdrew himself with his Disciples to the Sea-Side, being follow'd by innumerable Multitudes not only from Galilee, but from Jerusalem, the Provinces of Judea and Idumæa, and all the Country about Jordan, as far as the Mediterranean Sea, to the Coasts of Tyre and Sydon, who came in Throngs from all these Places to hear him, and to be cur'd of their Distempers: Inasmuch that he order'd his Disciples to wait with a small Vessel at the Shore, that he might not be too much incommoded with them. As the Multitudes of diseased Persons press'd to touch him, so he was ready to afford them Relief, curing all their Distempers, and dispossessing all the impure Spirits, who falling prostrate before him, loudly proclaim'd him the Son of God. But our Lord with great Humility commanded their Silence in that Point; accomplishing, as St. Matthew observes, these Words of Isaiah, Observe my Servant whom I have chosen, my Beloved in whom my Soul is delighted: I will inspire him, and he shall proclaim Justice to the Gentiles. He shall not be tumultuous, nor noisy, nor shall his Voice be heard in the Streets. He shall not break the bruised Reed, nor quench the smoking Flax, till he renders Judgment triumphant: And the Gentiles shall trust in his Name. All which truly represented the quiet, humble and meek Temper of the Messiah.

II. Above a Year and a Quarter after our Lord's Baptism, and above four Months after his most solemn Entrance upon his Ministry, and the Imprisonment of John, he resolv'd to make a publick Election of some particular Persons above all the rest, for more special Ends and Employments; both to be Witnesses of all his Actions and Discourses, and after his Departure out of the World to be his Vicegerents upon Earth, Founders of his Church, and Propagators of his Gospel. In Order to which great Design, our Lord withdrew himself to a solitary Mountain, not many Miles from Capernaum, and commonly call'd the Mount of Christ, where he continu'd all Night in his solemn Addresses to Heaven for Success in this important Work; herein leaving an excellent Example to the Governors of his Church, how to proceed in Matters of the like Importance. The next Morning, out of the great Number of his Disciples, he made Choice of twelve Persons, according to the Number of the Patriarchs and Tribes of Israel; whom by a Prolepsis he call'd by the Name of APOSTLES, which imports a special Messenger, or Ambassador; and was an Honour the greatest that ever our Saviour conferr'd upon Man, and attended with the noblest Privileges.

This Election was made about the Time of the Feast of Pentecost; at which Time the Law was promulgated to the Israelites on Mount Sinai: And the Persons elected were these following. 1. Simon the Son of Jonah, whom Jesus nam'd Peter, a Fisher-man of Bethsaida, who after his Marriage became an Inhabitant of Capernaum. He is generally acknowledg'd to be the eldest of all the Apostles, and at least ten Years older than our Lord himself; and his Age and Gravity may have caus'd both Sacred and Ecclesiastical Histories to give him a Precedency, tho' not a Superiority in the College of the Apostles. 2. Andrew, a younger Brother of Peter's, of the same Town and Employment, and formerly a Disciple to John Baptist, as Peter is reasonably suppos'd to have been. 3. James, commonly call'd James the Great, Son to Zebedee and Salome, an Inhabitant of Bethsaida, a Fisher-man, and a Partner with Peter and Andrew, but suppos'd to exceed them in worldly Abilities, as having several Servants to assist him in his Trade. 4. John, younger Brother to James, and much the youngest of all the Apostles, Fisher-man and Partner with his Brother, and Disciple to the Baptist. These two were in some Degree related to our Saviour, and were by him firnam'd Boanerges, or the Sons of Thunder, upon the Account of their brave and resolute Tempers. 5. Philip, also an Inhabitant of Bethsaida, a Fisher-man, and marry'd, as is believ'd, who had the Honour of being first call'd by our Saviour. 6. Bartholomew, most probably the same with Nathanael formerly mention'd; Bar-Tholomeus signifying only the Son of Tholomeus, an Inhabitant of Cana in Galilee, and suppos'd to have had some Skill in the Jewish Law. 7. Matthew, call'd also Levi, Son to one Alpheus, a rich Publican of Capernaum, but said to have been born at Nazareth, the Place of our Lord's Education. 8. Thomas, call'd also Didymus, which in the Syriack signifies a Twin, a Galilean, of mean Parents, who, as is reported, brought him up to the Fishing-Trade. 9. James, commonly distinguish'd by the Name of James the Less, the Son of Alpheus or Cleophas and Mary, Cousin-German; if not Sister to the Blessed Virgin; upon which Account, according to the Jewish Custom, he is often call'd the Brother of our Lord. 10. Simon, distinguish'd from Simon-Peter, by the Title Cananite, from Cana the suppos'd Place of his Birth, and Zealot, from the Sect he was of. Whether he was that Simon, who was Brother to James the less, is very uncertain. 11. Jude, most commonly call'd Jude, and sometimes Thaddæus and Lebbeus, a marry'd Man, Brother to James the less, and Kinsman to our Lord. 12. Judas Iscariot, or a Man of Kerioth, an ancient Place in Judæa, of whom we have no other Account, but only his having the Title of Traytor given him.

Thus did our blessed Saviour begin as it were the Foundation of his Church, chusing Persons of the lowest Conditions to effect it, Persons who were mostly poor Fisher-men, honest and illiterate, ignorant of what they were to do, and chiefly expecting temporal Power and Advantages. Yet these Galileans, the most despis'd Part of the most despis'd Nation the Jews, were the Men design'd to reform the Errors of a proud and wicked World, to confound the Wisdom of the Learned, and to prevail against all the Powers of the Mighty. Certainly if human Wisdom had been to manage this Affair, it wou'd have taken contrary Measures, and chosen out the profoundest Rabbins, the acutest Philosophers, and the most charming Orators, who by the Powers of Reason and Arts of Eloquence might have triumph'd over the Minds of Men, grappl'd with the Stubborness of the Jews, and baffled the fine Notions and nice Speculations of the Greeks and Romans. But the Wisdom of God is infinitely beyond that of Man: And as our Saviour was pleas'd to make use of the meanest Instruments, so he also thought fit to chuse one whom he knew wou'd prove a Villain and a Traytor.

Traytor. Which not only shews, That the Efficacy of the Ministration depends not upon the Person, but the Institution; but also, That it is not to be expected that Christ's Church on Earth shou'd ever be in a better Condition, as to the Worthiness of its external Members, than when he first founded it himself.

Our Lord having chose his twelve Apostles, descended to the Plain and cured innumerable Diseases among the Multitudes, and cast out many Devils, giving Relief to all who touch'd him, by Means of an extraordinary Virtue that proceeded from him. And finding greater Throngs and a vaster Auditory than ever he had before, he thought fit to give the most eminent Marks of his Prophetick Office, and upon a Mountain in Galilee to deliver the Evangelical Law, as Moses had done the old upon a Mountain in the Wilderness; tho' St. Luke makes it uncertain whether it was upon a Mountain or in a Plain. This celebrated Discourse is however generally call'd the Sermon upon the Mount, beginning with pronouncing Blessings, as the most proper and comfortable Tenor of the Gospel, and to such Persons as the Jews and the World accounted miserable; as particularly, To the Poor and Humble-minded, who shou'd inherit the Kingdom of God: To the pious Mourners, who shou'd be comforted: To the Meek-spirited, who shou'd possess the Earth: To such as hunger'd and thirsted after Righteousness, who shou'd be satisfy'd: To the Kind and Merciful, who shou'd obtain Mercy: To the Pure-hearted, who shou'd see God: To the Peace-makers, who shou'd be named The Children of God: And lastly, to such as were persecuted upon the Account of Righteousness, who shou'd enjoy the Kingdom of Heaven. Adding a particular Blessing to his Disciples, when the World shou'd hate, revile, separate, persecute, and scandalize them for his Sake: That they ought to rejoyce to see that Time, and be ravish'd with Joy; for their Rewards shou'd be great in Heaven; and that the Prophets of old had met with the like Persecution. But Woes were denounc'd against the Rich, who had already receiv'd their Consolation: Against the Full, who shou'd find Want: Against the Scoffers, who shou'd mourn and weep: And against themselves, when the World spoke well of them; as it hapned to the false Prophets. For all his Followers were the very Salt and Seasoning of the Earth, and if that once became insipid, it was the most worthless Thing in Nature; and also the Light of the World, which shou'd be as conspicuous as a City on a Hill, and not to be lighted up and put under a Bushel, but on a Candlestick, that it might be visible to the whole House. Therefore their Lights ought so to shine before Men, that they might see their good Actions, and glorifie their Father in Heaven,

Christ's Sermon Upon the Mount.

Next he proceeded to condemn the wretched Glosses and Interpretations which the Jews had made on the moral Law, first solemnly declaring, That he came not to destroy, but to accomplish the Law in the utmost Extent; and that Heaven and Earth should sooner be dissolv'd, than one Tittle of the Law lose its Force. Therefore whoever violated the least moral Precept, and taught others the same Doctrine, shou'd be as little in the Esteem of Heaven; but whoever observ'd those Precepts, and taught them to others, shou'd be great in the Esteem of Heaven. And since the Scribes and Pharisees had introduc'd such Corruptions in the Law, except Mens Righteousness exceeded theirs, they should never enter the Kingdom of Heaven. Then proceeding to the Laws themselves, he expounded the true Meaning of several of them, which had been so corrupted by human Traditions, that they were not understood: As 1. The Law against Murther, which, as they said, made only the Actor liable to the Judgment of Death by the Sword. But he declar'd, That this Law prohibited all Degrees of unjust Anger, of which God's Punishment of the lowest was answerable to their ordinary Punishment of Murther: That of the second Degree, as calling a Man Raca, or Worthless Fellow, was answerable to the grand Sanhedrim's Judgment, Stoning: And the highest Degree, as pronouncing a Man Fool, or rather Reprobate, was answerable to their highest Punishment, the Fire in the Valley of Hinnom. Therefore whosoever brought his Offering to the Altar, and remember'd that he had injur'd any Man, ought to go immediately and be reconcil'd to him, before he presum'd to offer it: And this out of Policy as well as Piety: For else he wou'd be before God like a Bankrupt to his Creditor, who for Want of timely Composition with him, shou'd be deliver'd over to the Judge and his Officers, and so to Prison; from whence he shou'd never be freed, till he had compleatly discharg'd the Debt. 2. The Law against Adultery, which, as they thought, only prohibited the gross Act: But he declar'd, That whosoever gaz'd on a Woman with a lustful Desire, had actually committed Adultery with her before God. Therefore they ought to cut off all Occasions of Sin, and mortify the Lusts of the Flesh, tho' they were as dear to them as a right Eye, or a right Hand: For it was better to be depriv'd of those Enjoyments here, than to be depriv'd of all Enjoyments in Hell hereafter. Declaring farther, That tho' they thought it lawful to put away their Wives, only upon exhibiting a Bill of Divorcement; yet whoever did put away his Wife, except for the Cause of Whoredom, caus'd her to be an Adulteress, and the Person who marry'd her an Adulterer. 3. The Law against Perjury, which as they interpreted it, only prohibited false Swearing: But he declar'd, That it prohibited all common Swearing, not only by the Creator, but also the Creature; as by Heaven, by Earth, by Jerusalem, or by their own Head; for the first was God's Throne, the second his Footstool, the third his City, and the last that over which Man had no Power: Therefore in common Conversation they ought to use nothing but plain Affirmations and Denials; for whatsoever exceeded those, proceeded from civil Principles. 4. The Law for punishing Offenders with an Eye for an Eye, a Tooth for a Tooth, which, as they judg'd, allow'd all private and proportionable Revenge: But he commanded them to retaliate no private Injuries, and rather than revenge them, upon the receiving of one Blow, to take another; upon the Loss of their Coat, to give up their Cloak also; and upon their being press'd for one Mile, to go two; and such ordinary Injuries: Always shewing an extensive Charity and Readiness to help such as begg'd, and such as wou'd borrow, without exacting upon such as had receiv'd their Goods, and dealing with others as they expected from them. 5. The Law of loving our Neighbours, to which they had falsly added, That they should hate their Enemies: But he declar'd, That they ought to love their Enemies, to do good to, to bless and pray for, those very Persons who hated and persecuted them; that they might be the true Sons of the God of Heaven, who dispens'd his Blessings of Sun and Rain upon the Bad and Good, the Just and Unjust: But if they lov'd, befriended, and did good only to their Friends and Brethren, and such as would return their Kindnesses; What Virtue and Reputation was that? How did they exceed the Publicans and Sinners? Therefore in their Bounty and Goodness, they ought to imitate the diffusive Perfection of their Father in Heaven.

Our Lord having thus shewn the true Extent of several Precepts, proceeded to explain and press three great Duties; 1. Alms, which were not to be done in the Face of the World, like the hypocritical Pharisees, who proclaim'd theirs as it were with a Trumpet in the Synagogues and Streets, to gain the Applauses of the People; which was all the Reward they had: But if they expected a Reward from Heaven, their Alms must be so secret, that one Hand shou'd not know what was done by the other; and their Father the Seer of all Secrets, wou'd reward them publickly. 2. Prayer, in which they were to avoid the the Custom of the Pharisees, who affected to pray openly in the Synagogues and Corners of the Streets, to be gaz'd on by the People; which was all the Reward they had: But their Prayers ought to be in their Closets, and in private; and particularly free from the vain Repetitions of the Pagans, who imagin'd that a Multiplicity of Words caus'd them to be heard, but their Father knew their Necessities before they ask'd him; therefore they should pray after this Manner: "Our Father, which art in Heaven! Thy Name be sanctified: Thy Kingdom come: Thy Will be accomplish'd, on Earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this Day our necessary Bread: And forgive us our Trespases as we forgive our Trespasers. And lead us not into Temptation: But deliver us from Evil. For the Kingdom, and the Power, and the Glory are thine, for ever. Amen. As our Lord in this Form imitated the Jewish Form then in Use; so he intimates in the following Words, that forgiving of Trespases was the principal Part of the Prayer; namely, if they forgave Men their Trespases, their heavenly Father would forgive theirs; but if otherwise, they were to expect no Forgiveness. 3. Fasting, in which they were not to imitate the Pharisees, who with sower Countenances and disfigur'd Faces shew'd it to the World; which was all the Reward they had: But they should adorn their Heads and Faces, in such a Manner, as their Fasting might not appear to Men, but to their Father who saw all Secrets, and would reward them publickly.

Matth. 6.
19--34.

After these Duties, he dissuaded them from all covetous Inclinations, advising them, Not to heap up Treasure on Earth, which was liable to Corruption and Robbers, but an incorruptible Treasure in Heaven; for Mens Treasure would naturally draw their Hearts after it. And as the Eye was the Light and Director of the Body; so the Judgment was the Eye of the Soul; which if liberal, the whole wou'd be illuminated; if covetous, darkned, and that to the highest Degree. For they could not serve two contrary Masters, God and Riches also. Therefore they ought not to be solicitous either about their Food, or their Raiment; since it was easier to give Food than Life, and to procure Raiment than to produce a Body. As for Food, they might observe the Birds of the Air, who tho' they took no Pains for it, yet they receiv'd it from the Bounty of Heaven; and certainly They cou'd not want it, who were so much more valuable than the Birds; especially since they depended so much upon Providence, that they cou'd not add one Cubit to their Stature. And as for Raiment, they might consider the Lillies in the Field, which without any Labour, exceeded the Splendor and Glory of King Solomon himself. And if God thus cloath'd the momentary and fading Products of the Field; how much more the nobler Parts of his Creation? Therefore they ought not to be solicitous about the common Necessaries of this Life, which was the Pagans Concern; nor be anxious about the following Day, for the Trouble of one Day was sufficient. But since their heavenly Father sufficiently knew all their Wants, if they first sought the Kingdom of God, and his Righteousness, all other Blessings and Necessaries shou'd be given to them overplus.

Matth. 7.
Luke 6.
37--46.

After this he proceeded to several other Precepts and Instructions, as
1. To avoid all rash Censures and Judgments, and be ready to shew Acts of Kindness and Forgiveness; for they shou'd receive the same Measure which they gave, and that with great Addition. Therefore they shou'd beware of observing the small Faults of others, when they had greater themselves; nor cou'd they with any Countenance bid their Brother pull the Mote out of his Eye, when they had a Beam in their own. 2. Not to give holy Things to Dogs, nor cast Pearls before Swine, lest the latter trampled them under their Feet, and the Dogs turn'd again and worry'd them. 3. To be instant and fervent in Prayer; and then they shou'd not fail of Success from their heavenly Father. For no earthly Parents wou'd give their Children Stones instead of Bread,

nor Serpents instead of Fish; but tho' they were niggardly and base, knew how to give them good Things; much more their heavenly Father knew how to be bountiful to those who faithfully ask'd him. Therefore for the more Certainty of Success, they ought to do the same to others, as they desir'd others shou'd do to them; which was the Sum of the Law and the Prophets. 4. To strive to enter in at the strait Gate; for the Gate was wide, and the Way spacious, that led to Destruction, and great Numbers pass'd it; but the Gate was strait, and the Way narrow that lead to eternal Life, and small Numbers found it. 5. To beware of false Prophets, who were ravenous Wolves, tho' in Sheeps Cloaths; but their Fruits were the certain Way to discover them: For as Grapes and Figs were known not to proceed from Thorns and Thistles; so good Fruit could not proceed from a corrupt Tree, nor yet corrupt Fruit from a good Tree: But now every Tree that bore not good Fruit, should be hewn down and consum'd in the Fire. Therefore not every one who cry'd Lord, Lord, shou'd enter the Kingdom of Heaven, but such as rightly perform'd the Will of Heaven. For many in the last Day shou'd cry to him, Lord, Lord, have we not prophesy'd, ejected Devils, and wrought many Miracles in thy Name? But he wou'd declare to them, That he never knew them, but command them to depart from him, as Workers of Iniquity.

Then he concluded his admirable Sermon with this important Exhortation: Whoever hears these Discourses of mine, and practically observes them, shall be compar'd to a wise understanding Man, who laid a deep Foundation of his House upon a Rock; so that when great Rains, Floods and Storms beat violently upon it, it stood unmov'd; being so firmly founded: But every Hearer of these Discourses, who do's not practise them, shall be compar'd to an ignorant foolish Person, who without a Foundation built his House upon the Sand; so that when the Rains, Floods, and Storms came upon it, it immediately fell down, and the Fall of it was great and terrible. All this Sermon was deliver'd with such extraordinary Gravity and Majesty, that it caus'd the Amazement of the Multitudes: For, as St. Matthew observes, he taught them as one having Authority, and not as their usual Teachers, the Scribes. Matth. 7. 24--29. Luke 6. 47--49.

Jesus returns to Capernaum, and cures a Centurion's Servant.

Our Lord having given these wise and useful Instructions, return'd to his own City Capernaum, where was a Centurion, a Roman Officer and Captain of a hundred Men; who hearing of his Fame, sent some of the chief of the City to him, humbly begging of him, to come and cure his Servant, who was very dear to him, and just at the Point of Death with a Palsy. These were very urgent with him, representing not only the Danger of the Servant, but the Worth of the Master, who tho' a Gentile, and but a Profelyte of the Gate, had so lov'd the Jewish Nation, that he had built them a Synagogue. Whereupon Jesus repair'd with them towards the Place; and in his Way was met by more Friends from the Centurion, who with the profoundest Humility beg'd of him, not to give himself so much Trouble, for their Friend thought himself not worthy to receive him under his Roof, or so much as to meet him in Person; but if he pleas'd to speak the Word, he doubted not of its Power and Efficacy; since he himself, who was but a Subordinate Officer, and subject to the Commands of others, cou'd be exactly obey'd by those Soldiers under him, who were ready to come, go and run at his Command. Jesus was surpriz'd to find so much holy Confidence in a Pagan, and turning himself to his Followers, solemnly declared, That he had not found so strong a Faith among the Israelites themselves: Adding withal, That many should come from the farthest Part of the World, and have a Place in the Kingdom of Heaven with the Patriarchs Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob: While the Jews, the very Children of the Kingdom, should be excluded, and cast into the Place of the utmost Darkness, Outcries, and Despair. To this extraordinary Faith Jesus added the Cure, telling them, Luke 7. 1--10. Matth. 8. 5--13.

The next Day Jesus departed with his Disciples from Capernaum, and in his Journey enter'd Naim, a City of Galilee, not far from Nazareth, with great Multitudes after him. At his Arrival at the City Gate, he was met by a Funeral Affembly, with a dead Corps carry'd out upon a Bier, the only Son of a Widow, and surrounded by a numerous Attendance. The Sight of this poor afflicted Widow mov'd the Compassion of our Lord, who bad her cease her Tears, and touching the Bier, and pronouncing these Words, Young Man, I command thee to arise; the dead Person reviv'd, sat up, and spoke, and was deliver'd sound to his Mother. This was the first Person that our Saviour rais'd from the Dead; which was a Thing so wonderful and surprizing, that it caus'd a great Terror to the whole Multitude, who glorifying God, declar'd, That a mighty Prophet was sprung up among them, and that God had visited his People: And the Fame of it was spread throughout the whole Country of Judea, and the neighbouring Provinces.

III. Our Lord's Fame daily encreasing, and John Baptist in Machærus Castle being inform'd of his great Miracles, after five Months Imprisonment, he sent two of his Disciples to Jesus, enquiring of him, whether he was really the Messiah, or whether they were to expect another? Designing by this the full Confirmation of his Disciples Faith; and perhaps not without some Expectation of being himself freed by his miraculous Power. Our Lord, instead of giving a direct Answer to their Question, wrought many Miracles in their Prefence, and then order'd them to go and inform their Master what they had heard and seen; particularly, the Blind saw, the lame walked, the Lepers were cleans'd, the Deaf heard, the Dead were rais'd, and the Poor had the Gospel preach'd to them: Pronouncing a Blessing to all such as were not scandaliz'd at his mean Condition in this World.

His Answer,

Matth. 11.
7-30.
Luke 7.
24-35.

At the Departure of these Messengers, Jesus continu'd his Discourse concerning John to the Multitudes then present, demanding of them Why they in such Throngs went to the Desert? Was it to see some little Trifle; or to see a Man adorn'd with all the Marks of Splendor and Delicacy; or rather to see a Prophet? Adding withal, That he was more than a Prophet, being the very Person foretold by the Prophets; and there call'd the Messenger of God to prepare his Ways before him: Solemnly declaring, *That there had not been a greater Prophet born of a Woman than he; yet the meanest evangelical Minister, in respect of the Clearness and Perfection of the Doctrine, exceeded him. From the Beginning of his Preaching, the Kingdom of Heaven was press'd into, and as it were invaded by the ordinary Persons and Publicans, who receiv'd his Baptism; but the proud Scribes and Pharisees, who pretended most Right to the Kingdom, had reject'd his Baptism and the Counsel of God. All the Prophets and the Law did point out the Messiah till John; but he did it more illustriously, and was the very Elias, who was to come; therefore they ought to acknowledge him. And being deeply concern'd for the Blindness and Hardness of their Hearts, he compar'd them to those stubborn and perverse Children, who playing in the Market, wou'd not answer their Companions either when they pip'd merrily, or sung mournfully to them. For when John appear'd with great Austerities, they declar'd him Mad and Possess'd; but when he himself came with a more open and free Conversation, they pronounc'd him a Glutton and a Sot, and a Friend to Publicans and Villains: But the Wisdom of God wou'd be justify'd by her genuine Offspring. From thence he took Occasion to upbraid the Obstinacy and Impenitency of several Cities where he had wrought Miracles; particularly denouncing Woes against Chorazin and Bethsaida, more especially his proud City Capernaum,* and Discourse to the People upon that Occasion.

naum, which from its Exaltation to Heaven, shou'd be brought down to Hell; declaring, That if the Pagan Cities, Tyre and Sidon had seen the Miracles that were seen in Chorazin and Bethsaida, they wou'd have repented even in Sackcloth and Ashes: And if that abominable Place Sodom had seen the Miracles that were wrought in Capernaum, it wou'd have stood till that Day. Therefore in the dreadful Day of Judgment, it shou'd be more tolerable for Tyre and Sidon, and even for Sodom it self, than for those impenitent Cities. But since these Things were mysterious, he celebrated the Name of his Father, the Lord of Heaven and Earth; whose good Pleasure it was to conceal the Gospel-Salvation from the Worldly-Wise, and reveal it to unexperient'd Infants: Declaring, That the Father had deliver'd all Things into his Hands; who only knew the Son throughly: Nor cou'd any Man know the Father besides the Son, and he to whom the Son shou'd reveal him. Concluding his Discourse with these comfortable Expressions, Come to me, all you who labour under the Burthen of your Sins, and I will give you Rest: Take my Yoke upon you, and be taught by me, who am meek and humble spirited, and your Souls shall find Refreshment: For my Yoke is pleasant, and my Burthen light. Alluding, as some think, to his former Trade of making Yokes and Ploughs.

Upon finishing his Discourse, a certain Pharisee call'd Simon, out of Curiosity, desired him to dine with him, which was readily granted. At the Table; a Woman of infamous Life, call'd Mary Magdalene, out of whom he had ejected seven impure Spirits, came trembling behind him, and with a Flood of Tears wash'd his Feet, wiped them with the Hair of her Head, kissed them, and anointed them with a most precious Ointment. Which Familiarity was a great Offence to the Master of the House, who immediately concluded within himself, That if Jesus had been a Prophet, he wou'd have known her to have been a lewd Woman, and not have permitted her to touch him. But Jesus knowing his Thoughts, and to rectifie his mistaken Notions, propos'd to him an Example of a certain Creditor, who had two Debtors, one owing him ten times as much as the other; but finding them unable to pay, he frankly forgave both their Debts: Demanding of this Pharisee, Which of the two wou'd have the greatest Love for his Creditor? Simon answer'd him, He suppos'd the greatest Debtor. Which Answer being approv'd of by Jesus, he thus made the Application. At the Entrance into your House you gave me no Water for my Feet, nor no Kiss, nor no Oil for my Head, according to the Customs of Hospitality; but this Woman has exceeded even those Customs, us'd her Tears instead of Water, bestow'd her Kiss upon my very Feet, and anointed them with rich Odors: Therefore her Love was great, because her Sins that were forgiven her were great also; but of those who were less conscious of their Sins, the Love wou'd be proportionable. Upon which he made this noble Declaration to her, That her Sins were forgiven her. The Guests at the Table were inwardly offended at his pretending to forgive Sins; but our Lord contemning the private Murmurings of this proud Generation, bad the Woman depart in Peace, for her Faith had sav'd her. It is very uncertain where this was transacted, whether in Galilee or Judaea: Lightfoot thinks in the latter, and at Bethany near Jerusalem: However we find him not long after in Galilee, going through every City and Village, preaching the joyful Tidings of the Kingdom of God, being accompany'd not only with his twelve Apostles, but also with many pious Women, particularly Mary Magdalene, and Joanna, Wife to King Herod's Steward Chuza, with Susanna, and many others; who having been cured of several Diseases, out of Gratitude attended him, assisted him with their Purfes, and became part of his holy College.

Mark 3.

After a few Months Progress, our Lord return'd again to his own City Caper-naum, where in a short Time such Multitudes of People repaired to him, that neither he nor his Disciples cou'd find Time to eat; which, when his Kindred heard, they went to rescue him, fearing he might be too much transported by his Ministry, and endanger'd by the Throng. At the same time he was presented with a miserable Spectacle, a poor Demoniack, de-priv'd both of his Speech and Eye-Sight; but by his miraculous Power he soon restor'd him to both, to the great Astonishment of all the People, who immediately cry'd out, Is not this the Son of David, or the Messiah? But the proud Pharisees and Doctors of the Law, who came from Jerusalem, rather than acknowledge this Honour, most maliciously and impiously ascrib'd the Miracle to the Power of the Devil, and even to Beelzebub the worst of the Devils. Therefore our Lord, to vindicate himself, first urg'd, That as every Kingdom, City or House must fall to the Ground, if it be divided against it self; so must Satan's Kingdom, if it was so far divided, as to lend Assistance against it self, and one Devil to cast out another. Secondly, If he ejected Devils by Beelzebub, by whom did their own Exorcists pretend to do it? Therefore they were sufficient to condemn their ungrounded Malice. But thirdly, Since he did it by a Divine Power, it was evident that the Kingdom of God or the Messiah was come among them: Or else how cou'd Satan be thus master'd and pillaged, but by one stronger than himself? And that he was an Enemy to Satan, their own Proverb testify'd, viz. He who was not for a Man was against him. After this, he shew'd them the fatal Danger of their Malice, solemnly declaring, That all other Sins and Blasphemies were of a pardonable Nature, but the Blasphemy against the Holy-Ghost was otherwise. That the Calumnies and Reflections that were made against his Person, were pardonable upon Repentance; but their blaspheming the Holy Ghost, the clear Light of that Power by which he wrought his Miracles, shou'd never be pardon'd, neither in this World, nor by Death it self; which, as they imagin'd, atton'd for all Blasphemies. But since every good or bad Tree was known by its Fruit, it was not to be expected that such a venomous Generation shou'd utter any Thing that was good; for what Men spoke proceeded from the Plenitude or Repository of the Heart; and as that Treasure was good or evil, so were their Words. Declaring farther, That Men shou'd give an Account at the Day of Judgment, for every evil Word they spoke; and that their Words shou'd either clear or condemn them.

Luke 8.

Notwithstanding the Scribes and Pharisees had sufficient Means of Conviction from our Saviour's Miracles; yet after this they impudently demanded of him some new Sign or Miracle to evidence his Mission. But Jesus pronounc'd them *an impious and illegitimate Generation, and they shou'd have no Sign for their Conviction, but only one for their Condemnation; namely that of Jonas, whose Deliverance from the Whale's Belly, after three Days Confinement, was an eminent Type of his Resurrection, after as long a Continuance in the Bowels of the Earth. And the Inhabitants of Nineveh, a Pagan City, and also the Queen of Sheba, shou'd rise up in Judgment against this Generation, and condemn it; for the former repented at the Preaching of Jonas, and the latter took a vast Journey to partake of the Benefit of Solomon's Wisdom; but they refus'd to hearken to one far greater than either Jonas or Solomon. Therefore it shou'd be with these impious People, as with a Man dispossest of an impure Demon, who having been cleans'd and reform'd, receives him again with seven other Spirits more wicked than the first, and so makes his Condition more wretched and deplorable than ever: Intimating and foretelling the dreadful Apostacies, as well as Corruptions of the Jewish Nation. In these Discourses he was interrupted by some who told him, *That his Mother and his Kindred were without, desiring to speak with him; but he being dissatisfy'd with their unseasonable Pressing, to shew that those Relations were less than the Types of Duty and Religion, first ask'd, Who were his Mother and his Kindred? And then pointing to his Disciples, he declar'd, That they were his truest Relations, who heard the Word of God and practis'd it.

The same Day our Lord left the House, and for the greater Conveniency repaired to the Sea-Shore; where being follow'd by the same Multitudes, to avoid the Throngs he enter'd a Vessel, and taught them from thence. His Preaching was now different from his former Way, yet very usual among the Jewish Nation, which was by way of Parables or obscure Similitudes, under which were hid mysterious Truths, bright enough to shew the Peoples Infidelity, tho' not to dispel their Egyptian Darkneis, which they had contracted by their habitual Obstinacy. 1. The Kingdom of Heaven was like a

This Parabolical Sermon,

Sower of Corn, who scattering his Seed on several Sorts of Grounds, That which fell on the Path-way, was devour'd by the Birds: That which fell among stony Places, for want of Mould and Depth of Earth sprung up suddenly, and upon the Sun's Approach was scorched and wither'd away: That which fell among Thorns, was stifled by them; and that which fell upon good Ground, brought forth Fruit in Abundance, according to its Nature. 2. The Kingdom of Heaven was like a Man who sowed good Seed in his Field, but afterwards discover'd it to be mix'd with Tares, or Darnel, which his Enemy had sown in the Night; and tho' his Servants when they saw it desired to weed it up, yet he wou'd not permit it, lest the Corn shou'd be endanger'd by it, but order'd that both shou'd grow up together till Harvest; and then the Reapers shou'd bind the Darnel in Bundles to be burnt, and gather the Wheat into his Barn. 3. The Kingdom of Heaven was like a Grain of Mustard Seed sown in a Field, which was the smallest of all Seeds, yet when grown up, it was the largest of Herbs; and became a Tree sufficient for the Birds of the Air to lodge in its Branches. 4. The Kingdom of Heaven was like a little Leaven, which being put into a large Quantity of Meal, it leaven'd the whole Mass. These and many other Things did our Lord deliver to the Multitude, exciting their Attention, all in Parables, and nothing without; accomplishing, as St. Matthew observes, the Words of the Psalmist; "I will open my Mouth in " Parables, and publish Secrets which were so from the Creation of the " World.

Upon our Lord's Retirement from the Multitudes, his Disciples desir'd to be inform'd why he deliver'd himself to the People in Parables, and Similitudes: He told them, That to them it was given to know the Mysteries of Heaven, but it was not to those obstinate People; for whosoever improv'd what he had, shou'd receive in abundance; but he who did not so, shou'd lose all. Therefore he spoke to them in obscure Parables, because they saw and did not perceive, heard and wou'd not understand; therein verifying Isaiah's Words, " You shall hear with your Ears and not understand, and see with your Eyes " and not perceive: For the Hearts of this People are grown stupid, their Ears " deafned, and their Eyes clos'd; lest their Eyes shou'd direct them, their " Earsteach them, their Hearts instruct them, and convert them, and I shou'd " heal them. But Their Eyes and Ears were blessed, for They both saw and heard; and had the Happiness of hearing and seeing what many great Prophets and holy Men earnestly long'd for without obtaining. Then he thus explain'd to them the Parable of the Sower: The Seed is the Word of God, and that which fell on the Path-way, relates to him who hears the Word, but for want of due Attention, Satan comes and catches what was sown in his Heart. That which fell among stony Places, relates to him who hears the Word, and immediately receives it with Joy; but for want of Root, continues but for a Time, being discourag'd by the first Afflictions and Persecutions that arise upon its Account. That sown among Thorns relates to him, who after hearing the Word,

Word, is incumber'd with the Cares and Pleasures of the World, and the Deceitfulness of Riches, which stifle it, and render it fruitless. But that sown in good Ground relates to him who hears the Word with Patience, and with an honest and good Heart, producing Fruit according to the utmost of his Abilities. It is not usual, added he, for People to light up a Candle and put it under a Bushel, but in a Place where it is most beneficial; so no advantageous Secret shou'd lie hid, but shou'd come abroad, and be made manifest. They ought therefore to take care how and what they heard; for the Improver shou'd receive great Advantage, but the other lose all. And it was in the Kingdom of Heaven just as with a Man, who having once sown his Seed, it grew up gradually he knew not how; first the Blade, then the Ear, and then the full Corn, till it was fit for the Sickle.

Upon this, his Disciples also desir'd him to explain to them the Parable of the Darnel in the Field, which he did in these Words: The Sower of the good Seed is the Son of God, the Field is the World, the good Seed the Children of the Kingdom, the Darnel the Children of Darkuess, the Enemy sowing it the Devil, the Harvest the End of the World, and the Reapers the Angels. Therefore as the Darnel is gather'd up, and burnt in the Fire; so at the End of the World shall the Son of God send his Angels, and gather out all wicked Offenders, and cast them into a fiery Furnace of Lamentations and Despair: While the Righteous shall be glorious as the Sun in the Kingdom of their Father. After this he added three other Parables, 1. The Kingdom of Heaven was like a vast Treasure hid in a Field, which being found by a Man, he conceal'd it, and for Joy of the Discovery, sold all he was worth, to purchase that Field. 2. It was like a Merchant trading for rich Pearls, who finding one of extraordinary Value, sold all his other Stock, and bought that. 3. It was like a remarkable Net catching all kinds of Fish; which being full, and drawn ashore, the good were gather'd into Vessels, and the bad cast away. Just so it shou'd be at the End of the World, when the Angels shou'd come forth, and separate the Wicked from among the Just, and cast them into a fiery Furnace of Lamentations and Despair. Last of all he ask'd them, Whether they understood all these Things; and upon their answering in the Affirmative, he told them, That every Gospel-Teacher ought to resemble a well-furnish'd House-Keeper, who brings all things out of his Repository, both old and new, according to the Occasions of his Guests.

IV. Our Blessed Saviour continu'd but a short Time in Capernaum, before he resolv'd to cross the Lake, or Sea of Galilee, into the Dominions of Philip the Tetrarch, and order'd his Disciples to prepare a Vessel accordingly, it being now about Michaelmas time. As he was ready to take Shipping, a certain Scribe, hoping to gain some great Advantage or Reputation, came to him, and told him, That he was ready to follow him whithersoever he went. But Jesus soon gave him a Check, by letting him know, That he was to expect no temporal Profit from him, who wanted even the Conveniences of Foxes and Birds, who had their Holes and their Nests, while he had no Place to lay his Head. But tho' he rejected the proud Scribe, he treated one of his Disciples after another Manner, commanding him to follow him; but this Disciple desiring Leave to bury a dead Father first, he made answer, Let the Dead, those who seek no Immortality, bury their Dead; but do you go and preach the Kingdom of God. To these St. Luke adds a third Person, who being desirous to follow Christ, begg'd to go and bid them first Adieu that were of his Family, and dispose of his Goods; but Jesus let him know, That whosoever laid his Hand to the Plough, and look'd back, was unfit for the Kingdom of God. Intimating, that as a Plough-man cannot look back without damaging his Work; so a Follower of Christ cannot look back without hazarding his Salvation.

His Answer to a Scribe, and two others who were to follow him.

*He takes Shipping, and assu-

About the Evening Jesus embark'd for the other Shore, with his Disciples; who had sent away the Multitudes; but there being several other small Ships in the Port; part of them made use of them, and accompany'd him.
Being under Sail; and weary'd with his Day's Service, or to try the Faith of his Disciples, he retired himself to the Stern of the Ship, and fell asleep. At which Time there arose a most terrible Storm, so violent and impetuous, that the whole Ship was almost swallow'd with the Waves, and the Men in the most imminent Danger. Whereupon his Disciples in a great Consternation awoke him, and with a dismal Outcry call'd, Lord, save us, or we perish! Then blaming them for their Fears, and the Weakness of their Faith, he arose, and rebuk'd the Storm, and commanded the Waters to be still.
Immediately the Elements obey'd the Words of their Creator, and there was a great Calm, and no less Wonder and reverential Dread among his Disciples, and those in the other Ships, who were Partakers both of the Danger and Deliverance. And this being the first Miracle they had seen of this Kind, and having something in it very surprizing and astonishing, they cry'd out, What sort of Man is this, to whom the very Winds and Seas are obedient!

Philip's Dominions, and the Province of Traconitis, in that Part of it call'd the Country of the Gadarenes or Gergesenes, the Relicts of one of the old Canaanitish Nations; a Country inhabited partly by Jews and partly by Gentiles.
Upon his first Arrival, two possess'd Men grievously distracted, with some poor Rags about them, came running towards him, and fell at his Feet and adored him. Both were hideous Spectacles, but one much fiercer than the other, being only remember'd by St. Mark and St. Luke, who Day and Night made dismal Outcries, and cut his Flesh with sharp Stones; and tho' he had often been loaden with Fetters and Chains, he as often broke them in Pieces, ranging with his Companion among the Rocks and Tombs, and so furious and outrageous, that no Traveller durst pass that Way. Upon their Approach to Jesus, the Devils who spoke by their Mouths, cry'd out, That he was the Son of the most high God, fearing that he came to torment them before their Time. Our Lord ask'd the most furious Man, what was his Name; who answer'd him Legion, because such a Multitude of Devils had possess'd him: And since it is one of the greatest Torments for these infernal Spirits to be restrain'd from doing Mischief to Men, they earnestly im-plor'd him, if he cast them out of the possess'd Persons, not to send them into the Abyss, but to permit them to enter into an Herd of Swine feeding upon the Mountains not far off, probably for the Use of the Roman Garrisons and Foreigners. Jesus, partly to shew his own Authority and the Greatness of the Deliverance, and partly to try the Faith of the Gadarenes, and perhaps to punish the Owners for their Contempt of the Law, readily permitted them to enter the Swine, which was accompany'd with surprizing Effects; for the whole Herd ran furiously upon the Rocks, and cast themselves head-long into the Lake, where no less than two thousand were drowned and utterly lost. The Devils immediately betray'd their malicious Designs of preventing the Gadarenes Conversion: For the Keepers of the Swine immediately fled, and in a great Fright reported this strange Accident in the City Gadara, and the neighbouring Places; which brought great Multitudes to the Place, where they found the Man who was freed from the Legion of Devils, sitting at the Feet of Jesus, cloath'd, and perfectly sound in Mind, to their great Fear and Amazement. And the whole City of Gadara, which consisted of Jews, Greeks and Syrians, went out to meet Jesus, looking upon him with a strange kind of Terror: For tho' they had a great Veneration for him who had so much Power over the Devils, yet they fear'd the Man

Man who had driven their Swine into the Sea; and therefore, either thinking themselves unworthy of his Presence, or fearing farther Damages, they besought him to depart out of their Country. The Man who had receiv'd the greatest Deliverance was so sensible of the great Mercy of God, that he begg'd of Jesus to suffer him to go along with him; but he order'd him to return to his House and his Friends, and to declare and publish what wonderful Things the Lord had done for him; which he did in many Places to the Wonder of all Men. By following Christ, he wou'd only have benefitted himself; but by publishing this Miracle to others, he might be a Means to cause them to believe in the Messiah.

Our Lord embarking again, cross'd the Lake, and return'd to his own City Capernaum, where the People were ready to receive him with great Joy and Satisfaction. And at the same Time, or shortly after, his Apostle Matthew made a great Feast for him; and among the Disciples were also many of his former Profession, Publicans, and several others of no strict Life and Manners. The Sight of which mix'd Company was a great Offence to the nice Scribes and Pharisees, who murmur'd extremely, and demanded of the Disciples, Why their Master wou'd offer to eat and drink with such scandalous Persons as Publicans and known Sinners? But Jesus soon let them know, That as the Healthful needed no Physician, so he came not to assist such, but Sinners who needed his Help: Therefore they ought to learn the Meaning of Hosea's Words, I chuse Mercy before Sacrifice, and they wou'd soon know that Charity towards Mens Souls was preferable to Sacrifice and Ceremonies. Being silenc'd by these Words, they join'd with some of John's Disciples then present, and maliciously demanded of him, Why his Disciples observ'd no Fasts, when they themselves and the Disciples of John observ'd many? Whereupon our Lord told them, That it was not to be expected that the special Friends of the Bridegroom shou'd fast and afflict themselves, while they had his Company; but the Time shou'd come when the Bridegroom shou'd be remov'd, and then they shou'd have Reason to fast and mourn. Besides it wou'd be as preposterous to impose rigorous Austerities upon his Disciples, who were but Novices in Religion, as to sew a new piece of rough Cloth upon a rotten Garment, which tears it in pieces; or to put new Wine into old Wine-Bags, which breaks the Bags and destroys the Liquor. Adding farther, That such as had been long us'd to old Wine, cou'd not be immediately brought to drink new.

Matthew's Feast, and Jesus's Discourse upon it.

This Discourse and Apology of our Lord's was interrupted by the coming in of Jairus, the chief Ruler of the Synagogue, who with the greatest Marks of Sorrow fell prostrate at his Feet, humbly begging of him to come to his House and lay his Hands upon an only Daughter of his, about twelve Years of Age, and just ready to expire; but his Presence wou'd certainly recover her. Jesus being ready to assist all Believers and afflicted Persons, without Delay follow'd him, being accompany'd with his Disciples, and great Throngs of People, who press'd forwards to be Spectators of the Cure: Among whom was a certain Woman who was tormented with an unnatural Flux of Blood for twelve Years together, and had spent her whole Estate upon Physicians, but without any Relief; yet so strong and noble was her Faith, that she was certain of a Cure if she cou'd get to touch but the Hem of his Garment: Which she did, and found her self perfectly sound. Jesus, to whom Secrecy it self was open and known, immediately turn'd himself about in the Throng, and demanded who touch'd him? On the other side Peter admir'd at this Question, when he was press'd and crowded by the Multitudes; but Jesus persisted in the Enquiry, declaring, That some one had touch'd him, because he perceiv'd Virtue was gone out of him, till the Woman with great Fear and Trembling, because it was unlawful lawful for unclean Persons to touch others, discover'd before the People both the Cause and miraculous Effects of her touching him. But our Lord was so far from rebuking her that he call'd her Daughter, applauded her Faith, and attributed her Cure to the Strength of that. St. Ambrose supposes this Woman to have been Martha, Sister to Lazarus; but Eusebius reports her to have been an Inhabitant of Cesaræa Philippi, who out of Gratitude erected a brazen Statue of our Lord before her Door, and another of her own prostrate at his Feet: But this and the rest of the Story has been often doubted.

During this Action, the Delay prov'd fatal to Jairus, as he imagin'd; for a Message was brought to him, That his Daughter was really dead, and it was in vain to trouble Jesus any farther; conceiving, that tho' he cou'd cure Diseases, yet none cou'd recover Life. But Jesus still bad Jairus fear nothing, if he did but believe, she shou'd be restor'd: And approaching the House, they found the Musicians and Mourners already come, who were deploring her Death with mournful Tunes and loud Lamentations, according to the Custom of those Times. Jesus desired them to cease their funeral Ceremonies, for the Girl was not dead, but only asleep; but they derided him, knowing she was dead, and not knowing, that with him there was no Difference between Death and a common Sleep. Then chusing only Peter, James and John, a Triumvirate which he generally us'd upon extraordinary Occasions; and taking also the Girl's Father and Mother, he dismiss'd the rest of the Company, and enter'd the Chamber where the Corps lay. And taking her by the Hand, he commanded her to arise; by which powerful Words he restor'd her to Life, and she immediately rose up, and walk'd about the Room, to the exceeding Amazement of her Parents, whom he order'd to give her something to eat. This was the second Person whom our Lord rais'd from the Dead; which still encreas'd his Fame throughout all the Land: Yet at the same Time he wrought it in Secret, and strictly commanded the Silence of her Parents; and this either because Capernaum had so much forfeited the Benefit of his Revelations, or because he wou'd not too much hasten the Effects of the incurable Malice of the Scribes and Pharisees.

Jesus cures two blind Men,

Our Lord returning from the House of Jairus, was follow'd in the Streets by two poor blind Men, who cry'd after him, O Son of David, have Mercy on us! a true Acknowledgment of his Person. Jesus seem'd to take no Notice of them till he enter'd his House; but the Men following him thither, because of the great Infidelity of the City, he first demanded of them, Whether they believ'd he was able to restore their Sight? Upon their answering in the Affirmative, and calling him Lord, he touch'd their Eyes, saying, Be it according to your Faith; and their Eyes were immediately open'd. And tho' he strictly charg'd them to conceal the Miracle, yet these overjoy'd Persons cou'd not contain themselves from spreading it in all Parts. After the blind Men were gone, the People brought to him a dumb Man possess'd with a Demon; which being cast out by our Lord, the Person immediately recover'd his Speech, to the great Astonishment of the Multitudes, who cry'd out, such Things were never seen in Israel! But the Pharisees, persisting in their old Malice and unpardonable Blasphemy, declar'd as formerly, That he ejected Devils by the Help of Beelzebub their Prince.

He goes a second Time to Nazareth.

Our Lord having made no long Stay in Capernaum, departed with his Disciples to some other Places in Galilee; and tho' about a Year before, he had been impiously and barbarously treated by his own City Nazareth, yet he thought fit to offer them Mercy once again. And on a Sabbath Day he enter'd their Synagogue, and taught the Inhabitants; who tho' they were all all astonish'd at his Abilities, were yet scandaliz'd at his Person, crying out, From whence has this Man these extraordinary Faculties, and these wonderful Endowments? Is not this the Carpenter, the Son of Joseph and Mary, the Kinsman of James and Joses, Simon and Jude? And do we not know all his Kindred and Relations? Then how comes he by such Wisdom and Knowledge? And they were exceedingly offended at him. But Jesus inform'd them, That <sup>Where he is slighted.</sup> a Prophet never wanted Honour, but in his own Country, among his own Kindred, and in his own House. And being surpriz'd and deeply concern'd for their great Infidelity, he refus'd to work any Miracle there, but only the Cure of a few sick Persons, leaving them to the Judgment of their impenitent Hearts.

This concluded the second Year of our Saviour's publick Ministry; in which Year the City of Rome suffer'd much from the wicked Policy of the Emperor Tiberius, and the subtle Designs of his great Favourite Sejanus. The Emperor had formerly been freed from his suppos'd Rival Germanicus, and in the Year when he sent Pilate into Judæa, by the crafty Insinuations of Sejanus, he retir'd wholly from Rome, and abandon'd himself to all the Mischiefs that attend Jealousie and Cruelty, as well as Lust and Debauchery; which occasion'd Sejanus to attempt both his Life and Empire; but he was prevented and punish'd with the Death of himself and Family, in the same <sup>Sejanus executed, and the Jews said.</sup> Year of which we are treating. His Death rather encreas'd the Emperor's jealous Temper; but as Philo observes, he soon understood that the Crimes which Sejanus had laid to the Jews Charge, were feign'd by himself; and therefore he commanded the Governors of all Provinces, that in every Town they shou'd spare that Nation, except a very few who were guilty of enormous Crimes; and that they shou'd alter none of their Customs, but shou'd look upon those People as Lovers of Peace, and their Customs as conducing to the publick Tranquility. So that the Jews were generally unmolested in this Emperor's latter Days; and Tacitus observes that in Judæa they had a long Peace under Tiberius; that is, they had no such publick Seditions, as cou'd give any great Disturbance to the Roman State. Which we ought to consider as one great Reason, and a fair Solution of that Question, why among the Roman Writers there is so remarkable a Silence of our Saviour's Actions: For they scarce ever publish'd any Thing of Foreign Countries, but where they themselves were concern'd, or where it tended to their particular Honour and Fame.

The third Year of Christ's publick Ministry.

<sup>Math. 9. 35-38. Mark 6. 6.</sup> V. The Beginning of our Saviour's third Year of his publick Ministry was with a general Visitation of Galilee, and his repairing to most of the Cities and Villages of that Province; teaching in the publick Synagogues, preaching the Gospel, and curing all kinds of Diseases and Distempers among the People. But at length observing the numerous Multitudes and Throngs of People he was mov'd with a generous Pity and Compassion towards them, as being like so many Sheep languishing and dispers'd for want of Shepherds to take Care of them. Upon which Account he sorrowfully told his Disciples, That there was a plentiful Gospel-Harvest, but a Scarcity of Reapers: Therefore they shou'd beg of the Lord of the Harvest, to send Reapers into his Field.

<sup>Math. 10. 1-11. Mark 6. 7-11. Luke 9. 1-5.</sup> For this Reason our Lord thought fit to send forth his twelve Apostles, to preach the Gospel, and to work Miracles like himself, after they had been a considerable Time Learners and Hearers, and about eight Months after their solemn Election. He sent them out by Two and Two together, <sup>The Mission of the twelve Apostles, and Instructions to them.</sup> and and probably as St. Matthew joins them; namely, Peter and his Brother Andrew, James and his Brother John, Philip and Bartholomew, Thomas and Matthew, James and his Brother Jude, and Simon and Judas Iscariot. And that they might especially depend upon his Protection, he commanded them Not to incumber themselves in their Journey with any Kind of Money or Provision-Bags, nor with Multiplicity of Cloaths, Shoes or Staves for Defence; for as they deserv'd, so they might expect a Subsistence from those to whom they preach'd. Next they shou'd preach "That the Kingdom of Heaven or the Messiah was at hand; to which they were to add all Kinds of Miracles, as curing the Sick, cleansing the Lepers, raising the Dead, and ejecting Devils; dispensing those Gifts as freely as they receiv'd them: But still they were to avoid going either to the Gentiles or Samaritans. That in whatsoever City or Town they enter'd, they shou'd enquire after the most worthy Person, and to avoid Levity, continue there till they left the Place. And in every House they enter'd, they shou'd offer Peace to it by the Gospel; which if qualify'd, shou'd receive the Blessing; but if otherwise, it shou'd return to them again. If any refus'd to hearken to them, and rejected them, they at their Departure shou'd shake off the Dust of their Feet, for a Testimony against their Infidelity; solemnly assuring them, That it shou'd be more tolerable for the Inhabitants of Sodom and Gomorrah in the Day of Judgment, than for that People.

Our Lord next proceeded to let them know the Consequences of their Ministry, especially after his leaving the World, That they were not to expect Honours, Riches or temporal Advantages; but on the contrary, were sent into the World like Sheep amidst ravenous Wolves; which ought to teach them the Waryness of Serpents, as well as Innocence of Doves: For they shou'd be deliver'd up to the Jewish Consistories, scourg'd in their Synagogues, and afterwards brought before foreign Governors and Potentates for his Sake, to be Witnesses to both Jew and Gentile. That when they were thus deliver'd up, they shou'd not be solicitous about what Answer to make; for in the same Moment their Answer shou'd be given them from above, and by the Impulse of their Father's Spirit within them. That they shou'd be hated by all Men for his Sake; and such Heats shou'd be rais'd, that Fathers and Children, and Brothers and Relations, shou'd persecute each other to Death; but such as persever'd to the last, shou'd escape. Next he advis'd them in these Times of Persecution, to fly from one City to another; and that the Son of Man shou'd come to bring Vengeance upon the Nation, before they had gone through all the Cities of Israel. And since the Jews had blasphemously call'd him Beelzebub, it was not to be expected that his Disciples, who were not above their Master, shou'd meet with a better Treatment. Therefore they ought to be courageous, and fearlessly bring the Secret Truths of the Gospel to Light, and proclaim them as it were from the House Tops: Not regarding them who cou'd kill the Body, and not the Soul; but only him who was able to destroy both Body and Soul in the eternal Flames of Hell. That God's Providence extended to the Sparrows, which were so small a Price, and to the very Hairs of their Heads; and therefore certainly much rather to them, who were more valuable than a Multitude of Sparrows: Therefore whosoever shou'd acknowledge him before Men, he wou'd acknowledge that Person before his Father in Heaven; but whosoever deny'd him before Men, shou'd meet with the same Treatment from Heaven. Then he let them understand, That the first Effects of his Doctrine wou'd not be Peace, but War; causing such Marks of Distinction, as wou'd set Fathers and Sons, Mothers and Daughters, and nearest Relations at Variance. For he who lov'd either Father or Mother, Brother or Sister, more than him, or refus'd even the Cross it self, when his Gospel requir'd it, was unworthy of his Favour: And he who sought his Life in this Case, shou'd utterly lose it; and he who lost it, for his Sake, shou'd eternally find it. Lastly, for an Encouragement to them, he inform'd them, That whosoever receiv'd them, receiv'd both Him and his Father who sent him; and whosoever receiv'd a Prophet in the Name of a Prophet, and out of Regard to his Office, shou'd be Partaker of the Prophet's Reward; and so likewise of a righteous Man. And farther, whosoever shou'd only give a Cup of cold Water to the least of his Disciples, for his Master's Sake, that Person shou'd in no wise miss of his Reward.

Luke 9. 6. Our Lord having thus given Commission to his Apostles, continu'd the Course of his Preaching and Ministry in Galilee: At the same Time, according to Order, the Apostles went into all Parts of Palestine inhabited by the Jews, which their Master call'd the lost Sheep of the House of Israel, Preaching the Gospel, and the Doctrine of Repentance as a Part of it, and working Miracles for its Confirmation. And in their miraculous Cures, St. Mark informs us that they us'd the outward Rite or Ceremony of Anointing with Oil, which seem'd to have been implicitly included in that Part of their Commission, Heal the sick. And this being a Symbol of that miraculous Power, as the greatest Criticks believe, St. James, Chap. 5. 14. expressly enjoin'd the Use of this Ceremony to be continu'd in the Church, as long as this extraordinary Gift of Healing shou'd continue. Their Journey and Preaching.

Mark 6.
21--29. A few Weeks after the Apostles Departure from our Lord, King Herod on his Birth-Day made a splendid Entertainment for the Lords and chief Officers of his Dominions, at the strong Castle of Macherus beyond Jordan; which produc'd the last and fatal Scene of John Baptist's Life, who had been Prisoner above a Year in the same Castle. At this Feast Herod was infinitely pleas'd with the Dancing of a young Lady, Daughter to his illegal Wife Herodias; and in the Heat of his Mirth and Jollity, promis'd with the Addition of an Oath, to grant her whatsoever she demanded, tho' it amounted to half of his Dominions. Unwilling to lose so fair an Opportunity, she immediately consulted with her Mother what Favour to ask; who being prompted by the Height of Malice and Revenge, nam'd the Head of John Baptist to be brought in in a Charger: Which in all Haste was demanded of the King, in the Presence of the whole Company. This strange Request at first caus'd an exceeding Damp upon the King's Spirits; but recovering himself, out of a pretended Reverence to his Oath, and Respect to his Nobility then present, he sent an Executioner, who beheaded the holy Man, and brought his Head in a Charger to the young Lady, who deliver'd it to her Mother, to glut her Eyes with the Sight of it: A Cruelty unknown among the Barbarities of the worst of People, to mingle Banquetings with human Blood, and Mirth and Pleasure with the hideous Sight of Death. Thus dy'd the great Fore-runner of our Blessed Saviour, about two Years and three Months after his Entrance upon his publick Ministry, being about 35 Years of Age and eight Months, and the first that suffer'd upon the Account of the Gospel, tho' seldom call'd the first Martyr. Josephus himself gives him the Character " of a Man endu'd with all Virtue, who exhorted the Jews to the Practice of Justice towards Men, and Piety towards God; and also to " Baptism, which wou'd become acceptable to God, if they renounc'd " their Sins, and to the Cleanness of their Bodies added the Purity of " their Souls. Some of his Courtiers believ'd it was Elias, or some other of the ancient Prophets come to visit the Nation; but Herod's guilty Conscience, notwithstanding his Sadducaical Principles, made him with some others suspect that it was John himself risen from the Dead; fearing perhaps that he wou'd now revenge his Blood upon him. Herod's Fears.

The Apostles Return.

About the same Time our Lord's Apostles return'd from their several Journies, and gave him an Account of all their Actions and Sermons; and Jesus hearing of John's Murther by his Disciples who bury'd the Body, and well knowing the Subtilty and Cruelty of Herod, order'd the Apostles to prepare a Vessel, and to cross the Sea of Galilee with him to a Desert near Bethsaida, where they might retire and rest themselves for a while; for the Multitudes were so numerous and pressing, that they had no Leisure so much as to eat. To this private Place Jesus was follow'd by great Numbers, many of whom ran after him on Foot by the Lake-Side from the Place where he took Shipping. Seeing their Zeal and Earnestness, he receiv'd them with a generous Compassion, like so many Sheep without a Shepherd; and ascending a Mountain with his Apostles, he taught them many Things concerning the Kingdom of God, and cured all their Sick.

Towards the Evening his Apostles desired him, since they were in a Place destitute of all Provisions, to dismiss the Multitudes, that they might furnish themselves in the neighbouring Towns and Villages. But Jesus told them, That the People needed not to depart, for they might provide them one Meal;

and viewing their Numbers, he ask'd Philip, who well knew the Country, Where they shou'd buy Bread for all the Company? Philip considering the Number of the Guests more than his hospitable Master's Power, betray'd the Weakness of his Faith, and told him, That six Pounds worth of Bread was not sufficient for every Person to take a little. Upon this our Lord enquired what Bread they had among them, and was answer'd by Andrew, That there was a young Man who had five Barly Loaves, and two small Fishes; a most inconsiderable Quantity for such a Multitude. But Jesus forthwith order'd them to be brought to him, commanding his Disciples to cause all the People to sit down upon the Grass, in distinct Companies, by Hundreds and Fifties in Ranks. Being plac'd in this Order, to the Number of five thousand Men, besides Women and Children, he took the Loaves and the Fish, and begging a Blessing upon them from Heaven, distributed them to his Apostles, and they regularly to the Multitudes, till all were fully satisfy'd. Then ordering the remaining Fragments to be gather'd up, both of the Bread and Fish, they fill'd twelve Baskets with them, each Apostle one. The People seeing such a miraculous Multiplication, were exceedingly astonish'd, and looking upon Jesus as the Messiah, declared, This was really the Prophet which shou'd come into the World: Upon which they took a Resolution to set him up for a King by main Force, and to become subject to him. But he well knowing the Mischief of such a Design, immediately constrain'd his Disciples, who probably were too ready to join in it, to take Shipping, and to pass by Bethsaida to Capernaum, whilst he himself dismiss'd the Multitudes, and retir'd himself to a neighbouring Mountain for Prayer and Contemplation; where he continu'd till after Midnight.

In the mean Time, the Ship where the Apostles were enter'd was toss'd with a great Storm in the middle of the Lake; the Waves ran so high, and the Wind was so contrary, that when the Morning was approaching, they had not got much above a League on their Voyage. Our Lord, who knew under what Pains and Fears they labour'd, immediately convey'd himself upon the Surface of the Sea; and tho' he refus'd to gratifie the Devil, when tempted to throw himself from the Temple, yet he readily committed himself to a boisterous and unstable Element, which in Effect became as firm as Brass to serve its Creator. His miraculous walking upon the Sea near the Vessel, added new Fears to the Disciples, who took him for some strange Apparition, perhaps such as might cause the Storm, and cry'd out with the Terror. But he soon allay'd their Fears, by assuring them, That it was he himself: Whereupon Peter being eagerly affected both with the Novelty and Wonder of it, desir'd, That if it were He, he might have leave to come walking to Him upon the Water; which being granted, he left the Vessel, and went towards his Master upon the Sea: But finding the Winds bear hard against him, and the Waves rise round him, he began to fear, notwithstanding the Word of our Saviour; and being ready to sink, he in a passionate Fright cry'd out, Lord, save me! Jesus, who might have justly left him to the Punishment of his Infidelity, mercifully reach'd out his Hand, and set him again upon the Top of the Water, with a gentle Reproof of the Weakness of his Faith, and his doubting his Power. Being both enter'd the Ship, the Winds, observing their Duty to their Sovereign; ceas'd; and he himself was more than Wind to the Vessel, for it was instantly carry'd to the design'd Place of Landing, Capernaum. All these Miracles open'd the Eyes of the Disciples, who, as St. Mark observes, had their Hearts hardned, and had not sufficiently consider'd that of the Loaves; and being exceedingly amaz'd, they acknowledg'd the Author of them to be the Son of God, and ador'd him under that Title. At the same Time great Numbers out of the Country brought their Sick and Diseased on their Beds, and laid them before him in the Streets; beseeching him to permit them only to touch the Border of his Garment; and as many as touch'd him, were miraculously cured.

Jesus having thus withdrawn himself, the Multitudes whom he had miraculously fed, were in great Expectations of finding him the next Morning on the Mountain; for they had seen the Disciples take Shipping without their Master, and no other Vessel left for him. But finding him departed as well as them, and being provided with Boats from Tiberias, they pass'd over with all Expedition to Capernaum, where they found him teaching in the Synagogue, and with no small Surprise demanded of him, How he got thither? Our Lord knowing their corrupt Expectations of temporal Advantages, solemnly declar'd, That they sought him not for his miraculous Gifts, but for the Plenty of Bread he had bestow'd upon them: Therefore they ought not to endeavour for that perishing Food, but for such as nourish'd them to everlasting Life; which shou'd be given them by himself, who had receiv'd his Sanction from God the Father. Then demanding of him, What they shou'd do to obtain this spiritual Food? he let them understand, that the Foundation was to believe on Him whom God had sent. Upon which, finding themselves check'd in their Expectations, they insolently demanded of him some new Sign or Miracle to confirm their Belief; since Moses their Master had already done as much; namely, had miraculously fed them with Manna from Heaven. But Jesus shew'd them the great Difference, by letting them know, That Moses gave them not the true Bread from Heaven, but only his Father, whose Bread wou'd enliven the World. Upon their desiring to be constant Partakers of it, he told them, That he himself was the Bread of Life; that his Followers and Believers shou'd neither hunger nor thirst. Yet tho' they had seen him, and been Witnesses of so many Miracles, they wou'd not believe in him; but by their Infidelity depriv'd themselves of the great Advantages, which shou'd be enjoy'd by all those whom his Father had given him, namely, a certain Acceptance here, and a glorious Resurrection to eternal Life. The Jews being confounded in their Understandings, began openly to murmur against him, crying, Is not this Jesus the Son of Joseph, whose Father and Mother we know? Why then does he tell us that he came down from Heaven? But Jesus was so far from mollifying or recanting these Truths, that he confirm'd them more strongly; first shewing them, That it was their natural Impotency, and the Want of his Father's Grace that hinder'd them from coming to him; proving from the Scriptures, "that they shou'd be taught of God, and all whom his Father had taught shou'd come to him, tho' his Father was not to be seen by their bodily

Eyes. Then he again assur'd them, That he was the Bread of Life, which came down from Heaven; that the Manna in the Desert did not preserve the Eaters of it from dying; but his Flesh was the true living Bread, which gave Life and Immortality to all that eat of it. These last Words made them more averse to him, and they disputed among themselves how he could possibly give them his Flesh to eat? Nevertheless he pursu'd his Discourse, and assured them, That his Flesh and his Blood was not imaginary, but real Food and Nourishment; and that without eating the one, and drinking the other, they cou'd have no Life in them; and such as fed on him, shou'd be rais'd up at the last Day, and obtain everlasting Life. Lastly, he declar'd to them what great Effects his Body shou'd work in the Souls of all such as were Partakers of it; namely, There should be such an Union, that they shou'd dwell in him, and he in them; and that they shou'd live by him, as he himself liv'd by his Father.

These sublime Truths of our Lord's Descent from Heaven, and the Benefits of his Incarnation, so gravell'd the Intellects of his Auditory, that even his Disciples began to murmur, saying, Who can bear so harsh a Doctrine? But Jesus to satisfy them, intimated, That his Ascension into Heaven wou'd be a Proof of his coming from thence; and that their feeding upon him was not after a carnal Manner, which wou'd prove insignificant, but after a spiritual and divine, which wou'd give Life and Vigour. Declaring again, That their Infidelity proceeded from their natural Impotency, and the Want of his Father's Grace preventing them. Notwithstanding this, many of his Disciples and Followers, perceiving now that he was not such a Messiah as they imagin'd, whose Kingdom shou'd consist in external Grandeur and Plenty, wholly deserted him, and never follow'd him after. Among which Number, Epiphanius believes St. Mark the Evangelist was one, tho' afterwards seasonably recover'd by St. Peter. Upon this great Defection, Jesus with no little Concern demanded of the twelve Apostles, Whether they wou'd go away also? Peter, whose Faith was sound, tho' small, as general Speaker for the rest, answer'd him with a seeming Abhorrence of the others Apostacy, Lord! to whom shall we go? Thou hast the Words of eternal Life: We believe, and are convinc'd, That thou art the Messiah, the Son of the living God. But notwithstanding this Confidence and frank Confession, he let them understand, that they were not all equally sound, for among the twelve that he had selected, one of them was a Devil and Traytor.

These Things were transacted immediately before the third Passover, after our Saviour's Baptism, as may be collected from John 6. 4. which Passover hapned on the 14th Day of our Month April, in the 18th Year of the Reign of Tiberius the Emperor, and one Year and seventeen Days after the last Passover.

From the Beginning of the third Passover after our Blessed Saviour's Baptism, to the Beginning of the fourth and last; when the only true Passover was slain.

Containing the Term of one Year, wanting 12 Days.

I. AT this third Passover after our Saviour's Baptism, according to the most probable Accounts, Pilate took an Occasion to chastise that turbulent Sect of the Galileans or Gaulanites, mention'd Luke 13. 1. who coming with the Multitudes to Jerusalem to sacrifice, the Governor sent some Soldiers into the Temple, who put many of them to the Sword in the Time of their Offerings, and so mingled the Blood of them with the Blood of their Sacrifices at the Altar. And about the same Time a Tower in the City, call'd Siloam, fell down, and slew eighteen Persons; which, with the other Calamity, were the Marks and Forerunners of God's Indignation against an obstinate and impenitent People. It is not absolutely certain whether our Lord was at the Passover or no; but it is highly probable, that he who came to fulfil all Righteousness, wou'd not neglect that great Ordinance. It is most generally believ'd that he was there, tho' secretly, and as it were incognito; but the wicked Designs of the Jews hastned his Return from thence; and St. John tells us "that he walked in Galilee, for he wou'd not walk in Jury, because the Jews sought to kill him," John 7. 1.

Shortly after the Passover, some of the Scribes and Pharisees were sent from Jerusalem to Galilee, to search into our Lord's Doctrine, and to be Spies upon his Actions, whether he was a true Observer of the Law of Moses, and their Rites. These Persons being present where He and his Disciples were to eat, observ'd that they sat down without washing their Hands, contrary to the common Custom of the Jews, in which Matter many were grown exceeding nice and scrupulous, even to the making the Washing of Cups, Pots, &c. a religious Concern. Therefore they were extremely offended at the Apostles, and demanded of their Master, Why they presum'd to violate the Tradition of the Elders, by eating with unclean Hands; Whereupon Jesus sharply reprov'd these Spies for their hypocritical Pretences, as Isaiah said of them "for honouring God with their Mouths, and neglecting of him in their Hearts; for their vain Worship, and their teaching the Doctrines of Men instead of the Commandments of Heaven. Then by way of Recrimination he told them, That they by their Traditions and Glosses had vacated the Laws of God, particularly that solemn one which commanded "all Men to honour their Parents, and relieve them in their Wants, denouncing Death against such as curs'd them and neglected them: But according to their Traditions "If a Man did but say to his needy Parent, That that Portion which shou'd have gone for his Relief was Dedicated to God, it was sufficient to exempt him from all farther Care and Duty. Then disdainingly he turn'd to the Multitude, and urging their Attention, inform'd them of this Truth, that there was no real Turpitude in what enter'd a Man's Mouth, but only in what proceeded from thence. Upon this his Disciples came to him and let him know, That the Pharisees were offended at his Doctrine. But he made Answer, That every Plant not planted by his heavenly heavenly Father, shou'd be rooted up; and that they were to be despis'd as blind Leaders of blind People, with whom they shou'd fall into the Ditch, and perish eternally together. Upon his retiring, the Disciples, as yet unsatisfy'd, desir'd him to explain what he had said to the People. Jesus reprehending their weak Understandings, told them, that whatsoever a Man eat cou'd not affect his Mind, the only Seat of Defilements, but pass'd through the Stomach, and was evacuated in course; but that what came out of the Heart was premeditated and voluntary, such as evil Thoughts, Adulteries, Fornications, Murthers, Thefts, Covetousness, Pride, Blasphemies, and the like: That these were real Defilements, and not eating with unclean Hands, which was a mere outward Rite and Ceremony.

Shortly after our Lord retired to the North-Western Parts of Galilee into the Limits of Phœnicia, and the Coasts of Tyre and Sidon; where entering into a House, he endeavour'd to conceal himself; but he was soon discover'd by a Pagan Woman, a Grecian by Birth, but a Phœnician by Habitation, therefore by St. Matthew call'd a Woman of Canaan, because Phœnicia was the ancient Seat of the Canaanites properly so call'd. This Woman finding him out, call'd him Lord, and Son of David; begging his Pity for a poor Daughter of hers, grievously tormented with a Demon. Jesus at first gave her no Answer; but when his Disciples desired him to free them from her troublesome Cries and Importunities, by granting her Request, he told them, That his Mission was principally to the lost Sheep of the House of Israel. But the Woman not discourag'd by his Coldness, but rather emboldned, threw her self at his Feet and adored him, crying, Lord, help me! Upon which our Lord seem'd to parly with her; telling her, That the Children the Jews, ought first to be filled, and that it was not fit to take their Bread and cast it to the Dogs. The Woman, sensible of her own and her Nation's Unworthiness, readily reply'd, That the Dogs however might reasonably be permitted to eat the Crumbs that fell from their Master's Table. Jesus, highly pleas'd with so much Reliance and Humility from a Heathen, greatly applauded the Strength of her Faith, telling her that he had granted her Petition; and at her Return to her House, she found her Daughter laid upon her Bed, and perfectly cured.

From these Retirements Jesus pass'd Eastward into Decapolis, a Region chiefly within the Bounds of Galilee and Traconitis, consisting of ten noted Cities, mostly inhabited by Gentiles; and from thence to the Sea of Galilee, where was brought to him a miserable Object, a Man both deaf and dumb, whom he was desired to lay his Hand upon. Our Lord taking him from the Throngs that were about him, and using as it were natural Means, put his Fingers in his Ears, and some of his Spittle upon his Tongue: Then lifting up his Eyes to Heaven, with a deep Sigh, he cry'd, Be open and unloos'd; and immediately his natural Faculties were restor'd, so that he heard and spoke plain. Jesus forbid those who had been Witnesses of this miraculous Cure, to divulge it to any Person; but the more he charg'd them, the more they proclaim'd it, and in their Astonishment declar'd, He had done all Things perfectly, made the Deaf to hear, and the Dumb to speak.

This Miracle was succeeded by many others, for upon his repairing to a Mountain, the Multitudes brought great Numbers of Persons troubled with all Kinds of Lameness and Distempers, and laid them at the Feet of this heavenly Physician; who, as in many other Places, mercifully cured them all: Inasmuch that they glorify'd God for what they saw, and cou'd not but follow him, who had confirm'd his saving Doctrine with so many Miracles. Their Readiness to attend him had made them unmindful of their bodily Food; so that when Jesus was ready to dismiss them, he told his Disciples, Disciples, that he cou'd not but pity these People, who had now been with him three Days, and had nothing to eat: That therefore he wou'd not send them home fasting, lest they shou'd faint by the Way, for that several had a long Journey to go. His Disciples, forgetting his former Miracle of the Loaves, ask'd How they cou'd make sufficient Provision for such a Multitude, in a desert Place? But he only enquir'd what Provision they had; and being told seven Loaves and a few small Fishes, he order'd all the People to sit down upon the Ground; and taking the Bread and Fish, he blessed them, and distributed them to his Disciples, and they to the People, till all were fully satisfy'd. And tho' there were four thousand Men, besides Women and Children, yet the remaining Fragments fill'd seven Baskets. And this, with one formerly mention'd, were the only Miracles of this Nature which our Saviour is recorded to have wrought.

Matth 16. 1-12. Our Lord having dismiss'd the Multitudes, embark'd with his Disciples, and landed on the South-East Parts of the Lake, on the Coasts of Dalmanutha or Magdala; where the Pharisees joyning with their Enemies the Sadducees, again impudently demanded of him some new Sign or Miracle from Heaven. But instead of satisfying those obstinate and conceited People, he severely reprov'd them, for that being so quick-sighted in foretelling the Fairness and Foulness of the Weather by the Face of the Skies, they were yet so blind as not to perceive the manifest Signs of the Messiah's Arrival. Then deeply sighing, he return'd them the same Answer which he had formerly given to the like Demand, namely, that such an impious and illegitimate Generation shou'd have no other Sign, but that of the Prophet Jonas. Upon this he immediately left them, and sail'd back with his Disciples, whom he strictly caution'd in their Passage, to beware of the Leaven of those sower People the Pharisees and Sadducees. They having accidentally forgotten to take Bread with them, readily imagin'd that this was to prevent their seeking Bread from the Pharisees. But Jesus soon check'd them for the Weakness of their Faith, and the Blindness of their Understandings, as also for the Shortness of their Memories; putting them in Mind of the five Loaves and the five thousand, and seven Loaves and the four thousand fed by them, and that with extraordinary Remains. Then he made them understand, that his Words did not concern the Leaven of Bread, but the corrupt Doctrine of the Pharisees and Sadducees; which last are by St. Mark call'd Herodians.

Jesus reprehends the Blindness of the Pharisees;

Mark 8. 12-26. Our Lord landed at Bethsaida, the Birth-Place of several of the Apostles, where he had wrought many Miracles, but to no great Effect, as appears from Matth. 11. 21. Here a blind Man was brought to him, but he wou'd not vouchsafe to cure him in that Place where he had met with so much Perverseness and Infidelity; therefore taking him out of the City, like an ordinary Physician, he anointed his Eyes with a Collyrium of Spittle; and laying his Hands upon him, ask'd him whether he saw any Object; the Man looking up, made Answer, That he saw Men walking, but so imperfectly that he could not have distinguish'd them from Trees but by their being in Motion. Whereupon Jesus a second Time put his Hands upon his Eyes, as tho' he had only made use of common Means, till the Man began to distinguish Things clearer, and at last came to his perfect Sight. After his Recovery he sent him home, and charg'd him not so much as to go into the City, or to discover it to any one belonging to that Place.

Matth 16. 13-20. II. It was now about or above a Year after the solemn Election of the Apostles, that our Lord thought it convenient to make a particular Tryal of their Faith and Understanding, and also to give them a farther Light into the Nature and Design of his Mission. Therefore taking them privately to the Northern Parts of Galilee, about Cæsarea Philippi, on the Borders of Syria, and within the Limits of Philip's Dominions, he demanded of them, What the Generality of the World said concerning him? They made Answer, That Mens Opinions were various, that some said he was John Baptist, risen from the Dead; some Elias, sent down from Heaven; and others Jeremias, or some other of the ancient Prophets restor'd again to Life. Upon which he ask'd, What was their real Opinion concerning him? Simon Peter, always forward to speak for himself and Brethren, answer'd in positive Terms, That he was the Messiah, the Son of the living God. Upon this noble Confession Jesus pronounc'd him Blessed, since this cou'd not proceed from any humane Revelation, but only from his Father in Heaven: Declaring farther, That as his Name imported a Rock, so he wou'd make him a Foundation-Stone, and a prime Minister in building his Church; which shou'd be so firmly establish'd upon that Faith which he had confess'd, that all the Powers of Hell shou'd not prevail against it. And that for the more orderly Government of it, he wou'd give him the Keys of the Kingdom of Heaven; so that his Sentence, whensoever he shou'd regularly exclude, or receive in, any Person on Earth, shou'd stand valid in Heaven. Then to prevent the ill Use that might be made of his Discovery, he strictly commanded his Apostles, not to declare to any Man that he was the Messiah.

Peter's Confession.

Jesus's first Discovery of his Passion.

By the former Discourse with Peter, Jesus perceiving that his Disciples had gotten a true Notion of his Office and Divinity, notwithstanding the different Opinions of the Nation, began to prepare their Minds for his sufferings. And from that Time, as St. Matthew observes, he began to discover to them that he must go to Jerusalem, and suffer many Cruelties and Indignities from the Jewish Governors, the chief Priests and Scribes, and even Death it self; and that after three Days he shou'd rise again. Peter, unable to endure a Thought so disagreeable to the Dignity of his Master, broke out into this unseasonable Interruption, Far be it from you, Lord; this must not befall you. But Jesus knowing that this Advice cross'd his gracious Purposes of Man's Redemption, with no little Indignation reply'd, Away, Satan, who art a Scandal to me, and relishest earthly and not heavenly Things. Then to remove the Notions of a temporal Kingdom from them, and from the People whom he then call'd to him, he solemnly declar'd, That whoever wou'd be his Disciple, must deny himself, daily take up his Cross, and follow him: That to lay down his Life for him and the Gospel, was the sure Way to be saved; but to seek Salvation without him, was to destroy himself: That a Man could gain nothing by the Possession of the whole World, if he lost that inestimable Treasure his Soul. And that whosoever shou'd out of Shame disown him or his Gospel, before an impious and degenerated People, he wou'd disown that Person when he came triumphantly at the last Day, surrounded with the Rays of his Father's Glory, and of the holy Angels, to reward every Man according to his Works. Concluding, That there were some then present who shou'd not dye, before they had seen the Beginnings of his glorious Kingdom and Power: Particularly his Ascension into Heaven, and his coming to take Vengeance upon the Jewish People and Nation.

His Transfiguration upon the Mount.

About a Week after, our Lord who had given his Disciples a sad Description of his greatest Humiliation, thought it a seasonable Time to give some of them a Specimen of his future Glorification: Therefore taking with him his three more intimate Apostles, Peter and the two Sons of Zebedee, he ascended a very high Mountain, generally believ'd to be Tabor, a round Mount, above four Miles in height, situated in the Plains of Galilee. While he was earnestly employ'd in Prayer, he was suddenly transform'd into another kind of Appearance; a radiant Lustre darted from his Face more glorious than the Sun; and a dazzling Splendor proceeded from his Garments, exceeding not only only the whitest Snow, and the utmost Power of Art; but also the Light it self. During this heavenly Scene, there appear'd Moses and Elias, cloath'd with all the Brightness and Majesty of a glorify'd State, familiarly conversing with him, and discoursing of his Death and Sufferings; by which he was to be exalted above every Name both in Heaven and Earth. While the Intercourse continu'd between these three, Peter and his two fellow Apostles were fallen asleep; it being probably Night when this hapned; but waking just before their Departure, they were exceedingly surpriz'd and terrify'd at the Sight of so much Glory and Majesty. And Peter in an Ecstasie of Admiration address'd himself to his Master, begging, that they might continue in that happy Place, and erect three Tabernacles or Tents, one for himself, and other two for Moses and Elias. But while he was thus talking, scarce knowing what he said in this Fright and Transport, a bright and shining Cloud suddenly came over them, and a Voice, from thence crying, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased; hear ye him! Upon which the Apostles were seiz'd with a greater Consternation than ever, and fell prostrate upon the Ground; but our Lord gently touch'd them, bad them arise and fear nothing; and looking up, they saw none but their Master, the rest having vanish'd and disappear'd. In Memory of these great Transactions, Bede tells us, that in pursuance of St. Peter's Petition about the three Tabernacles, there were afterwards three Churches built upon the Top of this Mountain, which in later Ages were held in great Veneration.

Matth. 17.

As they were descending the Mountain, Jesus strictly commanded them to discover to no Man what strange Things they had seen, till the Son of Man shou'd be risen from the Dead. They were ready to obey his Command, but did not understand the last Words; therefore they had some Dispute among themselves concerning the Meaning of that Expression, the Son of Man's rising from the Dead. At the same Time they had another Difficulty to solve; for having seen Elias with our Saviour upon the Mount, they took an Occasion to ask him, Why the Scribes and Pharisees did assert, That that Prophet must come upon the Earth before the Messiah? Jesus answer'd them, That Elias shou'd come indeed, and be rejected and barbarously treated, as well as the Son of Man; adding withal, That he was already come, and that the Jews had done to him what they thought fit; so likewise wou'd they cause the Son of Man to suffer as they had done his Fore-runner. This Answer clearly discover'd to the Apostles, that the last Elias of whom he had spoken, was John Baptist, who had gone before the first Coming of Jesus Christ in the Spirit and Power of Elias, as Elias himself, according to the Opinion of many, shou'd go before his second Coming.

The following Day, our Lord being return'd to his other nine Apostles, he found a great Multitude about them, and the Scribes questioning and disputing with them: At his first Appearance the People ran to him, and saluted him with all the Marks of Joy and Admiration. Jesus demanded of the Scribes, What was the Occasion and Subject of their Dispute? but was interrupted by a certain Man, who breaking through the Press, fell prostrate at his Feet, beseeching him to have Pity upon his only Son, a deplorable Object, a Lunatick and Possessed, Deaf and Dumb, often thrown upon the Ground, and into the Fire and Water, rack'd with violent Convulsions, accompany'd with dismal Outcries, Foamings, gnashing of Teeth, Pinings, and miserable Bruises and Torments: That he had brought this Child to his Disciples in his Absence, but they were not able to cure him. The Unbelief of the Jews, as well as Weakness of the Disciples Faith, was now the most dangerous Distemper, and had been a frequent Impediment to our Saviour's Miracles, therefore he first aim'd at the Cure of that; crying out, O faithless and perverse Generation! How long shall I be with you to convince you? How long shall shall I endure your Infidelity? Upon ordering the Child to be brought to him, the Devil began to tear him with fierce Convulsions, and threw him upon the Ground with terrible Strugglings and Foamings. Jesus asking the Father how long he had been under these Afflictions, was answer'd, from his Childhood; urging him again, If he cou'd do any Thing, to have Pity upon him: Jesus told him, If he cou'd believe, all Things were possible to a true Believer. Immediately the Father cry'd out with Tears, Lord, I believe; supply thou my Unbelief! Whereupon our Lord commanded the deaf and dumb Spirit to depart out of the Child, and never to return: And the Spirit with hideous Outcries tore the Child, and left him breathless upon the Ground, so that many concluded he was dead; but Jesus taking him by the Hand, lifted him up, and deliver'd him to his Father, perfectly cured, to the great Astonishment of all the Spectators. Jesus retiring shortly after, his Disciples desired to know the Reason why they cou'd not cast out this Spirit; he answer'd them, first, because of their Unbelief; for that if they had but one Grain of true Faith, they might have remov'd Mountains by the bare Word of their Mouth: Secondly, because this was one of a peculiar kind of Spirits, that were not to be ejected without Prayer and Fasting; in which they had been too negligent and deficient.

His second Discovery of his Passion;

Our Saviour shortly after pass'd from this Place through the midst of Galilee towards Capernaum, but with all Caution and Privacy, his Thoughts being much employ'd in fitting his Disciples for the ungrateful Approaches of his Death: Therefore he discover'd it to them a second Time, desiring them to attend seriously, and let these Words sink into their Hearts; That the Son of Man shou'd be deliver'd into the Hands of wicked Men, who shou'd put him to Death, and that he shou'd rise again the third Day. But their Hopes of a temporal Kingdom, and their natural Aversion to the Cross, made it very difficult for them to believe or conceive it; yet this Prediction cast them into such a melancholly Fear, that they durst not ask him to explain it to them. Being arriv'd at Capernaum, the Collectors of a certain Tribute of two Drachmas, or fifteen Pence an Head for the Use of the Temple, came to Peter, who was an Inhabitant of that City, and ask'd him, If his Master did not pay that Tribute? Peter knowing his Master's Readiness to pay all Dues, answer'd, Yes; but entering the House, was prevented by Jesus, who ask'd him, Whether the Kings of the Earth exacted Tribute of their own Children, or of Strangers? Peter answer'd, Of Strangers; upon which Jesus concluded, That the Children were exempted; leaving it to him to infer, That he being the Son of God ought to be excus'd paying Tribute to the Temple. But however, to avoid all Occasions of Offence, he order'd him to go and cast a Hook into the Sea; telling him, that in the Month of the first Fish he caught, he shou'd find a Stater, a piece of Money of half a Crown Value, which shou'd be given to the Collectors, both for his Master, and himself.

And Payment of Tribute at Capernaum.

His Sermon of Humility.

About the same Time there arose a Dispute among the Apostles, which of them shou'd be Greatest in their Master's Kingdom; still imagining and expecting a temporal Sovereignty. But Jesus knowing their Thoughts, and mistaken Ambition, ask'd them concerning their Dispute; to which they durst give no Answer: Only, when the twelve were together, they propos'd this Question to him, Who was the greatest in the Kingdom of Heaven? He answer'd them, That if any Man was ambitious to be first in his Kingdom, he shou'd be last, and Servant to the rest. Then calling a little Child to him, whom some suppose to have been St. Ignatius, he took him in his Arms before them all, and told them, That except they imitated the Innocence and Humility of little Children, they shou'd never enter the Kingdom of God; but that whosoever came nearest to them, shou'd be greatest in that Kingdom:

Adding withal, That whosoever shou'd receive such a little Child, or humble Christian in his Name, receiv'd both him, and his Father who sent him, and that the most humble among them, shou'd be most exalted. Hereupon John the Son of Zebedee interrupted him, saying, Master, we saw a Man ejecting Devils in your Name, but we forbad him to proceed, because he refus'd to follow us. Jesus disapprov'd of the Action, and told them, That he ought not to be look'd upon as an Enemy, who declar'd not against him, and had wrought Miracles in his Name. Then re-assuming his former Subject, he declar'd, That a Cup of Water only, given them for his Sake, shou'd in no wise miss of a Reward: But that whosoever shou'd offend and scandalize a little Child and weak Believer, it were better for him having a Millstone about his Neck, to be plung'd into the midst of the dead Sea. That they ought the more carefully to avoid contemning such Persons, because their Guardian-Angels had such free Access to the Throne of God: that the Son of Man came to recover such as were lost: That as a diligent Shepherd, having miss'd one Sheep out of a hundred, seeks in all Places for it; and having found it, rejoyces more over that, than over all the rest that never went astray: So was the Father unwilling that any of these Believers should perish. That tho' the World was full of Scandals and Offences, and such Things wou'd necessarily come, yet it wou'd be dismal to that Person who caus'd them: That therefore they ought to remove all Occasions of falling, and to mortifie their Affections, tho' they were as dear to them as an Eye, an Hand, or a Foot; because it was infinitely more eligible to be blind, maimed or lame, and to be depriv'd of the Enjoyment of these Members here on Earth, than to be depriv'd of all Enjoyments in the inextinguishable Flames of Hell. That as the Sacrifices were usually seasoned with Salt, so they were to be seasoned with Fire and Afflictions: And that as Salt was the most worthless Thing in Nature, when it had lost its Savour, so wou'd they be; for which Reason they ought to be careful to preserve it among themselves; namely, such a Peace and Unity, as wou'd stifle all ambitious Contentions.

15-35.

Our Lord having shewn the fatal Dangers of Scandals and Offences, afterwards, in order to preserve a due Charity and Compassion for Offenders, prescrib'd excellent Rules both for their Punishment and Pardon; and such as were very agreeable to the Customs and Discipline of the Jewish Church. First, of private and publick Censures; that if one Person offended another, the injured Person shou'd admonish him privately, that if it were possible, he might be reclaim'd by that Means: And that if a private Admonition had no Effect upon him, it ought to be repeated before one or two more, who shou'd be Witnesses of the Matter: But if that also prov'd unsuccessful, he shou'd declare his Offence to the Church, and the publick Congregation; and upon the Offender's Contempt of that, he was to be cut off from her Communion, and look'd upon as a Heathen and an Infidel. And that the Church might effectually separate all obstinate Offenders, he now gave to all, as he had done before to Peter, the Power of Binding and Loosing; solemnly assuring them, That whatsoever they regularly pronounc'd and declar'd on Earth, he wou'd ratifie and confirm in Heaven. Promising farther, That if but two of them on Earth did agree about any Thing to be demanded by Prayer, it shou'd be granted by his heavenly Father: For that where two or three only were gather'd together in his Name, he wou'd not fail to be with them. Peter observing the Discourse, and learning from his Master's Words, that if a private Admonition prevail'd, the injured Person must forgive the other, desired to know, how often he was oblig'd to forgive an offending Brother; Whether seven Times were not sufficient? Jesus let him understand that the Number of Times was not to be limited, that he was to forgive him, tho' he offended seventy Times as often. And to shew the absolute Necessity of such a merciful and compassionate Temper, he propounded an excellent Parable of a certain King, who calling his Servants to Account, found one of them who owed him so vast a Sum that he was unable to pay it; namely, ten thousand Talents, or a Million eight hundred and seventy five thousand Pounds; whereupon he commanded him to be sold, with his Wife and Children, and all that he had, towards the Discharge of the Debt. But his Servant falling at his Feet, and humbly imploring his Mercy and Forbearance, out of a generous Pity, he freely forgave him the whole Debt. This Wretch was no sooner gone out, but he met one of his Fellow-Servants, who owed him a small Debt of an hundred Denarii, about three Pounds two Shillings and six Pence; and laying Hands upon him, took him roughly by the Throat, and cry'd, Pay me my Debts. And tho' his Fellow-Servant us'd the same patheticall Intreaties that he had done to the King his Master, yet he wou'd not hearken, but without any Pity immediately sent him to Prison. The King being inform'd of this Severity, sent for the ungrateful Servant, first upbraided him with his Baseness and Cruelty, when he had just receiv'd so much Favour and Mercy; and then in a great Rage order'd him to Racks and Tortures, till he shou'd discharge the whole Debt. Then Jesus concluded with this most solemn Application, So likewise shall my heavenly Father deal with all such as will not forgive their Brother's Trespases from their Hearts.

He is advis'd to go to Jerusalem at the Feast of Tabernacles.

Our Lord having continu'd a short Time at Capernaum, some of his Relations, whose Hopes and Faith were still unsound, became uneasie that he confin'd himself so much to one Province, and therefore urg'd him to shew his Miracles at the capital City of Jerusalem; for which he cou'd not have, as they conceiv'd, a better Opportunity than the great Feast of Tabernacles then approaching: Desiring him, if he expected to be famous, to shew himself to the World, and not deprive his Disciples at Jerusalem of the Happiness of his Presence. But Jesus told them, That they might go to the Feast as soon as they pleas'd, but he himself must be very wary and cautious, because he had many Enemies; that the World, which had nothing to object against them, hated him, because he reprov'd their sinful Actions: That therefore tho' they went to the Feast immediately, he wou'd not go yet; for the proper Time was not fully come: Whereupon he made a short Stay in Galilee; but soon after their Departure, he set forwards towards Jerusalem, not publickly, but as it were in secret, lest he shou'd too much awaken the Jealousie of his Enemies.

His Journey towards that City.

In his Passage through the Province of Samaria, he sent some of his Apostles as Harbingers to provide Lodging in one of their Villages, who upon their first Tryal were uncivilly rejected and refus'd Entertainment; because the Samaritans perceiv'd they were going to Jerusalem to the Feast, which they violently hated. This piece of Rudeness and Inhumanity was so deeply resented by James and his Brother John, that they immediately desir'd Permission of their Master, in Imitation of Elias, to command Fire down from Heaven, and consume these inhospitable Wretches. But the Son of God willing to teach them, that the Marks of a true Christian were Meekness and Love, not Fury and Revenge, gave them this serious Reproof, Ye know not by what Spirit ye are acted; for the Son of Man is not come to destroy Mens Lives, but to save them. And so they went and took Lodgings in another Village.

The Mission of the seventy Disciples.

III. A little before our Lord's Arrival at Jerusalem at the Feast of Tabernacles, about sixteen Months after his solemn Election of his Apostles, and eight Months after their first Mission, he thought fit to make a second Choice of Disciples; and as his first was of twelve, according to the Number of the Patriarchs and Tribes, this was of seventy, according to the Number of the Elders or Senators of Israel. The Names of most of these these are unknown to us; and we have only an uncertain Account of twenty eight of them out of Eusebius and Epiphanius, which are Matthias, Mark, Luke, Barnabas, Stephen, Philip, Prochorus, Nicanor, Timon, Parmenas, Nicolas, Justus, Apelles, Sosthenes, Rufus, Niger, Cephas, Thaddæus, Aristion, John, Barsabas, Andronicus, Junius, Silas, Lucius, Manaen, Mnason, and Ananias. These Seventy were sent out by two and two together as the Apostles; and tho' they were of an inferior Rank, yet our Lord gave the same Reason for their Mission; namely, That the Evangelical Harvest was great, but the Reapers few. The Apostles Commission was to go at large to any of the Cities of Israel; but these Seventy were to go only to those particular Places which Jesus himself design'd to visit, to make way for his Preaching and Reception; who design'd now a more full Revelation of himself. As their Journey was to be short and expeditious, he order'd them to avoid all Impediments, particularly the formal Salutations then in Use, and the great Scrupulousness that some had of eating such Things as were set before them by Strangers. The other Instructions to them were the same as he had given to the Apostles; only adding the same Woes against Chorazin and Bethsaida, and his own proud City Capernaum, which he formerly denounc'd before the Multitudes, when John had sent his Disciples to him.

John 7:
11-36.

The Feast of Tabernacles always continu'd eight Days, and began this Year on the seventh or eighth Day of our Month October; at which Time the Jews made great Enquiry after Jesus at Jerusalem, and had various Discourses concerning him; some saying he was a good Man, and others an Impostor. But when all Mens Expectations were almost over, on the fourth or fifth Day of the Feast, he shew'd himself openly, and taught in the Temple, to the great Wonder of the Jews, who were exceedingly surpriz'd to find him so perfect in the Scriptures, when his Education had been without Learning. Whereupon he told them, That he spoke not of himself; and that if they were desirous of performing the Will of God, they wou'd soon perceive, that his Doctrine proceeded from God that sent him, whose Glory alone he sought to promote; but they were so far from keeping the Law of God, that they sought even his Life. The People cry'd out, He was possess'd; and ask'd him, Who sought his Life? Upon which, he put them in mind of the infirm Man at the Pool of Bethesda, whom he cur'd a Year and a half before on the Sabbath-Day; for which, tho' they themselves us'd Circumcision on the same Day, without accounting it a Breach of Moses's Law, yet they were so implacably incens'd against him, that they had resolv'd to slay him. At the same Time some who knew the great Hatred of the Magistrates against him, admir'd to see him speak with so much Freedom and Authority, and said, Are they convinc'd that this is really the Messiah? Adding withal, That they knew this Man's Parentage, but the Messiah's wou'd be wholly unknown. But Jesus with a loud Voice declar'd, That tho' they knew his Earthly Parentage, they knew not his Heavenly, which was beyond their Conception. Then several of the People believ'd on him, being convinc'd by the Greatness of his Miracles, that he was the Messiah; but the Pharisees and Rulers of the People sent their Officers to secure him: Jesus, who cou'd not suffer before his prefix'd Time, said to the Officers, That he was with them but for a short Time, and shou'd return to Him who sent him; that they shou'd seek to him in vain, for he was going to a Place whither they cou'd not come. The Jews did not understand these Words, but believ'd that he design'd to leave Judæa, and teach the Greeks and Gentiles.

John 7:
37-53.

On the last and great Day of the Feast, when they perform'd the joyful and pompous Ceremony of offering and pouring out the Water, our Saviour stood up in the Temple, and cry'd out, If any Man thirst, let him come to me and drink: Whosoever believeth on me, according to the Tenor of the

the Scriptures, out of his Belly shall flow Rivers of living Water: Meaning, as St. John observes, the abundant Graces of the Holy Spirit, which shou'd be poured out upon the Souls of all Believers, after his Entrance into Glory. The People were much divided in their Opinions concerning this Sentence; for some accounted him a Prophet, others acknowledg'd him the Messiah, and others, who knew nothing of his Birth-Place, cou'd not believe him to be the Person, because they knew that the Messiah shou'd not be born in Galilee, but in the City of Bethlehem, and of the Family of David. At the same Time the Magistrates belonging to the Sanhedrim, examin'd the Officers whom they had sent to take him, why they had not brought him; and they being charm'd with his Presence and Preaching, answer'd, That never Man spoke like this Man. The Pharisees being more enrag'd at their Reason, than the Neglect of their Office, upbraided them for being so foolishly seduced, and following the Error of the ignorant and cursed Populacy, when not one of the Rulers and learned Rabbies had own'd him. Upon this, Nicodemus, who had formerly convers'd with our Lord, and remain'd his secret Disciple, calmly told the Assembly, That according to the Law, they ought not to condemn any Man unheard. But they with some Anger, ask'd Whether he was a Favourer of this Galilean? and bad him search, and he shou'd find, that no Prophet ever came from thence. Thus the Assembly broke up without proceeding against him, and every Man return'd to his own House.

They bring a Woman to him taken in Adultery.

On the same Night Jesus repaired to the Mount of Olives about a Mile from the City, and probably lodg'd at Bethany, at the House of Lazarus. Early in the Morning, he return'd to the Temple, and in the Court of Women, at the Treasury, he sat down and taught the People that were gather'd about him. Shortly after, the Scribes and Pharisees with no little Solemnity brought in a Woman taken in Adultery, and placing her in the midst of them said, Master, this Woman was taken in the very Act of Adultery: Now Moses in his Law expressly commanded, That such Persons shou'd be stoned to Death; but What is your Judgment and Determination? This insinuating Question was to find an Occasion of accusing him, either of assuming Judicial Power, if he condemn'd her; or of nulling the Law, if he freed her. Jesus, like a Judge taking Minutes of a Cause before him, stooped down, and wrote something with his Finger upon the Dust of the Pavement: but they being urgent with him for an Answer, he rais'd himself up, saying, He that is without Sin among you let him cast the first Stone; and stooping down, wrote as before. This unexpected Answer amaz'd these designing Accusers; and finding themselves thoroughly convicted of their own Crimes, retired one by one, leaving the Woman by her self; which was little less than a Miracle. Jesus finding the Woman alone, ask'd her, Where were her Accusers; and whether any Man had condemn'd her? She answer'd, no Man had: Upon which he told her, That neither did he condemn her, but bad her Go and sin no more.

Jesus disputes with the Pharisees.

After this Interruption Jesus return'd to instruct the People, and taking occasion, probably from the Sun's bright shining in the Morning, he declar'd That he was the true Light of the World, and that whosoever follow'd him, should not walk in Darkness, but in the Light of Life. Hereupon the Pharisees reply'd, That the Testimony he gave of himself was not worthy of Credit. But he demonstrated to them, That they judg'd amiss, according to their own Law, and that the Testimony he gave of himself was of sufficient Force, because it was confirm'd by the Testimony of his Father, who wrought such great Miracles by him: They then ask'd him, Where his Father was? He answer'd them, That they knew not his Father, because they wou'd not acknowledge his Son. He added moreover, and said, I go my Way, and ye shall seek me, and shall dye in your Sins: Whither I go, ye cannot come. And because they ignorantly norantly thought he wou'd kill himself, that they might not follow him, he declar'd, That he was not from below, as they were, but from above; and that if they did not believe in him, they shou'd dye in their Sins. Then they asking him, Who he was; he answer'd, he was the Messiah, but in such Terms as they did not understand: Adding withal, That when they had lifted him up upon the Cross, they shou'd know, that he had done nothing of himself, nor said any Thing, but what he had heard from his Father. These Truths, which blinded the Proud, enlightned several other Persons, who believ'd on him; to whom he declar'd, That if they continu'd firm in the Observation of his Word, they were his real Disciples: That they shou'd know the Truth, and the Truth shou'd make them free. The other Jews reply'd, That they were never Servants, but free, as being the Children of Abraham. He answer'd them, That whosoever committed Sin, was the Servant of Sin; and tho' Servants might have some Temporary Privileges, they cou'd not be truly free, unless he made them so: That they were Abraham's Children according to the Flesh, but in rejecting the Truth, and seeking the Life of him who told them the Truth, they did not follow Abraham's Steps, but made themselves Children of another Father, by following his Example and imitating him. They maintain'd, That in that Sense they had no other Father but God; but Jesus reply'd again, That if they were the Children of God, they wou'd hearken to his Word, and love his only begotten Son, whom he had sent. That as Murther and Lying were the Works of the Devil, and the Marks of his Children; so such as sought the Destruction of an innocent Person, and refus'd their Assent to the Truth, had the Devil for their Father. They made no Reply to this, but by railing at him, calling him a Samaritan, that was possess'd with a Devil. But Jesus calmly answer'd, That he had no Devil, but honour'd his Father, who would do him Justice, because he sought not his own Glory: Declaring afterwards, That whosoever kept his Word, shou'd never dye, meaning an eternal Death: But the Jews, who understood it of the Death of the Body, took occasion to insult over him; demanding of him, Whether he was greater than Abraham and the Prophets, that he cou'd preserve them from Death that kept his Commandments, which those great Men cou'd not avoid; therefore what did he pretend to make himself? He answer'd them again, That he honour'd not himself, but deriv'd all his Honour from his Father, whom they worshiped as their God, but knew him not: That as for Abraham, in whom they so much boasted, he had earnestly desired to see his happy Day, did see it, and was fill'd with great Joy. Upon this, they scoffingly ask'd, Whether he cou'd have seen Abraham, when he was not yet fifty Years of Age? That is, arriv'd at the common Years of Superannuation among the Jews. But he reply'd, Verily, verily I say unto you, before Abraham was, I am. Upon which Assertion, which they took for Blasphemy, after the manner of the Zealots, they took up some of the broken Stones of the new Buildings, designing to kill him. But he miraculously withdrew himself out of the Temple, and escap'd their Fury.

17--24.

A little before our Saviour's Departure from the City, the Seventy Disciples return'd from their Journey and Ministry, greatly rejoicing, because the very Devils, by means of his Name, were subject to them. Jesus in Confirmation of their Report, told them, That while they were preaching, he saw the Prince of them, falling like Lightning from his Empire and Dominion: Declaring farther, That he gave them Power to tread upon the most venomous and malignant Powers of the Devil, without the least Damage: Yet that they ought not so much to rejoyce for the Subjection of these evil Spirits, as for their having their Names written in Heaven. At the same Time Jesus was transported with the like Motion of the Spirit as formerly, glorifying the Name of the Lord of Heaven and Earth, for revealing the Mysteries of Heaven to such Infants and mean Instruments, and concealing them from the Great and Wise in the World.

The Return of the seventy Disciples.

Then

Then turning to his Disciples, he privately pronounc'd a Blessing upon their Eyes which were Partakers of such Happiness: Declaring, That many great Prophets and Kings had passionately long'd to see and to hear what they had done, without obtaining the Blessing.

Jesus's Discourse with a Lawyer.

About this Time, a certain Doctor of the Law among the Company stood up, and that he might find Occasion against him, demanded of him, What he must do to inherit everlasting Life? Our Lord perceiving his Conceit; referr'd him to the Law, asking him, What he read there? The Man readily answer'd out of Deuteronomy, 'Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy Heart; with all thy Soul, with all thy Strength, and with all thy Mind; and thy Neighbour as thy self.' Jesus told him, He had rightly answer'd, and bad him, Perform that, and he shou'd live. But this Scribe being desirous to appear Holy, and an exact Observer of the Law, demanded farther of him, Whom he ought to account his Neighbour? Jesus answer'd him by a Parable of a certain Jew, who in the great Road between Jerusalem and Jericho was robbed, stripped, barbarously treated, and left almost dead with his Wounds: When a Priest and a Levite, both of his own Country, pass'd severally that Way; they uncharitably avoided him, and gave him no Assistance: But a Samaritan, a Stranger, and abhorr'd by the Jews, seeing this distressed Person, with great Compassion came to him, poured Oil and Wine into his Wounds, carefully bound them up, sat him upon his own Beast, and carry'd him to an Inn, where he committed him to the Care of the Host, and left him Money to provide Necessaries for him, with a Promise of a farther Supply if Occasion requir'd it. Jesus desirous that the Doctor shou'd make Application himself, ask'd him, Which of these three Passengers was Neighbour to the distressed Man? He answer'd, He who shew'd Mercy to him. And Jesus approving the Answer, bad him, Go, and do likewise: Intimating, that Mercy was due to all Persons, and that Neighbours were not confin'd to Countries and Relations, nor Religions.

Shortly after, our Lord departed from Jerusalem towards Galilee; and in the Beginning of his Journey, he enter'd a small Village call'd Bethany, on the farthest Parts of Mount Olivet, about two Miles East of Jerusalem, is entertain'd by Martha and Mary.

where he was joyfully entertain'd by a Woman call'd Martha, who with a Sister Mary, and Brother Lazarus were highly in Favour with him. While Martha was busie in preparing what she cou'd for her heavenly Guest, her Sister Mary, whom several believe to be the same with Mary Magdalene, sat at Jesus's Feet, hearing his Words with great Attention. Whereupon Martha complain'd to him, That her Sister suffer'd her to take all the Trouble upon her, desiring that he wou'd command her to help her. But Jesus answer'd her with great Seriousness, That she cumber'd and disturb'd her self with worldly Cares, whereas one Thing was primarily needful, the hearing of his Word, which since Mary had chosen, she shou'd never want the Benefit of it. By which Words he condemn'd not the Hospitality of Martha, but taught her, That her Care and Toil, tho' commendable in its self, was of far less Value and Concern than that of her Sister's.

A few Days after, Jesus being probably return'd into Galilee, his Disciples seeing him at Prayers, one of them desired him to compose a Prayer for their Use, as John had done for his Disciples. Whereupon he gave them the same excellent Prayer, which he had done above eighteen Months before in his Sermon upon the Mount, only omitting the Doxology at last. Then he encourag'd them to use Fervour and Importunity in their Prayers, by producing two familiar Instances: The first of one Friend coming to another at Midnight to borrow Provisions for his Stranger, who at that unreasonable Hour might obtain his Request by his Importunity, when he cou'd not by his Friendship: Much more they shou'd obtain their Petitions, when ask'd with

Luke 11.
14-54.

After this, St. Luke mentions our Lord's dispossessing a dumb Demoniac; upon which Occasion the Pharisees not only persisted in their former Blaphemy, that he ejected Devils by Beelzebub their Prince, but also again impudently demanded of him a Sign from Heaven. But Jesus confuted their Malice by the same Arguments he formerly us'd upon that Account; and likewise gave the same Answer to their demanding a Sign; declaring, That they shou'd have no other but that of Jonas the Prophet: Adding some few of the same Instructions to the People, as he had formerly given in his Sermon upon the Mount. In the midst of his excellent Discourse, a Woman in a Transport cry'd out, Blessed was the Womb that bare him, and the Breasts that gave him Suck! But Jesus declar'd, That they were more blessed who heard the Word of God and observ'd it. At the finishing his Discourse, he was invited by a certain Pharisee to dine with him, where he sat down without washing his Hands, contrary to the Traditions and Customs of those People; which both surpriz'd, and offended the nice Master of the House. But our Lord knowing the corrupt Designs of him, and the rest that were with him, very freely told him, That they were very careful in cleansing the Outsides of their Cups and Vessels, but their inward Parts, their Hearts, were full of Rapine and Impurity; shewing their Ignorance in not knowing that the same Workman made both; and prescribing a Remedy, namely, Alms and Acts of Mercy, which shou'd make all Things clean and pure to them. After which he took an Occasion to expose all the great Hypocrisie and Villanies of the whole Sect, together with the Scribes and Doctors of the Law, who were offended at his invective Discourse: Infomuch that the Company were extremely exasperated, and us'd all possible Methods to ensnare him, and to gain an Opportunity of destroying him.

He dispossess'd a dumb demoniac.

1-59.

In the mean Time, an innumerable Multitude of People being gather'd about him, so that they trod one upon another, Jesus admonish'd his Disciples to beware of the Leaven of the Pharisees, which was Soweriness and Hypocrisie; and not to be discourag'd at the Malice and Persecutions of Men; but to fear God alone, and to repose a steadfast Confidence in him. In the midst of his Discourse, one of the Company, more intent upon his temporal than spiritual Concernment, desir'd him, to speak to his Brother peaceably to divide the Estate lately fallen to them. But Jesus, to shew that every Person ought to keep within his Calling, answer'd, Who made him a Judge or a Surveyor of their Concerns? Upon which he admonish'd his Auditory carefully to beware of Covetousness; for Mens Happiness consisted not in plentiful Possessions. And to enforce it the more, he propounded this Parable: A certain wealthy Man, finding his Land to produce a vast Increase of Fruits and Goods, resolv'd to pull down his old Barns and Repositories, and build larger; and when he had thus secur'd his Profits, he wou'd say to his Soul, Soul, thou hast plentifully provided for many Years, now take thine Ease, eat, drink and enjoy thy Pleasures: But God destroy'd all his Designs, and said to him, Thou Fool, this very Night shall thy Soul be requir'd of thee; for whom then hast thou secured these Things? Such is the Condition, added he, of him who boards up Treasure for himself, and is not rich in his Actions to God. For this Reason he taught his Disciples, not to be solicitous or anxious for the Things of this Life; that they shou'd be so far from heaping up Riches, that they ought to part with what they had to the Poor, that they might have a Treasury in Heaven, which wou'd naturally draw their Hearts after it. That they were indeed small in Number; but however they shou'd be of good Courage, since it was their Father's Pleasure to give them the Kingdom. And Careless. He told them farther, That they shou'd be always in a Readiness to appear before God, to have their Garments girt about them, and their Lights burning, as Servants who watch for the Return of their Master from the Wedding. That being made Stewards of God's House, to distribute to others the Food of his Word, they ought to discharge their Trust faithfully; not like the foolish Steward, who finding his Lord to defer his Return, consum'd the Goods intrusted to him in Debaucheries, and us'd his Authority to abuse his Fellow Servants; for which he shou'd have his Portion with Hypocrites and Unbelievers. That since the Son of Man wou'd come in a Day and Hour unknown to them, to require an Account of their Management, they shou'd always watch as a Master of a House wou'd do, if he knew what Night the Thief design'd to rob his House. That knowing the Will of their Master, they were the more culpable if they did not obey it; and the more they had entrusted with them, the greater their Accounts wou'd be. To these Discourses he join'd and added some others, already observ'd in the Sermon upon the Mount, and his Instructions to the Apostles when he first sent them to preach the Gospel.

He warns the Jews to Repentance.

Before the Multitude departed, some Persons then present mention'd to our Lord that severe Punishment inflicted upon the Galileans or Gaulanites by Pilate, whose Soldiers cut them in Pieces while they were sacrificing at the Altar; desiring to know his Opinion of those miserable Sufferers. Jesus discerning their Thoughts, first ask'd them, Whether they believ'd those to be greater Sinners than the rest of their Sect, because God had abandon'd them to such dreadful Usage. And then declar'd, That without their Repentance, they shou'd all meet with the same or the like Judgment. He also let them understand, That they ought to make the same Application of the other Calamity that hapned in Jerusalem lately; namely, the Fall of the Tower of Siloam which caus'd the Death of eighteen Persons of the City. And that he might engage them to make the most profitable Use of their Time for a sincere Repentance, he set forth the Patience of the Almighty towards them by the Parable of a barren Fig-tree in a Vineyard, which wanting Fruit for three Years successively, the Master of the Vineyard order'd it to be cut down, as useless and cumbersome. But upon the Gardiner's promising to use a more than ordinary Care about it, he deferr'd it a Year longer, with a Resolution of destroying it, if it continu'd unfruitful; as God wou'd do to those People if they brought not forth Fruits as wou'd Evidence a true Repentance.

Jesus cures a crooked Woman.

On a Sabbath Day not long after, Jesus, according to his Custom, taught in one of the Jewish Synagogues; in which Place there came a Woman grievously afflicted with an evil Spirit, which St. Luke calls a Spirit of Infirmiti, which had continu'd eighteen Years, and so bowed her Body, that she cou'd not lift her self up. Jesus seeing this deplorable Object, call'd her to him, mercifully laid his Hands upon her, and pronounc'd her freed from her Infirmiti; and at the same instant she was made strait, and glorify'd God for her Cure. Whereupon the Ruler of the Synagogue with a malignant Concern told the People, That there were six Days in every Week by God allow'd for Labour; that they might come for Cure in those Days, and not on the Sabbath, which was a Day of Rest. But Jesus answering him, demanded of those Hypocrites, Whether it was not equally lawful for him to loose a Daughter of Abraham and the Covenant, from eighteen Years Bondage of Satan, on the Sabbath; as for them to loose an Ox or an Ass on the same Day, and lead them to watering? At which his Adversaries were silenc'd and exceedingly asham'd, while the People highly joyc'd at his glorious Actions. Wherefore that he might prevent them them from being discourag'd at the mean and small Beginnings of his Kingdom, he compar'd its ipreading Nature to a Grain of Mustard Seed, which in Time comes to be the largest of Herbs; and to a small Quantity of Leaven, which in a short Time diffuses it self through a large Mass of Bread.

IV. A little above two Months after the Feast of Tabernacles, our Lord, after several Removals, repaired again to Jerusalem, at the Feast of Dedication, which this Year began on the 13th or 14th Day of our Month December. This Feast was instituted by Judas Maccabeus, in Memory of his Dedication of the Temple, after he had clear'd that and the Altar from the horrid Prophanations of Antiochus Epiphanes; and was annually celebrated in the Month Casleu, and continu'd with great Solemnity eight Days. Jesus being arriv'd at this Time, and walking in the Streets on a Sabbath Day, saw a poor Man blind from his very Birth. Whereupon his Disciples, according to the Jewish Notion of Souls sinning in some pre-existent State, desir'd to be satisfy'd, Whether it was his own or his Parents Sins that caus'd this Calamity? Jesus inform'd them, That his Blindness was not upon the Account of any Sins committed by him or his Parents, but that God might more conspicuously manifest the Works of his Power: Adding, That it was his Office to do these Works in the Time allotted him, before he was taken from them; and that so long as he continu'd in the World, he was the Light and Guide of it. Then spitting upon the Ground, he form'd some Clay, and anointed the poor Man's Eyes with it; a Way the most unlikely to cure Blindness, sending him to wash in the Pool of Siloam, a Spring in the City remarkable for miraculous Accidents. The Man was obedient to his Commands; and upon his Return found his Sight perfectly restored, to the great Amazement of his Neighbours and Acquaintance; who at first doubted whether he was the same Man who sat begging in the Streets. But he assur'd them, That he was the very Person, and that a Man call'd Jesus had restored his Sight; and inform'd them how it was effected.

This surprizing Accident made some very inquisitive after Jesus; but not finding him, they carry'd the Man before the Grand Sanhedrim, to be examin'd by the Rulers. Here some of the Pharisees were very strict and uneasy; and being inform'd that the Cure was perform'd by the servile Works of making Clay and Washing, they declar'd, That this Man was not of God, because he kept not the Sabbath Day. But others cou'd not believe that a wicked Man or an Impostor cou'd work such Miracles; so that there was a great Division in the Assembly. Whereupon they ask'd the poor Man, What he thought himself; who answer'd, That he look'd upon Jesus as a Prophet. These Things were surprizing and astonishing, but they wou'd not believe the Miracle till they had sent for the Parents of the recover'd Man; of whom they enquir'd, Whether he was really their Son who was born blind, and by what Means he was restored? But they fearing the Pharisees, and knowing that they had made an Order to excommunicate any Person who shou'd acknowledge Jesus to be Christ; made Answer, That they knew the Party to be their Son, and that he was born blind, but were ignorant of the means of his Recovery, and of the Person who effected it; but that they might be thoroughly inform'd by their Son, who was of Age to answer for himself. Whereupon they call'd the Man to them a second Time, and order'd him, To give God the Glory, for they knew Jesus to be a Sinner. He answer'd, That he knew nothing of his being a Sinner; but so much he was assured of, that he had been blind, and was now recover'd. But they, restless in their Inquiries, again ask'd him, How he receiv'd his Sight? He answer'd them with some Roughness, That he already inform'd them, but to no Effect; asking them, them, Whether they design'd to be his Disciples? At which, they told him in a great Rage, That he was his Disciple, but they were Disciples of Moses; who they knew was commission'd from God; but as for this Jesus, they knew not whence he was. The Man boldly reply'd, That it was very unaccountable, that they shou'd not perceive whence that Man was, whom God had indu'd with such a miraculous Power of opening the Eyes of one born blind; a Thing never heard of since the World began: Adding, if this Man were not of God, he cou'd do nothing. This extremely provok'd them, That such a vile Sinner as he shou'd presume to teach them; and they call him out of the Assembly. As John Baptist was the first who suffer'd Death; so this was the first who suffer'd Excommunication upon the Account of the Gospel.

And excommunicated

Jesus exposes the Jews:

And proves himself to be the good Shepherd.

Jesus hearing of the poor Man's Fate, met him shortly after in some publick Place, and ask'd him, Whether he believ'd on the Son of God? He reply'd, Who is he, Lord, that I may believe on him? Jesus telling him, That he had already seen him, and that he who spoke to him was the Person; he answer'd, Lord, I believe! and immediately fell down at his Feet and adored him. Jesus turning to the People, declar'd, That he came into the World to bring an amazing Judgment, that the Blind might see, and such as saw might become blind; that is, such whose Pride hinder'd them from acknowledging their spiritual Blindness: For some of the Pharisees demanding of him, Whether they also were blind? He answer'd them, If they were sensible of their Blindness, they shou'd be freed from their Sin; but because they disown'd that Imperfection, their Sins wou'd be imputed to them. And having expos'd the Pride and Vanity of those blind Guides, he propounded to them three different Characters of such as undertook the Care of Souls, under the Parable of a Shepherd and his Sheep; teaching them, That there were some, who instead of entering by the Door of the Sheep-fold, climb'd up some other Way, like Thieves and Robbers to steal and destroy. And he explain'd this Similitude, which they did not understand, by declaring, That he was the Door, by which Men must enter either for the Government of the Flock, or the Salvation of their Souls; that all other Pretenders were no better than Thieves and Robbers. Secondly, There were others, who having enter'd by the Door, guided and govern'd the Flock as Mercenaries and Hirelings; and upon the Appearance of the Wolf abandon'd the Sheep, because they lov'd themselves only, and not the Flock. Thirdly, There were also the good Shepherds, who enter'd the Sheep-Fold with the Porter's Attendance, knew their Sheep and their Names, and were known and follow'd by them. Of these third Sort he declar'd himself to be, proving, That he was the good Shepherd, since he came to lay down his Life for his Sheep, and that willingly and freely, in Compliance to his Father's Pleasure: for as much as no Man cou'd take it away from him; and when he had laid it down, he cou'd take it up again, and none cou'd hinder him. Then he declar'd, That the Jews were not the only Sheep for whom he wou'd die; that he had other Sheep, namely, the Gentiles, whom he wou'd bring into his Fold, and out of both wou'd make up one Flock, consisting of such as heard his Voice, of whom he himself wou'd be the Shepherd alone. This Discourse rais'd a new Difference among his Auditors; some said He was possess'd and mad; but others declar'd, That a Man possess'd cou'd not utter such excellent Things, much less open the Eyes of one born blind.

Before the Conclusion of the Feast, it being Winter and cold Weather, our Saviour, according to the Custom of the Jews, walk'd in those magnificent Cloysters on the Eastern Parts of the Temple and the Court of the Gentiles, call'd by the name of Solomon's-Porch. Here the Jews soon gather'd about him, and ask'd him, How long he wou'd keep them in Suspence; requiring requiring him to tell them in positive Terms, whether he was the Messiah, or not. He made Answer, That he had already inform'd them sufficiently, but to no Effect; that the Miracles he wrought in his Father's Name were a full Evidence of his Person; but that they believ'd not, because they were none of his Sheep, who both bearkued to him, and follow'd him. And to shew them how great Losers they were by not being of his Fold, he added, That he gave to his Sheep eternal Life, and they shou'd never perish; for no Man cou'd pull them out of the all-powerful Hands of his Father, nor out of his own, because He and his Father were really One. Upon this last Expression the Jews <sup>He is in Danger of being stoned.</sup> concluded him a Blasphemer, and after the manner of the Zealots took up some of the Stones of the new Buildings to stone him. Whereupon Jesus asked them, For which of those many good Works which he had shew'd them from his Father it was that they went about to use him so barbarously? They readily made Answer, That it was not for any good Work, but for direct Blasphemy, for making himself God, whenas he was but a Man. But he made it appear, That since in the Scriptures Men were sometimes call'd Gods, they cou'd not charge him with Blasphemy, for giving himself that Name, especially him who was really the Son of God, and sanctify'd by his Father. And that he was so, he told them, was evident from his Miracles, which shou'd command their Belief, tho' his Words did not; they being real Proofs that He was in his Father, and his Father in Him. All this did not appease their Rage and Fury against him, for they sought still how they might take him, but he escap'd out of the Temple, and shortly after departed from the City.

This concluded the third Year of our Saviour's publick Ministry; in which Year a new Volume of the Sybil's Books was received, and added to the rest by a Decree of the Senate of Rome; but not well relish'd by the Emperor Tiberius, who now more and more afflicted the City and Nobility by his subtil, jealous and tyrannical Behaviour. Tho' he liv'd retir'd from Rome, and at a considerable Distance, yet the Degeneracy of the Senate, and the Business of Spies and other wicked Instruments, caus'd infinite Accusations, Punishments and Executions. This was the unfortunate State of Rome: A Concern for the Glory of the Empire, was accounted a Design of gaining it; an innocent Remembrance of Liberty, was thought an Aim to re-establish the Common-wealth; to praise Brutus and Cassius, was a Capital Crime; to bewail Augustus, a secret Offence; and every Action became liable to forc'd Interpretations; Simplicity of Discourse, they said, express'd evil Designs; a secret Silence, conceal'd mischievous Intentions; Joy, was the Hopes of the Emperor's Death; Melancholy, an Envy of his Prosperity; and Fear, the just Apprehensions of a guilty Conscience: So that Speaking or Silence, Joy or Grief, Fear or Assurance, were all Crimes, and often incurr'd the extremest Punishments. Virtue and Caution were now no Security to great Men; for it was not sufficient for them to be freed from the Corruptions of Accusers, and false Reports and Suspensions of wicked Informers, but they also stood in fear of the very Imagination of the Emperor; and when they justly thought themselves secure by the Innocence, not only of their Actions but their Thoughts also, they were often ruin'd by the Malice and Subtilty of his Conjectures.

The fourth Year of Christ's publick Ministry.

V. We are now arriv'd at the fourth and last Year of our Blessed A.D. 33. Saviour's publick Ministry, which began in the fifth Month of the nineteenth of Tiberius; a Year the most happy and memorable that ever did Tiber. 13.
or

or can happen within the whole Compass of Time; in which were brought about those glorious and stupendous Acts, the Redemption of Mankind by the Death of the Son of God, his Resurrection from the Grave, his Ascension into Heaven, the Descent of the Holy-Ghost, and the Establishment of the Christian Church. This Year began with our Lord's <sup>John 10. 40-42.</sup> Departure from Jerusalem, and his Passage over the River Jordan to Bethabara, where John had formerly baptiz'd. Here he was follow'd by great Multitudes, whom he taught according to his Custom, and cured all that were Sick and Distemper'd among them. This caus'd many new Followers and Believers, who declar'd, That tho' John wrought no Miracle, yet they had found that all was true that he had spoken of this Man.

While he continu'd in these Parts, a certain Man put a curious Question <sup>Luke 13. 23-35.</sup> to him, concerning the Number of the Blessed, whether many or few shou'd be saved: Upon which he took Occasion to advise his Auditors, <sup>His Answer concerning the Number of the Blessed;</sup> to use their quickest Endeavours to enter in at the strait Gate, for that many shou'd seek to enter it, and not be able. That when once their Time was past, and the Door shut, it wou'd be in vain for them to cry, Lord open to us! for the Master of the House wou'd then declare that he knew them not: And when they shou'd alledge, That they had eaten and drunk with him, and had heard him teach in their Streets, he wou'd command them to depart as Workers of Iniquity. That then shou'd the Jews weep and lament to see so many Heathens, from all Parts of the Earth, possess'd of the Glories of Heaven, with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, and all the Prophets, and themselves, who were Heirs of the Kingdom, thrust out; and be made the last, who were once the first. The same Day he was interrupted by some of the Pharisees, who advis'd him to depart immediately, for that Herod was resolv'd to have his Life if he stay'd in his Dominions. But Jesus knowing the Time of his Death, fearlessly bad <sup>And to Herod's Threatnings.</sup> them, Go tell that subtle Fox, that he had still some Time remaining to eject Devils and cure Diseases, and that then he shou'd consummate his Sacrifice by suffering Death at Jerusalem, which was the Place appointed, as it were, for the Slaughter of all the Prophets. Whereupon he made a most pathetick Exclamation against that unhappy City, using the same Words which we shall have occasion to remember in another Place.

Shortly after, our Saviour was invited by one of the chief of the Pharisees to dine with him on a Sabbath Day; whither he was follow'd by a <sup>He cures one sick of the Dropsy.</sup> Man sick of the Dropsy. Jesus observing the Man, first demanded of the Scribes and Pharisees then present, Whether it was lawful to heal on the Sabbath Day? But receiving no Answer, he heal'd him; and having sent him away, justify'd what he had done, by asking them Whether they would not have done as much to save an Oxe or an Ass on that Day? To which they cou'd make no Reply. Then observing that the Guests then invited endeavour'd every one for the chief Places at the Table, he took that Occasion to reprove such proud Contention for Precedence; telling them, That when any Man was invited to a Feast, it was not Wisdom in him to take the highest Place, lest he shou'd be forc'd with Disgrace to remove lower, to make Room for some more honourable Person: But on the contrary, it was best to take the lowest Place, that so he who invited him might, if there were Cause, make him go higher, which would gain him more Honour among the Guests: For that the Proud shou'd be debased, and the Humble exalted. After thus instructing the Guests, he then turn'd his Discourse to the Master of the House, whom he found too regardless of the Poor and Needy; advising him in his Feasts, Not to invite his rich Neighbours and Relations, who wou'd be sure to return his Invitation; but rather the Poor, Blind, Lame and Impotent, who cou'd make no Returns; for that God wou'd recompence such charitable Acts at the Resurrection of the Just. One of the Company hearing these <sup>Luke 14. 1-24.</sup>

these last Words, repeated that known Saying among the Rabbins, ' Blessed is he that shall eat Bread in the Kingdom of God. Whereon Jesus spake a Parable to them of a certain Man who made a noble Entertainment, and having invited many considerable Guests, sent his Servants to desire their Company just when the Supper was ready: But they all made Excuses; one had purchas'd Land, another had bought Oxen, a third had lately marry'd, and all refus'd to come. This very much enrag'd the Master of the Feast, who in all Haste sent into the Streets and Lanes of the City, and gather'd together all the poor, lame and impotent Wretches that were to be found. But finding still that he had much Room for more Guests, he order'd his Servants to go out of the City, into the High-Ways and Hedges, and use Compulsion to such as they found, that his House might be fill'd; solemnly declaring, That not one of the first invited Guests shou'd taste of his Supper: Intimating by this Parable, that the principal of the Jews shou'd be rejected, while the most despicable Part of them in the Streets and Lanes, and the poor Gentiles in the High-Ways and Hedges, shou'd be receiv'd.

25-35.

Jesus pursuing his Progress, was follow'd by great Multitudes; and well knowing the unsound Minds of many of them, he declar'd to them, as formerly to his Apostles, That whosoever hated not his Father and Mother, his Wife and Children, his Brothers and Sisters, and his own Life also, when it came in Competition with Him, cou'd not be his Disciple. And that they might not fail in the Day of Tryal, he advis'd them to cast up before-hand, what a real Possession of Christianity might cost them: That as a Man who intends to build a Tower, ought first to compute whether he be able to defray the full Charges of it, lest he shou'd be afterwards laugh'd at for his Folly; and as a King who makes War with another King, ought first to consider whether he has sufficient Power to engage him, and be provided with all Necessaries for such an Undertaking: So they ought to consider whether they cou'd be content to relinquish all to be his Disciples. Adding farther, That his Followers ought to be the Salt and Seasoning of the World, which if it once lost its Savour, was the most uselefs and unprofitable Thing in Nature.

He exhorts his Followers to Prudence by two Examples.

Luke 15.
1-32.

Among the great Multitudes that daily follow'd our Saviour, were many Publicans and others of a wicked Life, who throng'd to hear his Discourses; which gave great Offence to the proud Scribes and Pharisees, who murmur'd at his condescending Goodness, in freely conversing and eating with such infamous People. Therefore to convince them, that their Complaints were unreasonable, he ask'd them, Whether if a Man had a hundred Sheep, and one of them stray'd, he wou'd not leave his ninety nine, and seek for that One; and when he had found it, wou'd not take it upon his Shoulders with great Joy, and call in his Friends to congratulate his good Fortune? And in the like Manner, whether a Woman, who had ten Pieces of Silver, if she shou'd lose one of them, wou'd not sweep the whole House for it; and upon finding it, rejoyce with her Neighbours: Telling them, That as in those Cases the finding of the Sheep and Piece of Silver, wou'd cause greater Joy than all the rest that were never lost; so the Conversion of one profligate Sinner, wou'd cause greater Joy among the Angels in Heaven, than ninety nine Persons who were never in that State. Which Truth he then farther explain'd and prov'd by another excellent Parable. There was a Man who had two Sons, and the younger of them having receiv'd his Portion of Goods from his Father, travell'd into a foreign Country, and spent it all in Lewdness and Debauchery. After he had consum'd and devour'd all, he was necessitated through Want and a Famine to keep Swine to get a hard Livelyhood; and in this abandon'd Condition, reflecting upon his Folly and Misery, he resolv'd to return to his Father, and humbly acknowledging his Fault, to beg his Favour to entertain

entertain him again, not as his Son, but his Domestick Servant, that he might not perish with Hunger. As soon as his Father saw him at a Distance, he was affected with an extraordinary Joy and Compassion; and running to him, fell on his Neck, and kiss'd him; while the Son, not elevated with this Kindness, with the profoundest Marks of Sorrow and Humility, declar'd, That he had sinned against Heaven, and before him, and was not worthy to be call'd his Son. This free Confession wrought an entire Reconciliation to his Father; who in all Haste stripp'd him of his Rags, call'd for the richest Habit for him, and made a magnificent Feast in his House, to rejoice for his Return. This generous Action was highly displeasing to the elder Brother; who returning out of the Field, and perceiving the Musick and Jollity, refus'd to enter into the House, because his Father had shewn greater Respect to his lewd extravagant Brother, than ever he had to him, tho' he had always been very faithful in his Duty towards him. This being objected to his Father, he made Answer, That he was always with him, and all that he had was his; but it was Necessary to feast and rejoice over his Brother, whose Case was extraordinary, having been dead and restor'd to Life, lost and found again. By these Parables, he not only display'd the Tenderness of God, and his Readiness to accept to Mercy all true Penitents; but also, under the Name of the elder Brother, he reprov'd the unjust Murmurs of the Pharisees, who were displeas'd at his entertaining Sinners, tho' the Salvation of such was the main End of his coming into the World.

He reproves their Covetousness by the Parable of the unjust Steward;

After Jesus had expos'd the Pride and Envy of the Pharisees, he proceed-<sup>Luke 16, 1-12</sup>ed to reprove their Covetousness, in another Parable propounded to his Disciples; which was of a certain rich Man, who had resolv'd to call his Steward to an Account, and to remove him from his Place, having receiv'd an Accusation against him, that he had embezled his Goods: The Steward finding himself in Danger of being reduc'd to a shameful Begging, or to such Labour as he cou'd not sustain, invented this Project to make up his Loss, and cause others to entertain him; he call'd all his Lord's Debtors, one by one, and discharg'd them of a Part of their Debts; permitting him who owed a hundred Barrels of Oil, to set down but fifty in his Bill; and him who owed a hundred Measures of Wheat, to make it but eighty; and proportionably the rest. Then he taught his Disciples not to imitate the Injustice, but the Forecast and Policy of this Steward, by employing their earthly Riches to make them Friends in the Persons of the Poor, by that Means to be receiv'd into everlasting Habitations in Heaven; so that the Children of Light might not be less prudent in Things relating to their Salvation, than the Children of this World were in the Management of their temporal Affairs. After which he taught them, That as Men were faithful or unjust in smaller Things, they ought to be so accounted in greater: So that if they were unfaithful Stewards of the Riches of this World, they shou'd not be entrusted with the Riches of Heaven: And that God and the World's Riches were two such contrary Masters, as no Man cou'd serve at the same Time.

The covetous Pharisees heard these Truths with Contempt, and derided the Pronouncer of them; but Jesus sharply reprov'd their horrible Pride and Hypocrisie, and their Affectation of the Esteem of Men, which was abominable in the Sight of God; and the more culpable in them, because they liv'd in the Time of the Preaching of the Kingdom of God, which began at John, and was press'd into by all the inferior People. And tho' it was easier for Heaven and Earth to be dissolv'd, than one Tittle of the Moral Law to fail, yet they had endeavour'd to weaken it by their Traditions; particularly the seventh Commandment, which they frequently broke by permitting and practising Divorces upon unjustifiable Grounds. Then, as it were, re-assuming his Discourse<sup>Luke 16, 14-31</sup> against against Covetousness, he propounded a most affecting Parable or Example of a certain pamper'd rich Man, every Day enjoying the Pleasures of Diet and Habit, Ease and Luxury; and of a certain miserable Beggar nam'd Lazarus, laid at his Gate cover'd all over with Ulcers, and so oppress'd with Hunger, that he beg'd to be fed with the Crums that fell from the other's Table, but cou'd not obtain that Charity from the hard-hearted Wretch; whose Dogs, more merciful than their Master, went and apply'd their healing Tongues to his Sores. At the Deaths of these two, their Fates were as different as their Lives; the poor Man was transported by the Angels into Abraham's Bosom, the Place of the most perfect Felicity; the rich Man had the Honour of a splendid Funeral, but his Soul was carry'd to the dismal Regions of Hell: From whence, in the midst of his Torments, beholding the Happiness of the Beggar whom he had contemn'd, he cry'd out to Abraham for Mercy, begging, That he wou'd send Lazarus but with one Drop of Water to cool his Tongue, for he sustain'd unexpressible Torments in that Flame. But the holy Patriarch told him, That it was just, that as he had enjoy'd all the Pleasures in his Life Time, and Lazarus born all the Miseries, that he shou'd meet with Torments, and the other with Comfort. And farther, That it was impossible to afford him Relief, by reason of that vast Abyss between them, that cut off all Intercourse whatsoever: The rich Man perceiving that there was no Mercy to be obtain'd for himself, thought of his five Brothers, then living in the same Luxury and Riot; beseeching Abraham to send Lazarus and give them an Account of his miserable Condition, to prevent their Coming into the same Place of Torment. But Abraham reply'd, That they had the Holy Scriptures, which were sufficient to teach them their Duty. Whereupon the other alledg'd, That if one went to them from the Dead, it wou'd work a certain Repentance. But the Patriarch gave him this peremptory Answer, That if Men refus'd to hearken to the Holy Scriptures, they wou'd never be persuaded by one who arose from the Dead. This Parable not only shew'd the miserable Fate of covetous and uncharitable Persons, but also hinted at the Destruction of the unbelieving Jews, who wou'd neither hearken to Moses and the Prophets, nor to Jesus rising from the Dead.

And the Example of Dives and Lazarus

Luke 17.
11-19.

Then Jesus turning to his Disciples, acquainted them as formerly, That it was impossible to prevent Scandals and Offences, but that it wou'd be dismal to that Person who caus'd them: That he who scandaliz'd or discourag'd the least Believer, had better be plung'd into the Ocean with a Millstone about his Neck: That it was their Duty to admonish and reprove an offending Brother, and to pardon him if he repented, tho' he trespass'd seven Times in one Day. The Apostles apprehending some Difficulty in his Injunctions, pray'd, That he wou'd increase their Faith; Jesus answer'd them, That if their Faith were but true, one Grain of it wou'd be of sufficient Force to command that Sycamore Tree to be remov'd into the midst of the Sea. Then to remove from them all Thoughts of Merit, when they had done their best Services, he propounded an Example of a Servant, who after his Return from Ploughing and other Labour in the Field, was not immediately to find Ease and Refreshment, but to wait and attend his Master till he thought fit; and after he had us'd his utmost Diligence, was not to expect Thanks from his Master, as tho' he was oblig'd to him. And so likewise that they, when they had observ'd all the Commands of God, were to account themselves unworthy and unprofitable Servants, for that they had only perform'd their Duty.

He advises his Disciples against Scandals;

And the Thoughts of Merit.

Luke 17.
11-19.

VI. After two Months Absence from Jerusalem, our Lord designing to begin his last Journey toward that City, pass'd between Galilee and Samaria;

Jesus cures ten Lepers. Samaria, to take a short Circuit beyond Jordan in Peræa, and to enter Judæa not far from Jericho. In his Passage towards Jordan, at a certain Village, he saw ten Men together, all Lepers, who standing at a Distance, cry'd out; Jesus, our Master, have Pity on us! Jesus only order'd them to go and shew themselves to the Priests, according to the Law; which they obeying, were cur'd in the Way. One of them, who was a Samaritan, and a Stranger in Respect of the Jews, immediately return'd back, glorifying God, and cast himself at our Lord's Feet, to return him Thanks for the extraordinary Favour. Jesus to shew the Gratitude of this Man, said in a kind of Astonishment, Were there not Ten cleansed? Where then are the other Nine? It is surprizing, that none shou'd return to give God Glory for such a Mercy, but this Stranger. And he said to him, Arise, and depart, thy Faith has been thy Cure.

He shews the Coming of his Kingdom. About this Time, the Pharisees, who waited for the Coming of the Messiah, and had drawn up a Romantick Scheme, that he shou'd appear with the utmost Glory of a temporal Monarch, demanded of him, When the Kingdom of God shou'd come? He answer'd them, That it shou'd not appear with outward Pomp and Splendor, nor be confin'd to any particular Place, but that it was already come, and was begun amongst them. From hence he took an Occasion to acquaint his Disciples, That the Time wou'd come when they shou'd desire to enjoy his Presence but one Day, but shou'd not see him: That his next Coming shou'd be sudden and glorious, like a Flash of Lightning flying along the Skies; but that he must first suffer many Things, and be rejected by the Jews. That as it was in the Days of Noah, when Men eat, and drank, and marry'd, not thinking upon the Flood, till it came suddenly upon them, and consum'd them; so it shou'd be at the Time of his second Coming: And that as the Fire from Heaven fell unexpectedly upon the Inhabitants of Sodom; so shou'd his Coming be, to take Vengeance upon the Jewish Nation, as unexpected as that. That then all their Thoughts shou'd be employ'd in saving themselves, without looking behind them, either to pity or save others; remembring the Fate of Lot's Wife, who for looking back was chang'd into a Pillar of Salt. That such as us'd any unchristian Course to save their Lives, shou'd lose them; but that such as ventur'd them, as they ought, shou'd preserve them. And that in that Time there shou'd be much of God's distinguishing Mercy and Providence discern'd, in rescuing some, and leaving others to perish by the Calamity. His Disciples asking him, Where these Things shou'd happen; he hinted to them, That Jerusalem and Judæa shou'd be the Carcass, that shou'd be torn in Pieces by the Roman Eagles.

He teaches Fer- vency in Prayer by the Parable of the unjust Judge; At the same Time Jesus taught his Disciples not to faint, nor be weary of Prayer; and to shew of how great Advantage it was to pray with Fer- vency and Perseverance, he propounded a Parable of a poor Widow, who by her continu'd Importunity alone, prevail'd with an unjust Judge to vindicate her Wrongs, tho' he fear'd neither God nor Man. And if so, much more might they expect that the just God wou'd revenge his Elect, who cry'd to him Day and Night, tho' he seem'd slow in the Execution. He farther inform'd them, That this Vengeance against the unbelieving Jews shou'd be speedy; yet he intimated, that at his Coming to take it, he shou'd find but little Faith, but little of that patient Waiting for God, which he had been urging. Then to shew that Humility in Prayer was as Necessary as Perseverance, and to beat down the Pride and Confidence of the Pharisees, he deliver'd another Parable: Two Men went up into the Temple to pray, the one a Pharisee, a Man of Repute, the other a Publican, a Man of Infamy; the former went boldly up to the chief Place, and pray'd after this Manner, God, I thank thee, I am not such a Sinner as other Men are, I am no Extortioner, not Unjust, no Adulterer, nor like you Publican; I fast twice twice every Week, and pay Tithes of all Things I possess. But the poor Publican on the other Side, standing at a Distance in the Court of the Gentiles, out of a deep Sense of his Unworthiness, and not daring to lift up his Eyes towards Heaven, beat upon his Breast, and cry'd, Lord, be merciful to me a Sinner! Then Jesus declar'd, That this latter departed more acceptable to God than the other; for that the Proud shou'd be debased, and the Humble be exalted.

Shortly after, Jesus cross'd the River Jordan into Peræa, where he was follow'd again by vast Multitudes of People, whom he both taught, and cured of such Distempers as they had. Here the Pharisees came to him, and demanded of him, Whether it was lawful for a Man to put away his Wife for every Cause? By which Question they thought to ensnare him; for if he answer'd affirmatively, it wou'd contradict his former Doctrine; if negatively, it might render him odious to many of the People: Whereupon he ask'd them, What Moses commanded in the Law? They reply'd, That Moses allow'd them to put away their Wives, upon giving them a Writing to testifie their Divorcement. But Jesus referr'd them to the first Institution of Marriage by God himself; where it was declar'd, when Male and Female were created, That a Man shou'd leave Father and Mother and cleave to his Wife, and that they two shou'd become one Flesh: And that therefore seeing God had united them, Man ought not to separate them. They still insisted upon the Permission given them by Moses; but he answer'd them, That Moses allow'd it only for the Hardness of their Hearts, but that from the Beginning it was otherwise: That therefore whosoever put away his Wife, unless in the Case of Whoredom, and marry'd another, was an Adulterer; and whoever marry'd the divorced Party, was Guilty of the same Sin. His Disciples when they had retir'd to a House, consulted him again upon the same Subject, and he return'd them the same Answer; from whence they made this Conclusion, That if the nuptial Laws were so strict, it was better not to marry at all. Jesus told them, That the Purity of a single Life was attainable by only a few, whom either Nature had befriended, or human Force had rendred incapable of Marriage, or whom the ardent Desire of Heaven had enabled to preserve a consummate Chastity. And since all Men were not capable of so great a Virtue, he concluded with these Words, He who is able to observe it, let him do so: That is to say, He who has the Gift of Continence bestow'd on him, let him use it; it is more commendable for such an one to live single.

Several of the Company perceiving how ready our Lord was to do good to all who came to him, brought little Children to him, that he might lay his Hands upon them and bless them. His Disciples, thinking it unfit that their Master shou'd be disturb'd and interrupted by Infants, rebuked and spoke roughly to the Persons who brought them. But Jesus, who had shewn his Regard to such not long before, was displeas'd at this Action, and order'd them, To suffer, and not forbid little Children to come to him and be his Disciples, for to such belonged the Kingdom of Heaven: Solemnly declaring, That whosoever receiv'd not the Kingdom of God with the Humility and Simplicity of a little Child, shou'd never enter into it. After this, he took the Children up in his Arms, laid his Hands upon them, and blessed them; and then departed from thence.

As Jesus was on his Journey, a young Person of Quality, of great Riches and Authority, ran to him, and humbly upon his Knees propos'd to him this important Question; Good Master, what good Thing must I do to obtain eternal Life? Jesus knowing that he took him for a Man only, first ask'd him, Why he gave him the Title of Good, which only belong'd to God himself: And then in Answer to his Question told him, that if he expected eternal Life, he must begin with keeping the Commandments. The young Man asking him, which which of them he must keep, he referr'd him to all the Commandments of the second Table, as a certain Sign of his Keeping those of the first, and nam'd them distinctly to him. Upon which he return'd a ready Answer, That he had kept all these from his Youth, desiring to know, in what he was yet defective. Jesus looking on him, shew'd some Signs of Love and Pity towards one who was so solicitous concerning his eternal Happiness; but withal knowing his Covetousness, and willing to touch the secret Sore of his Mind, he gave him this extraordinary Command to try him; namely, That he shou'd go and sell all that he had, and distribute it to the Poor, and take up his Cross and follow him; telling him that if he did so, he shou'd meet with a greater, and more certain Treasure in Heaven. This was like a Thunder-Clap to the young Gentleman, who being unable to endure the Thoughts of parting with so vast an Estate, tho' for Heaven it self, departed with great Sorrow and Concern. Jesus seeing him thus troubled, look'd round about him, and declar'd to his Disciples, That it was extremely difficult for a rich Man to enter into the Kingdom of Heaven. And because they were much surpriz'd at these Words, he repeated the same Truth to them; saying, Little Children, how hard is it for such as trust in their Riches, to enter into the Kingdom of God! It is easier for a Camel to pass through the Eye of a Needle, than for such to pass into Heaven. This Assertion encreas'd the Astonishment of the Apostles, who thereupon said one to another, Who then can be saved? But Jesus remov'd their Fears by letting them know, That tho' these Things were impossible with Men, they were not so with God, who cou'd change the Hearts and Affections of Men as he pleas'd.

And Reprehension of Covetousness.

The Apostles having heard what Reward Jesus had promis'd to the young Man in Exchange for his earthly Riches, Peter in the Name of the rest, desir'd to know, What Reward they might expect, since they had relinquish'd all and follow'd him? Jesus reply'd, That at the general Resurrection, when he himself shou'd be seated upon his Throne of Glory, they also shou'd sit upon twelve Thrones, judging the twelve Tribes of Israel: Declaring farther, That not only they, but whosoever shou'd forsake his House and Lands, his Kindred and Relations, for His and the Gospel's Sake, shou'd receive such Comforts in this World, with his Persecutions, as shou'd vastly exceed his former Losses, and in the World to come Eternal Life. But to teach them, that the first may come to be last, and the last first; and to shew them, that these high Rewards proceeded from the Bounty of Heaven, and not Mens Merits, he propounded this remarkable Parable. A certain Master of a Family went out early in a Morning to hire Labourers into his Vineyard; and agreeing with several at certain Wages, amounting to seven Pence half Penny of our Mony, he sent them immediately to work: About the third Hour of the Day, he found other Labourers unemploy'd, whom he also sent to work in his Vineyard; telling them, That he would give them what was reasonable. About the sixth and the ninth Hour he did the same, and also about the last Hour of the Day, still sending in new Labourers, with the same Promise of giving them what was reasonable. At Night, when all were to receive their Wages, he order'd his Steward to begin with the last Comers, and to pay them the same Wages that he had promis'd to the first; which caus'd the other to expect more, and to murmur against the Master for equalling those who had wrought but one Hour, to them who had labour'd a whole Day. But the Master reprov'd their invidious Complaints, and made it appear, That he did them no Injury, because he paid them according to Agreement; and for the rest, it was lawful to give them as much as he pleas'd. Thus those Workmen who most valu'd their Labour, notwithstanding they had wrought longest, were last regarded, and least esteem'd; and those who had least Confidence, were first rewarded, and liberally treated. whence Jesus concluded, That the last shou'd be first, and the first last: For many were called, but few were chosen.

VII. Our Blessed Saviour continu'd not many Days in Peræa, before he received a Message out of Judæa from two Sisters of Bethany, Martha and Mary, of the dangerous Sickness of their Brother Lazarus, a Person whom he lov'd in a particular Manner. Jesus made Answer, that his Sickness was not irrecoverable, but inflicted on him to manifest both the Glory of God, and of his Son; therefore, tho' he had a special Kindness for the Family, he hastned not, but tarry'd two Days still in the same Place. After that he propos'd to the Apostles his Returning into Judæa; but they, apprehensive of their own as well as his Danger, objected the late Endeavours of the Jews to stone him, and were surpriz'd at his Design. Jesus acquainted them, That his Time, like each particular Day, had its stated Length, in which he might walk in the Light without Danger, till the Night shou'd put a period to it. Then he added, That their Friend Lazarus was fallen asleep, but he wou'd go and awake him. His Disciples understanding his Words literally, made answer, That his sleeping wou'd prove his Cure, therefore he need not go: But he told them in plain Terms, That Lazarus was really dead, and that for their Sakes, and to confirm their Faith, he was glad that he was not present at the Time; but that however now he wou'd go to the Place. Thomas finding his Master resolv'd to go into Judæa, where there was so much Danger, with no little Courage cry'd out, Let us go also, and venture our Lives with him.

Jesus is sent for by Martha and Mary.

In this Journey, the Apostles Minds were fill'd with discouraging and melancholy Apprehensions; and Jesus, to arm and prepare them against the Scandal of the Cross, taking them apart, declared a third Time, That he must go up to Jerusalem, where all Things that were written by the Prophets concerning him shou'd be fully accomplish'd; particularly that he shou'd be deliver'd up to the Jewish Governors, the chief Priests and Scribes, who shou'd pronounce him Guilty of Death, and turn him over to the Gentiles, from whom he shou'd meet with the highest Indignities, and Crucifixion it self: But that he shou'd rise again the third Day. But they still conceiving and expecting a temporal Kingdom, were at a Loss; and, as the Gospel observes, knew not the Things that were spoken. In hopes therefore of this imaginary Greatness, and supposing the Resurrection he had spoken of to be the Beginning of his terrestrial Kingdom, the two Sons of Zebedee, by the Mouth of their Mother Salome, humbly petition'd, That they two might have the Honour of Sitting one at his right Hand, and the other at his Left in his Kingdom; as the Heads of Judah and Joseph had the first Places among the Rulers of the Tribes of Israel. Jesus immediately condemn'd their Rashness, and first ask'd them, Whether, as a Qualification for his Kingdom, they were able to endure that bitter Cup, and that bloody Baptism that were appointed for himself? They, without considering the Consequence, answer'd, That they were able. Jesus mercifully bearing with their Infirmities, told them, That they shou'd partake with him in his Cup and his Baptism, but that the great Honour of the chief Places of his Kingdom was to be dispos'd of according to the Pre-determination of his Father. The Ambition of these two extremely provok'd the Indignation of the other Ten; but Jesus to cure their Jealousie, as well as the others Ambition, declar'd to them all, That his Kingdom was far different from those of this World, whose Princes and Governors strove to exercise their utmost Power and Dominion over their Subjects; whereas, whosoever expected to be Great and Chief among his Followers, must be a Servant to the rest; according to the Example of himself, who came not to be waited on, but to serve others, and even to lay down his Life for their Redemption.

Jesus goes to Jericho;

Where he converts Zaccheus.

Jesus crossing the River Jordan into Judæa, soon after pass'd through Jericho, a celebrated City, second to Jerusalem, and about twenty Miles almost East of it. In this City resided a certain general Collector among the Publicans called Zaccheus, a Man very rich, and not a little desirous of Seeing Jesus: But because the great Throngs prevented him, he ran before, and being of a very small Stature, climb'd up into a Sycamore Tree, in a Place by which he knew he was to pass. Our Lord, knowing the Hearts of Men, and being pleas'd with his Earnestness and Zeal, as he pass'd by, call'd him by his Name from the Tree, and desired him to hasten down, for he design'd to be his Guest that Day. This Call was receiv'd with great Joy and Satisfaction by Zaccheus; while others murmur'd and reflected upon Jesus for entering the House of a Man of so Scandalous a Profession. But he made it appear by the miraculous Change wrought in the Heart of this Publican, that he went thither only as a Physician for the Cure of a distemper'd Family; for Zaccheus presenting himself before him, solemnly declar'd, That he would give even half of his Estate to the Poor, and if he had knowingly wrong'd any Man, he wou'd restore him fourfold. Whereupon our Lord pronounc'd, That Salvation was come to his House, and that he was a Son of Abraham as well as others; for that the Son of Man was come to seek and to save what was lost. The Parable of the ten pieces deliver'd to ten Servants.

All those who were present, harkned to Jesus with great Attention; and as they were near to Jerusalem, they thought that the glorious and imaginary Reign of the Messiah wou'd immediately commence, supposing that Jesus had undertaken this Journey to the Passover to seat himself upon his Throne, and to be install'd in his Kingdom. But he knowing their Thoughts and Expectations, propounded this Parable to them: A certain great and noble Man, being ready for a Journey into a foreign Country, in order to take Possession of a Kingdom just fallen to him, call'd all his Servants, and gave to every one an equal but small Sum of Money to trade withall, and improve, till he shou'd return. Some of his Country-Men, who hated him, sent after him, and declared that they wou'd not admit of him for their Governor: But notwithstanding this Opposition, having obtain'd this new Kingdom, he return'd again, and first call'd his Servants to Account to whom he had intrusted his Money: And finding that one of them had improv'd his Money to ten Times, and the other to five Times the Sum, he munificently rewarded the Industry of the first with the Government of ten, and of the second with the Government of five Cities. But calling a third Servant, who instead of trading with his Money, had carefully lock'd it up, fearing, as he pretended, the great Severity of his Master, and not daring to hazard what was intrusted to him, the King immediately condemn'd him by his own Words, and that his fearing a severe Account was an Aggravation of his Neglect; therefore he took away his Money and gave it to him whom he had most bountifully rewarded; declaring, That all who improv'd what they had shou'd have more, but that the others shou'd lose all. This done, he summon'd all those who refus'd to acknowledge him for their Governor, and ordered them to be put to Death in his Presence. By this Parable our Saviour intimated not only the Punishment of negligent Christians, but also the Destruction of the contumacious Jews. Luke 19. 11-27.

Jesus cures two blind Men near Jericho.

The next Day, Jesus leaving Jericho, and being accompany'd with great Multitudes, a certain blind Man, named Bartimeus, the Son of Timeus, who sat by the Way-side begging, being inform'd of the Meaning of this great Concourse of People, and hearing that Jesus pass'd by, cry'd out with another Blind Man in the same Road, Jesus, thou Son of David, have Mercy on me! The People who accompany'd Jesus, especially those who went Mark 10. 46-52.
Matth. 20. 29-34.

went before him, spoke roughly to him, urging him to keep Silence; but he cry'd out so much the louder, as also did his Companion, Thou Son of David, have mercy on me! Jesus, who had cured another blind Man at his Entrance into Jericho, stood still, and commanded him to be called; which caus'd some about him to bid him be of good Courage since Jesus call'd him. Bartimeus immediately cast away his Garment, arose and went with his Companion to Jesus; who asked them both, What Favour they expected from him? They answer'd, Lord! that thou wouldst open our Eyes. Whereupon our Saviour, being mov'd with Compassion, and pleas'd with their ready Faith, touch'd their Eyes, and immediately they receiv'd their Sight, and followed him, glorifying the Almighty God; as likewise did all the People, who had been Witnesses of this Miracle.

Four Days after Lazarus was bury'd, our Lord arriv'd at Bethany, within two Miles of Jerusalem, where many of the Jews from Jerusalem had repair'd to condole the with two Sisters Martha and Mary, for the Loss of their Brother. Before he enter'd the Town, Martha with great Eagerness met him, and in a most pathetick Manner cry'd out, Lord! if thou hadst been here, my Brother had not dyed. Adding, That she was certain, that still God wou'd grant whatsoever he pleas'd to ask; doubting as it were, his, tho' not his Father's Power. Jesus assur'd her, That her Brother shou'd rise again; which she readily granted, but believ'd it shou'd be at the general Resurrection at the last Day. Whereupon Jesus declar'd, That the Resurrection and the Life depended upon him alone, That such as believ'd in him, if they were dead, shou'd be restor'd to Life, and farther, such as liv'd and believ'd in him, shou'd not die eternally: Demanding, Whether she believ'd he had such a Power? She assented to all at once; declaring, That she believ'd him to be the promis'd Messiah, the Son of the living God. After this Discourse, she return'd to her Sister Mary, and told her privately, That the Master was come and expected to see her; upon which she immediately rose up, and hastned to the Place where Martha left him; which sudden Action caus'd the Jews to follow her at a Distance, supposing that according to Custom, she went to lament at her Brother's Tomb. Mary approaching the Blessed Jesus, fell prostrate at his Feet, and with the profoundest Marks of Sorrow, cry'd, Lord! If thou hadst been here, my Brother had not dy'd. Her Tears and Sorrow, accompany'd with the Lamentations of her Followers, affected the Son of God, so that he groan'd within himself; shewing his Indignation against Sin, which had drawn on Death and this Affliction. Then demanding where they had bury'd the Body, he follow'd them to the Place, sympathizing with them, and weeping as well as they; which occasion'd some of the Jews to say, Observe how he lov'd him! while others maliciously ask'd, Could not he, who open'd the Eyes of the Blind, have prevented this Man's Death? Jesus still manifesting the same Perturbation of Mind, came to the Grave, which was a Pit, with a Stone laid at the Mouth of it, which Stone he commanded to be remov'd; but Martha objected, That the Body had been now dead four Days, and that the opening of the Grave wou'd only occasion a noisom Smell. Jesus reprov'd her Infidelity, and told her, She might expect to see the Glory of God Manifested in him. Then the Stone being remov'd he solemnly lift up his Eyes to Heaven, and pray'd; saying, Father, I thank thee that thou hast heard me; I know that thou hearest me at all Times; but I speak this because of these People who stand by, that they may be convinc'd and assur'd of my Divine Mission. Having spoken these Words, he cry'd with a loud Voice, Lazarus, come forth: And immediately he arose from his Bed of Darknes, having his Hands and Feet bound with Grave-Clothes, and his Head wrapp'd with a Napkin; all which Jesus order'd to be loos'd. This was the third and greatest Miracle

This solemn and incontestable Miracle caus'd the greatest Surprise and Astonishment to all the Spectators, and convinc'd the greatest Part of them, who from that Time believ'd in Jesus; but others more obdurate, reported the Matter in Jerusalem to his mortal Enemies the Pharisees. Upon which Report immediately the grand Sanhedrim met, and had a solemn Debate, What they shou'd do, since this Man had wrought many Miracles? That if they thus permitted him to go on, all the Nation wou'd believe him to be the Messiah; and that then the Romans fearing he should set up for a King, and withdraw the People from their Obedience, wou'd come and destroy their City and Nation. Whereupon the High-Priest Caiphas stood up, and very imperiously deliver'd his Opinion, That they understood nothing, nor consider'd, that the publick Safety was first to be consulted, that it was necessary for one Man to die, rather than a whole Nation shou'd perish. Thus did this wretched Man express the cruel Motions of his Hatred against the Son of God; but tho' he knew nothing of the Designs of Heaven for the Salvation of Mankind, yet God was pleas'd at this Time to honour his Priesthood in the Person of his High-Priest, and prophecy'd by his Mouth of the Death which Jesus shou'd suffer, to save not only the Jews, but also to gather together into one Church the Children of God, which were dispersed in all other Nations. This Advice was so well approv'd by the rest, that from that Time the Priests and Pharisees sought all Opportunities to put him to Death; and to that End issu'd out Orders, That if any Man knew where he was, he shou'd discover him, that he might be apprehended. But because his Hour was not yet come, tho' it drew very near, he declin'd their Fury for a short Time, by not appearing in Publick, but retiring into a desert Place, and a little City call'd Ephraim, not far from Jericho, where he continu'd a few Days with his Apostles.

Six Days before this last Passover, our Lord, in Order to go up to Jeru- John 12.

salem, repaired again to Bethany, where he was gratefully entertain'd at a Supper by the two Sisters; Martha waited, but Lazarus whom he had rais'd, was one of those who sat at the Table with him. This Supper was made upon a Sabbath Night, which, according to Custom, was always more plentiful than any other; and Mary, to express her Love and Bounty, took a Pound of the most valuable Ointment compos'd of Spikenard, and anointed the Feet of Jesus, and wiped them with the Hair of her Head; and the whole House was fill'd with the fragrant Perfumes. The Sight of this costly Entertainment provok'd the corrupt Humours of Judas Iscariot, who complain'd, That this might have been sold for 300 Denarii, about 9l. 7s. 6d. of our Money, and given to the Poor; not that he valu'd the Poor, but, as the Gospel observes, that he might gratifie his Avarice. But Jesus order'd him Not to hinder her, for she had reserv'd it against the Day of his Funeral; and they had always Opportunity to shew their Charity to the Poor, but not so to him. At this Supper great Numbers of Jews out of Curiosity came to Bethany, not only to gain a Sight of Jesus, but also of Lazarus, whom he had miraculously rais'd from the Dead. But the chief Priests out of Fear and Envy consulted also to put Lazarus to death, because that by Means of his Resurrection many of the Jews believ'd and were converted to Christ.

P A L M - S U N D A Y.

VIII. The following Day after our Saviour's Supper at Bethany, began March 29. the last great Week of his Passion, which was the Tenth Day of the Month Nisan, answering to our 29th of March, and was the same Day that the Paschal Lamb was taken up and presented at Jerusalem. On this Day, our Lord, designing no longer to avoid the Fury of the Jews, resolved to make his publick and Kingly Entry into Jerusalem, and present himself in the Temple as the true Lamb of God, that was to take away the Sins of the World. Therefore leaving Bethany in the Morning, and taking his Disciples and others with him, he arriv'd at a Place call'd Bethpage, upon Mount Olivet, somewhat less than a Mile from Jerusalem: From whence he sent two of his Apostles, probably Peter and John, to a neighbouring Village, telling them, That at a Place where two Ways met, they shou'd find a She-Ass, and a Colt with her that was never back'd; ordering them, to loose them both and bring them to him: And that if the Owner interrupted them, they shou'd let him know, That the Lord had Occasion for them; upon their saying those Words, he wou'd freely let them go: Shewing by this his Divine Power over the Hearts and Wills of Men. The two Apostles exactly obey'd this Order, and finding all Things as Jesus had foretold, they brought the Ass and Colt to him; and laying their Garments upon the latter, they mounted Jesus upon him, who in that solemn Manner rode to Jerusalem; accomplishing thereby that Prophecie of Zechary, Fear not, Daughter of Sion, behold thy King cometh, full of Meekness, and riding upon the Colt of an Ass. In the meantime, the People who repaired to the Feast, being inform'd by several Eye-Witnesses of the Resurrection of Lazarus, and excited by an extraordinary Impulse, came running out of the City in mighty Throngs to meet Jesus with Branches of Palm-Trees in their Hands, crying out, Hosanna! Salvation and Glory! Blessed be the King of Israel, who cometh in the Name of the Lord! And great Numbers of People spread their Garments in the Way, and others cut down Branches from the Trees, and strew'd them where he was to pass; hereby giving him those Honours that were us'd only in the Triumphs of Kings and Emperors. When he was arriv'd at the Descent of Mount Olivet, the whole Body of the Disciples being transported with the Honours shewn to their Master, broke out into Raptures of Thanksgiving, and loud Doxologies to God for all the mighty Works they had seen. And all the People, as well those who went before, as those who follow'd after, join'd with the Disciples in their triumphant Acclamations; so that Jesus was furrounded with solemn Shouts and Applauses, crying still, Hosanna! Honour to the Son of David! Blessed be he that cometh in the Name of the Lord: Blessed be the Kingdom of our Father David, which we have now seen: Hosanna! Peace and Honour in the highest Heavens!

The Pharisees cou'd not see such extraordinary Honours shewn to one whose Death they had resolv'd; without great Indignation, and therefore thus argu'd among themselves, Do ye not perceive, that we prevail nothing? Behold all the World is gone after him! But some of them could not so easily conceal their Envy and Displeasure, but with some seeming Complaisance desir'd Jesus to command the Silence of his Disciples. Jesus to give them a final Answer, declar'd, That if his Disciples shou'd join so far as to smother his Honour, the very Stones wou'd proclaim it. Upon their near Approach to Jerusalem, and a full View of that glorious City and Temple, Jesus casting his Eyes upon that wretched Place, whose deplorable Miseries he foresaw, shed forth Tears as a Sign of his Tenderness and Compassion for Her; crying, Oh that thou hadst known, at least in this thy appointed Day, the Things conducing to thy Peace! But now, alas, they are hidden from thine Eyes. For the fatal time shall come when thy Enemies shall throw up Trenches about Thee, hem thee in on every Side, destroy thy Children, demolish thee, and not leave in thee one Stone upon another, because thou wouldst not know the happy Time of thy Visitation. By which he shew'd himself more affected with the Calamities of the City, than the Acclamations of the People. Being enter'd the City with such a vast Concourse of People, all the Citizens were mov'd with an extraordinary Curiosity, and every Person enquir'd, Who it was? The Multitude made answer, That it was Jesus, the great Prophet of Nazareth in Galilee.

He clears the Temple of Traders.

Our Lord, to shew that his Kingdom was a spiritual Kingdom, did not repair to the Palace, but went directly to the Temple; where, looking about him, he saw the Court of Gentiles notoriously prophan'd and dishonour'd by Trading and Merchandize. Therefore to shew his Authority and just Indignation, as he did three Years before, he drove out all the Buyers and Sellers from the sacred Ground, overthrew the Tables of the Money-Changers, and the Stalls of the Dove-Sellers; declaring, that according to the Scriptures, His House should be call'd a House of Prayer, but they had made it a very Den of Thieves. Then to manifest his Authority and Power, he miraculously cur'd many blind and lame Persons, who were brought to him into the Temple. The People were filled with Admiration at these Things; but the chief Priests and Scribes seeing these Miracles, and perceiving the Acclamations of the Children who cry'd out in the Temple, Hosanna, to the Son of David! were extremely enrag'd, and discover'd their Anger by asking him, If he heard what they said? But he silenced them by shewing, That what was so highly displeasing to them, did really fulfil the Scriptures, particularly that place in the Psalms, where it is said, Out of the Mouth of Babes and Sucklings thou hast perfected Praise. This so little satisfy'd them, that they more earnestly sought Occasions to destroy him; but they were much aw'd by the People, who heard him with the greatest Readiness and Attention.

His Discourse to certain Greeks.

Besides the Jews, who were come to Jerusalem at the Passover, great Numbers of Gentiles, being Profelytes of the Gate, also repaired thither to worship God at that Feast. Some of these, whom the Evangelist calls Greeks, excited by Curiosity, desired Philip, one of the Apostles, to bring them to a sight of Jesus; which was soon effected by the Assistance of Andrew. Jesus, who by his Death was to obtain Salvation for Gentiles as well as Jews, to remove the Scandal of the Cross, declar'd to them, That the Hour was now approaching that he should be glorify'd: And that as a Grain of Wheat brought forth no Fruit, till it was dead in the Earth where it was sown; so should his Death be the Seed which should produce a plentiful Harvest; that the Product of it, the Faithful, should learn by his Example to hate their Lives in this World, that they might be preserv'd in the next, and that their Service in following him through all Troubles, might be rewarded with eternal Glory. While he was thus Preaching of his Death and Sufferings, he seem'd seiz'd with a natural Horror of his approaching Passion, and God's Wrath against Mens Sins that were laid upon him; crying, My Soul is oppress'd, what shall I say? Father, save me from this Hour. But considering again what great Glory God would receive by his Death, he added, But for this Cause came I to this Hour: Father, glorifie thy Name. At the same time there came a Voice like Thunder from Heaven, saying, I have glorify'd it already, and will glorifie it again. Of those who were present, some thought it only a Clap of Thunder, others that an Angel spoke spoke to him; but he assur'd them, That this Voice came not for his, but for their Sakes. And to let them know what Influence his Death upon the Cross ought to have upon all Mankind, he declar'd, That now was the World judged, and the Prince of it, the Devil, cast out; and that when the Son of Man was lifted up from the Earth, he wou'd draw all Men to him. Upon this the Jews demanded of him, How the Death of the Son of Man cou'd be consonant to the Holy Scriptures, which say, That Christ must endure for ever? Asking farther, Who was the Son of Man? Jesus answer'd them, That they shou'd enjoy that Light but a short Time; therefore since they could not walk nor act, when they were depriv'd of it, they ought to believe in the Light while he was with them. But neither these Divine Discourses, nor the miraculous Cures cou'd gain the Faith of many of the Jews, who were determin'd by their human Interest; for tho' many of the Rulers believ'd in him, yet they durst not confess it because of the Pharisees, valuing the Praises of Men more than the Esteem of Heaven. At the Evening, Jesus to avoid suspicion return'd to Bethany with his Apostles, and lodg'd there.

MONDAY.

The next Morning Jesus return'd again to Jerusalem, and finding himself hungry by the Way, he went to a Fig-Tree not far distant, which being full of Leaves he expected old Fruit upon it, tho' it was not the Season for new: But finding nothing to satisfy his Hunger, for the Instruction of his Disciples, he was willing to shew a Miracle upon a fruitless Tree; and thereupon cursed it in their Presence, saying, Let there be no Fruit grow on thee for ever: And immediately the Fig-Tree wither'd away. And hereby, as in a Type, he fore-shew'd the Curse and Judgment of God, which shou'd come upon that hypocritical and barren Nation the Jews, for rejecting the Means of Grace and Salvation now offer'd to them. Then entering the Temple, he again clear'd it from all Traders, as appears from St. Mark, not permitting any Man to carry a Vessel through the Court of the Gentiles; alledging, That it was written, That his House shou'd be call'd a House of Prayer to all Nations, to Gentiles as well as Jews: Intimating, that the Partition-Wall shou'd be remov'd, and all Nations partake of the same Privileges. These things increas'd the Indignation of the Scribes and Pharisees, who continually sought his Life, but were much restrain'd by the Esteem and Veneration the People had for him. After this Jesus cry'd out in the Temple, That whosoever believ'd and saw him, both believ'd and saw him who sent him: That he was come a Light into the World, that whosoever believ'd on him, might be freed from Darknes: That he came to save, and not to judge; and that he who reject'd his Words, shou'd be judged by the same Word at the last Day; for that he had not spoken of himself, nor taught any thing but by the express Orders of his Father, whose Commandments were eternal Life. Having taught this Day publicly in the Temple, at the Evening he retir'd again from the Multitudes, and return'd with his Apostles to Bethany.

He curses a Fig-Tree.

Clears the Temple again.

TUESDAY.

The next Morning our Lord repaired a third Time to Jerusalem; in his Passage the Apostles having cast their Eyes upon the Fig-Tree which Jesus had cursed the Day before, and observ'd that it was quite wither'd away, away, and dead to the very Roots, Peter with no little Admiration shew'd it to his Master, as a thing very surprizing and astonishing. Whereupon Jesus took an Occasion to shew them, how great was the Power of Faith when join'd with Prayer, declaring, That if they had a stedfast Faith in God, they shou'd be enabled to perform greater Miracles than this, not only to blast a Fig-Tree, but to remove Mountains, and conquer all the Difficulties in the Work of their Ministry: And whatsoever they shou'd ask with Faith in Prayer, shou'd be certainly granted them, provided that they were careful before Prayer to pardon all those who had offended them; for that unless that were done, God wou'd never pardon their Offences.

He is question'd
by the Rulers, who are puzzled.

Jesus again enter'd the Temple, and while he was teaching and preaching the Gospel to the People, the chief Priests, Scribes and Rulers of the People, whose Business was to enquire into Affairs of this Nature, came to him, and imperiously demanded of him. By what Authority, and by whose Commission he did these Things? Jesus, who had at other Times sufficiently vindicated his Authority, wou'd give them no direct Answer, but told them, That he wou'd propose one Question to them, which if they answer'd, he wou'd give them full Satisfaction; and that was, Whether the Baptism of John was from Heaven or of Men, of Divine or Human Institution? This prov'd a very knotty Question to them, for they durst not affirm that his Baptism was from Heaven, lest Jesus shou'd retort it upon them, Why they refus'd to believe it? And shou'd they have affirm'd it to be a mere human Institution, they fear'd that the Multitude, who had so great an Assurance of John's being a Prophet, wou'd stone them: Therefore, as the safest way, they made Answer, They cou'd not tell. Jesus let them know, That his Answer shou'd be to the same Effect, by declaring, That neither wou'd he tell them, by what Authority he did these things. And to this he the Vineyard.

subjoin'd a Parable of a certain Man, who commanded his two Sons to go and work in his Vineyard: The first told him plainly, That he wou'd not go, but afterwards repented, and went; the other promis'd him to go, but went not. Then Jesus demanded of the Priests and Scribes, which of the two Sons perform'd the Will of his Father? They readily answer'd, The first.
Whereupon he shew'd, That the first signify'd the Publicans and common Prostitutes, Who believ'd and repented at the Preaching of John Baptist; and that they themselves not believing this his holy Fore-runner, who came to them in the Way of Righteousness, shou'd not enter into Heaven so easily as those impious and scandalous People, whose Faith and Example they refus'd to follow.

The Parable of the ungrateful Husbandmen.

After this, our Lord added another Parable, which more particularly represented the Perverseness and Obstinacy of the Jews; and this was of a certain Master of a Family, who planted a Vineyard, carefully enclos'd it with a Fence, digg'd a Wine-Press, and built a Tower in it; and then, letting it out to Husbandmen, travell'd into a foreign Country. About the Time of the Vintage he sent one of his Servants to the Husbandmen, to receive the Fruits of it; but they took the Servant, beat him, and sent him away empty. Then he sent another to them, whom they abus'd and wounded; and a third, whom they ston'd and murder'd; and likewise many others, whom they treated after the like barbarous Manner. At length he resolv'd to send his only Son, whom he lov'd most tenderly, being persuaded that they cou'd not but shew Respect to him: But on the contrary, as soon as they saw him, they impiously resolv'd to kill him, hoping the Inheritance wou'd be their own; and thereupon seiz'd him, ignominiously cast him out of the Vineyard, and slew him. Then Jesus said to the People, When the Lord of the Vineyard returns, how will he deal with these Husbandmen? Some of them answer'd, That he cou'd do no less

less than exterminate those impious Wretches, and let out his Vineyard to other Husbandmen, who wou'd pay him the Fruits when due. He approv'd of their Answer, and assured them, That these Wretches shou'd indeed be treated in that Manner, and the Vineyard given to others; but others perceiving how nearly the Parable concern'd them, cry'd, God forbid. Whereupon Jesus looking upon them, ask'd them, Whether they understood the Meaning of that Passage in the Psalms, 'The same Stone that the Builders rejected, is become the Head of the Corner; This is the Lord's Doing, and marvellous in your Eyes?' And to make a full Application, he declar'd, That the Kingdom of Heaven shou'd be taken from them, and given to a Nation producing the Fruits of it: And that whosoever shou'd stumble on that Stone, shou'd be bruised by it; but that whosoever shou'd feel the Weight of it, shou'd be grown'd to Powder. The Priests and Scribes readily perceiv'd that Jesus aim'd at them, and wou'd then willingly have seiz'd on him, but still the Fear of the People restrain'd them from attempting it, tho' they were exceedingly enrag'd and asham'd to see themselves so lively painted out in this Parable.

13-14.

To much the same Purpose Jesus deliver'd a third Parable, which was of a certain King, who having made a great and solemn Invitation to the Marriage of his Son, sent his Servants when all things were ready to desire the Company of those who had been invited; but because they refus'd to come, he sent other Servants to persuade them, and to let them know, what extraordinary Preparations were made for them: But this made no Impression upon them; for one went to his Farm, another to his Merchandize, and the rest laid violent Hands upon the King's Servants, treated them outrageously, and slew them. The King hearing of this ungrateful and barbarous Usage, in a great Fury sent out his Armies, destroy'd these Murtherers, and burnt down their Cities; and instead of these, he sent for all that cou'd be found out of the High-ways, bad and good, to be his Guests; so that the House was fill'd: This being done, the King came to see his Guests, and there perceiving a Man, who contrary to Custom and Law, had no Wedding-Garment, he ask'd him, How he dar'd to come there in such a Habit? And the Wretch was Speechless. Whereupon he commanded his Servants to bind him Hand and Foot, and to cast him into a Place of the extremest Darknefs, Lamentations and Despair. Then Jesus made the Application, That among the many that were call'd, both of the Jews and Gentiles, few were chosen; for that some rejected the Call, and others came unprepared.

The Pharisees, who had as great a Share in the Application of these Parables as any other, departed with much Anger, and a firm Resolution to search out all Occasions of destroying the Person who had thus confounded them. At length they imagined that they had found out an infallible Expedient, by ensnaring him in his Discourse: Whereupon they sent some of their Disciples, as great Hypocrites as themselves, together with the Herodians, Men of a contrary Faction, all counterfeiting themselves Men of great Holiness, to tempt him to speak something which might render him obnoxious to the Government, or at least odious to the People. These Men therefore went and address'd themselves to him with their utmost Arts of Insinuation, saying, Master, we are sensible that you are a Person of Honesty and Integrity, one who teaches the Way of God in Truth and Sincerity, without Fear or Regard to any Man: Therefore pray favour us with your Opinion; Is it lawful to pay Tribute to Cæsar, the Roman Emperor, or not? Now if he had answer'd in the Affirmative, the Multitude might have detested him as a Betrayer of their ancient Liberties, or abandon'd him as a Disclaimers of his own Sovereignty; if in the Negative,

The Pharisees

Negative, the Herodians wou'd have accus'd him as a Rebel against the jealous Emperor Tiberius. But he well knowing their malicious and subtle Intentions, declar'd them Hypocrites, and demanded a Sight of the Roman Denarius, the common Tribute Money; and taking it in his Hands, he ask'd them, Whose Image and Superscription it had? They answer'd him Cæsar's. Then reply'd Jesus, Render therefore to Cæsar the Things that are Cæsar's, and to God the Things that are God's; as if he had said, Pay Cæsar his own Money, and God his own Dues. In which Answer, since they cou'd find no Fault, they departed with Shame and Silence, as well as Admiration.

He defects
there,

Shortly after the Departure of these Men, the Sadducees, having gather'd all their Strength together, resolv'd to attack him with a Question and a Difficulty concerning the Resurrection, which they thought insuperable. Their Question was founded upon a Command in the Law of Moses, which oblig'd a Man to marry the Widow of his elder Brother dying without Issue; upon which they put the Case to him of a certain Woman who was marry'd according to this Law to seven Brothers successively, who all dy'd without Children, wherefore they desir'd to know of him, Whose Wife of the seven she shou'd be esteem'd after the Resurrection? Imagining, that a Woman's being marry'd to seven Husbands, and yet Wife but to one, was an Absurdity sufficient to destroy the Belief of that State. But Jesus shew'd them, That they neither understood the Sense of the Scriptures, nor the Extent of the Divine Power: For that Marriage, tho' it was necessary in this World to raise up Children and Posterity to mortal Men, was not so in another, where, after the Resurrection, Men shou'd be immortal, and like the Angels in Heaven. Having thus answer'd their Question, he then destroy'd their Principles, and prov'd the Truth of the Resurrection from those very Scriptures which they acknowledg'd, particularly where the Lord call'd himself the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, after their Bodies were actually dead; for he cou'd not be the God of those who were finally dead, but of those who in effect were living. Certain of the Scribes who heard this Answer, cou'd not but acknowledge that he had made a sufficient Reply, and all the People continu'd their Admiration of his Doctrine.

Silences the Sadducees;

The Pharisees hearing that the Sadducees were silenc'd, began to rally again; and one of them, who was a Doctor of the Law, by way of Tryal ask'd our Saviour, Which was the greatest Commandment of the Law? it being much disputed at that Time, whether the ceremonial, or the moral Precepts were the greater. Jesus answer'd him out of Deuteronomy, That the greatest Commandment was to 'acknowledge one God, and to love 'him with all their Hearts, with all their Souls, with all their Minds, and 'with all their Strength; and that the next was like unto it; namely, 'To 'love their Neighbours as their selves: On which two depended all the Law and the Prophets. The Pharisee highly approv'd of his Answer, and confess'd, That as he had rightly acknowledg'd the one God, so he had deservedly preferr'd Love to him and our Neighbours above all other things; as what was more acceptable to God than all Burnt-Offerings and Sacrifices. Jesus finding that he answer'd discreetly, and that he did not wilfully oppose the Truth, pronounc'd him not far from the Kingdom of God. And now Jesus having answer'd several Questions, put one himself to the Pharisees, who in great Numbers gather'd about him, asking them, What they thought of the Messiah, whose Son was he? They readily answer'd, The Son of David. Whereupon Jesus objected to them these Words of the Psalmist, 'The Lord said unto my Lord, &c. and propos'd to them to explain how he could be David's Son, when by the Inspiration of the Holy Spirit, he call'd him

Mark 12.

Our Lord having defeated all Parties and Opposers, turn'd his Discourse to the People, but chiefly to the Disciples, admonishing them to observe and practise those Truths, which the Scribes and Pharisees taught them, since they sat in Moses's Chair, and had a right to instruct them. But that they ought to beware of imitating their Actions; because they were Hypocrites, teaching without practising, and binding insupportable Burthens on others, without bearing the least Weight themselves: That they perform'd all their Works to be admir'd by the World; enlarg'd their Phylacterics and Fringes, to shew a greater Degree of Sanctity; affected the highest Places in Feasts and Synagogues, the chief Salutations in the Markets, and the distinguishing Title of Rabbi. But that for their parts they were to avoid the Titles of Master and Father, and to acknowledge themselves to be all Brethren, since they had but one Father, who was God, and one Master Jesus Christ. Adding, That the Greatest amongst them shou'd be Servant to the rest; that the Proud shou'd be debased, and the Humble exalted. Then turning his Speech directly against the hypocritical Scribes and Pharisees, with the Authority of a Judge and Law-giver, he denounced eight solemn Woes and Execrations against them. 1. For shutting the Kingdom of Heaven against others, without so much as entring themselves. 2. For making long Prayers a Pretence and Occasion of devouring and ruining Widows; for which they shou'd receive the greater Damnation. 3. For traversing Sea and Land to gain one Proselyte, and then making him doubly more the Child of Hell than themselves. 4. For teaching Men, that they were free from their Oaths when they swore by the Temple and the Altar, and only oblig'd when they swore by the Corban and the Oblation; whenas in reality the former sanctified the latter, and included them and all their Appurtenances, as well as Heaven suppos'd the Throne of God, and Him who sat thereon. 5. For being so nice in paying the Tythes of their Garden-Herbs and smallest Concerns, and omitting the most important Duties of the Law, Justice, Mercy, and Faith in God, which more especially ought to have been practised. 6. For cleansing the Outside of the Cup and the Dish, while within they were full of Rapine and Incontinence. 7. For being like painted Sepulchres, whose Outsides were beautiful, but their Insides full of rotten Bones and Putrefaction; so were they outwardly righteous, and inwardly villainous. 8. For repairing and beautifying the Monuments of the Prophets and Righteous, and shewing an Abhorrence of their Fathers Cruelty, when by their Actions they testified themselves to be of the Posterity of the Prophets Murtherers, and had fill'd up the Measure of their Ancestors Wickedness. To these Woes our Lord joined several invective Words and Expressions, calling them Hypocrites, Blind-Guides, Strainers at Gnats and Swallowers of Camels, Serpents, Progeny of Vipers, who were to expect the hottest Flames of Hell. Then he added this dreadful Threatning, Behold I will send to you Prophets, Wise-men and Instructors, and some of them ye will kill and crucifie, others scourge in your Assemblies, and persecute from City to City; that all the innocent Blood shed by your Fathers may fall upon your Heads, from the Blood of Abel down to that of Zacharias, who shall be slain between the Temple and the Altar. Then he concluded with this pathetic Exclamation used formerly, O Jerusalem, Jerusalem! thou who murtherest God's Prophets, and the Messengers of Heaven! how often wou'd I have gather'd thy Children together, with the same Tendernefs that a Hen does her Chickens under her Wings, but ye refus'd my Love. Know therefore, your House is left desolate; and after a while ye shall not see my Face, till you shall be glad to say, 'Blessed is he who cometh in the Name of the Lord.'

He exposes the Hypocrisie and Villanies of the Pharisees and leading Men.

Our

Our Lord having concluded his Discourses, and being in that Part of the Temple call'd the Court of the Women, over against the Treasury, before he departed, he carefully observ'd great Numbers, who according to the Custom at or near the Feast, threw Mony into the Chests for that purpose; some of whom being rich, gave considerable Sums. And seeing a certain poor Widow casting in two Mites, amounting to no more than a Farthing, he call'd to his Apostles, and to her lasting Honour asur'd them, That that poor Widow had been more generous and bountiful than all the rest; for the rich Men who had made large Oblations, had done it out of their Abundance; but on the contrary that Woman from her meer Necessaries had offer'd to God all that she had, even her whole Livelyhood.

His prophetic Sermon concerning the Destruction of the Temple and Jerusalem.

On the Afternoon our Lord departed from the Temple, in order to re- turn to Bethany; at which time the Apostles took a View of the several Buildings of the Temple, and with no small Admiration shew'd their Master those rare and magnificent Structures, all built with the finest Marble, beautified with the richest Ornaments, and endow'd with the noblest Presents. Whereupon Jesus acquainted them with the approaching Ruin and Destruction of the whole, That all those stately Works shou'd be demolish'd, and not one Stone left upon another. This was very surprizing to the Apostles, who had been taught with the other Jews, That the Destruction of the Temple shou'd be the Conclusion or Consummation of the Age: Therefore when Jesus had seated himself upon Mount Olivet, in full View of that glorious Pile of Buildings, four of them, Peter, James, John and Andrew, desired to be satisfi'd in two Questions, namely, When this Destruction shou'd happen? And what were the forerunning Signs of his Coming to take this Vengeance, and his shutting up the present Age? which they suppos'd wou'd be the Beginning of the new World; and the temporal Kingdom of the Messiah. Jesus beginning with their latter Question, first inform'd them of such Signs as shou'd at some distance precede this Destruction; namely, That there should appear many Impostors and False-Messiah's, who shou'd seduce and mis-lead great Numbers. That there shou'd be Wars, Seditions and Commotions, Nation rising against Nation, and Kingdom against Kingdom, accompanied with violent Earthquakes, Famines and Pestilences, and other Miseries, and with dreadful Prodigies and amazing Signs in the Heavens: All which shou'd be but the Beginnings of those Sorrows and Calamities which shou'd befall the Jewish Nation. But that before these things hapned, they were to expect to be persecuted, brought before Judges, scourg'd in Synagogues, deliver'd to Punishment by the nearest Relations, hated by all Men for his sake; and many of them to suffer Death. But that for their Encouragement, the Holy Ghost should give them such Wisdom to speak before their Judges, as their Adversaries shou'd not be able to answer or resist; that they shou'd secure and save their Souls by Patience, and in spite of all the Rage of their Persecutors, not one Hair of their Heads shou'd perish: That False-Prophets and Heriticks shou'd deceive many; that Persecutions shou'd cause great Numbers to apostatize; that Iniquity shou'd abound, Charity grow cold, and Parents and Children and nearest Relations destroy each other; and that such as persever'd to the last shou'd be saved. But that before the great Destruction came, the Gospel shou'd be preach'd throughout all or the principal Parts of the World. Then Jesus proceeded to inform them of such Signs as shou'd more immediately precede this great Destruction; particularly, That when they saw Jerusalem invested with Armies, and God's Temple polluted with execrable Abominations, they might assure themselves that the Desolation of them was nigh; that then the Inhabitants of Judæa ought to fly to the Mountains and Deserts with the utmost Expedition, not turning back for their Cloaths, or their greatest Necessaries, that they might not be involv'd

Therefore, it wou'd be dismal to such as were with Child, or suckled Children, or if their Flight hapned in the Winter, or on the Sabbath; for in those Days there shou'd be such extreme Miseries and Calamities, such dreadful Wrath and Vengeance, as never hapned from the Creation of the World to that time, nor ever shou'd again: When the Jews shou'd be miserably slaughter'd, made Slaves and Captives to all Nations, and their magnificent City trodden under Foot by the Gentiles. And this shou'd be executed with such Rigour and Severity, that if God did not shorten the Days upon the Account of his Elect, no Flesh cou'd escape: That then they ought more especially to beware of false Messiahs and Impostors, who shou'd rise up and shew such Signs and Miracles, that if it were possible, wou'd deceive the Elect.*

Our Lord having thus shewn the fore-running Signs, he proceeded to describe the Destruction it self, comparing it as it were to the Destruction of the World, of which many believe it to be a Type: Declaring, *That his Coming shou'd be impetuous, and swift as a Flash of Lightning darting from the East to the West; which shou'd expose the Jewish Nation as a Carcass to be devour'd by the Roman Eagles. At which Time there shou'd be a strange Concussion of Nature; above, Signs in the Sun, Moon and Stars; on Earth, Distress and Anxiety, the Sea and Waves roaring, and all Men in a general Consternation and Amazement. Then the Jewish Tribes shou'd mourn, and be sensible of his Coming, by the signal Marks of his Glory and Majesty in the Heavens; and he shou'd send out his Ministers with the Trumpet of his Gospel, and from all Parts of the World gather together his chosen People, and constitute a Church out of the Gentiles, after the Dissolution of that of the Jews. Upon this, his faithful Servants, who had been under severe Persecutions, might lift up their Heads with Confidence; for as they might know the approaching Summer by the Tenderness and Buddings of the Fig-trees; so by these Signs they might know that their Redemption and Deliverance drew near, and that the Kingdom of God was even at their Doors. All which Things he assur'd them shou'd be accomplish'd before that Generation pass'd away; and that his Words were more firm than Heaven and Earth. But for the precise Time of his Coming, of which they were so inquisitive, that was unknown to all created Beings; for it shou'd happen as in the Days of Noah, while Men were eating and drinking, marrying and espousing, they were suddenly swept away by the Flood. At which Time there shou'd be many Instances of God's discriminating Providence; in saving some and leaving others to perish in the Calamity: That therefore they ought to be watchful over themselves, and not suffer their Minds to be overcharg'd with Riot and Drunkenness, and the Cares of this Life. That they shou'd watch and pray continually, that they might be accounted worthy to escape those Miseries, and appear before the Son of Man: And that they ought to be as much upon the Guard as a Master of a Family wou'd be, if he knew the exact Time when Thieves wou'd come to rob his House. Whereupon he produc'd a Parable of a Servant whom his Master upon a Journey had made Governor of his Household, to provide his other Servants with Necessaries and Employment; whose Case shou'd be very happy, and he shou'd be highly rewarded, if his Master at his Return found him doing his Duty: But that if this Servant shou'd foolishly imagine that his Master delay'd his Return, and thereupon abuse his Authority by beating his Fellow-Servants, and spending his Time with Sots and Epicures; his Master wou'd return in an unexpected Hour, wou'd cut him asunder, and appoint him his Portion with Hypocrites, where shou'd be Lamentations and Despair. Then our Lord a second Time repeated his former Command to them, *To watch, lest the Son of Man shou'd come suddenly upon them, and find them sleeping.

Our

The Parable of the ten Virgins.

The Parable of the Talents.

The Description of the last Judgment.

Our Saviour having earnestly exhorted his Disciples to Watchfulness, and knowing that human Infirmary wou'd incline them to Remissness, re-urg'd the Necessity of it by two eminent Parables. The first was of ten Virgins, who by Night took their Lamps, and went out to meet the Bridegroom and Bride, and accompany them to the nuptial Entertainment. Five of them who were foolish, only lighted up their Lamps without any farther Care; but the other five, wisely foreseeing that the Bridegroom might tarry, carry'd Oil along with them in their Vessels, to supply their Lamps if they were in Danger of going out. And thus it happen'd, for the Bridegroom deferr'd his Coming, and they all ventur'd to repose themselves; till at Midnight they were suddenly awaken'd with a Cry of the Bridegroom's Coming, which caus'd them to rise immediately and trim their Lamps: But the foolish Virgins perceiving their Lamps just going out, desir'd some Oil of the others, who excus'd themselves, and sent them to the Oil-Sellers; and in their Absence the Bridegroom came, and all such as were ready enter'd with him to the nuptial Feast. The other Virgins came afterwards, but the Door was then shut, and when they knock'd and cry'd, Lord open to us! he gave them this peremptory Answer, I know you not. Jesus concluded the Parable with exhorting them, to watch therefore, because they knew not the Day nor the Hour of the Son of Man's Coming. The second Parable was of a Man who being about to travel into a far Country, put his Stock into the Hands of his Servants, delivering five Talents to one, two to another, and one to a third; to every one according to their Abilities, to trade with. At his Return he found that most of them by their Industry had doubled what Money they had received, and therefore said to them one by one, Well done, thou good and faithful Servant, because thou hast been faithful in a few Things, I will make thee Ruler over many, enter thou into the Joy of thy Lord. But finding one among them, who out of Fear and Slothfulness had hid his Money in the Ground, he first convinc'd that unprofitable Servant of his notorious Neglect, and then cast him into a Place of Darkeness and Despair. From this Parable our Lord proceeded to describe the Manner of the last and universal Judgment. When the Son of Man shou'd come surrounded with the most refulgent Rays of his Majesty, and all the holy Angels of Heaven; and being seated on his bright Throne of Glory, all the Nations in the World shou'd be assembled before him, and he shou'd separate them as a Shepherd does his Sheep from his Goats, placing the Sheep on his right Hand and the Goats on his left. That then the Judge of Heaven and Earth wou'd say to those on his right Hand, Come, ye blessed Saints, enjoy the glorious Kingdom prepared for you from the Foundation of the World: For I was Hungry, and Thirsty, and a Stranger, and Naked, and Sick, and a Prisoner, and ye mercifully assisted, and relieved me in all these Distresses. That these good Men being surpriz'd with the King's bountiful Acknowledgments wou'd then ask him, When they assisted him in any of these Extremities? and that he wou'd solemnly assure them, That inasmuch as they had been serviceable to the meanest Christian, they had been serviceable to him. And that then he wou'd proceed to those on his left Hand, and say, Go, ye execrable Wretches, into everlasting Flames, prepar'd for the Devil and his Angels: For when I was in all the above-named Distresses, of Hunger, Thirst, Travel, Nakedness, Sicknes and Imprisonment, ye were hard-hearted, and refus'd your Charity. And that when they shou'd alledge, that they wanted Opportunity, because they never saw him in those Circumstances; he wou'd silence them by this Answer, That inasmuch as they neglected the meanest Christian they neglected him: And that thereupon these uncharitable Creatures shou'd be condemn'd to everlasting Punishment, and the Righteous exalted to eternal Life.

Our Lord having finish'd his Prophetick Sermon upon Mount Olivet, at the Evening repaired again to Bethany, and supped at the House of one call'd Simon the Leper, who probably had been cured by him formerly. At this Supper, Mary, who had been before reprov'd by Judas for her profuse anointing Jesus's Feet, resolv'd once more to testify the Greatness of her Love and Respect, and out of an Alabaster Cruse pour'd a large Quantity of the same rich Ointment upon his Head; so that the whole House was fill'd with fragrant Odours. The seeming Luxury and Prodigality of this Woman now provok'd the Indignation of the rest of the Apostles as well as Judas, who like him made the same Objection, That it might better have been sold for a large Sum of Money, and given to the Poor. But Jesus undertook the Defence of her, and inform'd those who condemn'd her, That she had done a noble Work, and had embalm'd his Body beforehand, against the Day of his Burial; and as for the Poor, for whose Relief they seem'd so solicitous, they always had an Opportunity of shewing their Care and Charity to them, but not so to him: Therefore since the Woman had done so much, he solemnly declar'd, That wheresoever the Gospel shou'd be preach'd throughout the whole World, her munificent Regard of him shou'd be publish'd to her perpetual Honour and Renown. Supper being ended, Jesus bearing in Mind his Departure, that he was now going to God, where he shou'd take Possession of all Power in Heaven and Earth, and having constantly and immutably lov'd his own, resolv'd to give them a signal Testimony of his Love and Humility. Wherefore rising from the Table, he laid aside his loose upper Garment, like a Servant attending his Master, and girding himself with a Towel, he pour'd Water into a Basin, and began to wash his Apostles Feet, and to wipe them with the Towel. Peter, amaz'd at such extraordinary Condescension, utterly refus'd at first, and likewise a second time, till Jesus inform'd him, That he had a more spiritual and holy Intention in it, and that unless he were wash'd, he cou'd have no Part nor Portion in him. Whereupon Peter desir'd, That he wou'd wash him in all Parts, if that might secure his Interest; but our Lord answer'd him in Allusion to a Man's coming from a Bath, who needed not to wash his whole Body again, but only his Feet, which contracted Soil by walking: Declaring farther, That they were really clean, but not all; meaning Judas, then designing to betray him.

Jesus having wash'd his Apostles Feet, put on his Garments, sat down, and gave them the Reason of this Action; telling them, That he design'd it for an Example of Humility to them; that since he who was justly acknowledg'd to be their Lord and Master, had so far debas'd himself as to wash their Feet, they shou'd think it no Dishonour to perform the meanest Offices of Kindness and Charity to each other: For tho' they were exalted to the Dignity of his Apostles, yet they were but his Servants, and it wou'd be a high piece of Arrogance for them to assume more State and Grandeur than their own Lord had done: Adding, That if they knew these things, they were happy if they perform'd them. Then being mov'd with the near Prospect of his sad Sufferings, or the monstrous Treason of Judas, he declar'd, That one of them present shou'd betray him, verifying that Scripture, 'He that eateth Bread with me, hath lift up his Heel against me.' Peter hearing so plain an Intimation, that one of the Apostles shou'd be so great a Traitor, was very desirous to know the Person, possibly that he might endeavour to dissuade him from such an horrid Attempt; and seeing John the beloved Disciple leaning upon Jesus's Bosom, beckn'd to him, that he wou'd ask Jesus who it was, who accordingly put the Question, and receiv'd this private Answer, That he wou'd give a Sop to the Person who shou'd do it. Then having dipped the Sop, he gave it to Judas Iscariot; into whose Heart at the same time Satan enter'd, to embolden him in that impious Design, which he had in his Thoughts some time before. Jesus by way of Irony bad him, Do what he had design'd with all Expedition; whereupon Judas went out; but the other Apostles knew not whither he was gone, supposing that Jesus had sent him to provide for the approaching Feast, or to give something to the Poor, because it was he who carry'd the Purse. Upon Judas's Departure our Saviour comforted himself against his approaching Death; declaring, That he shortly shou'd be glorify'd, and also his Father glorify'd in him, who shou'd raise him from this low Estate, and exalt him above the highest Heavens. Then calling them, little Children, he told them, That he cou'd be with them but a short time, and that as he told the Jews, he was going to a Place whither they cou'd not come. But in the Words of a parting Friend, he strictly engag'd them, To observe his new Commandment to love one another, with such a Love as he himself had given them an illustrious Example of; telling them also, that their Love shou'd be as a glorious Badge, by which they might be known to be his Disciples from all other Religions and Professions. Peter reflecting upon his Master's Departure, desir'd to know, Whither he went; but Jesus told him, That at present he cou'd not follow him, but shou'd hereafter. Peter agriev'd at this Answer, rashly proffer'd to follow him, tho' he shou'd lay down his Life for his Sake: But our Lord advis'd him not to be too confident, and solemnly assur'd him, That he himself shou'd deny him three Times, all within the usual Time of Cock-crowing.

And gives his Disciples a new Commandment.

April 1. On the following Day, our Lord in all probability continu'd wholly at Bethany, without repairing to the City as usually. In the mean Time the grand Sanhedrim assembled at the Palace of Caiaphas the High Priest, where the Priests, Scribes and Senators of the People had a solemn Debate and Consultation how they might take Jesus by some secret Stratagem, and put him to Death. This was the second Council they had held upon this Occasion, and in which they had resolv'd upon his Death; yet they thought it not so safe and proper to do it at this great Solemnity, lest it might cause a Sedition among the People, who had the highest Veneration for him. In the midst of their Doubts and Projects, Judas came among them, and put an end to all their Difficulties, promising them that for a Sum of Money, he wou'd deliver Jesus safely into their Hands, when the Multitude shou'd be absent; for that he knew where he usually retired himself, and all his cautious Methods; and therefore had a greater Opportunity than any other to betray him. This Proposition was highly pleasing to the Sanhedrim, who immediately bargain'd with him for thirty Pieces of Silver, call'd Staters, or Shekels of the Sanctuary, amounting to three Pounds and fifteen Shillings of our Money, the most usual Price for Slaves at that time: Which accomplish'd Zechary's Prophecy, Chap. 11. v. 12. Judas taking the Money, sought all Opportunities of betraying him in the Absence of the Multitude.

I. WE are now arriv'd at the last and great Passover in our Saviour's Time, a Passover the most memorable and renowned that was ever solemniz'd; in which the only true Paschal Lamb was slain, whereof all others were only Types and Shadows. In the Morning, the apostles, knowing that their Master was careful in observing this Solemnity, desir'd to know where he wou'd eat the Passover, and where the Lamb shou'd be made ready. Whereupon Jesus sent Peter and John into Jerusalem to prepare all things according to Law, telling them, That as soon as they were enter'd the City, they shou'd meet a Man bearing a Pitcher of Water, by following of whom, they shou'd find a spacious Guest-Chamber ready furnish'd by the Master of the House; whose Heart shou'd be so inclin'd by the Divine Power, as to be willing to accommodate them upon that Occasion. The two Disciples being directed by this special Token, went directly to the City, and found all things to succeed as he had foretold them; and having provided a Lamb, slain it in the Temple, sprinkled the Blood on the Altar, and got all other Things necessary for the Celebration of the Paschal Supper, they return'd to their Master at Bethany.

Before our Lord's Departure to Jerusalem, the Apostles, whose Minds had formerly been elevated with all the Imaginations of Pomp and Grandeur, were now depress'd with melancholy Thoughts, and dismal Apprehensions of some great approaching Misfortune. Therefore, perceiving their Concern, he bad them Not be dejected, but believe in him, as they had believed in God; for that in his Father's House were many Mansions, whither he was going to prepare Places for them, and returning wou'd receive them into the same glorious Habitations with himself; and that the Place and Way were already made known to them. Thomas, supposing he meant some Earthly Palace, made Answer, That they knew not the Place, much less the Way leading to it. Whereupon Jesus declar'd, That he himself was the Way, the Truth and the Life; that none cou'd go to God but by him only; and that if they knew him as they ought, they wou'd know his Father also; since he was the express Image of his Person. Philip, not considering the Force of our Saviour's Reasonings, desired him to shew them the Father, by giving them a visible Representation of his Glory. But Jesus ask'd him, Whether he knew not Him, after so long a Continuance with them? Adding, That in seeing him, they saw the Father; for he was in the Father, and the Father in him; which they might have discern'd by the Miracles he wrought: Assuring them, That if they believ'd in him, they shou'd work the same Miracles, and greater; because whatsoever they ask'd of God his Father in his Name, it shou'd be obtain'd: But if they lov'd him, they must shew it by their Obedience. Then he promis'd them, That he wou'd by his

Prayers obtain another Comforter for them, who shou'd remain with them for ever; namely, the Holy Ghost, the Spirit of Truth, whom the World cou'd not receive, because it knew him not; but that they shou'd know him, and be inhabited by him. That he wou'd not leave them comfortless, but wou'd return to them, and they shou'd see him, when the World shou'd not have that Happiness: That he wou'd one day shew them that he was in his Father; for he wou'd manifest himself to such as lov'd him, and prov'd it by keeping his Commandments. Hereupon Jude, whose Thoughts as well as the rest were taken up with the Expectations of a Temporal Kingdom, interpos'd, and ask'd him, Why he wou'd manifest himself to them, and not to the World? Jesus intimated, That the Reason was because the World had no Love for him nor his Doctrine; therefore this Blessing was only designed for such as obey'd his Laws, with whom his Father and he wou'd make their Abode. Adding, That the Doctrine he had taught them, was his Father's; and that the Holy Spirit he had promised wou'd make them understand and remember all those Truths he had deliver'd. Then for a Farewel, he told them, He left his Peace with them, and that in a more affectionate manner than the World ever did; that if they lov'd him, they wou'd rejoice that he return'd to his Father, who was greater than him, as he was Mediator. That he foretold them what shou'd come to pass, that when the time was expir'd, they might believe on him who had foretold it: That he wou'd not say much more to them, for he was just ready to enter the Lists with Satan, the Prince of the World, who tho' he had no Power over him, yet he was willing to suffer what was brought upon him, that he might signally testifie his Love and Obedience to his Father. Upon finishing his Discourse, he order'd his Disciples to arise, and go with him towards the City Jerusalem.

He celebrates the Passover;

At the Evening they all arriv'd at the Place appointed, which some believe was in the House of one of our Lord's Disciples call'd John, and first named Mark. The usual Hour being come, which was never before it was dark, Jesus and his twelve Apostles sat down at the Table, using all a leaning Posture, as was particularly necessary in that solemnity. He began his Discourse with declaring, That with great Earnestness he had desir'd to eat the Passover with them before he suffer'd; for this was the last he shou'd eat with them, till it was fulfill'd in Heaven, where that and all other Mysteries should have a full Accomplishment. Then taking the first Cup of Wine, with which the Paschal Supper always began, he bless'd it, drank of it, ordering them, To take it, and divide it among themselves, for that this was the last Time he shou'd drink with them, till the Kingdom of God shou'd come, meaning perhaps his Resurrection. When they had begun the Supper, Jesus a second time assur'd his Apostles, That one of them shou'd betray him; which rais'd a general Sorrow and Sadness amongst them, every one asking, Whether he was the Person? He told them, that he who dipped his Hand with him in the Dish was the Person: Adding, That the Son of Man went forth to suffer, according to the Scriptures; but that it would be miserable to that Man who shou'd betray him; that it wou'd have been better for him never to have been born. Notwithstanding this Denunciation Judas boldly ask'd him, Whether it was he? And Jesus made Answer, He had nam'd the Man. At the Conclusion of the Supper, when the third Cup was usually drank, our Lord thought fit to institute a new Rite and Sacrament, instead of the Passover, in Commemoration of his infinite Love to Mankind. Therefore first taking Bread, he bless'd it, brake it, and distributed it to his Apostles, with this Injunction, Take, eat, this is my Body which is given for you: Do this in Remembrance of me. Then Blessing the Cup also, he gave it to them, saying, Drink ye all of this, for this is my Blood of the New Testament, which

which is shed for the Remission of the Sins of many. Intimating, that the Bread was now his Body, in the same Sense as the Paschal Lamb had been before; and the Wine was now his Blood, of the New Testament, in the same Sense as the Blood of Bulls and Goats had been under the Old. Then he told them, That that was the last Wine he must drink, for the Hand of him who betray'd him was at the Table.

Immediately after there hapned a very unseasonable Contention among the Apostles concerning Priority, which of them shou'd have the greatest Share in their Master's Kingdom. Jesus check'd their Ambition, by repeating the Substance of what he had formerly said to them upon the like Occasion, That it shou'd not be so with them, as with terrestrial Kings, who govern'd their Subjects with Power and Authority; but the greatest among them shou'd be least, as he their Master had been, not as one sitting at the Table, but as a Servant waiting. But since they had held firm to him in all his Persecutions, he wou'd prepare for them a Kingdom, as his Father had done for him; where they shou'd be nearest to himself; sitting on Thrones, and judging the twelve Tribes of Israel. He added, That at this Time Satan had a more than ordinary Desire to shake them and sift them like Wheat; but he had pray'd for them, and particularly for Peter, that his Faith might not fail; bidding him when he had recover'd, to strengthen his Brethren. Whereupon Peter to shew his Resolution told him, That he was ready to follow him both to Prison and to Death; but he knowing his Weakness, declar'd a second time, That before the second Crowing of the Cock that Night, he shou'd deny him thrice. Then turning to the rest of the Apostles, he ask'd them, Whether they wanted any Thing, when he sent them without Purse, or Bag, or Shoes? Upon their answering No, he inform'd them, That now it wou'd be otherwise; for such Distresses shou'd happen, that they wou'd stand in need of all these, and of a Sword more than of a Garment to put on: For all that was written concerning him, was just ready to be accomplish'd; namely 'He was reckon'd among the Transgressors. The Apostles taking his Words in the most literal Sense, told him, They had two Swords there; but he to intimate that he had another Meaning, gave them this short Reply, It is enough.

After this they proceeded to sing the Hymn, or rather to finish the Hallel, which in all consisted of six Eucharistical Psalms, beginning at the 113th, and concluding with the 118th. A little before their Departure our Lord gave his farewell Exhortations to his Apostles, and taking Occasion probably from the Sight of Vines from out the Window, he told them, That they were holy and pure, because they had receiv'd the Doctrine of the Gospel; but that they might bring forth such Fruit as the Gospel requir'd, they must of Necessity abide in him, as the Branches of the Vine must abide in the Body of it, without which they cou'd not bear Grapes: That his Father was glorify'd when his Disciples brought forth much Fruit; but that he wou'd cut off and cast into the Fire such as bore no Fruit, as the Vine-Dressers usually cut off and burn'd the dry and dead Branches of their Vines: That the principal Fruit his Father expected was that Love which they ought to have to one another, imitating their Master who shewed the sublimest Instance of it, even the laying down his Life for his Enemies: That they had not chosen him, but he had chosen them to bring forth continual Fruit, and that he had not us'd them as Servants, but as Friends, in teaching them what he had learnt from his Father: That in chusing them to be his Followers, he had separated them from the World; and that not being of the World themselves, they were to expect to be hated and persecuted by it, as he himself was. Then he inform'd them, That the Jews shou'd be so zealous against them, as not only to excommunicate them, but also to think they did God a special Service in taking away their Lives; and this because they knew not the Son, nor the Father who sent him: That he had forewarn'd them of these Afflictions, because he was leaving them; and that they might remember his Words when they came to pass; and by remembring, fortifie their Minds under the most violent Persecutions.

The Apostles heard these Truths with a profound Sorrow and Silence, being much afflicted and astonish'd at the Loss of their dear Master. He mildly reprov'd their Silence, telling them, That he was going to him that sent him, and none of them ask'd whither he went. But for their Comfort he let them know, That his Departure would be highly for their Advantage; for till then, the Holy Spirit, the Comforter, wou'd not come: That when this Comforter was come, he wou'd convince the World, especially the Jews, of Sin, in not believing his Mission; of Righteousness, by manifesting his glorious Resurrection and Ascension; and of Judgment, because he had condemn'd the Devil, the Prince of this World. That that same Spirit of Truth shou'd make them understand all the Truths they had heard, and shou'd teach them those Doctrines, which at present they were not able to bear. That the same Spirit shou'd glorifie him also, by a more illustrious Manifestation of his miraculous Gifts, which had been communicated to him by the Father. Then he added, A little while, and they shou'd not see him; and after a little while they shou'd see him, because he went to the Father. The Apostles understood not the Meaning of these last Words, but questioned each other concerning them, desiring also to ask Jesus himself. He perceiving this, assur'd them, That they shou'd weep and lament, but the World shou'd rejoice and triumph; but yet as a Woman, who in the Time of her Labour had great Sorrow, but upon her Delivery forgot all her Pains, for Joy of an Heir's being born; in like manner they shou'd be in Sorrow for a Time, but that he wou'd soon return to them again at his Resurrection, and then their Sorrow shou'd be chang'd into Joy, such as no Man cou'd take from them. After this he promis'd them two things, First, That after his Resurrection, he wou'd not speak to them in Proverbs and Parables as formerly, but wou'd speak to them plainly of the Father. Secondly, That praying to the Father in his Name, which they had not as yet done, they shou'd obtain whatsoever they petition'd of him; for that the Father loved them, because they had loved the Son, and believed that he came from God. Then he declar'd in plain Terms, That he came from the Father into the World; and that he was now leaving the World, and returning to the Father. Upon this the Apostles acknowledg'd, That he had spoken plainly, without Proverbs; and were assur'd that he knew all Things, even their very Thoughts, and therefore must come from God. Jesus intimated, That their Assurance was yet but weak; for the Time was just approaching, when every one of them shou'd fly from him, be dispers'd, and leave him alone; who yet was not wholly so, because his Father was with him. Concluding all with these Words, I have told you these Things, that in me ye might have Peace; in the World ye shall have Tribulation: But be of good Comfort, I have conquer'd the World.

Having ended these comfortable and dying Exhortations, our Lord thought fit to leave us a noble Pattern of his perpetual Intercession in Heaven as our great High-Priest; and in the Audience of the rest poured forth a most divine and heavenly Prayer, supplicating for Himself, for his Apostles, and for all other succeeding Christians. First for Himself. 'O Father, the Hour is come, glorifie thy Son, that thy Son may glorifie thee: And as thou hast given him Power over all Flesh, so to as many as thou hast given him, he has given eternal Life; which consists in the Knowledge of thee the true God, and Jesus Christ, whom thou hast sent. I have glorify'd thy Name on Earth; I have accomplish'd the great Work thou hast appointed for me: And now, O Father, glorify me with thy divine Majesty, and with the same Glory I had before the Creation of the World. Secondly, for his Apostles: I have manifested thy Name to those whom thou hast selected for me out of the World: They have kept thy Word: They have known, that whatsoever thou hast given me, proceeded from thee; and they assuredly believe that thou didst send me. I intercede now for them, and not for the wicked World, but for them whom thou hast given me, who are thine, and in whom I am glorify'd. And now, Holy Father, as I am leaving the World, and they continue behind, preserve these chosen Persons for thy Name Sake, That there may be a perfect Union amongst them. Whilst I continu'd with them, I have preserv'd them, and have lost none, but the Son of Perdition, according to the Scriptures. And now I am returning to thee, I speak these Things openly, that their former Joy may be compleated: I have given them thy Word, and the World has hated them, because, like me, they are not of the World. I pray not that thou wou'dst take them out of the World, but that thou wou'dst preserve them from the Evil of it; and wou'dst sanctify them by thy Word, which is Truth it self. I have sent them into the World, as thou hast sent me; and for their Sakes, I sanctify even my self, that they may be sanctify'd through the Truth. Thirdly, for all succeeding Christians: Neither do I pray for these alone, but likewise for all such as shall hereafter believe in me by Means of their Preaching: That there may be such a spiritual Union amongst them, as may resemble ours; so that the World may be convinc'd that thou hast sent me, that I have made them Partakers of thy Glory, and that thou hast loved them as thou hast loved me. Father, I pray that those thou hast given me may also be Possessors of the same Place with my self, that they may behold the ineffable Glory thou hast bestow'd on me, which was the Effect of thy eternal Love before the Foundation of the World. O Holy Father, the World has not known thee, but I have known thee, and these have known that I came from thee: And I have proclaim'd thy Name to them, and will continue to do so, that they may be Partakers of thy Love, and my Mediatorship.

Our Lord having finish'd this divine Prayer, immediately departed out of the City with his Apostles, over the Brook Kedron, in the Vale of Josaphat, towards Mount Olivet and Bethany as formerly; where he might prepare himself for his approaching Passion, and be taken like the Paschal Lamb without Noise and Tumult. Upon their leaving the House, Judas it seems slipt away from the Company towards the High-Priest's Palace, where he had his wicked Instruments ready to execute his abominable Design. In the mean Time, our Lord in his Passage with a mighty Concern declar'd to his Apostles, That that very Night all of them shou'd be offended, and fall away from him; that according to Zechary's Prophecie, 'The Shepherd shou'd be smitten, and the whole Flock dispers'd: But that after his Resurrection, he wou'd go before them into their old Country Galilee. Whereupon Peter with great Assurance made Answer, That tho' all Mankind shou'd fall away from him, he wou'd do otherwise: But Jesus assured him a third Time, That in that Night he shou'd deny him thrice, before the second Cock-crowing was past. But Peter being now arm'd with a Sword, and transported with an unusual Zeal declar'd with the utmost Vehemence, That he wou'd not deny him, tho' he shou'd be oblig'd to die with him; and all the rest join'd in the same solemn Promise.

his approaching Tragedy; and to begin to recover that in a Garden of Sorrows, which the first Adam had lost in a Garden of Pleasures. Here he order'd eight of the Apostles to stay at the Entrance into the Garden, while he retir'd to his private Devotions with God; commanding them to join their Prayers, that they might not be deliver'd over to Temptation. Then entering the Garden, he took Peter, James and John, who had been Spectators of his glorious Transfiguration, now to be his Comforters in the Time of his most deplorable Afflictions; telling them, That his Soul was unmeasurably oppress'd, even to the Pangs of Death, therefore he desired that they wou'd watch with him. And now he felt the most terrible Conflict between the Flesh and the Spirit, had all the Powers of Hell and Darkness let loose upon him, and labour'd under the most violent Agonies that ever human Nature sustain'd. Having withdrawn himself about a Stone's-cast from his three Apostles, he threw himself prostrate upon the Earth, and with the highest Marks of the most intense Grief, cryed out, Oh my Father! if it be possible, as all Things are possible with thee, let me escape this bitter Potion; but with a Spirit full of Submission and Charity, he seem'd to correct these first Motions, adding, Nevertheless, not according to my Will, but thine. When he had thus pray'd he return'd to his Disciples, probably to receive Comfort from them, as well as to afford them Assistance in this Hour of their Temptation, as well as his; but they being overwhelm'd with Grief and Sorrow, were fall'n asleep: Jesus awak'd them, and with a Reproof full of Love said to Peter, Dost thou sleep, Simon? What, cou'd ye not watch with me one single Hour? Now watch and pray, that ye enter not into Temptation: The Spirit indeed is willing, but the Flesh is weak: Their Minds were well affected, but their Bodies were apt to betray them. Then returning, he pray'd a second Time, crying, Oh my Father, if I must not escape this Potion without drinking of it, thy Will be done. And coming to his Disciples, and finding them so sleepy, that they knew not what to answer him, he return'd a third Time, and pray'd after the same Manner. And now his Prayers were more vehement, having a full Sense of God's Wrath against the Sins of the World; and his Agonies so violent and astonishing, that the Sweat that fell from his Body was like large Drops of Blood; and since the Disciples neglected their Office, an Angel was at last sent from Heaven to strengthen him, at a Time when Nature was brought to the utmost Passability, and was dissolving her self in a mortal Sweat. Then recovering himself, he return'd a third Time to his Disciples, and finding them still sleeping, he said to them by way of Reproof and Irony, That now they might sleep on and take their Rest; for the Time was come when their Master shou'd be deliver'd into the Hands of Villains: They must now arise, for the Traitor was just at Hand.

sion.*

Jesus had scarcely said these Words, when Judas, who well knew this Place of Retirement, arriv'd with a Company of Soldiers and Officers, accompanied with some of the Chief Priests and Pharisees, and Elders of the People, all arm'd with Swords and Staves, and furnish'd with Lanterns and Torches, lest they shou'd miss of him, tho' it was now a full Moon.

Judas's Treason.

Judas gave them a Sign, that the Person whom he kiss'd was the Man they were to apprehend; and thereupon went up to Jesus, saying, Hail, Master; and gave him a Kiss: But Jesus only made this gentle Reply, Friend, why are you come hither? Betrayest thou the Son of Man with a Kiss? Then stepping forwards, with an Air of Majesty, he demanded of the Soldiers, Whom they sought? They answer'd, Jesus of Nazareth; and upon his replying, That He was the Man, they ran back, seiz'd with great Horrour, and fell to the Ground: And his thus confounding them by his bare Word, shew'd that none cou'd take his Life from him, unless less he laid it down of himself. These Men rising up, Jesus ask'd them again, Whom they sought? And they returning the same Answer, he told them, since they sought him alone, he expected that they shou'd suffer his Disciples to depart; therein accomplishing that Sentence in his Prayer, That he had lost none of them whom his Father had given him; and taking care that they shou'd escape that Storm, which none but himself cou'd sustain. Then the rude Multitude began to lay Hands on him; which when the Disciples saw, they said, Lord, shall we use the Sword? and immediately Peter, to shew his promis'd Courage, drew out his, and in a great Fury struck at Malchus, a Servant to the High-Priest, designing to cleave his Head, tho' he happen'd only to cut off his right Ear. But Jesus rebuk'd his intemperate Zeal, and commanded Peter to put up his Sword, declaring, That such as us'd the Sword illegally, shou'd perish by the Sword. That if he had thought fit to decline the Portion appointed for him, and design'd a Rescue, he cou'd have pray'd to his Father, and have had more than twelve Legions of Angels at his Command: But how then cou'd the Scriptures be accomplish'd, which declar'd he must suffer. Then miraculously healing the Man's Ear, he expostulated with the Multitude, perhaps to reduce them to some Remorse, and ask'd them, Why they came against him with Swords and Staves, as tho' he were some Thief or great Malefactor, when they had daily Opportunity of apprehending him publickly in the Temple? But this he said was their Hour, and the Power of Darkness. The Apostles now seeing their Master bound, lost all their former Courage, forsook him, and betook themselves to Flight; only one young Man, whom many suppose to be John, follow'd him, with only a Linen Garment about him; but the Soldiers laying hold on him, he left his Linen Garment, and fled from them naked. Jesus being thus apprehended, the Multitude led him immediately to Jesus brought before Annas;

Annas, out of Respect to him, who was Father-in-Law to Caiaphas the High-Priest, and who had formerly had the same Office; but Annas sent him to Caiaphas's Palace, where he and the whole Body of the Sanhedrim were assembled, tho' thus late at Night. Here Caiaphas strictly examin'd him both concerning his Doctrine, and his Followers; endeavouring to find Heresie in one, and Sedition in the other. But Jesus wou'd give him no farther Satisfaction than by declaring, That what he had taught and acted was in the View of the World, in the publick Synagogues and Temple, where all Men resorted; that therefore he had no Reason to ask him, but rather those who constantly heard him. At these Words one of the Officers, more zealous than ordinary, struck him on the Face, asking him, Why he gave such an Answer to the High-Priest? But Jesus reply'd, If he had answer'd amiss, he might testifie against him; if otherwise, he had no cause to strike him. In the mean time the whole Council sought false Witnesses against Jesus to put him to Death; And tho' many were produc'd, yet they all notoriously disagreed. At length two appear'd who agreed upon the same Subject, tho' they manifestly perverted our Lord's Meaning, declaring, They had heard him say, 'That he wou'd destroy the Temple of God, and rebuild it in three Days; in the wording of which they also disagreed. This Testimony was likewise found insufficient; nevertheless Caiaphas, rising up in the midst of the Assembly, ask'd him, Why he made no Reply to these Witnesses? But finding that he wou'd return no Answer to this Question neither, he put another to him, which if he answer'd in the negative, it wou'd make him an Impostor; if in the affirmative, a Blasphemer according to their Notion: And that he might not fail of an Answer, he adjur'd him by the living God, to declare whether he was the Messiah, the Son of God, or not. Jesus in Reverence to that Name, made Answer, declaring, That he was; and that they shou'd find the Experience of it, when they shou'd see him sitting at the right Hand of the Almighty, coming in the Clouds of Heaven. Whereupon the High-Priest, as a Testimony of his Abhorrence, rent his Cloaths, crying out, He was a Blasphemer, and there needed no other Witness against him; demanding their Opinion. They all joined with him, pronouncing him Guilty of Death, according to their Law; and so left him that Night to the Mercy of the Servants and Soldiers, who entertain'd him with bitter Scoffs and Buffets, blinded his Eyes, and striking him with their Fists, bad him shew his Messiaship, and prophesie who struck him; adding many other vile Indignities and abominable Blasphemies.

During these melancholy Transactions, Peter, whose Fears had driven him to fly from his Master in the Garden, having a little recover'd his Spirits, and hoping to pass undiscover'd in the Throng, ventur'd in among others to see the Issue of this fatal Night, and by the Interest of his Fellow Disciple John who went with him, he was let in by a Maid-Servant into the High-Priest's Palace: And entering the Common Hall, where the Servants and Officers were sat round a Fire they had lately kindled, he also sat down warming himself with the rest. Here the Maid, who had been his Portress, fixing her Eyes upon him, knew him, and spoke aloud, This Man was also with Jesus of Nazareth; asking him, if he was not one of his Disciples? Peter, startled at this Question, deny'd it before all, and answer'd her, Woman I know him not, I am none of his Disciple, nor do I know what thou sayest; and thereupon withdrew himself into the Porch, where he heard the Cock crow; a fair Intimation of his Fault, but his troubled Thoughts took no Notice of it. In the Porch another Maid charg'd him with being Jesus's Disciple, but he confidently deny'd it a second Time, and with the Addition of an Oath; so natural it is for one Sin to draw on another: About an Hour after, some other began to charge him with the same Matter, alledging, That his Dialect discover'd him to be a Galilean; but what still made the Matter more Indisputable, the Man's Kinsman whose Ear he had cut off, declar'd, That he saw him in the Garden with Jesus. This last Assertion reduc'd Peter to the utmost Fright, which made him swear and curse, That he knew not the Man, nor what they said: And immediately the Cock crew a second Time. At the same Time Jesus being brought down by the Soldiers, gave Peter such a Glance, as brought to his Mind what he had foretold of his Denial; and being vehemently oppress'd with Shame and Grief, he went out and wept bitterly.

GOOD-FRIDAY.

April 3.
Jesus brought again before the Sanhedrim.

II. Early in the Morning, our Lord having been allow'd no Sleep, the Sanhedrim meet again in a full Body at their Room in the Temple, to which Place they order'd Jesus to be brought, enquiring of him a second Time, whether he was really the Messiah, or not; designing to try whether he wou'd stand by his former Assertion. Jesus well knowing the Hardness of their Hearts, told them, That his Answer wou'd never convince their Infidelity; because they were so obstinate, that they would neither pretend to confute him, nor dismiss him: But that hereafter they shou'd find the Truth of what he had said, when he shou'd sit at the right Hand of the All-powerful God. Then they ask'd him, Whether he was the Son of God? And upon his answering in the affirmative, they declar'd, They needed no farther Witness, for they had his Condemnation from his own Mouth. And thereupon they resolv'd

<sup>Matth. 27.
3-10.</sup> resolv'd to deliver him up to the Roman Rower. Judas, who had carefully attended and watch'd the Issue of the Matter, finding his Matter deliver'd to a Pagan Power, and Things carry'd beyond his Expectation, repented his being an Instrument in such an execrable Fact; and to give some Ease to his tormented Conscience, brought the Money he had received back to the Sanhedrim: Declaring openly, That he had sinned, for he had betray'd innocent Blood. Here was the deepest Repentance, the most publick Confession, and a most just Restitution; yet all too little for one who had done such Despite to the Spirit of Grace, and was now fallen into the Hands of the living God. The Priests, incurious of those Hell Torments he felt within him, because their own Fires burn'd not yet, dismiss'd him with a rough Answer, That he might look to what he had done himself; and with the Money he had thrown down, purchas'd a spot of Ground, call'd the Potter's Field, for the Interment of the Profelytes of the Gate; accomplishing thereby a Prediction of the Prophet Zechary. But Judas being deliver'd over to Satan, went and hang'd himself; and the Judgment was made more signal by an Accident unusual at such Deaths, for being prodigiously swell'd, he fell headlong from the Tree, burst in sunder, and his Bowels fell out, in so wonderful a Manner, that it was noted by all that dwelt at Jerusalem. As the Wickedness he had committed was beyond all Precedent, so the Punishment he suffer'd was above all Example.

And strange Death.

But they refus'd to enter into the Hall of a Pagan at this Time, lest they shou'd be defiled, and render'd unfit for the Solemnities of the Chagigah, which St. John calls the Passover, as being a very considerable Part of the Festival. Therefore Pilate came out to them at the Palace-Gate, and demanded of them, What Accusation they had against Jesus? They made Answer, If he had not been a Malefactor, they wou'd not have brought him thither. The Governor told them, If he was a Malefactor, they might take him and judge him according to their own Laws; but they fearing the Mob, and being willing to throw off the Odium of his Death from themselves, alledg'd, That they had lost the Power of putting any to Death; which some say was taken from them three Years before. And proceeding to the Particulars of his Accusation, They declar'd, That he had perverted the Nation, That he had forbidden Men to pay Tribute to the Emperor, and had proclaim'd himself the Messiah, a King. Pilate hearing the Name of a King, thought himself concern'd to examine that Point; and returning into his Judgment Hall, he there ask'd Jesus, Whether he was the King of the Jews? Wherefore Jesus desir'd to know, Whether he ask'd that Question for his own Satisfaction, or whether that had been charg'd upon him as a Crime by the Jews? Pilate told him, That he was no Jew, nor acquainted with their Customs; but that his own Country-Men, and the chief of his Nation had deliver'd him up; and therefore he expected to know of him what was his Crime? Jesus wou'd not deny his Kingdom, but withal declar'd, That it was not of this World; for that if it had been so, his Subjects and Followers wou'd have fought for him, and sav'd him from the Hands of the Jews. Pilate, surpriz'd to see a poor abandon'd Man assume Sovereignty, ask'd him in a deriding way, Whether he was really a King? Our Lord answer'd in the affirmative, adding, That for that End he was born, and sent into the World, to bear Witness to the Truth; and every Man that lov'd the Truth, heard his Voice. Pilate then ask'd him, What he meant by Truth; but having no Desire

Fault in him.

Desire to engage any farther in Matters, which, he suppos'd, related peculiarly to the Jewish Religion, he rose suddenly from the Bench, taking Jesus with him, and returning to the People abroad, profess'd to them, That he found no Fault at all in the Man. Here the chief Priests and Senators accus'd him again of many Crimes; but since they deserv'd no Answer, he was silent: And tho' Pilate urged him, to make him sensible of the numerous Accusations, yet still he held his Peace, to the great Wonder of the Governor; who, tho' he well knew the Jews Malice, cou'd not with all his Subtilty dive to the Bottom of this Matter.

He is brought before Herod;

The Rulers finding Pilate so ready to release him, began to be more fierce and vehement, representing him as a turbulent Mover of the People, spreading his seditious Principles throughout all Galilee and Judæa, even to Jerusalem. The Governor hearing the Name of Galilee, and understanding he was a Galilean, and consequently belonging to the Jurisdiction of Herod, without any Delay sent him to Herod, who was then at the Feast in Jerusalem; both to oblige an Enemy, and to be freed from this odious and puzzling Affair. Now Jesus saw the Monster who murder'd his Fore-runner, and Herod was extremely pleas'd, for he had often heard of his Fame, and now expected to have seen some Miracle wrought by him. But our Lord, who had often shewn his Miracles to poor indigent People, wou'd not prostitute his Gifts, nor gratifie the Curiosity of a Tyrant polluted with Incest and Blood; nor wou'd he vouchsafe him one Answer to all his Questions, tho' urg'd by all the Heat and Violence of the Scribes and Rulers, who follow'd him thither: Insomuch that Herod, instead of a rival King, look'd upon him as a most insignificant despicable Person, and his Soldiers and Guards array'd him in some cast-off Robe, as a Mock-King, derided him, and carry'd him again to Pilate. And from that Time Herod and Pilate were perfectly reconcil'd, who before were great Enemies.

And sent back with Scorn.

He is again brought before
Pilate,

Being return'd to Pilate, the Governor again call'd the Priests, Rulers and People to the Gate, and publicly declar'd, That tho' they had brought this Man as a seditious Person, yet upon Examination, he cou'd not find him Guilty of any of those Crimes laid to his Charge; and that Herod, to whom he had sent him, had pass'd the very same Judgment: But to comply a little with their Fury, because he knew they had prosecuted him only out of Envy and Malice, he propounded to scourge him, and so dismiss him. This being disapprov'd of, he invented another Contrivance to save him: The Governor was oblig'd by a certain Custom, every Passover to release a Criminal, whom the Jews shou'd nominate; and all the People were very urgent with him to shew them the same Favour they had usually receiv'd. Now there was then in Prison a notorious Malefactor nam'd Barabbas, who had been seiz'd with other seditious Persons, because he had committed Murther in the Insurrection: Therefore Pilate justly imagining that if he only propounded Jesus and Barabbas to be releas'd, they wou'd prefer an innocent Man before a Thief and a Murtherer, told them, That he found no Crime worthy of Death in the Person they accus'd; but since they had a Custom to have a Criminal freed at their Feast, he propos'd to them to chuse one of the two, Barabbas or Jesus call'd Christ: And this he propos'd to the People in general, who were principally concern'd in this Custom, and whom he knew to be better affected to our Lord than the Rulers were. About the same Time there hapned a new Accident, which caus'd no little Concern in the Governor; for while he was sitting on the Tribunal, his Wife sent a Message to him, most earnestly warning him, Not to concern himself with that just Man then before him; for she had just then suffer'd many Afflictions in a Dream upon his Account. Whereon Pilate became more diligent in his Endeavours to release him: But the Priests and Rulers were still more instant in moving and persuading the People to require his Favour for Barabbas, and that Jesus might be put to Death; So that when Pilate ask'd them a second Time, which of the two they wou'd have releas'd, they all cry'd out, Away with this Man, and give us Barabbas! And now those who six Days before expected a temporal Kingdom, cry'd Hosanna, and spread their Garments in the Way, were as loud in their Cries for the Destruction of their King. And when Pilate ask'd them, What he shou'd do with Jesus call'd Christ? All cry'd, crucifie him, crucifie him! not only ignorantly demanding Justice, but impudently prescribing the Punishment, which was the cruellest that cou'd be nam'd. Then Pilate ask'd them a third time, What Crimes he had committed? for he cou'd find none worthy of Death; therefore he wou'd scourge him, and release him. Whereupon they redoubled their Clamours, and in the most tumultuous Manner imaginable requir'd that he might be crucify'd; insomuch that their Voices prevail'd upon the Governor.

Pilate finding no Arguments effectual, immediately gave Order that Jesus <sup>Jesus is scourg'd;</sup> shou'd be scourg'd; a Punishment very terrible and dishonourable among the Romans, therefore not exercis'd on any but Slaves; and this was perform'd, no doubt, with extraordinary Severity, since the Soldiers added so many Insolencies and Indignities besides. For after they had miserably torn his Body, they took him into the Common Hall with the whole Cohort about him, and having strip'd him, they threw a loose Purple Coat about him for a Robe, put a Wreath of Thorns upon his Head for a Crown, and a Reed in his Hand for a Scepter. <sup>Crown'd with Thorns;</sup> Then in Derision they saluted him, and bowing the Knee to him, ador'd him, crying, All Health to the King of the Jews! And at the same Time they spit upon his Face, and struck him on his Cheek with their Hands, and on his Crown with the Reed, that his Head might be more wounded with the Thorns. Pilate now conceiv'd that the Jews cou'd not behold him in this deplorable Condition without Remorse and Pity; and therefore went again out of his Palace, in a conspicuous Place, declaring to them, That he had brought him again to them, that they might be sensible he found him Guilty of no Crime. And immediately Jesus was brought forth, with all his mock Ornaments, Thorns, Coat and Reed, and his Head, Face and Body all embrew'd in Blood: Then Pilate cry'd out to the Multitude, <sup>And expos'd to the Jews.</sup> BEHOLD THE MAN! As if he had said, See this rueful Spectacle of suffering Innocence, and be confounded. But as soon as they saw their once expected King in such miserable Circumstances, they more readily cry'd out as before, Crucifie him him, crucifie him! Pilate said to them, Do ye take him, and crucifie him, for I find no Fault in him: They answer'd, They had a particular Law, according to which he ought to die, because he made himself the Son of God.

These last Words struck him, tho' a wicked Governor, with a reverential Dread, and added new Perplexities to his former; therefore with <sup>Pilate examines him again:</sup> no little Astonishment he returned with Jesus into the Prætorium, and began a new Examination of him, demanding of him Whence was his Original! But Jesus return'd him no Answer. Upon this Pilate was more urgent, and ask'd him, Whether he was not sensible, that he had Power either to crucifie or release him? To this Jesus calmly reply'd, That he cou'd have no Power to hurt him, were it not permitted from Heaven above; therefore they who deliver'd him up were Guilty of a greater Sin than he. This Silence and these Answers did not slacken Pilate's Endeavours to release him. But the Jews at length found out an Expedient to work upon the Timorousness

And being terrified,

morousness of the Judge, and cry'd out, That if he did not punish a Man who set himself up for a King, he was an Enemy to the Emperor. This did not a little startle the Governor, raising in him a Fear quite contrary to the Fear of God; for he well knew the jealous Temper of his Master Tiberius, who never spar'd the least seeming Rival, and had very lately us'd intolerable Severities to all Sejanus's Accomplices; and if the Jews, whom he had often oppress'd and disgusted, shou'd accuse him of protecting a Rebel to the Empire, it might easily have prov'd his Ruin. Therefore returning to the Hall, he brought forth Jesus in the same Habit to his publick Tribunal, in a paved Place call'd Gabbatha; and tho' he intended to pass Sentence upon him, yet he let them understand, that he did it contrary to his Opinion and Inclination. Being seated, he said to the Jews, Behold your King; but they cry'd out, Away with him, away with him, crucifie him! And when he ask'd them by way of Irony, Whether he shou'd crucifie their King? They made Answer, That they had no King but Cæsar; which was the first Time we find that they own'd the Roman Emperor for their Sovereign. Pilate finding that all his Attempts to save Jesus did only encrease the Tumult, and thinking he had sufficiently done his Part, call'd for Water, and washing his Hands before all the People, as a Token of the Purity of his Intentions, solemnly declar'd, That he was innocent of the Blood of that just Man; and that they must answer for it. Upon which the whole Body of the People most impiously cry'd out, May his Blood fall upon us and all our Posterity! An Imprecation as black as Hell. Hereupon Pilate releas'd to them Barabbas, and condemn'd Jesus to the Cross; a Death the most painful and ignominious of all others.

(After his pronouncing him innocent)

He condemns him to be crucify'd.

He is led through Jerusalem;

Our dear Lord being thus condemn'd, and abandon'd by all the World, the Soldiers and Officers, after new Indignities offer'd him, took the Purple Coat off his mangl'd Body, and put on his own Garments; and then laid an heavy Cross upon his Shoulders, who now like Isaac bore the Wood, with which he was to be sacrific'd himself. In this solemn Procession he pass'd through one of the principal Streets of the City, to the infinite Triumph of his Enemies, and the no less Discouragement of his Admirers; till being overburthen'd, they compel'd one Simon a Cyrenian, Father to Alexander and Rufus, to bear his Cross the rest of the Way. Among the vast Throngs and Multitudes that follow'd to this Execution, there were many People, especially Women, who cou'd not behold this deplorable Object without the highest Grief and Lamentations. Our Lord observing what Floods of Tears were shed upon his Account, lifting up his all bloody and disfigur'd Countenance, cry'd, O Daughters of Jerusalem! weep not for me, but for your selves, and for your Children: For know that the fatal Time is approaching, when ye shall all say, Blessed are those barren Wombs that never bore Children, and those Breasts that never gave suck: Then shall they begin to call upon the Mountains to fall on them, and the Hills to cover them from the Vengeance of Heaven: For if the Romans deal thus with a green Tree, what will they do with a dry and sapless Trunk? Thus was the great Sacrifice convey'd out of the Holy City, as an accursed Thing; just as the scape Goat, loaden with the Iniquities of the People, and the Beasts for Sin-Offerings, were by Law carry'd out of the Camp. Passing the Gates, they brought him to a Rocky Hill, on the West Side of the City, call'd Golgotha, and Calvary, a kind of a Charnel House for the City, and place of Execution. This Place is by many believed to be the same where Abraham brought his Son Isaac to be offer'd. Here they first gave him a Mixture of Vinegar and Gall to drink, instead of the usual Composition of Wine and Myrrh, given to Malefactors to ease them in their Torments; but upon tasting of it, he refus'd to drink. Then stripping him of his Garments, they nail'd his Hands and his Feet, with with his Body stretch'd out upon the Cross, and lifted him up, as the Brazen Serpent upon the Pole in the Wilderness. And to put him to the greater Shame, and to obscure his Innocence, they crucify'd two common Malefactors, one on each Side of him; accomplishing Isaiah's Prophecy, 'He was number'd among the Transgressors.' On the Top of his Cross Pilate appointed this Inscription, JESUS OF NAZARETH, KING OF THE JEWS, in the three most universal Languages, Hebrew, Greek and Latin, that all Strangers might take Notice of his Crime. The chief Priests were much offended at this, and beg'd of Pilate to alter the Inscription, and instead of King of the Jews, to write, he pretended himself King of the Jews; but Pilate with some Anger made Answer, That what he had written shou'd stand good.

23-27.*

It was near the sixth Hour, or Noon, when our Saviour was fix'd to the Cross, tho' by St. Mark call'd the third Hour, because the sixth was not yet fully begun; and the first thing he utter'd was a gracious Prayer for his Enemies; saying, Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do. Immediately those four Soldiers, who were his Executioners, went to divide the poor Spoil his Garments, cutting them into four Parts, each Soldier one; only his Coat was woven from the Top to the Bottom without any Seam, therefore rather than spoil it, they agreed to cast Lots for it, whose it shou'd be; accomplishing thereby the Words of the Psalmist, 'They parted my Garments among them, and cast Lots for my Vesture.' While our patient Lord hung thus languishing in the extreme Torments, the Passengers and the Multitude added all they cou'd to his Misery by their reviling Speeches and provoking Blasphemies, some nodding their Heads, and crying, Ab, you that have Power to destroy the Temple, and rebuild it in three Days, save your self; if you be the Son of God, come down from the Cross. The Chief Priests and Rulers entertain'd him with the like Scoffs, saying, He sav'd others, but cannot save himself; if he be really the King of Israel, the chosen of God, let him come down from the Cross, and we will believe him: 'He trusted in God, let him deliver him now if he will have him; since he has declar'd himself the Son of God. The Soldiers who stood to guard him also derided him, and bad him, Save himself if he was the King of the Jews. Nay one of the crucify'd Malefactors urg'd him to save himself and them, if he was the Messiah. But the other Malefactor, now finding the glorious Benefit of our Saviour's Prayer for his Enemies, and being mov'd with a wonderful Impulse, seriously rebuk'd him in these Terms, Dost not thou fear God, seeing thou art condemn'd to the same Punishment, and that most justly? We, alas, receive the due Reward of our Crimes, but this Person has done nothing to deserve this Punishment. Then looking upon Jesus with a noble Reliance, he cry'd, Lord, remember me when thou comest into thy Kingdom. A most superlative and stupendious Faith, to fly for Succour to one in the same miserable Circumstances, whom all the World had abandon'd, and whom God himself had seem'd to have forsaken; and the Success was accordingly Triumphant: For our Lord immediately embrac'd him with the Arms of his Mercy, and solemnly assur'd him, That that very Day he shou'd be with him in Heaven. After our Lord had shewn himself thus triumphant upon the Cross, he proceeded, as it were, to make his Will: For seeing his beloved Disciple John, with his Virgin Mother, her Sister, Mary Magdalene, with other Women, who beheld him with unexpressible Grief, he first spoke to his Mother, saying, Woman, behold thy Son, meaning John; and he said to John, Behold thy Mother; thus recommending both to each other: And from that Time John took her to his own House, where they dwelt as Mother and Son together.

The Sun dark-
ned.

During these melancholy Transactions, the whole Frame of Nature began to be chang'd, and out of order; for the Sun was so darken'd, that the Stars appear'd, and the Eclipse was prodigious in the Manner as well as Degree, because the Moon was not then in Conjunction, but in the Full. This miraculous Darkeness was universal, in all probability, and was recorded by many Pagan Writers, as Phlegon, Trallianus, &c. and we are told by later Writers, that Dionysius the Areopagite being in Ægypt, and observing this strange Eclipse, cry'd out to his Friend Apollophanes, That either God himself suffer'd, or sympathiz'd with the Sufferer. The Darkeness continu'd from about twelve a Clock till three, when all Things were full of Terror and Amazement, and Men's Hearts with Fear began to relent, and their former Insults to be turn'd into a profound Silence and Expectation of the Issue. All this Time our blessed Lord continu'd meek and silent, languishing and consuming in the Flames of God's Wrath against Sinners; till finding his Soul unsufferably oppress'd with the Burthen, and all the Powers of Hell upon him, without one pitying Angel to assist, he in a loud and dismal Tone cry'd, Eli! Eli! lama sabachthani? i. e. My God! My God! Why hast thou forsaken me? his Divinity at this time suspending from his Humanity those Comforts with which his Servants in their greatest Sufferings are usually refresh'd. Some of the Spectators hearing the Words Eli, Eli, out of Ignorance of the Tongue, and a fond Expectation of the Coming of Elias, thought he call'd for Elias, to help him in his Distress. Then being in the Agonies of a high Fever, to fulfil the Scriptures, he cry'd, I thirst; and one of the Company took a Sponge, and dipping it in Vinegar that stood by, upon the End of a Reed, or long Stalk of Hyssop, put it to his Mouth, that he might drink; others saying, Let us see whether Elias will come and help him. Jesus having tasted the Vinegar, and feeling the Pangs of Death upon him, cry'd, ALL IS ACCOMPLISHED; all the Prophecies and Types fulfill'd, and the great Sacrifice offer'd. Then with another strong Out-cry like the former, he said, Father, into thy Hands I commend my Soul; and bowing down his Head, he expir'd. Thus did the glorious Sun of Righteousness set in a sad and clouded Sky, running speedily to shine in the other World.

Death, and the Jewish Types
at an End.

Jesus dy'd about three a Clock, the Time of offering up the Evening Sacrifice, at the End of the sixth Day of the Week, as entering into his Sabbath of Rest. His Death was immediately accompany'd with a most terrible Earthquake, as tho' Nature was breathing her last, which rent the Rocks in sunder, and open'd the Graves of many Saints, who were ready to attend Jesus at his Resurrection. But what was still more surprizing, the Veil of the Temple, which separated the sacred Mosaick Mysteries from the Eyes of the People, was rent in two from Top to Bottom; shewing that God had forsaken his former Residence, and put a Period to all the Temple Ministrations. To which we may add from the Jewish Writers, that from this Time, the Lot did no more go up into the right Hand of the Priest; nor the Scarlet Ribbon on the Scape-Goat any more turn white; nor the Evening Lamp burn any longer; and that the Temple Gates open'd of themselves. The Centurion and Soldiers that guarded Jesus, seeing so many Prodigies at his Death, in a great Consternation cry'd out, Certainly this Man was the Son of God; and all the People, especially the Women, were no less affected than they, returning in a great Amazement, and smiting upon their Breasts. Because the next Day was the Sabbath, and a Paschal Festival besides, the Jews desired Pilate that the Bodies of the Sufferers might not continue on the Cross that Day, but that their Legs might be broken to hasten their Deaths, and their Bodies

Bodies taken down. This was immediately executed upon the two Thieves, but the Soldiers coming to Jesus, and finding him already dead, instead of breaking his Legs, one of them out of Wantonness pierc'd his Side with a Spear, out of which there issu'd a great Quantity of Blood and Water, poured out as the Sacrifice's was, at the Foot of the Altar, on which the Lamb of God was fix'd. This compleated the great Sacrifice, and as St. John observes, accomplish'd two Prophecies; the first; 'A Bone of him shall not be broken; the second, 'They shall look on him whom they pierc'd.

Among the Disciples of our Lord, there was one nam'd Joseph, a Man of great Wealth and Honour, born in Arimathæa or Ramah, a City of Judea; who, tho' he was one of the Rulers of Jerusalem, yet being a secret Admirer of Jesus, he wou'd not consent to any of those Judgments against him. He stood in some Fear of the Council, but the Death of his Master filling him with more Courage, he went to Pilate, and beg'd leave of him to take down the Body of Jesus and bury it. The Governor was surpriz'd to hear he was so soon dead; but being assur'd of it by the Centurion, he commanded the Body to be deliver'd to Joseph, who taking it from the Cross, wrap'd it in fine Linen Cloaths which he had bought for that Purpose. At the same Time, Nicodemus the Ruler, who came to Jesus by Night, being desirous to share with Joseph in paying these last and sad Offices to their Master, brought a Mixture of Aloes and Myrrh of about an hundred Weight; and they two wrap'd up the Body with the Perfumes and Spices, according to the ordinary Manner of the Jews. Near the Place of Crucifixion was a Garden belonging to Joseph, where he had lately hewn a Sepulchre out of a Rock for his own proper Interment; but Divinely ordain'd for our Lord's Body, near hand, so that all Things might the better serve for the Evidence of his ensuing Resurrection. Here they laid the Body of Jesus, covering it with a large Stone cut out of the Rock, which fitting the Mouth of the Sepulchre, was not to be remov'd but by many Hands. Mary Magdalene, and the other Women who were present at the Death of Jesus, did also assist at his Burial, and took Notice where they laid him; and having consider'd on it, they went and prepar'd new Spices for the farther embalming him, as soon as the Sabbath-Day shou'd be over: By which they testify'd their Love, but had but small Expectations of his Resurrection.

S A T U R D A Y.

All this Day were the Apostles, Disciples and Followers of our Saviour under a dismal Cloud of Darknes, overwhelm'd with the most profound Sorrow and Sadness, confounded, dispirited, and sunk into the lowest Valleys of Affliction, forgetting those Promises that might give them Hopes of better Days. In the mean Time the Jews, the Rulers, now triumphant in their Malice, that the Disciples might gain no Advantage, went to Pilate and told him, That this Impostor having declar'd in his Life Time, that he wou'd rise again within three Days, they desir'd that he wou'd command the Sepulchre to be kept under a strong Guard till the third Day, lest his Disciples shou'd come by Night and steal the Body away, and then persuade the People he was risen from the Dead; and so the last Error might prove more pernicious than the first. Possibly they design'd to have shewn his Body to the People at that Time, to weaken and destroy all his Doctrine. Pilate told them, They might have a Guard, and secure the Tomb as well as possibly they cou'd: Hereupon they took a sufficient Number of Soldiers to watch by it, set a Seal upon the Stone, and as an ancient Tradition says, bound it about with Labels of Iron, to secure it against all private Attempts. Which Care and Diligence of theirs serv'd to render our Lord's Resurrection clear and evident beyond Dispute.

April. 5. III. On the first Day of the Week, which may also be call'd the first of the new Creation, Mary Magdalene, and the other Women who had prepar'd their Spices and Perfumes on Friday in the Evening, went very early in the Morning to perform their last Offices of Love and Duty, and arriv'd at Jesus's Sepulchre before Sun-rising. These Women knew nothing of the Guard and Seal set upon it, their main Care and Consultation by the Way, being how they shou'd remove that large Stone at the Mouth of the Tomb. Not long before their Arrival, our Lord had made a full Conquest over Death, and broke forth from the Bowels of the Earth, with a terrible Commotion like that at his Death, being follow'd by the Resurrection of several of the Saints, who appear'd to many in the City. At the same Time an Angel from Heaven, whose refulgent Countenance was like Lightning, and his Raiment like the whitest Snow, having roll'd away the Stone, sat upon it; the Sight of whom, together with the Noise of the Earthquake, struck such a Terror into the Guards, that they became all like dead Men: So that when the Women came to the Place, they found neither Guards nor Stone that cou'd hinder their Entrance; but being enter'd they were extremely astonish'd, when they found the Body remov'd. In the midst of their Concern their Fears were encreas'd by the glorious Appearance of two Angels in resplendent Apparel, which caus'd them to bow down their Faces to the Ground. The Angels said to them, Why do ye seek the Living among the Dead? Fear nothing, we know ye seek Jesus of Nazareth, who was crucify'd: He is not here, but risen from the Grave: Remember what he told you in Galilee, 'That the Son of Man must be deliver'd into the Hands of Sinners, be crucify'd, and be rais'd again the third Day. Come view the Place where the Lord lay; and go quickly and tell his Disciples, particularly Peter, that he is risen from the Dead, and that he will go before them into Galilee, where they shall see him according to his Promise. The Women then remembring our Lord's Words, left the Sepulchre, and ran with all Speed to find out the Apostles, their Minds being fill'd with great Fear, as well as Joy and Wonder; but the Apostles believ'd them not, looking upon all as the Product of a weak frightened Fancy.

Mary Magdalene found out Peter and John, and tho' she had heard of Jesus's Resurrection from the Angels, yet she still seem'd to doubt of it, and with great Eagerness told them, They had taken away the Lord from the Sepulchre, and they knew not where they had laid him. Hereupon the two Apostles ran both to the Sepulchre: John arriv'd first, and stooping down discover'd the burying Cloaths lying on the Ground; a Sign that the Body was taken by no Robbers. But Peter went directly into the Tomb, and saw besides the Shroud, the Napkin that was about his Head, lying decently wrap'd up by it self: And John following him saw the same Thing, both concluding that the Body was remov'd, as Mary had told them; for as yet they did not sufficiently understand the Scriptures, nor our Lord's Declarations, concerning his Resurrection. And they both return'd back, amaz'd at these Things, and earnestly expecting the Issue. But Mary, more impatient than any other, wou'd not depart from the Tomb, but in a melancholy choly weeping Manner look'd in again, where she discover'd two Angels in bright Apparel, sitting where the Body had lain, one at the Head and the other at the Feet, like two Cherubims at each End of the Ark. The Angels ask'd her why she wept; she made Answer in a doleful Tone, They had taken away her Lord, and she knew not where they had lain him. Then turning her self about she saw Jesus himself, who ask'd her the same Question, and whom she sought. But she supposing him to be the Gardiner, who cou'd give her an Account of the Body, beg'd of him, To let her know if he had remov'd him, that she her self might take care of him. Whereupon Jesus call'd her by her Name; at which Word she immediately knew him, and in a Transport cry'd out, Rabboni, my Master! offering to embrace him, but he bad her not to touch him then, since she had Time enough before his Ascension; but, added he, hasten to my Brethren the Apostles, and tell them that I am about to ascend to my Father and your Father, to my God and your God. Mary immediately went to the Disciples, and told them, That she had seen the Lord; but their Sorrows were so great, and their Faith so weak, that they did not believe it. In the mean Time the other Women were met by our Lord, who gave them this Salutation, All Hail! and they in an Ecstasie fell down at his Feet, embrac'd them, and ador'd him: Jesus bad them fear nothing, but appoint his Brethren to go into Galilee, where they shou'd see him.

His second Appearance to certain Women.

During these busie Transactions, some of the Guards in a great Fright fled into the City, and related all that occur'd to the chief Priests and Rulers, who immediately assembled themselves to consult upon this important Affair. And as their Malice was beyond all Example, so they were reduc'd to the most wretched Shift, and to the most unaccountable Falsity that ever Rulers invented; namely, That his Disciples stole him away by Night, while the Watch were asleep. And that this Story might certainly succeed, they gave large Sums of Money to the suppos'd Sleepers to report and assert the Thing, tho' upon that Supposition it was impossible for them to know it: Promising withal, That if their Neglect came to the Governor's Ear, they wou'd secure them from Punishment. The Soldiers readily took the Money, and obey'd their Orders; so that this Report was commonly spread among the Jews for many Years after.

The same Day two of the Disciples, which seem to be of the Number of the Seventy, took a Walk in the Afternoon to a Town call'd Emmaus, about seven Miles and an half North-West of Jerusalem, discoursing by the Way of all the late melancholy Accidents. In their Walk Jesus himself overtook them in the Disguise of a Traveller; and seeing them much dejected, chearfully ask'd them the Subject of their Discourse, which render'd them so sad and disconsolate. One of them, nam'd Cleophas or Alpheus, Father to two, if not three of the Apostles, made Answer, Are you the only Stranger in Jerusalem, that are unacquainted with the Things that hapned so lately? Upon his asking What Things? they answer'd, concerning Jesus of Nazareth, a Prophet wonderful in Words and Actions before God and the whole People, whom the chief Priests and Governors have deliver'd to Death, and crucify'd. Alas, we trusted that he was the Person who shou'd have redeem'd Israel! But what is still more astonishing, this very Day, which is the third since his Death, some Women of our Company having been early at the Sepulchre, and not finding his Body, surpriz'd us with an Account that they had seen a Vision of Angels, who assur'd them that he was alive: Which Relation was confirm'd by some of us, who went also to the Sepulchre, and found all as the Women had reported; but did not see him. From hence Jesus took an Occasion to reprove their Unbelief, saying to them, O Fools, whose Hearts are so slow in believing what the Prophets have foretold! Was not the Messiah to have have suffer'd all these Things, before he enter'd into his Glory? Then beginning at Moses, and going through all the Prophets, he explain'd to them all the Types and Prophecies concerning himself and Sufferings. Arriving at Emmaus, by making a Shew of going farther, he gave them an Opportunity to shew their Hospitality, by desiring him to stay and eat with them, since the Day was so far spent and towards Evening. He readily comply'd with their Request, and sitting at the Table with them, he took Bread, bless'd it, broke it, and deliver'd to them, as he had often done formerly: Upon which their Eyes were open'd, and they knew him; but he immediately vanish'd out of their Sight. Then in a great Astonishment they said to one another, Were not our Hearts fired within us at his Discourse by the Way, and his Exposition of the Scriptures? And without any longer tarrying, they rose up, and hastned with great Joy and Speed to Jerusalem; where they found the Apostles gather'd together, who told them, That the Lord was certainly risen, and had appear'd to Peter; which Appearance is mention'd by St. Paul, 1 Cor. 15. 5. Whereupon these two related what had hapned to them in their Journey, and how Jesus was made known to them by breaking of Bread. Nevertheless several still remain'd incredulous; probably arguing and imagining from our Lord's frequent and sudden Disappearance, that it was only some Spirit in his Likeness.

His fifth Appearance to ten of the Apostles.

The Apostles with some others being now assembled in a private Place for Fear of the Jews, and being sat down to Supper late in the Evening, with the Doors shut, Jesus himself came in, and stood in the midst of them, saying, Peace be with you! The Sight of him prov'd a great Terror and Astonishment to the Apostles, who suppos'd they had seen a Spirit or a Fantom. But Jesus to satisfy them, ask'd them, Why they were so concern'd? assuring them it was he himself, bidding them look upon his Hands and Feet, handle him and observe, for a Spirit had not Flesh and Bones, as they saw he had. Then he shew'd them the Wounds in his Hands, and his Feet, and his Side. The Apostles were so transported with Joy and Wonder, that still they did not fully believe, till Jesus ask'd them, Whether they had any thing to eat? Upon which they brought him a Piece of broil'd Fish, and also some Honeycomb, and he eat before them all; not for the Support of his Body, for that being spiritualiz'd by his Resurrection, needed not such Nourishment, but to confirm their Faith, and to give them sensible Proofs that he was risen from the Dead. Then, as St. Mark says, he upbraided their Unbelief and Hardness of Heart, for giving so little Credit to those who had seen him before: Declaring, That what they now saw he had foretold them, that all Things must be accomplish'd that had been written in the Law and the Prophets. Then he enlarg'd their Intellects, that they might understand the Scriptures, shewing them, That thus it was written, and thus it was necessary for Christ to suffer, and to rise again the third Day: And that Repentance and Remission of Sins shou'd be preach'd in his Name, among all Nations, beginning first at Jerusalem. And that they were Witnesses of these Things. Before he left them, he gave them this second Benediction Peace be with you; and breathing upon them, he seem'd to renew their Apostolical and Ministerial Power, in these most solemn Words, Receive ye the Holy Ghost; whosesoever Sins ye remit, they are remitted unto them, and whosesoever Sins ye retain, they are retained. And thus ended the first Day of the Week, which in Honour of the Resurrection, has ever since been kept as the Sabbath among the Christians. This Day Jesus appear'd five Times, first to Mary Magdalene, secondly to the other Women, thirdly to the two Disciples, fourthly to Peter, and fifthly to the Apostles and some others with them.

Thomas was not with the other Disciples when Jesus appear'd to them in the foremention'd Manner; and upon his Return to them, when they told him, That they had seen the Lord, he wou'd not believe it, unless he himself had the utmost Evidence of Sense; namely, Except he saw in his Hands the very Holes made by the Nails, and thrust his Fingers into them, and also his Hand into his Side. The Son of God, who made use of all his Infidelity; to establish the Certainty of the Resurrection; wou'd not forsake this Apostle in his Unbelief; and therefore on the Sunday following, as a second Establishment of that Day for the Christian Sabbath, he appear'd again to his Apostles, when they had met at the same Place and shut the Doors; and standing in the midst of them, saluted them as formerly, Peace be with you. Then mercifully looking upon Thomas, whom neither the Scriptures nor the Apostles cou'd satisfy, he said, Reach hither thy Fingers, and examine my Hands; and reach hither thy Hand, and thrust it into my Side, and be not faithless, but a Believer. Thomas having receiv'd the Satisfaction, in a Transport cry'd out, My Lord, and my God! A short but absolute Confession of Faith. Jesus said to him, Thomas, thou hast believed because thou'st had the Demonstration of Sense; blessed are those who believe without that Demonstration. This was the second Time that our Lord appear'd to his Apostles when they were met in a Body.

IV. About a Day or two after our Lord's second Appearance to his Apostles; they all resolv'd to leave Judea, and return into their own Province Galilee; going in all Probability in several Companies; lest their Numbers shou'd awaken the Power and Jealousie of their Enemies; seven of the Apostles in a short Time arriv'd at the Banks of the Sea of Galilee; namely, Peter, Thomas, James, John, Nathaniel or Bartholomew, and two others not nam'd. Here Peter propos'd to go a Fishing, and the rest join'd with him, probably for a present Supply of Provisions; but entering a Vessel, they caught nothing all that Night; as it also happen'd to Peter at our Lord's first calling him from his Fishing-Trade. In the Morning a Person unknown to them appear'd on the Shore, and as if he were some indigent Traveller, ask'd them, Whether they had any Meat. Upon their answering No, he advis'd them to cast their Net on the right Side of the Vessel, that the Miracle might not seem the Effect of Chance, and they should not fail of Success; which being done, they immediately inclos'd in it such a vast Draught of Fish, that they were not able to draw it up. John amaz'd at the Strangeness of the Matter, cry'd out to Peter, it was the Lord himself; and the other, impatient of Delay, girt his Fishier's Coat about him, which he had laid aside, threw himself into the Sea, and swam to the Shore. The other Disciples remain'd in the Vessel, which was about an hundred Yards from Land; and with much Labour drew it a-shore, dragging with them the Net full of Fishes. Upon their Landing, they were entertain'd with another Miracle, namely, a Fire ready made, and Fish laid upon it, with Bread, all immediately created by the Divine Hand. Then Jesus order'd them to bring the Fish they had caught; and Peter went up and drew the Net to Land, which contain'd an hundred and fifty three large Fishes, without any Damage done to the Net. After this he invited them to dine with him; they came, but out of Fear and Reverence durst not ask him any curious Question, who he was, and the like, knowing him to be the Lord. Then taking the Bread and the Fish, he distributed to them, and eat himself with them; to give them a farther Assurance of the Truth of his human Nature, since his Return from the Grave.

Dinner being ended, our Lord more particularly address'd himself to Peter, and by way of Reflection upon his late Confidence and Failure, he ask'd ask'd him; Whether he lov'd him more than the rest of the Apostles? Peter answer'd in general, That he knew that he lov'd him; upon which Jesus committed to him the Care of Feeding his Lambs, teaching those of the younger weaker Capacities. He put the same Question to him twice more, and receiv'd the same Answer, not without some Concern from Peter the last Time; and he having made some Amends for his Sin of denying him thrice, by giving a Triple Testimony of his Love, Jesus incited him to shew his Love by Feeding his Sheep, his Flock in general. Then to shew him what Difficulties he shou'd encounter, and what Fate shou'd attend his Office, he told him, That tho' when he was young, he girt himself, liv'd at his own Will, and went whither he pleas'd; yet when he was old, he shou'd stretch forth his Hands, and another shou'd gird and bind him, and lead him whither he had no Inclination: Intimating, as the Evangelist tells us, by what Death he shou'd glorifie God, that is, by Crucifixion, as it hapned in process of Time. And then rising up, he commanded him to follow him, mystically implying his imitating him, and his Conformity to his Death. Peter was ready to drink the bitter Cup; and seeing John also following, he desir'd to know of his Master, What shou'd be the Fate of him, he who had been so much the Object of his Love. But Jesus a little check'd his unnecessary Curiosity, telling him, If he design'd him to continue on Earth till his coming to take Vengeance upon the Jews, it was not material to him, whose Business was to follow his Master. These Words seem'd to intimate to the Apostles that John shou'd never die; but he himself confuted that Opinion in his Gospel. This was the third Time that Jesus appear'd to his Disciples meeting in a Body, after his Resurrection.

His eighth Appearance, to 500
Brethren.

Not long after this, our Lord having appointed a solemn Meeting for the whole Multitude of his Galilean and other Disciples, and nam'd a certain Mountain in Galilee, appear'd there not only to the Eleven, but to above five hundred Brethren at once, as St. Paul tells us 1 Cor. 15. 6. This seems to be that Mountain which he had often us'd for his Solitude and private Devotions, a Place free from Houses, Highways or Passengers; our Lord designing no general Manifestation of himself to the Jews, or to the World, but only to a select Number of Persons, that some Contradiction might add the more Virtue to the Christian Faith. At his first Appearance, they fell down and ador'd him; but some doubted of the Reality till now. And now the Enclosure and Partition-Wall being thrown down which kept the Apostles from Preaching to the Gentiles, and the Jews having lost their Privileges of being a peculiar People, our Lord thought fit to enlarge the Power and Commissions of the Apostles to the utmost Extent: Declaring to them, That all Power was given to him in Heaven and Earth; therefore he commanded them to go through all the World, make Disciples of all Nations, and preach the Gospel to every Creature, baptizing them in the Name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost; and teaching them to observe all Things that he had commanded them. Adding farther, That he that believ'd and was baptiz'd shou'd be sav'd; but that he that believ'd not shou'd be damn'd. And that for the Propagation of the Gospel at first, these following Signs shou'd attend Believers; namely, They shou'd eject Devils in his Name, speak with new Tongues, take up Serpents, drink Poison without Hurt, and by laying Hands on the Sick shou'd recover them. Lastly, since the Apostles had need of Power and Strength to exercise the Ministry entrusted to them, he promis'd them his continual Protection; solemnly assuring them, That he wou'd be ever present with them, even to the End of the World. To these we may add a Passage out of Clemens Alexandrinus, who assures us, that our Saviour said these Words to his Apostles, If any Israelite shall repent and believe in God through my Name, his Sins shall be forgiven him. But after

Forty Days was the Time predestin'd for our Lord's Continuance upon Earth after his Resurrection, for the Manifestation of himself, and for the preparing of his Apostles for their future Employment. These Days being almost expired, the Apostles according to Order, with some other select Friends, return'd to Jerusalem, and there assembled themselves privately.

Our Lord coming amongst them the last Day, particularly commanded them, That they shou'd not depart from Jerusalem, till they had receiv'd the Promise of God, and were invested with Power from above. For John indeed baptiz'd them with Water, but they in a particular Manner shou'd be baptiz'd by the Holy Ghost, and that within a few Days. His last appearance, to the Apostles.

The Apostles hearing him discourse of this extraordinary Effusion of the Spirit, and imagining it wou'd be an Introduction to his glorious temporal Kingdom, which Notion they still retain'd, ask'd him, Whether he wou'd at that Time restore the Kingdom to Israel or not? Jesus reply'd, That it was not proper for them to pry into the Times and Seasons, which God had put into his own Power: But after the Descent of the Holy Ghost upon them, they shou'd receive sufficient Power and Knowledge, and have the Honour of being his Witnesses in Jerusalem, in all Judæa, in Samaria, and in the farthest Parts of the Earth. And now the Time being come, when Jesus shou'd receive the glorious Reward of all his Humility and Afflictions, and be far exalted above every Creature in Heaven and Earth, he led all the Company out of the City to that Part of Mount Olivet which was near Bethany; where lifting up his Hands, which shew'd the dear Marks of his Sufferings, he gave them his last Benediction.

And while they were all in an adoring Posture, he was parted from them by Degrees, and taken up in a Cloud, and carry'd in the most triumphant Manner into the ineffable Glories of Heaven. And there he sits at the right Hand of his Father, being our eternal High-Priest, our continual Advocate and Intercessor, and the sole Head of the Church, which he governs by his Pastors, enlightens by her Doctors, sanctifies by his Sacraments, protects by his Grace, and quickens by his Spirit. Before whom he ascends into Heaven.

Our Lord ascended on the 14th Day of our Month May, in the ninth Month of the 19th Year of the Emperor Tiberius, and in the 36th Year of his Age, when Men are generally in their full Strength and Vigour. If he was born on the 25th of December, the full Time of his Continuance on Earth was precisely 36 Years and five Months; almost a Year longer than his Fore-runner John Baptist.

I. T was with no small Surprize and Astonishment that the Apostles and the other Disciples upon Mount Olivet stood gazing upon our blessed Saviour, as he ascended towards his glorious Habitation, and his eternal Kingdom; and perhaps not without Expectation of the Return of their dear Lord and Master. While their Minds were transported, and their Eyes fix'd upon Heaven, two Angels in glorious Vestments, descended and stood in the midst of them; two of our Lord's Train, whom he left behind to entertain them with a new Message, and divert them after this triumphant Sight, which was both joyful and sorrowful, as they thought upon their Master's Honour, or their own Loss. The Angels call'd them by the Name of Galileans, and ask'd them, Why they stood so earnestly and intently looking towards Heaven? And then assur'd them, That the very same Person, Jesus, whom they had seen taken up into Heaven, shou'd descend again to Judgment in the same manner as they saw him ascend; that is, visibly, and with the same Body; when he shall appear in the Clouds, with great Majesty and Glory. Having heard this, they return'd to Jerusalem with great Joy; and they who lately were overwhelm'd with Sorrow at the Mention of their Master's Departure; began now to entertain it with great Satisfaction, being more and more sensible of his triumphant Advancement, and of his special Care and Love towards them.

The Apostles and the rest being return'd to the City, which was near a Mile from the Place, that they might prepare themselves for the Reception of that Holy Spirit they were shortly to receive, spent their Time in continual Acts of the most heavenly Devotion. And for the greater Convenience, they assembled themselves εἰς ὑπερῶν in the Upper Room, which was dedicated by them to the Service of God; most probably not in the Temple, as some have conceiv'd from St. Luke's Gospel, but in the House of some Disciple, according to the Custom of the Jews, who frequently had their Oratories, or fix'd Places of Prayer, on the Tops of their Houses. Here were assembled about an hundred and twenty in Number, who in all Probability were the same who saw our Lord's Ascension; namely, the eleven Apostles, the seventy Disciples, and about thirty nine more, all of his own Kindred, Country or Acquaintance. Besides the Names of the Apostles, St. Luke mentions among the Women Mary the Virgin Mother of our Lord, which is the last Time that she is so much as nam'd in the Holy Scriptures.

In this Assembly, Peter, remembering that Jesus had appointed Twelve, who in a special Manner were to be Witnesses of his Miracles, and Founders of his Church, stood up in the midst, and as President declar'd to the rest, How according to the Psalmist's Prophecie, one of the Apostles shou'd certainly betray his Master, which was accordingly accomplish'd in the Person of Judas; who being of the sacred College, had out of Avarice caus'd the Purchase of a Field with the Reward of his Villany; and was so pursu'd by the Divine Vengeance, that he became an Example to the whole City Jerusalem, who call'd the Field by the Name of the Field of Blood, to his perpetual Infamy. And that since the Psalmist had also foretold, 'That his Habitation shou'd be desolate, and that another shou'd take his Office, it was therefore necessary, that one of those who had been a constant Auditor and Attendant upon Jesus, even from the Baptism of John to the Day of Ascension, shou'd be solemnly ordain'd into their Number, to be, together with the Eleven, a special Witness of Christ's Resurrection. The Assembly readily assented to his Proposal, and appointed two Candidates, one call'd Joseph surnam'd Barsabas and Justus, suppos'd to be Brother to James the Less, and the other call'd Matthias, one of the seventy Disciples. The Way of Election was by Lots, a Way frequently us'd both among Jews and Gentiles, for the Choice of Officers and Magistrates; and the rather us'd by the Apostles at present, because the Holy Ghost was not yet given, by whose immediate Directions they were chiefly guided afterwards. And that they might proceed with the greater Regularity and Success, they first solemnly made their Addresses to Heaven, That the omniscient Being that govern'd the World, and perfectly knew the Hearts and Qualifications of all Men, wou'd be pleas'd to shew which of those two he wou'd appoint to take part of the Apostolick Charge, in the Room of Judas lately fallen. The Lots being put into the Urn, the Name of Matthias was first drawn, and thereby the Apostolate devolv'd upon him, and the Vacancy in the holy College was fill'd up.

II. For ten Days after our Lord's Ascension, the Apostles and the other Disciples continu'd in the most solemn Devotion, but without any extraordinary Illumination, till the great Feast of Pentecost, which this Year began on Sunday the 24th of our Month May. Being all assembled on this Day, and employ'd in their holy Duties, there came a sudden Sound from Heaven into their Room, vast and impetuous, like the Rushings of a mighty Wind, representing the powerful Efficacy of the Spirit of God now descending. This was accompany'd with a fiery Vapour or Exhalation, Exhalation, which being form'd by the Divine Power into the Figure of a Man's Tongue divided at the Tip, sat upon the Head of each of them, to signify the miraculous Gifts attending this extraordinary Effusion. For they were immediately inspired after a wonderful Manner, and began to speak in such Tongues as they had never learnt, and to preach the Redemption of Mankind in those Languages which their Auditors in all Parts of the World might understand. As the Confusion of Languages became a Curse to the World, so the Gift of Tongues became a Blessing, and the first Means of its Restoration. And now the Disciples Minds were enlightned, their Thoughts elevated and enlarg'd, and their Understandings clear'd from all their gross Notions of a temporal Kingdom; so that now they understood all those divine Truths which their Master had before taught them, but which they cou'd not then bear, being too great and sublime for their natural Capacities.

Acts 2.
5-11.

At this Time there were extraordinary Multitudes of devout Jews residing at Jerusalem, not only from Judæa but from all parts of the World, besides Profelytes, who repair'd to that City, partly upon the account of the Feast, and partly because of the universal Expectation of the Messiah at this Time. St. Luke names fifteen of the Nations from whence they came, viz. Parthia, Media, Persia, Mesopotamia, Cappadocia, Pontus, Asia-Minor, Phrygia, Pamphilia, Ægypt, Libya, Cyrene, Rome, Crete, and Arabia; all Part of the old Dispersion of the Jews. These and many others hearing an account of the miraculous Accident, immediately repaired in great Throngs to the Place where the Disciples were assembled; and they were extremely astonished to find Men ignorant and illiterate, and educated in Galilee, to speak the Languages of all their several Countries in the utmost Perfection, and cou'd not but reflect upon the Meaning of it, as portending something extraordinary. But others, desirous to elude the Miracle, in a deriding and malicious Way, declar'd, That the Disciples had drunk too plentifully of new Wine, which caus'd them to talk wildly and confusedly. Whereupon Peter with the Eleven arose up, and solemnly requiring their Attention, confuted their Calumny, by shewing it to be very groundless and unreasonable, since it was so early in the Morning, not above nine a Clock, and according to the Custom of that Festival Solemnity, they were not to eat nor drink so soon. Declaring also, That all proceeded from the Effusion of the Holy Ghost, and was a Completion of the famous Prophecy of Joel, where God had promis'd, 'That in the latter Days, 'in the Days of the Messiah, He wou'd pour out his Spirit upon all Mankind, 'that their Sons and Daughters, their Men Servants and Maid Servants 'shou'd be endued with Prophetick Gifts; the Young by Way of Vision, and 'the Old by Way of Dreams. That he wou'd produce Wonders in the Heavens above, and Signs in the Earth below; Blood and Fire, and Vapors of 'Smoak: The Sun shou'd be turn'd into Darkness and the Moon into Blood, 'before the coming of the great and memorable Day of the Lord. But who- 'ever shou'd call upon the Name of the Lord shou'd be saved.

22-36.

Having clearly remov'd the Aspersions, and shewn these to be the Days of the Messiah, from the Accomplishment of the Prophecy, he proceeded to prove Jesus of Nazareth to be the very Person, namely, That he was a Man approv'd of God, as appear'd from the various Miracles and Wonders he had wrought in the midst of them; of which they themselves were Witnesses: Whom being given them by the determinate Counsel and Fore-knowledge of God, they had taken, and by impious Hands crucified and slain. But that God had rais'd him up, and broken the Powers of Death, it being impossible for him to be detain'd by it. For that David, speaking concerning him, declar'd, 'That he had always the Lord in his Presence, and on his right Hand, that

' he

*‘ he shou’d not be moved: Therefore his Heart and Tongue rejoyc’d, and ‘ his Body shou’d rest in Hope; because he wou’d not leave his Soul in Hell, ‘ nor suffer his holy One to see Corruption: But had manifested to him the ‘ Ways of Life, and fill’d him with the Joy of his Countenance. Now that these Words were not spoken of himself, was apparent from the Death and Burial of that Patriarch, and the Continuance of his Monument to that Day.
 But being a Prophet, and knowing that God had promis’d him by an Oath,
 That out of the Fruit of his Loins according to the Flesh, he wou’d raise up the Messiah, to sit on his Throne, he foretold the Resurrection of Christ in those Words, ‘ That his Soul was not left in Hell, nor did his Body see ‘ Corruption. This was the same Jesus whom God had rais’d up, of whose Resurrection all the Disciples were Witnesses: Wherefore being exalted by the right Hand of God, and having received the Promise of the Holy Ghost from his Father, he caus’d this extraordinary Effusion, which the Company now saw and heard. But as for David, he was not yet ascended into Heaven, but had declar’d, ‘ That the Lord had appointed his Lord to ‘ sit at his Right Hand, till he made his Foes his Footstool. That therefore all the House of Israel ought to look on this as an undoubted Verity, That God had made that very Jesus, whom they had crucified, both Lord and Christ.*

Three thousand converted.

This Discourse in every Part of it, like so many Daggers, pierc’d them <sup>Act. 2. 37-41.</sup> to the Heart; so that thereupon they cry’d out to Peter, and the rest of the Apostles, to know how they shou’d escape the divine Vengeance. Peter exhorted them immediately, to repent, and for the Remission of their Sins to be all baptiz’d in the Name of Jesus Christ, whom they had not before acknowledg’d; and that then they also shou’d be Partakers of the Gifts and Benefits of the Holy Ghost. For that the Promise of the Gospel did belong to them, their Children, and their remotest Successors, even to as many as obey’d the Call of Heaven. And with many other Testimonies and Motives, he press’d them to withdraw and separate themselves from that perverse Generation. It is probable, that while Peter preach’d thus to the Jews of Judæa in the Syriack Tongue, the other Apostles spake at the same Time, and to the same Purpose, to the Foreigners in their Languages. The Success of the Preaching was extraordinary, for three thousand Souls were that Day converted to the Faith, and were immediately baptis’d by the Hands of the Apostles. A quick and plentiful Harvest! the late Sufferings of our Lord, the present Miracle of the Languages, the Authority of the Speakers, and above all, the Efficacy of the Holy Spirit, contributing to this numerous Conversion.

The first Establishment of the Christian Church, and the Form.

This was the first Establishment of the Christian Church, in which Peter <sup>Act. 2. 42-47.</sup> was a prime Agent and Minister, agreeable to our Lord’s Promise and Prediction. The Form of it appears from St. Luke in four Particulars; first, in Admission by Baptism alone; secondly, in a stedfast Continuance in the Communion of the Apostles, and the Doctrine they taught; thirdly, in frequent Celebration of the Eucharist, which is here call’d Breaking of Bread; and fourthly, in publick and united Prayers: Affording a noble Example to the Church in all succeeding Ages. The Apostles wrought many Miracles in Jerusalem; and the Believers were fill’d with a reverential Fear, having their Minds so fix’d on Heaven, that they had all Things in common amongst them, sold their Possessions and Goods, and parted them according to every Man’s Necessities. And their Practice was daily to frequent the Temple at the usual Hours of Prayer, which was still lawful, while it hindred not their Faith in Christ; and breaking Bread from House to House, they did eat together with the utmost Chearfulness and Sincerity, praising God; and by their Innocence and Simplicity obtaining the the Favour of all People. Thus we find the Church of Jerusalem to be the most ancient and first establish'd of all others, and to be the Mother of the rest; to which Church, as St. Luke tells us, the Lord added daily such as shou'd be saved.

III. The Church of Christ being thus founded in its Purity and Simplicity, the next Occurrence we find is of Peter and John, who on some solemn publick Day went up together into the Temple to pray, about three a Clock in the Afternoon, one of the usual Hours of Prayer, and Time of the Evening Sacrifice. At their Entrance into that Gate call'd the Beautiful Gate; which probably led into the Court of the Gentiles, they saw a poor impotent Cripple, who had been disabled for forty Years; even from his Birth, and had been daily brought thither to beg Relief of such as enter'd the Temple, hoping to find the most Charity, where there appear'd the greatest Devotion. Peter and John seeing him beg something of them, pitied not so much his Poverty as the miserable Condition that made him subject to it; and therefore having rais'd his Expectation of an Alms, by bidding him look intently on them; Peter told him; That he had neither Silver nor Gold to give him, but such as he had he wou'd freely bestow upon him; and immediately commanded him in the Name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth to rise up and walk. The Words were no sooner spoken, than the Cure was effected; his distorted Joints became streight, and his loosen'd Nerves were made strong; and he being lifted up by Peter, enter'd with them into the Temple, walking and leaping for Joy, and praising the Almighty. And those who saw it were fill'd with great Wonder and Amazement, all knowing it was the same Cripple that had been so constant a Beggar at the Temple Gate. The recover'd Man in a sort of a Transport laid hold on the two Apostles, and all the People ran together, and in a tumultuous Manner gather'd about them in those magnificent Cloysters about the Court of the Gentiles, call'd Solomon's Porch.

Peter now seeing such Multitudes about him, first ask'd them, Why they were so amaz'd; and why they look'd so earnestly upon them, as tho' they had restor'd the Man by their own Power and Holiness? Then he declar'd, That the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, and their Fathers, had glorify'd his Son Jesus Christ, that holy and just Person, whom they had deny'd and deliver'd up to Pilate, preferring a Rebel and Murtherer before him, when the Judge was resolv'd to acquit him: That tho' they had put him to Death, yet God had rais'd him from the Grave, of which they the Apostles were Witnesses; and had made his Name so great, that by Faith in that alone, they had restor'd that Impotent Man to perfect Health and Soundness, in the Presence of them all. That all Things that God had foretold by the Mouth of his Prophets, concerning the Sufferings of the Messiah, were now accomplish'd; which indeed was so accomplish'd through the Ignorance of them and their Rulers, who knew not the Dignity of his Person. But that now it was high Time for them to repent and be converted, that their Sins might be expiated, in these Times of Refreshment, and the Presence of the Lord, and the Preaching of his Son Jesus Christ, whom the Heavens were to receive 'till the Time of the Restitution of all Things, which God had foretold by all his holy Prophets since the World began. For that Moses in particular had declar'd to their Fathers, 'That the Lord shou'd raise up a Prophet among their Brethren, like unto Him; to whom they shou'd hearken in all Things, he shou'd teach them; and that whosoever shou'd refuse to hearken to him, shou'd be destroy'd from among the People. And moreover, that all the Prophets from Samuel downwards, and all who follow'd after him, had foretold the present Times. That there- fore since they were the Children of the Prophets, and of the Covenant which God had made to Abraham, when he told him, 'That in his Seed all the Nations of the Earth shou'd be blessed; God had rais'd up his Son Jesus first to them, and in a special Manner sent him to bless them, in turning away all from their Iniquities. While Peter thus discours'd the People in one Place, it is probable that John preach'd to them in another; and the Success was answerable. The Apostles sow'd the Seed, and God immediately gave the Encrease; there being by this Means no fewer than five thousand brought over to the Faith; tho' it is possible the whole Body of Believers might be comprehended in that Number.

Their Defence.

While they were preaching to the Multitude, the Priests and Sadducees, whose Malice and Envy against the Growth of the Christian Doctrine was greater than their Power, having insinuated to the Roman Captain, who commanded the Garrison in the Castle Antonia, on the North Side of the Temple, That the Apostles Preaching tended to Sedition, came suddenly upon them with Soldiers, and seizing them, cast them into Prison till the next Day, it being too late to examine them that Night. The next Morning the Grand Sanhedrim met and summon'd the two Apostles and the recover'd Man before them; and the Scripture names Annas, Caiaphas, John and Alexander, as some of the most zealous in this Matter. The Pretence of Sedition was waved, because Groundless, and the whole Examination was resolv'd into one single Question, viz. By what Power, and by whose Name, they had restor'd the lame Man? Not that they were ignorant of it, but they hop'd to make them disown it through Fear, and by that Means weaken the Faith of the new Converts. But Peter being now replenish'd with the Holy Ghost, according to our Lord's Promise to his Disciples in such Cases, with great Courage made this Defence, Ye Rulers of the People, and Senators of Israel, If our Examination this Day be concerning the happy Cure of the impotent Man, and by what Means it was effected; we do solemnly declare to you all, and to all the Progeny of Israel, That it is by the Name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, whom ye have crucify'd, and whom God has rais'd from the Grave, that this Man now stands before you sound and recover'd. This same Jesus is the Stone that you Architects have utterly reject'd, which is become the Head of the Corner; nor is there Salvation in any other; for there is no other Name under Heaven given to Men, whereby we must be saved.

They are threatned and dismiss'd.

The whole Sanhedrim hearing this noble and ready Answer from Persons whom they knew to be without any Learning or liberal Education, were extremely surpriz'd and amaz'd; but cou'd not contradict the Truth of their Assertion, because they knew them to be Disciples of Jesus, and because the restor'd Cripple was present, and ready to attest the Truth of the Miracle. Wherefore being in a great Dispute and Doubt how to deal with such powerful Evidence, they commanded them to withdraw; and after a solemn Debate, to prevent the spreading of the Doctrine of Christ, it was resolv'd to awe them into Silence, by strictly charging them, Not to preach nor teach in the Name of Jesus for the future. But the two Apostles, not at all discourag'd at their Threats, declar'd to them all, That they had receiv'd a Command from God to preach to all Nations what they had heard and seen; and that this being the Case, they wou'd appeal to themselves, whether they ought not to obey God rather than them. The Magistrates not regarding this Answer, back'd their Decree with more severe Threatnings, and so dismiss'd them without any Punishment; not that they wou'd have dealt with them so mildly, but only because the Peoples Veneration restrain'd their Malice, and kept them from doing Injury to those who really deserv'd a Reward.

The

The two Apostles being thus dismiss'd, return'd to their Brethren, and gave them a particular Account of all that pass'd, and what Treatment they had met with from the Sanhedrim: Which when they had heard, they all with unanimous Hearts address'd themselves to God, and pray'd after this Manner, O Lord, thou omnipotent God, who hast created Heaven and Earth, and the Sea, with all that are contain'd in them, who by the Mouth of thy Servant David hast said, 'Why do the Heathen rage, and the People form vain Designs? The Kings of the Earth stood up, and the Governors combin'd against the Lord, and against his Christ. Thus it is accomplish'd; for both Herod and Pilate, with the Gentiles and the People of Israel, have conspired together against thy Holy Son Jesus, whom thou hast consecrated, to bring about all that thy Hand and Counsel has appointed. And now, O Lord, behold their Rage and Threats, and enable thy Servants and Ministers to preach thy Word with all Courage and Boldness; and also give them Power to shew Signs, and work miraculous Cures in the Name of thy Son Jesus, for the Propagation of the Gospel. These Words were no sooner utter'd, but God gave them a Sign that their Prayer was heard; for the House wherein they were met, was shaken with a Wind from Heaven, as formerly, and they found themselves replenish'd with the Holy Ghost, and a new Spirit of Courage, inciting them not only to strengthen the Believers, but to instruct others in the Doctrine of Christ's Resurrection, notwithstanding all the Menaces of the Jewish Governors.

A second Effusion of the Holy Ghost.

Among the many good Effects that the Evangelical Preaching had upon the Hearts of such as were converted, this was none of the least, that they were fill'd with a fervent Love and exuberant Charity one towards another. Many of the Believers were poor, but such was the exceeding Liberality of the Rich, that they freely communicated their Estates to them, selling them, and laying down the Price of them at the Apostles Feet, that they might distribute the Money in the Service of God, and according to the Necessities of the Brethren. Among many that did thus the Scripture mentions Joses a Levite of the Island Cyprus, one of the Seventy Disciples, who after this Manner dedicated all his Estate to God, and laid the Price of it at the Feet of the Apostles, who upon this fir-named him Barnabas, signifying the Son of Consolation; which Man afterwards became an eminent Apostle. In Imitation of him Ananias and his Wife Sapphira, two new Converts, sold their Estate, and turn'd it into Money. But tho' they were desirous of having the Reputation of pious and charitable Persons, yet they were unwilling to cast themselves wholly upon Providence, and therefore privately detain'd Part of what they had devoted to God, and bringing the rest, laid it at the Apostles Feet; hoping to deceive them, tho' immediately guided by the Spirit of God. But Peter at his first coming in, solemnly ask'd Ananias, Why he suffer'd Satan to fill his Heart with so great a Wickedness, as to pur-loin Part of the Estate, and think to impose upon the Holy Ghost? Urging, That before the Estate was sold, it was wholly at his own Disposal; and that after, it was wholly in his own Power to have perform'd the Vow: So that what he had done was capable of no other Interpretation, than that he had not only abus'd and injur'd Men, but defrauded God also. Upon pronouncing these Words, Ananias, to the great Terror and Amazement of all present, was immediately arrested with a Stroke from Heaven, and fell down dead to the Ground; and was taken up, carried out and bury'd. Sapphira was not present at this sad Accident; but coming in about three Hours after, Peter ask'd her first, Whether the Land was sold for the same Sum that was brought in; and when she persisted in it, he severely reprov'd her for combining to tempt the Spirit of God, declaring, That she should meet with the same sad Fate with her Husband. And immediately she fell down dead at his Feet, was carry'd out by the same Bearers, and buried by her Husband; becoming Sharer with him in the Punishment, as she had been Co-partner with him in the Sin. A dreadful Example of defrauding the Almighty, filling all that heard it with Fear and Terror, so that none durst equal or join themselves with the Apostles; and became a seasonable Prevention of that Hypocrisie and Diffimulation, with which many might possibly think to have impos'd upon the Church.

The Apostles work many Miracles:

The Apostles having thus manifested the Power and Justice of Christ,<sup>Acts 5. 12-16.</sup> proceeded daily to shew his Graciousness and Mercy in working many miraculous Cures in his Name, in healing the Diseased, and freeing the Possessed; insomuch, that the People brought forth their Sick into the Streets, and laid them on Beds and Couches, that at least Peter's Shadow, as he passed by, might come upon them; which it seems had miraculous Effects, accomplishing what our Lord had promis'd John 14. 12. That they shou'd do greater Works than his. These miraculous Cures contributed extreamly to the Propagation of the Gospel, and to the great Reputation of the Apostles, so that Multitudes of Men and Women were daily added to the Church. And great Numbers of People from many other neighbouring Cities and Towns, brought their Sick, Lame and Possessed to Jerusalem, and the Apostles restor'd them all, to the Astonishment both of City and Country. The usual Place that the Apostles and Believers had to meet and assemble in, was that Part of the Temple call'd Solomon's Porch, in part of which the Grand Sanhedrim at this Time sat; and yet being supported by an extraordinary Spirit, they were not afraid of being so near their Enemies.

And are impris-on'd by the Sanhedrim:

But are freed
by an Angel.

The High-Priest, and some of the Sanhedrim, who were of the Sect<sup>Acts 1. 17-18.</sup> of the Sadducees, seeing to their great Grief, not only that their Prohibition was disregarded by the Apostles, but also that Christianity daily increas'd by the Miracles and Preaching of the Apostles, were highly incens'd at them, and having apprehended them, threw them into the common Prison, which they had never done before. But God, whose Work they were about, to give a Demonstration that no human Power or Policy can put a stop to his Purposes, sent his Angel the Night following; who opening the Prison Doors, set them at Liberty, and order'd them to proceed in their Ministry, and the next Day to preach in the Temple the Words of eternal Life. The Apostles readily perform'd this Command, and entering the Temple early in the Morning, taught the People as formerly. The High-Priest and his Associates were ignorant of their Deliverance, therefore calling a full Council in the Morning of all the Senators of Israel, they sent their Officers to the Prison, to bring the Prisoners before them: But upon entering the Prison, tho' there appear'd no Signs of an Escape, the Doors being shut, and the Keepers on their Guard, yet they found none of the Persons they sought for; which Miracle not only astonish'd the Officers, but also those of the Sanhedrim when they heard it, who became extreamly Apprehensive of the Consequence of this strange Occurrence. They began to imagine that it wou'd be in vain to oppose that Doctrine, for which God had so eminently appear'd; yet hearing that the Apostles were Preaching in the Temple, they sent the Captain and their Officers to bring them before them, but without Violence or Noise, lest they shou'd exasperate the People, and draw a Shower of Stones upon themselves. The Apostles being brought before the Sanhedrim, Caiaphas demanded of them, How they durst presume to preach that Doctrine which they had lately been so strictly forbidden to preach? And severely chid them, for that instead of Silence and Obedience, they had fill'd the whole City with the Name of Jesus, intending to cause the People

They are

People to revenge his Blood upon them. Upon which Peter and the rest of the Apostles resolutely made Answer, That tho' Obedience was due to them as Magistrates, yet God was to be obey'd in the first Place; the God of their Fathers who had rais'd up Jesus, whom they had slain and crucify'd, and had exalted him by his powerful Arm to be a King and a Saviour, to give both Repentance and Remission of Sins. And that not only They were Witnesses of those Truths, but also the Holy Ghost himself, whom God wou'd communicate to all such as obey'd him.

Acts 5.
33-42.

These Words, tho' pious and prudent, so enrag'd the High-Priest and the rest of the Rulers, that they at first took a Resolution to put them to Death; and possibly had gone about it, had they not been prevented by one of the Council nam'd Gamaliel, Son of that Simeon who took Jesus in his Arms, a Pharisee, famous for his Skill in the Law, and of great Reputation in the City, who having order'd the Apostles to withdraw for a short Space, prophetically advis'd the Council to be exceedingly cautious how they proceeded against those Men; giving it as a Reason that they had had several late Instances of the like Pretenders: Particularly one Theudas or Judas, who aspiring to Sovereignty, and boasting himself an extraordinary Person, drew four hundred Men to his Obedience; but that he was soon slain, and all his Associates broken, and reduc'd to nothing. That after him there arose Judas of Galilee, in the Time of the last Taxation, and drew great Numbers after him; but that he also perish'd, and had all his Followers dispers'd. That therefore they ought not rashly to crush this new Doctrine, but to wait and expect the Event; for that if it were only an human Invention it wou'd fall of it self in Time, and be blasted by the Hand of Heaven; but that if it were from God, all their Attempts wou'd be vain and impious, and themselves wou'd be look'd upon as Contenders with Omnipotence. The Force of these Reasons, and the Mildness of the Speech so far prevail'd with the Judges of the Apostles, that they chang'd their rash Sentence into a corporal Punishment; and having scourg'd them, dismiss'd them with a Repetition of the former Injunction, That they shou'd not teach any more in the Name of Jesus. The Apostles departed rejoicing, not that they had escap'd Death, but that they were accounted worthy to suffer Shame and Torment for the Name of their dear Lord and Master. Nor did this Usage discourage them in their Ministry; but daily in the Temple, and in private Houses also, they taught and preach'd the Gospel. And thus concluded the 33<sup>d</sup> Year of the vulgar Æra of Christ, a Year the greatest and most memorable that ever did or shall happen within the Compass of Time.

IV. The wonderful Resurrection and Ascension of our Blessed Saviour being divulg'd in all Parts, because it was always Customary for the Governors of Provinces to communicate to the Roman Emperors every strange and uncommon Accident hapning within their Charge, that nothing material might escape their Knowledge; Pontius Pilate acquainted his Master Tiberius with the Resurrection of Jesus Christ, which was now the common Discourse of all Palestine; giving him an Account also, That he had heard of many other Miracles of his, and how that rising again after he had been dead, he was now by many believ'd to be a God. Tiberius having receiv'd so authentick an Account, tho' plung'd in all Lewdness and Wickedness, referr'd this Matter to the Senate, with his favourable Suffrage, That Christ might be enroll'd among the Gods; but this Proposal was rejected by the Senate, upon Pretence that they had not first approv'd of the Matter; there being an old and inviolable Law among the Romans, that no one shou'd be deify'd but by the exprefs Suffrage and Decree of the Senate. However the Emperor was so far from attempting any Thing prejudicial to the Doctrine of Christ, that he persisted in his Judgment, and threatned all the Accusers of the Christians with Death; by which Means this Religion, now in its Infancy, had the greater Opportunity of spreading its self in the Roman Empire. This Relation, tho' doubted by some, is confirm'd not only by Eusebius and Orosius, but also by Tertullian and Justin Martyr in their Apologies; the latter of whom, for the Proof of our Lord's Miracles, appeals to the Acts or the Journal Books of Pilate then extant. But as for that Letter of Pilate's to Tiberius which we have at present, it is acknowledg'd by all learned Men to be a mere Forgery.

The Death of Philip the Tetrarch.

His Dominions
united to Syria.

About the same Time, in the 20th Year of the Reign of Tiberius, Philip the Tetrarch and Brother to Herod died, after he had reign'd himself about 37 Years, from the Death of his Father Herod the Great. Josephus observes, that during all the Time of his Government, contrary to the Temper of his Father and Brothers, he behav'd himself peaceably, and kept within his Dominions of Trachonitis: That whenever he walked, he had a few select Servants with him, and his usual Seat of Justice carried after him; that if any Person presented himself, and requir'd his Assistance, he might without Delay examine his Cause, punish the Guilty and free the Innocent. He dy'd in the City Julias, and was buried in his own Sepulcher, with great Pomp and Solemnity; and because he left no Heirs of his Body, the Emperor Tiberius seiz'd on his Estate, and united his Dominions to the Government of Syria, then under Flaccus Pomponius; ordaining that all the Tributes collected in his Tetrarchy, shou'd still be kept within the Limits of that Country. So that now we are to consider the Country of Palestine as under three distinct Kinds of Government; 1. The Provinces of Judea and Samaria, together with Idumæa, under the Roman Governour call'd Procurator, namely Pontius Pilate: 2. The Provinces of Galilee and Perea, under the Tetrarch Herod: and 3. The Province of Trachonitis, including Batanæa and Ituræa, united to the Government of Syria, on which the other two were in some measure dependent.

A Difference between the Jews and Hellenists.

Seven Deacons chosen.

V. About the Time of the Death of Philip the Tetrarch, the Numbers of Believers now daily encreasing at Jerusalem; as it frequently happens among a Multitude, there arose a Complaint of those Jews that were call'd Hellenists against the Hebrew Jews, because their Widows were neglected, and received less than others in the daily Distribution of the Churches Mony. The Apostles were desirous to have the Poor well relieved; but being so much employ'd as they were in dispensing the Word, the Food of the Soul, they declar'd before the whole Multitude, That they were not at Leisure to attend that other Service: But by their Advice, and the Suffrages of the Church, there were seven Men of eminent Report for Wisdom and the Endowments of the Holy Spirit, chosen to be Stewards of the Church's Stock, into which Office they were ordain'd by the solemn Prayers of the Apostles and the Imposition of Hands, an ancient Symbolick Rite of Investiture and Consecration to any extraordinary Office. This was the first Institution of Deacons in the Christian Church, who were to serve Tables, that is, to wait upon the Necessities of the Poor, and to make daily Provision for their publick Agapæ or Love-Fests, in which the Holy Eucharist was administer'd; so that their Office was not only Civil but also Ecclesiastical. The Names of the Seven were Stephen, Philip, Prochorus, Nicanor, Timon, Parmenas, and Nicolas, all elected out of the Seventy whom our Lord had chosen: Of these the two first were most eminent; the last was a Profelyte of Antioch, and the same, same, as many believe, who afterwards gave Birth to the Heresie of the Nicolaitans. About the same Time, as Bishop Pearson and some other learned Men believe, James the Less, who for his eminent Virtues was firnam'd the Just, was chosen Bishop of Jerusalem, being preferr'd before all the rest, for his near Relation to our Lord; a Consideration that made Peter and the two Sons of Zebedee, tho' peculiarly honour'd by Christ, not to contend for this high and honourable Place; and it may be also that they had some particular Intimation concerning it from their Master. Some others think he was chosen immediately after the great Effusion of the Holy Spirit at Pentecost, which is still uncertain; however it is generally agreed, that Jerusalem was the first Church and Diocese, and St. James the first Bishop in the Christian State; as may be learn'd both from Eusebius and Clemens Alexandrinus. And Jerusalem being the Mother of all other Churches, it render'd James so honourable in the Opinion of many of the Ancients, that they gave him the Name of the Head and Bishop of the Apostles themselves; and St. Paul himself names him first of those three Apostles which he accounted Pillars of the Church, James, Cephas and John, Gal. 2. 9. as being at least, by his Place, their Superior, and chief in Order in the Church of Jerusalem.

James the Less made Bishop of Jerusalem.

Upon the Election of the seven Deacons, the Christian Religion gain'd Ground more abundantly than ever, Converts multiply'd exceedingly, and great Numbers of the Priests themselves, the most pertinacious Asserters of the Mosaick Constitutions, and the most inveterate Enemies of the Christian Doctrine laid aside their Prejudices, and embrac'd the Gospel. Stephen very much contributed to this happy Progress, being replenish'd with the most divine Gifts and Graces of the Holy Spirit, Preaching the Gospel with a noble Courage and Resolution, and confirming it with many publick and unquestionable Miracles among the People. His Zeal and Diligence, together with his extraordinary Success, in a short Time awakened the Malice of the unbelieving Jews; who selected the most learned Men out of five of their chief Synagogues or Colleges to dispute with him: namely, the Libertines, the Cyrenians, the Alexandrians, the Cilicians, and Asians, all nam'd from the Persons who founded them, of whom the first were manumitted Servants, and the rest of foreign Countries. These disputing with him concerning the perpetual Nature of the Mosaick Institutions, and the Destruction of the Temple, soon found themselves baffled, and were not able to stand against that divine Wisdom and Spirit by which he deliver'd himself. Therefore in the Height of their Malice they suborn'd Men to testifie, That they had heard him speak Blasphemy against Moses, and against God. And with their utmost Fury stirring up the People, the Senators and the Scribes, they seiz'd him, and brought him before the Grand Sanhedrim; where false Witnesses were set up, who swore, That Stephen had spoken Blasphemy against the Holy Temple and the Law; particularly that he said, That Jesus of Nazareth shou'd destroy that Building, and change the Laws which their great Master Moses had deliver'd to them.

Who accuse him of Blasphemy.

This holy Man being brought before the Sanhedrim, his Face appear'd full of Majesty and Splendor, like that of an Angel; an Argument of a clear Conscience, and of the divine Assistance and Presence. Being permitted to speak for himself, he in a grave and severe Oration apply'd himself to answer the Charge brought against him. And because the unconverted Jews fondly imagin'd that God was so delighted with the Temple Service and the Mosaick Rites, that he wou'd always continue them, and allow of no other Way of Worship, he shew'd them by a full Historical Deor the Temple was erected: Particularly by their great Father and Founder Abraham, whom God call'd from his own native Country, and confirm'd his Covenant with him by Circumcision; and that without any other fixed Rite but this, the succeeding Patriarchs worship'd God for several Ages, till the Times of Moses. And that when God had commanded Moses to erect a Tabernacle, as a Place of publick Worship, where he wou'd manifest himself, and receive the Adorations of his People; yet that was but transient and temporary, and in some Years was to give place to a standing Temple first design'd by David, and built by Solomon. And that this Temple, tho' of God's own Appointment, was not to be of a perpetual Duration, appear'd, he said, from his declaring 'Heaven to be his Throne, and Earth his Footstool, and that therefore he was 'not to be confin'd within any material Temple, nor tied to any particular Way of Worship. Besides these Historical Deductions, he gave them to understand, That their Lawgiver Moses had foretold a Change, 'That the Lord 'shou'd raise up a Prophet among them, who like him shou'd introduce a new 'Way of Worship, to whom they were to yield Obedience. Yet in the midst of those miraculous Times, their Ancestors were stubborn and rebellious against their Deliverer, and continu'd for many Ages provoking and idolatrous. Then he concluded his Speech by declaring, That they were like their Ancestors, a stiff-neck'd and wilful Generation, circumcis'd in Body, but not in Heart, always resisting the Methods of the Holy Ghost. That their Fore-fathers had persecuted and slain the Prophets who foretold the Coming of the Messiah, and that they their unhappy Posterity had actually betray'd and murther'd the Person; without Regard to that Law, which had solemnly been deliver'd to them by the Ministry of Angels, and which he came to fulfil.

And happy Prospect of Heaven.

He is hurry'd out of the City and stoned.

He was proceeding in the Application, when the Patience of his Auditors began to fail, and their Consciences being stung by the severe Truths he deliver'd, they fell into a most violent Heat, and express'd the utmost Signs of Rage and Fury. But he, regardless of what was done below, had his Eyes and Thoughts fix'd upon a higher and nobler Object, and was blest'd with a Prospect of the Glories of Heaven, and a sensible Appearance of the Divine Majesty, and the Holy Jesus cloath'd in the Robes of our glorify'd Nature, standing at the right Hand of his Father. The good Man was infinitely ravish'd with the Vision, and inspired with new Zeal and Courage; declaring before all, That he saw the Heavens open'd, and the Son of Man standing at the right Hand of God; as it were to protect and crown his suffering Servant. This farther enrag'd the Jews, who look'd upon him as a Blasphemer, and resolv'd upon his Death without any farther Process; and acting the Part of the Zealots, they rais'd a great Noise and Clamour, stopp'd their Ears that they might hear no Cries for Mercy, and unanimously rush'd upon him. Then in a popular Rage, and a tumultuous Manner, without Leave from the Roman Governor, they hurry'd him out of the City, in order to stone him, according to the ancient Law against Blasphemers. The Witnesses, according to Custom, strip'd themselves, and laid their Cloaths at the Feet of a zealous Youth call'd Saul, who in a particular Manner was consenting to his Death; and then began the Tragedy, which was soon seconded by the Multitude. All which Time the pious Martyr was upon his Knees, sending up his Prayers to Heaven, devoutly recommending his Soul to God, and loudly interceding for his Murtherers, That God wou'd not charge this Guilt upon them; and then gave up the Ghost, or as the sacred Historian elegantly expresses it, fell asleep: So soft a Pillow is Death to a good Man, so willingly, so quietly does he leave the World, as a weary Labourer goes to his Rest at Night.

This was the glorious Death of the pious St. Stephen, who had the Honour to be the first Martyr in the Christian Church, tho' he was not the first who dy'd upon the Account of the Gospel. His Body was bury'd by devout Men, probably Profelytes, who made great Lamentations over it; and, as some report, it was not only by the Allowance, but also with the Assistance of Gamaliel, the President of the Sanhedrim. Chronologers are not agreed in what Year he suffer'd; but Bishop Pearson, upon the most probable Grounds, places it in the Year 34. And, if I may be allow'd to add my own Conjecture, it was in the Time of the Passover; which if so, he dy'd near eleven Months after our Blessed Saviour's Ascension.

C H A P. II.

From the Death of the first Martyr Stephen, to the first Call, and Preaching of the Gospel to the Gentiles.

Containing the Term of about six Years.

I. THE Church of God had been hitherto toss'd with gentle Storms, but now a more violent Tempest overtook it: For the unbelieving Jews were so gall'd at Stephen's Conquest over their chief Scholars, his severe Reflexions, and his denouncing Ruin to the Mosaick Rites and their Temple, that they rais'd a terrible Persecution against the Church, hoping to extirpate that Religion which had threatned Destruction to theirs. The great Engineer in this Persecution was Saul, a young Person suppos'd to be about 30 Years of Age, born in a Roman City call'd Tarsus in Cilicia, above 300 Miles from Jerusalem; by which he obtain'd the Privileges of a free Citizen of Rome, and probably also the Roman Name of Paul given him at his Circumcision. His Parents were both Jews and of the Tribe of Benjamin, so that he was an Hebrew of the Hebrews; first enter'd into the Occupation of Tent-making, then educated in the Learning of his City, and afterwards remov'd to Jerusalem, where he became a Scholar to the great Gamaliel, and one of the most zealous of the Sect of the Pharisees. His active and fiery Genius, together with his passionate Concern for the Traditions of the Fathers, made him pursue his Designs with the Spirit of a Zealot, and the Rage of a Mad-Man. Having furnish'd himself with a Commission from the Sanhedrim, he immediately put it in Execution, broke open Houses, seiz'd upon any who look'd like a Disciple of the crucify'd Jesus; and without any Regard to Sex or Age, scourg'd and hal'd them to Prison; plucking the Husband from the Bosom of the Wife, and the Mother from the Embraces of her Children; compelling Men to blaspheme God, and breathing out nothing but Threatnings and Slaughter where-ever he came. Whence Eusebius calls it the first, and most grievous Persecution of the Church; tho' this was none of those which are call'd General Persecutions.

This Persecution was so severe, that it dispers'd in a great Measure the whole Body of the Church, and drove both the Members and Teachers of it into several Countries, and many Natives of Jerusalem from their own Houses into foreign Parts. Only the Apostles remain'd still in the City; for their Functions and Courages being both extraordinary, they they continu'd firm to their Ministry there, under the special Protection of their Master, and wou'd not depart till they shou'd be call'd thence by God. The rest of the Disciples, of whom there were several thousands, were dispers'd abroad, some into the Regions of Judæa and Samaria, publishing the glad Tidings of the Gospel where-ever they came: Some went into Cælo-Syria to Damascus, among whom was Ananias, a devout and religious Person, and one of the seventy, Acts 9. 10. Others travell'd into Phœnicia, and Cyprus, and Antioch, preaching the Gospel to the Jews in those Parts, Acts 11. 19. And others, it is probable, went as far as Rome, among whom were Andronicus and Junia, who were of Note among the Apostles, and Relations of the Persecutor Saul; and had embrac'd the Faith before him, as he himself testifies, Rom. 16. 7. Hitherto the Church was shut up and confin'd within the City Walls, but this Persecution enlarg'd the Bounds of Christianity; so that the Ways that the Jews intended for its Ruin, and the Dissolution of its Members, prov'd the most effectual Means for its Spreading and Propagation.

Philip the Deacon preaches at Samaria;

Among those who were dispers'd, Philip the Deacon, the second in Order after Stephen, was driven to the City of Samaria, a noted Place about 30 Miles North-East of Jerusalem, and call'd Sebaste by Herod the Great; and tho' the Apostles Example seem'd to confine the Gospel to the Jews only, yet since our Saviour had nam'd Samaria, Acts 1. 8. and they were in some Sense Jews; as observing the Law, and expecting the Messiah, he thought it lawful to preach Christ to them. The Divine Wisdom gave Approbation to the Undertaking, and seconded his Preaching with many eminent Miracles, which drew the universal Attention of the Inhabitants, and fill'd the City with Joy and Wonder: For he cur'd many who were seiz'd with Palsies and other Lamenesses; and out of others he cast impure Spirits, who at their coming out made loud Acknowledgments of that irresistible Power by which he acted. In this City was one Simon, born at Giton, not far distant, who by Sorcery and Magick Arts had strangely gain'd the Veneration of the People; a Man crafty and ambitious, daring and insolent, whose diabolical Illusions had for a long Time so amaz'd the Eyes of the Vulgar, that they all believ'd him the great Power of God; and so he stil'd himself, as Irenæus assures us. But this Man seeing his Admirers in great Numbers baptiz'd, and brought off by the Preaching and Miracles of Philip, which so manifestly exceeded his infernal Arts, became himself a Convert, and was baptized by him; tho' probably his main Design was to insinuate himself with Philip, and to find out the Art by which he wrought his Miracles.

And baptizes Simon Magus.

Peter and John go to Samaria.

The News of so large a City's Conversion was in a short Time brought to the Apostles at Jerusalem, who being unwilling to neglect any Thing conducing to the Church's Good, tho' under great Persecution, sent St. Peter and St. John to confer the Gifts of the Holy Ghost upon the new Converts, which it was not in the Power of Philip to do, who was only a Deacon; this Office being reserv'd to the Apostles only. At their Arrival they pray'd for them, and laid their Hands upon them, probably ordaining some to be Governors of the Church, and Ministers of the Gospel; and immediately they receiv'd the miraculous Effects of the Holy Ghost. Simon the Magician observing that a Power of working Miracles and speaking with Tongues was convey'd by the Imposition of the Apostles Hands, out of a strange Avarice and Ambition, offer'd them Money to empower him to do as they did. Peter perceiving his rotten and insincere Intentions, rejected his impious Proposal with Scorn and Detestation, and denounc'd an Execration against him and his Money, for imagining that to be a Means of purchasing the Gifts of Heaven: Declaring, That his Heart and Intentions were corrupt: That he cou'd have no Share nor Portion in so great a Privilege: That it more concern'd him to repent of so bairous an Impiety, and to beg of God to forgive his wicked Imagination; since at present he was infected with the most venomous Contagion, and was a Slave to Iniquity. Simon a little terrify'd at these Words, and possibly fearing to be made an Example of Dissimulation, as Ananias was, beg'd the Apostles Prayers, for the more effectual averting those Judgments denounc'd against him. But how slight his Repentance was will appear afterwards; for he more and more proceeded in his magical Arts, and his execrable Blasphemies, and became the Author of the first and grossest Heresies in the Church of God. Notwithstanding the Purity of the Christian Religion, and tho' the Church was yet in its Infancy, God was pleas'd to permit Heresie to arise in it, within less than two Years after the Death of his Son.

25-40.

The two Apostles having thus confirm'd the Church of Samaria, preach'd the Gospel in many of the neighbouring Villages, and then return'd back to Jerusalem, to join their Counsel and Assistance to the rest of the Apostles. But Philip was employ'd in a more peculiar Affair, being appointed by an Angel from Heaven, immediately to repair towards the South into a desert Country, and the Way between Jerusalem and Gaza. He obey'd the Call with as much Readiness as Abraham, when he was commanded out of his own Country; and arriving at the Place, he discover'd a Chariot, with a foreign Nobleman in it, an Eunuch of great Authority, and chief Treasurer to Candace Queen of Æthiopia in Africa, who being a Jewish Profelyte, had been to pay his Adorations at Jerusalem, probably at the Feast of Tabernacles. Philip by the Impulse of the Spirit join'd himself to the Chariot, and found the Person devoutly employ'd, namely, reading a Portion out of the 53<sup>d</sup> Chapter of Isaiah, in Words to this Effect; 'He was led as a Sheep to the Slaughter, and was silent as a Lamb before the Shearer: In his Humiliation his Right was taken from him; and who shall describe the Wickedness of that Generation, which took away his Life from the Earth?' Philip asking him whether he understood the Passage? He answer'd, That he wanted an Interpreter, and courteously invited him into his Chariot to explain it to him; particularly desiring to know of him, Whether the Prophet spoke this of himself, or of some other Person? Whereupon Philip began at that Passage of Scripture, and preach'd to him the Gospel of Jesus Christ, so fully and effectually, that coming near a Place of Water, the Eunuch desired to be baptiz'd into the Christian Religion. Philip inform'd him, That if his Faith was sincere he might be baptiz'd; and the other declaring, That he believ'd Jesus Christ to be the Son of God, the Chariot was order'd to stand still, and both went down to the Water, where the Eunuch was baptiz'd, according to his Request. This Act was accompanied with an extraordinary and miraculous Accident, sufficiently evidencing Philip to have been sent by Heaven, for immediately he was transported by the Spirit of the Lord, and snatch'd quite away from the Presence of the Eunuch; who proceeded in his Journey with great Joy and Satisfaction, and preach'd the Christian Faith in his own Country: In which respect St. Jerom styles him the Apostle of the Æthiopians; and the Ancients generally make that Prediction of David fulfilled in him, 'Æthiopia shall stretch out her Hands unto God.' Philip was found about 30 Miles distant at Azotus; and passing through, he preach'd the Gospel in all the Cities, till he came to his own City Cæsarea.

A.D. 35. II. Saul still continu'd to persecute the Church with a most ungovernable Zeal and Fury; and because the Believers were dispers'd, and the Gospel greatly propagated in other Provinces and Countries, he made it his Employment to persecute them in foreign Cities. And since the Power of the Grand Sanhedrim, as to religious and ecclesiastical Affairs, extended to all the Jewish Synagogues, even in the remotest Parts from Judæa; Saul procured Letters of Commission from that Body to go into Cælo-Syria, to Damascus, a noble City, the Metropolis of that Province, about 160 Miles North-East of Jerusalem; that if he found any in the Synagogues, whether Man or Woman, who profess'd Christ, he might bring them bound, to be punish'd at Jerusalem. But God, who had separated him from his Mother's Womb for the Preaching of his Gospel, now put a Stop to his violent Designs: For as he was travelling with his cruel Associates upon the Road near to Damascus, at Mid-day, a most amazing Gleam of Light, far exceeding the Splendor and Glory of the Meridian Sun, was suddenly darted from Heaven upon them, which with the Fear threw them all prostrate upon the Ground. This was accompany'd with a remarkable Voice, crying in the Hebrew, or rather Syriack Tongue, SAUL, SAUL! WHY DOST THOU PERSECUTE ME? Whereupon Saul in a terrible Amazement cry'd, Lord! Who art thou? The Voice reply'd, I am Jesus of Nazareth whom thou persecutest; 'Tis hard for thee to kick against the Pricks: That is, all thy Attempts will prove successful, and like kicking against Spikes, will prove thy own Wounding and Torment. Saul convinc'd of his great Error, immediately submitted to the divine Vision, and in the most trembling and yielding Manner said, Lord, What wilt thou have me to do? Our Lord mercifully bid him, Arise from the Ground, and go to Damascus, where he shou'd be inform'd of all the Parts of his Duty: For that he had appear'd to him purposely to constitute him a Minister and a Witness, both of what he had seen, and of what he had design'd to reveal to him: Delivering him from the People, and from the Gentiles, to which latter he was sending him, to open their Eyes, and to turn them from Darknes to Light, and from the Power of Satan to God, that they might obtain Remission of Sins, and an Inheritance among such as were sanctify'd by Faith in him. The Men who accompany'd him rising from the Earth, were extreamly astonish'd, and stood speechless, having seen an extraordinary Light, and heard a Sound of Words, but neither saw Christ, as Saul did, nor understood distinctly any Thing he said. But Saul was so dazled and overpower'd by the Light, that he became intirely blind, and was led by his Companions into Damascus, where he remain'd not only without Sight, but also without Meat or Drink, for three Days together; humbling his Soul before God for his former Miscarriages, and his violent Persecution of the Church.

There was at this Time at Damascus one Ananias, a very devout and religious Man, one of the Seventy, and tho' a Christian, yet of great Reputation among the Jews. To this Man our Lord appear'd in a Vision, commanding him, To go into a Street call'd Straight, and enquire at the House of Judas, for one Saul of Tarsus, who was now at Prayer, and had seen him in a Vision coming to him, to lay his Hands upon him, that he might receive his Sight. Ananias was startl'd at the Name of the Man, and humbly alledg'd his bloody Practices at Jerusalem, and the Authority given him by the Sanhedrim to execute his cruel Designs. But our Lord to remove his Fears assur'd him, That he was a chosen Vessel, a select Instrument to preach the Gospel both to Jews and Gentiles, and before the greatest Potentates upon Earth; acquainting him with what great Things he shou'd both do and suffer for his Sake, Sake, what Chains and Imprisonments, what Racks and Scourges, what Hunger and Thirst, what Shipwrecks and Death he shou'd undergo. Ananias satisfy'd with this Account from the Mouth of Truth it self, immediately repaired to the House, and laying his Hands upon Saul, he call'd him Brother, and declar'd to him, That the Lord Jesus, the same who appear'd to him in his Journey, had sent him to him, that he might recover his Sight, and be fill'd with the Gifts of the Holy Ghost: That therefore he must be baptiz'd for a Sign and Seal that his Sins were wash'd away by the Blood of Christ. And immediately certain thick Films like Scales fell from his Eyes, and his Sight was restor'd; and being baptiz'd, his Mind was enlighten'd by the Holy Ghost, and his Body was strengthn'd by Sustenance. He continued not long at Damascus after his Conversion, but having received immediate Revelations from Heaven, he conferr'd not with Flesh and Blood, neither with Ananias, nor with the Apostles at Jerusalem, but retired himself to Arabia Petraea, in the Country near Damascus, as appears from Galat. 1. where he remain'd about two Years, both preaching the Gospel, and receiving the full Knowledge of it himself; and afterwards testify'd that he did not derive his Mission and Authority from Men, but from Jesus Christ. Here retires to Arabia.

Joseph.

In the same Year that Saul was converted, Vitellius, Father to him of that Name that was afterwards Emperor, was by Tiberius made Governor of Syria and the East, in the Room of Pomponius Flaccus, which was the principal Preferment in the Roman Empire. At the Passover he went up to Jerusalem, where he had a Power superior to Pilate, probably induc'd by Curiosity to see that solemn Festival, or at least to dispatch Business with the more Ease and Expedition among such a Concourse of People. Being magnificently entertain'd in this City, in Requital, he remitted all the Imposts upon the Fruits bought and sold in the City; and likewise deliver'd all the Ornaments of the High-Priest, with the rest of the Sacerdotal Furniture and Vestments, to the Charge of the Priests themselves; all which were formerly kept in the Castle of Antonia, adjoining to the Temple, under the Power of the Roman Governors. Having thus gratify'd the Nation, before his Departure to Antioch, he made Jonathan the Son of Annas High-Priest, and depos'd Caiaphas, after he had continu'd in that Office about ten Years. And thus one of the unjust Judges of our Blessed Saviour was judg'd himself; and 'tis believ'd he shortly after dispatch'd himself with his own Hands. Vitellius goes up to Jerusalem, and restores the High-Priest's Vestments. He deposes Caiaphas, and makes Jonathan High-Priest.

III. The violent Storms that threatned the Church of God were very much allay'd by the happy Conversion of Saul, and the Believers had great Ease and Prosperity throughout all Judaea, Samaria, and Galilee: But this Year in Samaria there hapned a Disturbance upon another Occasion, which prov'd the first Step to the Ruin of Pilate. It was caus'd by a great Impostor among the Samaritans, possibly Simon Magus, who perswaded the People that on their famous Mount Gerizim, he cou'd shew them the Sacred Vessels which Moses had bury'd with his own Hands. Upon which account the credulous Vulgar, all in Arms, met in Multitudes at a certain Village call'd Tirathaba, designing when their Numbers were compleated, to go in a solemn Manner and take Possession of these holy Reliques. But Pilate having learnt their Designs, with a considerable Body of Horse and Foot, quickly possess'd himself of all the Passes, and setting furiously upon these deluded People, made a cruel Slaughter of some, took others Prisoners, and dispers'd all the rest; and after that order'd the principal of the Prisoners to be put to Death without Mercy. Upon this Fact, the Senate and Nobility of Samaria address'd A.D. 36. Tiber. 22/23. A Disturbance in Samaria.

address'd themselves to Vitellius at Antioch, accusing Pilate of this Massacre; remonstrating, That their Assembly was not to rebel against the Romans, but to secure themselves from the insupportable Tyrannies of Pilate. Vitellius being sensible of his cruel Government, his Avarice and Extortions, by his own Authority commanded Pilate to repair to Rome, and answer before the Emperor what shou'd be objected against him; sending his Friend Marcellus to supply his Office in Judea; so that he may in some Sense be call'd the sixth Governor of the Jews. Thus Pontius Pilate lost his Government, after he had continu'd in it about ten Years; this being but the Beginning of his Miseries. But whether he was detain'd by contrary Winds, or some other Accident, he arriv'd not at Rome till the following Year, when Tiberius was dead.

Aretas of Arabia overthrows Herod the Te-trarch's Army.

During these Transactions, the long Heat between Aretas King of Arabia Petraea, and Herod the Tetrarch, broke out into a Flame; being first occasion'd by Herod's divorcing the other's Daughter, and taking Herodias, from whom Nature and Justice had excluded him. Aretas having gather'd together a sufficient Force, began a War against him; and coming to a set Battel, Herod's Army was intirely overthrown, and that by Means of the Treachery of some banish'd Persons of his Brother Philip's, who took up Arms under his Colours. And here Josephus informs us, That it was commonly believ'd, that the Loss of Herod's Army proceeded from the immediate Vengeance of Heaven, for his murdering the honest and pious John Baptist. Herod upon this Defeat, doubtful of better Success afterwards, or conscious of his own Guilt, betook himself to his Master Tiberius, certifying him by Letters of his Misfortunes, and probably not without several Aggravations against his Enemy. The Emperor was so displeas'd at the Success of Aretas, or his Audaciousness in making War within his Empire, that he immediately wrote angry Letters to Vitellius in Syria, charging him to undertake the War, and to bring the rebellious King Prisoner, or to send his Head to Rome. But Aretas was no ways discourag'd at these Preparations, for consulting with his Augurs, according to Report, he declar'd, That the Armies shou'd never enter his Dominions, since one of the Parties should die before the Time, either the Orderer, the Undertaker, or the Causer of the War: Meaning Tiberius, Vitellius, or Herod.

Tiberius is dis-pleas'd.

Saul returns from Arabia to Damascus.

In the Beginning of the next Year, Saul return'd from the inland Parts of Arabia Petraea to Damascus, which City tho' situated in Cælo-Syria, was now in Subjection to Aretas. Here he enter'd the Jewish Synagogues, and with great Freedom and Courage preach'd the Gospel, proving that Jesus Christ was the Messiah, and the Son of God; so that all the Jews in that City were greatly amaz'd and confounded, both at the strange Change in his Proceedings and Opinions, and the powerful Efficacy of his Arguings and Discourses. At the same Time Aretas was preparing against the coming down of Vitellius against him, who according to the Commands of his Master Tiberius had rais'd a considerable Army, designing to march with it through the Province of Judea. But he was diverted from this Intention by the humble Supplications of the Jewish Nobility, who alledg'd, That it was contrary to their ancient Laws and Customs to have any Images or Pictures brought into their Country, such as were frequent in the Romans Arms and Banners. The Mildness of this General was easily prevail'd upon, who ordering his Army another Way, at the Passover, went up to Jerusalem with Herod and his Friends, where he offer'd Sacrifice, and remov'd Jonathan from the High-Priesthood, after he had been a Year in that Office, and plac'd his Brother Theophilus in his Room.

Tiberius

Vitellius was soon stop'd in his Expedition; for not long before, Tiberius in the 23d Year of his Reign, and the 37th of Christ, began to lose his former Strength and Vigour; which occasion'd him to remove to several Places, settling at last in a Promontory of Misenum. Here, after many nice Considerations and Consultations with his principal Favourite Macro, he nominated Caius Caligula, the only surviving Son of his Nephew Germanicus, for his Successor, together with a young Grandson of his call'd Tiberius. His Tyrannies were so unbounded, that it was probably conjectur'd, That he nam'd the former, hoping that his Vices wou'd efface the Memory of his own Wickedness, and with a Belief that he wou'd extinguish the Roman Nobility: For he had frequently said, That in Caligula he had brought up a Serpent for the People of Rome, and a Phaeton for the rest of the World. Tho' his Spirits sensibly declin'd, his Dissimulation was as strong as ever; and he carry'd on the Humour of his former Luxury and Debaucheries, despising all the Arts of Physick. But his Weakness was soon discover'd by Charicles, an eminent Physician, who under Pretence of kissing his Hand, felt the Defect in his Pulse; which was as soon perceiv'd by this subtle and wary Prince, who shortly after disssembled such Faintings as that all judg'd him dead, and began to make their Court to the new Emperor. But recovering again to the great Surprise and almost Confusion of Macro and Caligula, they soon found Means to dispatch him, which was by smothering him with the Bed-Cloaths, or else by Poyson, as others are of Opinion. This hapned on the 16th Day of March, under the Consulships of Proculus and Nigrinus, he being 78 Years of Age, having reign'd from the Death of Augustus 22 Years, 6 Months, and 26 Days.

Tiberius declines.

His Death.

IV. The Romans found a short Breathing after the Death of Tiberius, A.D. 37. and were so fond of his Successor Caligula, that they declar'd him sole Emperor, contrary to the express Will of the other, who made him Co-Heir with his Grandson. The Joy of which Preferment was not confin'd to Rome and Italy, but dilated it self through all the Roman Empire, even to the City of Jerusalem. Every where Sacrifices were offer'd upon that Occasion; so that at several Places above 160000 Cattle were sacrific'd in three Months Time. And so great was the Superstition of the Citizens of Rome, that when the Emperor was sick, some offer'd themselves to combat wild Beasts for his Safety, and others devoted themselves to Death at his Recovery, and set up Bills of their Resolution in the Streets. He was then somewhat above 25 Years of Age, and began his Reign with all Clemency and Regularity, causing the famous Models and Institutions of Augustus to be reviv'd, which had been neglected and disus'd by Tiberius. He likewise began to regulate and reform many Abuses in the State, and severely punish'd corrupt Governours; among whom he banish'd Pontius Pilate to Vienna in Gaul, as the Reward of all his former Wickedness. He took a strict View of the Equites, and put all such to publick Shame as were Guilty of any infamous Crime; and punish'd the Spintriae with Death, those abominable Inventors of unnatural Pollutions, whom his Predecessor so much encourag'd. But in a short Time all his promising Qualities vanish'd, and he acquired such a prodigious Complication of Enormities, that he became one of the greatest Monsters that ever trod upon the Earth, exceeding Tiberius in the blackest of his Vices. He was so Proud, that he impiously assum'd divine Honours, and had a Temple dedicated to his own Divinity; so Prodigal, that he consum'd above fifty Millions of our Money in a few Months Time; so Brutish, that he committed Incest with all his Sisters; and so Tyrannical, that he wish'd, That the Roman People had but one Neck,

Neck, that he might dispatch them all at a Blow. In short, he was so superlatively wicked, that Seneca truly said of him, That Nature seem'd to have brought him forth, to shew what was possible to be produc'd from the greatest Viciousness, supported by the greatest Authority. So that for a few Years he prov'd a terrible Scourge to the Romans, and insulted over that proud City, which had so often insulted over the rest of the World.

The Rise of Herod-Agrippa.

This Person's Promotion to the Empire, prov'd also the Rise and Advancement of Agrippa, Grandson to Herod the Great, and therefore by St. Luke in the Acts call'd by the Name of Herod. He was Son to Aristobulus, whom his Father had caus'd to be slain, and Brother to the infamous Herodias; a Person of a generous and aspiring Temper, politick and insinuating, and highly zealous for Judaism and the Mosaick Rites. He was now about 47 Years of Age, and had run through all the various Changes of Fortune; having been several Times reduc'd to the extreamest Want and Poverty, ranging from City to City, and from Nation to Nation, 'till he gain'd the special Favour of Tiberius the Emperor, who in a short Time upon Suspicion threw him into Prison, where he continu'd as much in Danger of Execution, as formerly he had been of Starving. But shortly after Tiberius's Death, Caligula, with whom he had contracted a particular Friendship, sent for him from Prison to his Palace, array'd him in Robes, chang'd his Chain of Iron for one of Gold of the same Weight, put a Diadem upon his Head, and made him King of all his Uncle Philip's Dominions, with the Addition of the Tetrarchy of Abilene in Syria, which formerly belong'd to Lisanias. So that in three Years Time, from the Death of Philip, there was another Change in the Government of Palestine. At the same Time Caligula sent Marullus to be Governor of Judea and Samaria, in the Room of Pontius Pilate, he being the sixth Procurator since the Banishment of Archelaus; but Agrippa or Herod continu'd about a Year with the Emperor, before he went to his own Dominions.

Calig. 1.
Saul at Damascus in danger.

In the Beginning of the following Year, Saul having preach'd many Months at Damascus, became so formidable to many of the Jews in that City, that they resolv'd upon his Death; and because their Power was less than their Malice, they apply'd themselves to the Governor of the Place under Aretas, and by their Insinuations and Suggestions obtain'd a special Guard to keep the Gates, and prevent his Escape. But the Disciples, having Notice of their Designs, were as careful to preserve him, as his Enemies were to destroy him; and finding no other Remedy, they let him down in a Basket from one of their Houses over the City Walls. And having thus escap'd, about three Years after his Conversion, he repair'd to Jerusalem, to visit Peter, and the Church there; but the Disciples, knowing his former Temper and Principles, were afraid, and universally shun'd his Company; 'till Barnabas, an eminent Disciple, who knew all his Circumstances, brought him to the Apostles, Peter, and James the Bishop of the Place, acquainting them with his miraculous Conversion, and his zealous Preaching at Damascus; which clear'd all their Doubts, and caus'd them to admit him to an intimate Communion with them. Here he continu'd with all Boldness, and his Sermons were so powerful, and his Disputations with the Hellenists so unanswerable, that like the Jews in Damascus they eagerly sought his Life. But being in the Temple at his Devotions, he fell into a Trance, and saw Jesus in a Vision, who order'd him to hasten out of Jerusalem; for that the Jews were not dispos'd to receive his Testimony. Whereupon he humbly alledg'd, That his former Zeal in imprisoning and scourging the Believers, and his joining in the Blood of the Martyr Stephen, had now made him a more unquestionable Evidence of the Truth and Power of the Gospel. But Jesus expressly commanded him to depart; for for that he design'd to send him into the Country of the Gentiles. Upon which, having stay'd in Jerusalem only fifteen Days, he left the City; and being conducted by the Brethren as far as Cæsarea, he set sail for his own City Tarsus in Cilicia, and saw not Jerusalem till several Years after. And now all the Churches in Judæa, Samaria and Galilee had Peace, daily en-creasing and flourishing, to the Honour of Jesus Christ and his Gospel, and the great Comfort of all the Disciples.

Joseph. In the same Year that Saul repair'd to Jerusalem, King Herod-Agrippa at Rome obtain'd Leave of Caligula to go into Palestine for the Settlement of his Kingdom, promising after that to return again. According to the Emperor's Advice, he took his Voyage first to Ægypt, and arriv'd at the Port of Alexandria, a celebrated City, the Metropolis of the whole Country, and the second of the Roman Empire for Extent, Trade or Inhabitants; being about 300 Miles almost West of Jerusalem. The Alexandrians having an inveterate Hatred against the Jews, thought themselves highly affronted at the Arrival of a King of that Nation; and by the Connivance, or rather Instigation of Flaccus their Governor, they expos'd and ridicul'd him in their Stages, in their Songs, in their Speeches, and in all Publick Places. And that nothing might be wanting to compleat their Scurrility, they took a poor Mad-Man, who always walk'd naked in the Streets, and setting him aloft in the most publick Manner, put a Paper Crown upon his Head, a Mat about his Body for a Robe, and a Reed in his Hand for a Sceptre; then being furrounded by young Men with Poles on their Shoulders, instead of Guards, some came to him for Justice, others for Counsel, and all Hail'd him with the Title of Marim; which in the usual Language of the Jews signify'd Lord. And thus the King of the Jews was derided after the same Manner by others, as the Jews themselves five Years before had derided the true Majesty of their own King Jesus Christ.

Philo. Shortly after, these Scoffs and Jests encreas'd to greater Violences; and the Vengeance of Heaven began to pursue the Jews in a Country where a Million of that Nation resided, as Philo testifies. For the Alexandrians, by the Encouragement of Flaccus, unanimously set up the Images of Caligula, who had lately proclaim'd himself a God, in their Synagogues and Oratories, and upon their Refusal, burnt and demolish'd them without Distinction. After which, the Governor by Edict declar'd the Jews Foreigners and Strangers, not giving them Liberty of pleading their Cause, but condemning them unheard. And proceeding in these Violences, the common People were allow'd to rifle and plunder their Houses as they pleas'd, which not only occasion'd great Damages to all who were concern'd with them in Trade, but also caus'd infinite Murthers, and intolerable Cruelties. For some were burnt alive with slow Fires, many were crucify'd, and others hang'd: Old Men were drag'd along the Streets, and cruelly scourg'd; and young Women were shamefully expos'd: Many Men were ty'd to Wheels, and others drag'd with Cords by the Legs through the Market Place, the common People insulting over them, and not sparing their dead Bodies. In short, the Jews continu'd under the most barbarous Treatments for about two Months, till the Emperor was so far perswaded by Agrippa, who had been partly a Spectator of these Violences, that he sent Bassus a Centurion, who arrested Flaccus, and brought him to Italy; and notwithstanding all his Flatteries and pretended Zeal for the Emperor's Honour, he was first banish'd, and afterwards put to Death.

Joseph. Agrippa having eas'd the Jews in Alexandria, and settled himself in his Dominions, in the Beginning of the following Year, and second of Caligula, his impious Sister Herodias grew impatient at his Advancement, and was enrag'd to see him start from a Dungeon to a Throne, and now to have the Power,

Power, as well as the Title and Ornaments of a King. Her restless Ambition, and her incessant Intreaties at length prevail'd upon her Husband Herod, to go to Rome with Magnificent Presents, and beg the same Dignity of Cesar. Agrippa understanding both their Intentions and Preparations, as soon as he heard of his putting to Sea, immediately sent his Freed-Man Fortunatus to the Emperor with Presents, and Letters written against his Uncle Herod. Caligula was then at Baia, a pleasant Town in Campania, and upon Herod's Arrival, prevented him, by shewing the Letters he receiv'd from Agrippa, which accus'd Herod of formerly conspiring with Sejanus against Tiberius, and of his present favouring Artabanus King of Parthia against Caligula; for which Purpose he had prepar'd Arms sufficient for seventy thousand Men. The Emperor mov'd at this Account, demanded of Herod, Whether he had made those warlike Preparations or not? which the other granting, concerning the Number of the Arms, he according to his rash Method, without any farther Enquiry, depriv'd him of his Dominions, both of Galilee, and Peræa, and of all his Riches, and moreover perpetually banish'd him to Lyons, in Gaul; and this after a wicked Reign of about 43 Years. But understanding Herodias was Sister to Agrippa, he allow'd her her own proper Treasure; and supposing she wou'd not willingly accompany her Husband in his Calamity, he told her, That he pardon'd her for her Brother's Sake. But she testifying her Readiness to be Partaker with her Husband's Miseries, Caligula took it as an Affront, and banish'd her likewise; giving all her Treasure as well her Husband's Dominions to Agrippa. And thus was this Couple punish'd for their incestuous Marriage, and their other Crimes; about eight Years after John Baptist had been beheaded by this Herod, and six Years after our blessed Saviour had been derided by the same Person, in the Year 39. In the same Year Pontius Pilate at Vienna, not far from Lyons, being in extream Misery, and daily afflicted by Caligula, kill'd himself with his own Hands; and so became the Revenger of his Wickedness upon himself, as the Betrayer of our Lord had been before, as Eusebius, Orosius, and several others testifie.

Which causes the final Banishment of her Husband Herod and her self.

A.D. 39. Calig. 23. V. During these Transactions, the Church had Peace and flourish'd exceedingly, the Gospel daily spreading among the Jews in all Parts. Saul diligently preach'd the Word in his own Country Cilicia, and also in Syria. Peter made a general Visitation of all the Saints in Judæa, Galilee, and Samarina; and this Year, he is said by Baronius and some others to have founded a Bishoprick in Antioch, a great and noble City, the Metropolis of all Syria, and about 260 Miles almost North of Jerusalem. Eusebius tells us, he founded a Church in this City; and St. Chrysostom says that he had the Care and Presidency of it seven Years, for which Reason he is often call'd the first Bishop of the See, and the following Bishops his Successors. Yet it is much doubted by many whether he was the first Founder of this Bishoprick or not; and much more, whether it was in this Year that we are now upon. But to proceed to greater Certainties, about this Time, Peter in his Progress arriv'd at a little Town call'd Lydda, about 24 Miles North-West of Jerusalem, to visit the new Converts there. Here he found a certain Man nam'd Æneas, who being incurably seiz'd with the Palsie, had lain Bed-rid in that Condition for eight Years together. Peter being sensible what an Influence so great a Miracle wou'd have, staid not to enquire after his Faith, but as if he had brought the Message from Heaven to him, said immediately, Æneas, Jesus Christ maketh thee whole, arise, and make thy Bed, as a Testimony of thy perfect Recovery; and he accordingly did so. The Knowledge of this Miracle, which soon spread it self by the unusual usual Appearance and Converſe of Aeneas, gain'd all the Inhabitants of Lydda, and of Saron a neighbouring Town, to the true Faith of the Goſpel.

36-43.

Peter continu'd not long at Lydda, before he was earneſtly entreated by two Meſſengers to go over to Joppa, a noted Port about ſix Miles diſtant, upon the account of one Tabitha, whoſe Greek Name was Dorcas, ſignifying a Roe, a Chriſtian Woman venerable for her Piety and diffuſive Charity, who lately dy'd, to the great Lamentation of all good Men, and much more to the Loſs of the Poor that had been ſo often reliev'd by her. Peter ready to gratifie their Deſires, and to aſſiſt in a common Cauſe, immediately accompany'd the Meſſengers; and arriving at the Houſe, they carry'd him into an upper Chamber, where the Body of Tabitha was laid, ready wath'd, and drefs'd up for its funeral Solemnities, according to the Cuſtom of the Jews, and attended with many ſorrowful Widows. They durſt not preſent an open Petition to him to raiſe her from the Dead, but by their Tears and Lamentations, by their Commendations of her Charity, and their ſhewing the Coats and Garments wherewith ſhe cloath'd them, they ſufficiently teſtify'd their Deſires. Whereupon this Apoſtle, knowing how beneficial ſuch a Woman was to the Church, caus'd all the Company to retire, and praying with his Face towards the Body, he commanded her To ariſe, and immediately ſhe open'd her Eyes, and ſecing Peter, ſat up. Then taking her by the Hand, and liſting her up, he preſented her alive to the holy Brethren and Widows, to their ſurprizing Joy and Comfort. This great Miracle being wrought in the Preſence of ſo many, was ſoon known throughout the whole Town; and many being convinc'd by it, believ'd in Jeſus Chriſt. After this, Peter continu'd a conſiderable Time in Joppa, probably near a Year, lodging in the Houſe of one Simon a Tanner.

In the Beginning of the following Year, King Herod-Agrippa took Poſſeſſion of all the Dominions of his Uncle Herod the Tetrarch, namely, the two Provinces of Galilee and Peræa, which Caligula had given him; ſo that his Power and Grandeur daily increas'd, beyond any ſince Herod the Great.

A.D. 40.
Calig. 4.

About the ſame Time his Countrymen the Jews were reduc'd to extream Difficulties and vaſt Dangers by the exorbitant Pride and Madneſs of the Emperor, who having erected Temples and Altars to his own Divinity, expected that all Nations ſhou'd adore him as a God. And becauſe the Jews were the chief Oppoſers of this monſtrous Humour, and particularly had deſtroy'd an Altar of his in Jamnia, a City of Judea, he ſent expreſs Orders to Petronius, whom he had lately made Governor of Syria in the Room of Vitellius, to dedicate a large and coſtly Image to him, and ſet it up in the very Temple of Jeruſalem. And that the Deſign might meet with no Obſtacles, he commanded him to ſend for half of the Army from Euphrates, that lay there for the Defence of all the Eaſt, to accompany the Statue to Jeruſalem, not only to make the Dedication more pompous, but alſo to cut in pieces any that durſt make Reſiſtance. Ordering farther, that the Image ſhou'd be plac'd in the Sanctuary of the Temple, which after that ſhou'd be call'd, THE TEMPLE OF ILLUSTRIOUS CAIUS, AND PROPITIOUS JUPITER.

The Jews all reduced to great Extremities by the Pride of Caligula.

Petronius having appointed the beſt Artificers in Sidon for this Work, convocated the chief of the Jews both Priests and Magiſtrates to declare the Emperor's Commands to them, perſuading them to reſt ſatisfy'd with the Decrees of his Lord and Maſter, and cautioning them of the imminent Danger of their Diſobedience, which wou'd draw upon them the whole Power of the Syrian Forces. At the firſt naming of theſe Things, they were confounded and ſpeechleſs, pouring out Floods of Tears, and tearing their Hair and Beards after a deplorable Manner. And thoſe in Jeruſalem and the adjacent Country, leaving their Houſes, Towns and Caſtles deſolate, with all the Marks of the moſt publick Mourning, repair'd to Petronius then in

Phœnicia;

Phœnicia; in such Multitudes, that some apprehended the Governor in no little Danger. They were distributed into six Classes, three on the one Side, old Men, young Men, and Boys; three on the other, old Women, Wives, and Virgins; who when they saw Petronius upon his Seat, all, as if by a general Word, fell prostrate upon the Ground, filling the Air with their Sighs and Lamentations: Then with much Persuasion arising, they cast Dust upon their Heads, and with Hands behind them like condemn'd Persons, approach'd the Governor, using such moving Complaints, and shewing so little Value for their Lives, that Petronius and those who sat by him, were extremely affected, and would have gladly declin'd the Matter upon several Accounts, but were deterr'd by the insupportable Humour of the Emperor. After much Consultation Petronius wrote to Caligula, not directly in Favour of the Jews, but to acquaint him that the Dedication of the Image was deferr'd, partly for the Time it requir'd to bring it to the utmost Perfection, and partly for the gathering the Corn necessary in the Expedition.

About the same Time several Ambassadors from the Jews waited upon the Emperor upon the Account of new Disturbances in Alexandria, among whom was the famous Philo, the most celebrated Scholar and Philosopher of that Nation. But neither their Presence, nor the Letters of Petronius cou'd prevail any thing upon the Temper of this Tyrant, but he pertinaciously insisted upon his Deityship, and gave the strictest Charge for the erecting his Image immediately after Harvest, to the exceeding Terror of the whole Race of the Jews. At length his great Favourite Agrippa, coming to Rome, resolv'd to undertake his Country's Cause, and became a zealous Intercessor in its Behalf, tho' it was not without the Hazard of his Dominions and Life also. He well knew the Emperor's extravagant Humour and Vanity, and therefore made his Approaches with all possible Artifice, of which he was a great Master; and partly by his profound Marks of Sorrow, partly by an ingenious and flattering Letter, and partly by a surprizing Entertainment made for him, he obtain'd as an extraordinary Favour from the Emperor, That the Statue shou'd not be dedicated, and accordingly wrote to Petronius, Not to make any Innovation in the Temple of the Jews. But lest the Favour shou'd be too entire, he mixt new Threatnings with it, writing That if any one shou'd dedicate any Temple or Altar to him in any Part of Judæa, except in Jerusalem, it shou'd not be oppos'd, but the Opposer shou'd be immediately punish'd with Death. A politick and deadly Contrivance to involve a Nation in a Rebellion, and in a destructive War; since the Jews Enemies were so ready to perform that which wou'd inevitably prove their Ruin. But the Time of their final Desolation was not yet come, and God thought fit to keep their Enemies from being active at this Time, and likewise to destroy another Design of this Tyrant, which was to have an Image made at Rome, and to be convey'd secretly into the Temple at Jerusalem. But these were fair Warnings from Heaven, sufficient to awaken any but this perverse and obstinate Nation; which Threatnings were seconded by another Accident that hapned this Year to the Jews about Babylon; namely, a terrible Massacre of 50000 of them at one Time. These Things hapned in the fourth Year of the Reign of Caligula, and about six Years after the Martyrdom of St. Stephen, according to the most approved Chronologers.

C H A P. III.

From the first Call, and Preaching of the Gospel to the Gentiles, to the Martyrdom of the first of the Apostles, viz. James the Son of Zebedee.

Containing the Term of about four Years.

I. THE Gospel had now been preach'd with great Success, not only in A.D 40. Judæa and the neighbouring Provinces, but in many remote Countries, where-ever the Jews resided; and for about seven Years after the Ascension, They only had the merciful Offers of Salvation by Jesus Christ. The Apostles had receiv'd Commission to baptize all Nations, but notwithstanding the several Illuminations of the Holy Ghost, which never come all at once, they hitherto understood it only of the Jews of all Nations: But now God thought fit to open a Door to the Gentiles, and to make the Jews sensible that the Partition Wall was laid level, and that They were no longer a peculiar People. This was begun at Cæsarea, the most frequent Residence of the Roman Governors of Judæa, a City inhabited both by Jews and Gentiles, where at this Time one Cornelius was quarter'd, a Roman Centurion or Captain of a Company call'd the Italian Band, which with others kept Garrison in this City. This Person, tho' uncircumcis'd, and only a Profelyte of the Gate, yet arriv'd to the Knowledge of the true God, and serv'd him with singular Devotion and Reverence, both himself and his Family; being eminent for his bountiful Alms, and his constant Prayers. To one who had made such good Improvement of his small Portion of Grace, God was pleas'd to communicate the highest Acts of his Favour, and to make him the first Fruits of the Gentile Conversion: For being at his Devotions at the ninth Hour, the Time of the Evening Sacrifice, an Angel was dispatch'd from Heaven to acquaint him, That his Prayers and Alms were highly acceptable in the Sight of God; and as a Token of his Favour, he order'd him to send to Joppa for Simon Peter, who lodg'd at the House of one Simon a Tanner near the Sea Side, who shou'd discover God's Will to him, and by his Doctrine cause him and all his House to be saved. Cornelius, with a Mixture of Fear and Joy, immediately dispatch'd two of his Domestick Servants, and a devout Soldier who constantly attended him, to Joppa, a Place about 30 Miles almost South of Cæsarea, where Peter had continu'd near a Year.

The first Call of the Gentiles.

Beginning with Cornelius;

Who sends for Peter.

On the same Day that the Messengers arriv'd, Peter had retir'd himself about Noon-Time to the House Top to pray, as the Jews frequently did; and being very hungry, he call'd for Meat: But while it was preparing, he fell into a Trance; and in a Vision saw Heaven open'd, and a large Thing like a Sheet knit at the four Corners was let down before him, containing all Sorts of Beasts, Birds and Reptiles, both Clean and Unclean; being accompany'd with a Voice, crying, Rise, Peter, kill and eat. Peter, tenacious as yet of the Rites and Institutions of the Mosaick Law, rejoin'd, That he cou'd not do it, having never eaten any thing common or unclean. To which the Voice reply'd, That what God had cleans'd, he shou'd not account or call common; intimating, That those Prohibitions concerning Meats, and the Differences between Jew and Gentile were remov'd, and that he ought not to make a Distinction where God had made none. This was done three several Times, and the Vessel was again taken up into Heaven. Peter, tho' again come to himself, was in great Doubt what this extraordinary Vision shou'd mean, till the three Messengers from Cornelius arriv'd at the Gate and knocked, enquiring, Whether Simon, surnamed Peter, was lodged there? Before they had receiv'd their Answer, the Spirit inwardly suggested to Peter, That three Men at the Door enquir'd for him, ordering him to go along with them without any Doubt or Scruple. Peter going down, and receiving their Message, courteously invited them in, and lodg'd them all Night in the House; and the next Day travell'd with them from Joppa, being accompany'd with six Brethren, as Witnesses of what happen'd in this surprizing Affair.

He preaches to Cornelius;

Cornelius, full of Expectation of Peter's Instructions from God, with great Impatience waited for his Coming; and because he wou'd have his Friends and Relations Partakers of such happy News, had invited them to meet him at his House. Peter on the third Day arriv'd at Cæsarea, and as he enter'd the House, Cornelius was so affected with the Presence of such a Messenger of God, that exceeding the Bounds of meer civil Respect, he fell down at his Feet and ador'd him. Tho' such Forms were usual in those Eastern Countries, yet Peter knowing that the Romans paid such Veneration only to their Gods, and consequently that the design'd Honour was more than human, refus'd to accept it, and bad him stand up, and pay him no other Respect than as a Man. Then entering in, Peter first made his Apology to the Company, That tho' they cou'd not but know, that it was unlawful for a Jew to converse in the Duties of Religion with those of another Nation; yet since God had now taught him to make no Distinctions, he very readily attended their Pleasure, desiring to know the Occasion of their sending for him. Cornelius made Answer, That he did it by the express Command of God, who while he was exercis'd in the Duties of Fasting and Prayer, sent an Angel in bright Apparel, ordering him to send to him at Joppa, from whom he shou'd receive some special Instructions, for which Reason they were all assembled to attend his Commands receiv'd from God. Peter was now sensible that the Partition was broken down, and that he was call'd in a special Manner to preach to the Gentiles; therefore he declar'd, That now he perceiv'd that God no longer made any Distinction of Persons and People, but that the Pious and Godly of all Nations shou'd meet with Acceptance. That the Message he had to deliver to them from God was this, even the same Reconciliation by Jesus Christ, the Lord of all, which was formerly taught to the Children of Israel; and in a more conspicuous Manner publish'd throughout all Judæa, beginning at Galilee, immediately after the preaching of John Baptist: Namely, That God had anointed Jesus of Nazareth with the Holy Ghost, and endued him with miraculous Gifts, which he constantly exercis'd in doing Good, and healing such as were under the Power of the Devil; an Argument that God was with him: That they had seen all that he had done among the Jews, whom tho' they had impiously crucified and slain, yet God had rais'd him again the third Day, and had openly shewn him to his Apostles and Followers, whom he had chosen to be his peculiar Witnesses, and for that Purpose had admitted them to eat and drink with him after his Resurrection, commanding them to preach the Gospel to all Mankind, and to testifie, That he was the Person whom God had ordain'd to be the great Judge of all the World: That all the Prophets with one Consent bore Witness of him; That this Jesus is He in whose Name whosoever believ'd, shou'd certainly receive Remission of Sins.

While Peter was thus preaching to them, the Holy Ghost, who had purified their Hearts by Faith, fell upon all that heard him, causing them immediately to speak with Tongues, and to glorifie the Almighty, without any Imposition of the Apostle's Hands, to the great Astonishment of the Believing Jews then present with Peter, who thought the Promise of the Holy Ghost belong'd only to the House of Israel. When Peter saw the Gentiles thus baptiz'd with the Holy Ghost, of which the Baptism of Water was but a Type and an instrumental Conveyance, he thought it unreasonable to deny them this latter; and therefore immediately order'd them to be baptiz'd with Water in the Name of the Lord, and so united them to Christ's Body the Church, as true Members of it. Cornelius and his Friends being thus Partakers of their Desires, were very unwilling to part with Peter, who had been the Means of their Conversion; therefore for their better Instruction and Confirmation they prevail'd with him to tarry with them certain Days, where probably he made more Gentile Converts. And thus Peter began to enlarge the Foundation, becoming a Head Builder of God's Church; and by means of his Keys to open a Door to the Gentiles, which was never to be shut again.

And baptizes him, and several others.

1-18.

This remarkable Act of Peter's was soon nois'd among the Apostles and other Brethren in Judea, who were highly offended at his Preaching to the Gentiles, as being without either Warrant or Reason; and coming to Jerusalem shortly after, with his six Companions, the Jewish Converts, who still retain'd their inveterate Prejudice against the Gentiles, accounting them Reprobates and unworthy of all spiritual Mercies, utterly condemn'd him for conversing so freely with the Gentiles, and eating with them. But Peter sufficiently defended himself, by relating how God had now remov'd his Hatred against the Gentiles, by a particular Vision and Revelation from Heaven; by which he was convinc'd that all Creatures were lawful to be eaten by God's Permission, and all Men to be associated with, whom He had thought fit to cleanse by his Grace: How Cornelius had sent for him by God's immediate Order, and that the Spirit commanded him to go along with the Messengers; How God upon his Preaching pour'd out the Holy Ghost upon them, as he had done upon the Apostles on the Day of Pentecost, as the six Brethren who accompany'd him to Cæsarea were at present ready to testify. Upon which he told them, That he then remember'd the Promise of Jesus, That their Baptism from John was with Water, but theirs shou'd be with the Holy Ghost; and that since God was pleas'd to bestow on the Gentiles the Marks of Conversion, as he did on his select Disciples, he justly thought it to be a withstanding God's Will to deny them Admission into his Church, and therefore baptiz'd them. This Apology gave them full Satisfaction, so that with a silent Admiration they glorify'd the All-merciful God, for admitting the Gentiles to be Sharers in the Gospel Privileges, and granting them also a Possibility of being saved by Faith and Repentance.

He vindicates the Action to the Apostles at Jerusalem;

Who are highly pleas'd with it.

Joseph.

About the same Time, the Emperor Caligula, having committed a thousand Extravagancies, and monstrous Cruelties, began to grow insupportable to the Empire, proving a real Phaeton to the World, according to the omenous Predictions of his Predecessor Tiberius; but as he began to set all Things on fire, so he was soon scorched and consum'd in those Flames he had so furiously blown up. When neither his own Reason, his Subjects Humility, nor his Country's Laws cou'd move him to Moderation, or divert him from his Tyrannies, many began to conspire against him, but ineffectually; till at length Cassius Chæreas, an Officer of his Guards, resolv'd upon it, being prompted to it upon many Accounts. He undertook it in the Beginning of the following Year, and secretly imparted his Designs to several Senators, Equites, and others, who readily joining with him privately kept themselves in Arms, every Person promoting the Design with all possible Vigour and Resolution. Chæreas having fix'd on a convenient Hour

Caligula grows insupportable.

He is slain.

Hour for his fatal Attempt, order'd his Companions to attend him in a Vault, or private Gallery, where the Emperor usually pass'd unseen from his Palace to some Baths not far distant. To that Place he repair'd with his Associates; and shortly after meeting with Caligula, and first paying some Respect to him, he gave him a mortal Wound, crying out, Tyrant, think upon this! and immediately the rest of the Conspirators rush'd in, and dispatch'd him with thirty Wounds, he for some Time crying out, That he was still alive. His Death was accompany'd with that of his Wife Cæsonia, who was stabb'd by a Centurion, and of his only Daughter, an Infant in the Cradle, who had her Brains dash'd out against a Wall, that the Tyrant's whole Race might be extirpated; and the Senate order'd his Mony to be melted down, that if it were possible his Name and Feature might be forgotten in future Ages. His Death hapned in the Year 41, and the 24th Day of January, under the Consulships of Himself and Satur-ninus, he being in the 29th Year of his Age, having reign'd three Years, ten Months, and eight Days.

A.D. 41. II. The Murther of Caligula being publish'd in the City, it caus'd a great Alteration and Confusion in all Parts; and since the Act was committed in such a secret Place, many imagining it some Artifice to discover the Peoples Affections, suspended their Belief of it, till the German Guards sufficiently manifested it by the Disturbances they rais'd, and the Murthers they committed in the Palace. The Senate was resolv'd to restore the Roman Liberty, and destroy the Monarchy, and accordingly seiz'd on the Capitol; but the City was much divided, the Commons urging hotly the Election of a new Emperor, and the Nobility as violently promoting the Restauration of their ancient Privileges. The Soldiers join'd with the Commons, but while Affairs continu'd in this Confusion, neither knew whom to nominate for Emperor, till some of the Soldiers running about for Plunder in the Palace, discover'd Caligula's Uncle Claudius, hid in a secret Hole for fear of his Life, and brought him into the Camp, where they proclaim'd him Emperor, when he expected nothing but Death at their Hands. The Senate immediately sent to him to advise him, To resign his Pretensions, and not disturb the publick Peace: But he equally confounded with Fear and Ignorance knew not what to stand by, till King Agrippa, with great Difficulty making way through the Multitudes, came to him and encourag'd him to retain the Sovereignty; upon which, what with the Peoples Cries, and the Soldiers Threats, the Senate were at last brought to a Compliance, and also acknowledg'd him Emperor. This was a Person the most unlikely of all others to arrive at this Dignity, for tho' he had taken some Pains in Learning, he was reserv'd by Caligula only for a Laughing-stock; and either upon the Account of his Bodily Distempers, or the gross Stupidity of his Nature, or the unactive Cowardice of his Temper, was till this Time, altho' now in the 50th Year of his Age, judg'd incapable of any publick Office in the State. And his Government prov'd accordingly; for tho' he did some Things in the Beginning like a good and wise Prince, as disannulling all Caligula's cruel Edicts, and forbidding all to sacrifice to him; yet he so much gave himself up to a gluttonous, insensible, passive Life, that his Favourites impos'd upon him as they thought fit, and became intolerable Oppressors and Tyrants, inflicting innumerable Deaths and other Cruelties, selling Governments and Dignities, issuing out Pardons and Penalties without his Knowledge. He was so cowardly and fearful, that when a Rebel, call'd Camillus, commanded him by Letter to resign his Empire, he was ready to have done it; so short-sighted, that his Empress

Messalina marry'd her self to another Man almost in his Presence; so stupid, that when News was brought him of her Execution, he shew'd not the least Token of Joy, Sorrow, or human Affection; and so forgetful, that he frequently ask'd and sent for such as he had executed the Day before. In short, as Tacitus says of him, he had neither Thought, Judgment, Will, nor Passion, but what was put into him by other Men.

Joseph. Dion. As the last Emperor caus'd the Rise and Advancement of Herod-Agrippa, so this compleated his Honour and Sovereignty; and not only confirm'd to him his former Dominions of Trachonitis, Galilee, and Peræa with Abilene, but also added Samaria, Judæa with Idumæa, all that had been subject to his Grand-Father Herod the Great; so that the whole Country of Palestine again came into the Hands of one Prince. Claudius added to his Bounty many Commendations of Agrippa, and caus'd the Alliance that was pais'd between them to be engraven in Brass: He moreover bestow'd Consular Honours upon him, and gave Pretorian Dignity to a Brother of his nam'd Herod, on whom he also bestow'd the Kingdom of Chalcis at the Foot of Mount Libanus. Besides these Acts of Grace he publish'd two Edicts, one in Favour of the Jews of Alexandria, wherein he commanded they shou'd be no longer molested, but enjoy all the Privileges of the City; and the other in Favour of the Jews throughout the whole Empire, wherein they were allow'd to live according to their own Laws, and the Rites of their Ancestors, provided they did not abuse their Liberty in disturbing the Religions of other Nations. But in this same Year, Dion assures us, that when they grew so numerous in Rome, that the City became uneasie, he forbad all their publick Assemblies, and put down their Colleges, and also their Taverns where they usually met.

Joseph. Claudius shortly after his Edicts sent Agrippa to his Kingdom, commanding all his Presidents and Lieutenants in the Provinces through which he was to pass, to give him a friendly and honourable Attendance. But he having happily dispatch'd his Affairs, return'd with all Expedition to Jerusalem, where he immediately offer'd his Sacrifice of Thanksgiving, omitting nothing prescrib'd by the Law. He caus'd divers Nazarites to be shaved, and hung up in the Temple that ponderous Chain of Gold which Caligula had given him, as an illustrious Monument of the Instability of human Affairs, and of the Power of God, who can raise Men in a Moment from the meanest Obscurity to the most exalted Grandeur. He was a zealous Observer of the Jewish Law, carefully avoided all legal Impurities, and seldom pass'd a Day without sacrificing; for which Reason he had his principal Residence at Jerusalem, engaging the Good Will of the Inhabitants by remitting a Tribute, which they constantly paid out of every House. He much affected the Splendor and Magnificence of his Grand-Father, but not his extreme Severity and Cruelty: Tho' Dion attributes many of Caligula's bloody Edicts to his Councils, and Josephus cannot wholly excuse his Vanity and Prodigality. In the first Year of his Reign, he made two Changes in the High-Priesthood: He first remov'd Theophilus the Son of Annas, who had held that Dignity four Years, and bestow'd it on Simon Cantharus, the Son of Simon or Boethus, Father-in-Law to Herod the Great. And not long after, he depos'd Simon, and offer'd the Priesthood to Jonathan Brother to Theophilus, who had once before held it in the Year 35, succeeding Caia-phas; but he modestly declin'd the Honour, begging it might be bestow'd upon his Brother Matthias, which was granted. About the same Time certain rash young Men, the Inhabitants of Dor, a City on the Borders of Phœnicia, rais'd a Disturbance by placing the Emperor's Image in the

For which Cause, with all Expedition he repair'd to Petronius Governor of Syria, complaining of their insolent Behaviour to him, who was their Governor. Petronius was no less displeas'd than he, and therefore wrote sharp Letters to the Magistrates of Dor, commanding them to bind and punish the guilty Persons; which happily ended the Disturbance.

Many Gentiles converted at Antioch.
Barnabas sent to them.

III. A Door being happily open'd for the Promulgation of the Gospel to the Gentiles, some Disciples born in Cyprus and Cyrene, who since the Death of Stephen had travell'd in many Countries, preaching the Gospel to the Jews only, now arriv'd at the great City of Antioch; and hearing of the Conversion of Cornelius and others, they also preach'd Jesus to the Greeks and Gentiles of that City: And God exceedingly prosper'd their Endeavours, and brought in numerous Converts daily. The Apostles who remain'd at Jerusalem, hearing of this happy Progress, sent Barnabas to Antioch; to assist and confirm the Disciples in that City; who coming and seeing with what good Success the Gospel had been preach'd among them, rejoyc'd extremely, exhorting them firmly to hold fast to the Faith in Christ: And being a pious Person, and of many excellent Gifts and Graces, by his Means, great Numbers of others were also won over to the Gospel.

St. Matthew's Gospel written.

In the same Year, according to the most receiv'd Opinion, St. Matthew at Jerusalem, first of all others undertook to commit the chief Actions of our blessed Saviour to Writing, calling his Book by the Name of Εὐαγγέλιον, or Gospel, because it brought joyful and happy Tydings to Mankind, namely, Pardon and Redemption by the Blood of Jesus. It was written at the Request of the Jewish Converts; and as Epiphanius adds, at the Command of the Apostles, about eight Years after the Death of Christ, according to Eusebius; tho' Nicephorus supposes it fifteen, and Irenaeus seems to imply that it was written while Peter and Paul preach'd at Rome. Being primarily design'd for those of the Circumcision, he begins with the temporal and human Generation of Jesus Christ, in which the Promises made in a special Manner to Abraham and David, concerning the Messiah, were apparently fulfill'd, which were particular Inducements to the Jews to believe. In the rest of his Gospel he takes more than ordinary Notice of those Passages of our Saviour's Life which respected Mens Manners and the Corruptions of the Jews; therefore he relates the Sermon upon the Mount, Christ's Invectives against the Scribes and Pharisees, and the Destruction of Jerusalem, more largely than the other Evangelists: But the whole is not so regular and methodical as the rest of the Gospels. That his own Countrymen might receive the greater Benefit from it, he wrot it in the Hebrew Tongue, or rather Syriack, the usual Language of Palestine, as all the Ancients do assert; whose positive Determinations we cannot reject, without stronger Reasons than we find brought by the modern Enquirers. The Original has been long lost, but the Greek Version remains, being made in the Time of the Apostles, but it is uncertain by whom it was done. Some believe it done by St. John, but Athanasius expressly attributes it to James Bishop of Jerusalem. However it imports not much, whether it was translated by an Apostle or some Disciple, since the Apostles approv'd of the Version, and the Church has ever receiv'd the Greek Copy for Authentick, and as such repos'd in the sacred Canon.

Acts 11. 25, 26. About the Beginning of the following Year, Saul after three Years hard Labour, and many Difficulties encounter'd both in Syria and Cilicia, re-
Joseph. turn'd to his own City Tarsus. Here he was met by Barnabas, who probably knowing he was design'd for a Minister to the Uncircumcision, gave him an Account of his Success in Antioch among the Gentiles, and desir'd his Assistance in that Place. Which being a large and populous City, the third in the Empire, and the Residence of the Roman Governor of the East, Saul readily attended him thither, and continu'd with him preaching the Gospel for a whole Year with extraordinary Success. About the Time of Saul's Arrival, the Governor was chang'd; Petronius was recall'd from his Government, and Ubius Marsus sent in his Room; a Person not so great a Friend to the Jews, at least not to their King Agrippa, as the other. For in the same Year Agrippa having turn'd his Care chiefly upon the City Jerusalem, to shew some Marks of his Magnificence, began to fortify and enlarge the Walls of the New City, in such manner, that if finish'd it would have been an impregnable Fortrefs. But Marsus, jealous of the Greatness of this Prince, so represented the Danger of this Attempt to Claudius his Master, that he thought fit to lay his Commands upon him to desist from the Undertaking.

This same Year is remarkable for a great Famine that hapned in Rome, which is not the same with that mention'd in Acts 11. this being particular, and that general. And this is the Year, viz. the second of Claudius, in which Baronius, and most of the Roman Writers, will have St. Peter to have gone to Rome, and founded the Bishoprick there, he himself continuing Bishop of the Place twenty five Years, till his Martyrdom. This is an Opinion in which they are very positive; but after the most diligent Search, we can find no real Foundation for it; but on the contrary, to us it appears repugnant to the Acts of the Apostles, to the Epistles of St. Paul, to the most evident Circumstances in Chronology, and likewise to the Testimony of the Ancients, particularly Origen and Lactantius, who mention St. Peter's coming to Rome in the latter Part of his Days, under the Reign of Nero. So that we must defer this Subject to some more probable Year of his Arrival at Rome.

Of St. Peter's going to Rome.

IV. Tho' Agrippa was disappointed of his Designs in Jerusalem, yet he omitted no Opportunity of displaying his Grandeur, but in Imitation of the Romans, at immense Charges built a magnificent Theatre and Amphitheatre, together with large Baths and Porticos at Berytus in Phœnicia; all which he dedicated in the third Year of Claudius, with all imaginable Pomp and Spendour, as all Kinds of Musick and Feastings, Plays and Spectacles, with a formal Battel of 1400 Malefactors, like the Roman Gladiators. After which he repaired to Tiberias, his Uncle Herod's Seat by the Sea of Galilee, where he entertain'd no less than five Kings at one Time, namely, Antiochus King of Comagena, Sampsigeran King of the Emesens, Cotys King of the lesser Armenia, Polemon King of Pontus, and his Brother Herod King of Chalcis. To these also came the Roman Governor Marsus, whom he met out of the City to shew his Respect to the Empire; but such an Interview of Kings, riding all in the same Chariot with Agrippa, caus'd Marsus to suspect a dangerous Alliance; therefore without considering the Rules of Hospitality, he immediately gave a particular Order for each of them to depart into their own Country. Which Action caus'd Agrippa to hate him, and afterwards to use all his Endeavours, by Writings and other Means, to procure the Emperor to remove Marsus from his Government of Syria. At his Return to Jerusalem, he made a third Change of the Priesthood, taking it from Matthias, Marsus affronts Agrippa.

Elionæus made thias, who had held it about two Years, and giving it to Elionæus the High-Priest. Son of Cithæus.

The Believers first obtain'd the Name of Christians. About the same Time, Saul and Barnabas having preach'd a Year at Antioch, where were above 200000 Souls, gain'd Ground daily; and the Believers became so numerous and considerable, that in this City they first obtain'd the honourable Name of CHRISTIANS, about ten Years after our Saviour's Ascension; which Name soon spread, and in a short Time prevail'd all over the World. They were formerly call'd Nazarenes and Galileans by the Jews, but among themselves, Disciples, Believers, Saints, Brethren, and those of the Church; but from hence forward the Name of Nazarenes or Nazarites was fix'd upon those Jewish Converts, who mix'd the Law and the Gospel, and compounded a Religion out of Judaism and Christianity. Some say the Name of Christians was given to the Believers by Evodius, newly made Bishop of Antioch in St. Peter's Room; and others observe that the Word χριστιανός us'd by St. Luke implies the thing to have been done by some publick Act and Declaration of the whole Church, such being the use of the Word in the Imperial Edicts and Proclamations of those Times. In the same Year, certain Persons who at that Time had the Gift of Prophecie came from Jerusalem to this City; one of whom nam'd Agabus, by the Spirit of God foretold that there shou'd be a great Famine through many Parts of the World, which occasion'd the Christians carefully to provide against it, it hapning in the following Year, and fourth of Claudius, when Contributions were made in many Provinces.

St. Mark's Gospel written. In the same Year that the Believers were call'd Christians, and third of Claudius, it is generally suppos'd that a second Gospel was publish'd, namely, that of St. Mark, about two Years after St. Matthew's; tho' as to the Time of Writing, both are uncertain, especially this latter. St. Mark was of the Tribe of Levi, and one of the Seventy; and most probably was not the same Mark, who is so often nam'd in the Acts of the Apostles and St. Paul's Epistles. He is suppos'd to be a Kinsman of St. Peter's; however he was his constant Attendant and Companion in his Travels, supplying the Place of an Amanuensis and Interpreter. Having wrote his Gospel, which we are assur'd was done at the Intreaty of the Converts at Rome, St. Peter perus'd it, ratify'd it with his Authority, and commanded it to be publicly read in the religious Assemblies. It was frequently stil'd St. Peter's Gospel, not so much upon the Account of its being dictated by him, as because he principally compos'd it out of those Discourses which St. Peter usually deliver'd to the People. Whereas St. Matthew begins his Gospel at, and somewhat before, the Birth of our blessed Saviour; St. Mark begins his at the first Preaching of John Baptist; so that the whole consists of less than four Years Transactions, all deliver'd in a succinct and regular Method. And tho' in several Places he seems to epitomise St. Matthew, yet in some Passages he is more large and particular; and that he might not shew the least Partiality, he wou'd not spare his dear Tutor and Master Peter, in his Account of his Lapse and Denial, which he represents with greater Aggravations than the other Evangelists. As to the last Chapter of his Gospel, or part of it, said to be wanting in most Greek Copies, and by some rejected, as partly disagreeing with the other Gospels, St. Jerom has so well reconcil'd them, that he makes them fairly consistent with each other. It is generally said that this Gospel was written at Rome, when St. Peter was there; which if true, it was written much later than the Time we have assign'd; for which Reason, Reason, many believe it was written in Latin; but this is contrary to St. Austin's and St. Jerom's Opinion, and has no Pretence to support it, besides a single Note at the End of the Syriack Version of this Gospel, which Note is of very uncertain Antiquity and Authority.

Acts 11.
12.

In the fourth Year of Claudius, the Famine foretold by Agabas growing severe, the Christians of Antioch, making a Collection for the Friends in Judea, sent it by the Hands of Barnabas and Saul, who were made Stewards of the Church's Mony. Before their Arrival, in the Beginning of the Year, the Church at Jerusalem began to suffer extremely from the Acts of King Herod-Agrippa, who being zealous of the Mosaic Rites, and desirous to ingratiate himself with the Jews, rais'd a sharp Persecution against the Christians, who for near ten Years had met with no great Disturbance in Jerusalem. And that he might not fail in his popular Designs, he struck at the Apostles themselves, and began with one of the Sons of Thunder, James the Son of Zebedee, whose brave and active contending for the Truth had render'd him a fit Object for his Turn: Therefore without Delay he condemn'd James to Death. As he was led out to the Place of Martyrdom, Clemens Alexandrinus tells us, that the Officer that guarded him, or rather his Accuser, having been convinc'd by the extraordinary Courage and Constancy he shew'd at his Tryal, repented of his Fact, fell down at this Apostle's Feet, and heartily desired Pardon for what he had done. The holy Martyr, after a little Surprise, and a Pause, rais'd him up, embrac'd and kiss'd him, crying, Peace be to thee, my Son: Upon which the other publicly profess'd himself a Christian, and so both were beheaded at the same Time. And thus fell St. James, surnam'd the Great, the Apostolick Protomartyr, the first of that Number that gain'd the Crown, chearfully taking that Cup, which he had long since told his Lord he was ready to drink; having fitted himself for it by his great Temperance and Austerities. This hapned just before the Passover, eleven Years after our Saviour's Crucifixion, ten after St. Stephen's Martyrdom, and about four after the first Call of the Gentiles.

Agrippa persecutes the Church;

And puts James the Son of Zebedee to Death.

Acts 12.

I. THE Death of the Apostle James, who was a Leader and Governor of the Church, was more pleasing to the Jews, than of a Multitude of private Christians; therefore Herod-Agrippa, that he might farther ingratiate himself with the Rulers, proceeded to apprehend Peter also, well knowing how acceptable such a Sacrifice wou'd be. And having imprison'd him, he appointed four Quaternions or sixteen Soldiers to guard guard him, four at a Time, according to the Watches of the Night, designing immediately after the Feast of the Passover to bring him forth to the Jews, and have him executed. These Proceedings caus'd great Sorrow and Affliction to the Christians in Jerusalem, who incessantly sent up their fervent Prayers to Heaven for his Deliverance; which so prevail'd, that the Night before his intended Execution, God purposely sent an Angel from Heaven, who coming to the Prison, found him fast asleep between two of his Keepers, free from bodily Fears, tho' in the utmost Danger and in the Confines of Death. The Angel, all surrounded with Brightness and Light, gently struck him on the Side, rais'd him up, knock'd off his Chains, and bad him gird on his Garments, and follow him. Peter obey'd him, and having pass'd the first and second Guards, they came to a great Iron Gate leading into the City, which open'd to them of its own accord; and having gone through one Street, the Angel departed from him. Peter tho' observant of the Angel's Call, yet being scarcely awak'd, thought himself in some Trance, and his Deliverance only imaginary; but being left alone, and plac'd beyond Danger, he perceiv'd it was real, and cou'd not but thankfully acknowledge God's Goodness in his miraculous Escape from Agrippa and the Jews. And that he might comfort the Christians, whom he knew to be under great Afflictions for his Sufferings, he first went to the House of Mary the Mother of John-Mark, where many of them were at that Time met to pray for him. Knocking at the Door, the Maid call'd Rhoda, who came to let him in, perceiving it was his Voice, being overjoy'd, ran back to tell them, that Peter himself was at the Door. Which they at first look'd upon as the meer Effect of Fright and Fancy, but she still affirming it, they concluded it was his Angel, or some particular Messenger from him, or perhaps some Angel in his Shape. The Door being open, they were extremely surpriz'd with Joy and Wonder; but he briefly inform'd them of the Manner of his great Deliverance, charging them to acquaint James and the Brethren, and then withdrew himself to a Place of greater Secrecy and Security.

Agrippa goes to Caesarea;

In the Morning there was no little Confusion among the Soldiers, by Reason of Peter's Escape; and Agrippa finding himself disappointed in his chiefest Designs, in a great Rage commanded the Keepers to be put to Death, and departed from Jerusalem to Cesarea. While he was here, he proclaim'd solemn Games and festival Entertainments in Honour of the Emperor, which caus'd a great Confluence of the Nobility and Magistrates from all Parts of the Country; among these the Ambassadors from Tyre and Sidon, by the Mediation of Blastus the King's Chamberlain, beg'd Peace and Friendship, since their Country was supported by his, especially in this Time of Scarcity. Agrippa, tho' highly displeas'd at them, appointed them a Day of Audience, which was the second of the Solemnity; and early entering the publick Theatre, he sat upon his Throne, gloriously array'd with magnificent Robes of Silver Tissue, which encountring with the Beams of the rising Sun, reflected such Lustre upon the Eyes of the People, as begat an equal Wonder and Veneration in them. Upon his making an Oration to the Ambassadors, the People, prompted by some Flatterers gave a Shout, and with loud Acclamations cry'd out, It is the Voice of a God, and not of a Man! adding also some Tokens of Adoration. This impious Applause was receiv'd by Agrippa, without any kind of Dislike, or Sense of the Injury done to the supreme Being of the World; but a sudden Accident chang'd the Scene; for looking up, he espy'd an Owl sitting upon a Rope over his Head, which he immediately beheld as the fatal Messenger of his Death, as it had had formerly been of his Prosperity. At the same Instant, an Angel from Heaven, probably the same that deliver'd Peter, struck him, because he gave not God the Glory; and he was suddenly seiz'd with an incurable Melancholy, and exquisite Torments in his Bowels. Then turning to those about him, he said, Behold the Deity you admir'd, and your selves convinc'd of Flattery and Falshood; see me here by the Laws of Fate condemn'd to die, whom just now you stil'd Immortal. Being remov'd into the Palace, his Pains still encreas'd; and tho' the People mourn'd and wept, fasted and pray'd for his Life and Health, yet the divine Vengeance never left him, but his acute Torments dispatch'd him in five Days, being devour'd with Worms after a Dies miserabilis miserable Manner.

Joseph. Thus dy'd Herod-Agrippa, the first Prince that dipp'd his Hands in the Blood of the Apostles, having reign'd, tho' not in full Power, between seven and eight Years. He left behind him one Son nam'd Agrippa, about seventeen Years of Age, and three Daughters, Berenice married to her Uncle Herod, Mariamne betroth'd to Julias Archelaus, and Drusilla betroth'd to Epiphanes, Son to the King of Comagena. Upon the News of Agrippa's Death, the Inhabitants of Cæsarea and Sebaste or Samaria, Cities His Memory insulted. built by Herod the Great, threw out great Reproaches against the dead Prince, and the common Soldiers unanimously dragging his and his Daughters Statues out of the Palace, brought them into the Brothel Houses, and abus'd them after a scandalous Manner; and making Feasts and Banquets, they adorn'd themselves with Garlands, and made Offerings to Charon for Joy of the King's Death. At the same Time young Agrippa was with the Emperor at Rome, and wou'd undoubtedly have obtain'd all his Father's Kingdom, but Claudius was easily overaw'd by his Freedmen and Favourites, who represented to him how dangerous it was to commit such a Kingdom to a Person less than eighteen Years of Age. Upon which he appointed a particular Friend call'd Cuspius Fadus to be President not Fadus the seventh Governor in Judæa. only of Judæa but also of all Agrippa's Dominions; so that all Palestine now became subject to Roman Governors, and in a manner distinct from Syria; for Claudius, in Memory of his deceas'd Friend, wou'd not permit his Enemy Marsus to act any thing in his Dominions. And farther he commanded Fadus to chastize the Cæsareans and Sebastians for their Injury to their dead King, and the Affront to his Daughters; and he design'd to have remov'd the Roman Soldiers into worse Quarters, but he was prevail'd upon to continue them there, who afterwards prov'd the Beginning of the most grievous Calamities to the Jews.

Acts 12. 26. Chap. 13. 1-5. II. About the Time of Agrippa's Death, which ended the short Persecution of the Church, Saul and Barnabas having dispos'd of their Contributions to the Christians in Jerusalem and Judæa, return'd back to the City of Antioch. In which City, as the Scripture observes, there were then certain Teachers of the number of the Seventy, endued with prophetick Gifts besides themselves; namely, Simeon who was call'd Niger, Lucius of Cyrene, whom some suppose to have been St. Luke the Evangelist, and Manaen, a Person of that Rank and Quality, that he had been educated with Herod the Tetrarch. While these five were engag'd in the Duties of Prayer and Fasting, and other publick Exercises of their Religion, the Spirit of God, by some sensible Afflatus or Revelation to the Persons present, commanded that Barnabas and Saul shou'd be set apart for that peculiar Ministry to which God Saul and Barnabas separated by God for the Service of the Gentiles. had design'd them. This Call was accordingly obey'd, and having fasted and pray'd, the rest solemnly laid their Hands upon these two, to denote their particular and special Designation to that Service; which was to be Ministers of the Uncircumcision, it being now a second Time confirm'd by by the Mouth of Heaven. From this joint Commission Barnabas also obtain'd the Name of an Apostle, not only among the later Writers, but with St. Paul himself, 1 Cor. 9. 5, 6. and St. Luke, Acts 14. 4. upon which Account St. Jerom calls him the fourteenth Apostle, and the Greek and Latin Church ever honour'd him as such.<sup>1</sup> But before their Departure, Saul was taken upon into the third Heaven, or Paradise; and that he might be every way fitted for his Apostolate, was admitted to the Knowledge and Sight of the ineffable Mysteries of Heaven, and the Glories of God, which Men can neither express nor comprehend. This was done, as we may reasonably imagine, to equalize him with the very chiefest Apostles in Knowledge and Revelation, that he might be encourag'd boldly to preach the Gospel to a Pagan and Idolatrous world, in hopes of the Enjoyment of that Glory of which he had so noble a Prospect. But lest he shou'd be exalted above Measure with the great Abundance of his Revelations, and so be unfit to compassionate the Feeble and the Tempted, God permitted him to be tempted by some turbulent and unruly Lusts, through the Ministry of Satan's Agents, which he calls a Thorn in the Flesh, by which he was so humbled and afflicted, that he besought God thrice to remove it from him; but the divine Wisdom thought fit to continue it in such a Strength all his Life, that had not he given him a Sufficiency of Grace, and excited him to a constant Mortification, he had become a Cast-away, as he insinuates himself in 1 Cor. 9. 27.

Not long before Saul and Barnabas were thus separated for the Ministry, Fadus arriv'd in his Government of Palestine, being the seventh Roman Governor after the Banishment of Archelaus. At his first Entrance he found the Jews beyond Jordan up in Arms against the Philadelphians, about the Limits of a certain Town call'd Mia, well furnish'd with valiant Men. Fadus was highly displeas'd because the Matter was not referr'd to him, as it ought to have been; therefore apprehending three of the principal Ringleaders, he executed one call'd Annibas, and banish'd the other two. Shortly after he undertook to clear Judæa of Thieves and Robbers, and made an Example of the chief of them call'd Tholomæus, who had committed great Ravages in Idumæa and Arabia. In the same Year, while the Famine rag'd in Palestine, Helena Queen of Adiebena on the Confines of Assyria and Mesopotamia, having been converted to the Jewish Religion by some Merchants, came to visit the Temple of Jerusalem, to worship the true God, and to pay her Vows. Here she brought great Riches and large Presents, and finding many Jews in a starving Condition, she immediately sent Money out of her own Purse to Alexandria, in Ægypt, to buy a large Quantity of Wheat, and likewise to the Island Cyprus for Figs for the Relief of the Poor; all which was effected in a short Time, and her Bounty highly applauded. Also her Son Izates, who had likewise been converted to the same Religion, hearing of the great Distresses of the Jews by Famine, generously sent Money to the chief Magistrates at Jerusalem to distribute to the Neccessitous.

A.D. 45. At the beginning of the following Year, Cassius Longinus was sent Governor of Syria in the Room of Marsus; and both he and Fadus, taking a considerable Force, enter'd the City Jerusalem, declaring to the Priests and Governors, That it was the Emperor's Commands, That all the High-Priest's Robes and Ornaments shou'd be again lodg'd in the Castle Antonia, that they might be at the Romans Disposal, as before Vitellius's Time. The Rulers durst not contradict this Command, but after many Entreaties, and upon depositing their Children for Hostages, they obtain'd Leave of Fadus and Longinus to send Ambassadors to the Emperor, to petition him to continue their Privileges, and to wait his Answer. Young Agrippa was then then at Rome, and attending upon Claudius, which caus'd the Ambassadors to apply themselves first to him, who earnestly interceding with the Emperor for his Country Men, gain'd the Cause, and a Decree in their Favour. About the same Time, Herod King of Chalcis, by a Petition to Claudius, obtain'd full Power over the Temple at Jerusalem, and the sacred Treasury, and Authority of chusing the High-Priests; by which Authority he made Josephus Cananus High-Priest, and depos'd Simon Cantharus, who had formerly been depriv'd by King Agrippa in the Year 41, and probably had usurp'd that Dignity since his Death. In the same Year a Magician or False-Messiah call'd Theudas (not the Person mention'd Acts 5. 36.) persuaded great Multitudes of the Jews to take all their Riches with them, and follow him to the River Jordan, promising them, that the River shou'd divide it self as in the Days of Joshua and Elias, and afford them a free Passage. But Fadus suspecting a Rebellion, sent a strong Body of Horse, who suddenly charging these deluded People, kill'd great Numbers, and took many Prisoners, among whom was Theudas himself, whose Head was stricken off, and afterwards sent to Jerusalem.

III. For twelve Years after our blessed Saviour's Ascension, all the Apostles besides St. Paul, had in a manner confin'd themselves to Jerusalem, and Palestine; but now the Time was come, that they were to disperse themselves, and preach the Gospel in all Parts of the World, according to their Lord's Command, as appears from Clemens Alexandrinus, and Apollonius, a Writer of the second Century. Many believe that before their Departure they compos'd that Creed, call'd the Apostles Creed, and those Canons call'd the Apostles Canons; but most learned Men are satisfy'd that they are both the Composures of later Times, tho' the former is acknowledg'd to be the Summary of the Apostles Doctrine. It is generally affirm'd by the Ancients, that the Apostles agreed among themselves, what Parts of the World they shou'd take; and this, according to some, was done by way of Lot, tho' probably not without the Guidance and Direction of the Holy Ghost. According to this Division St. Peter went into Pontus, Galatia, and those other Provinces of the lesser Asia, at first confining his Labours to the Jews in those Parts; but whether he went to Rome before the Council of Jerusalem, and met the famous Philo there, as some are of Opinion, we cannot determine; only if he did so, it is almost unquestionable that he made two Journeys to that City. St. Andrew had those vast Northern Countries of Scythia and Sogdiana allotted to his Portion; tho' afterwards he is suppos'd to return towards Greece, and to have founded the Bishoprick of Bizantium. St. John's Portion was partly the same with Peter's, namely, the lesser Asia; tho' it is believ'd he did not immediately enter upon his Charge, but stay'd some Years in Jerusalem, till after the blessed Virgin's Death. St. Philip had the Upper Asia appointed him, with some Parts of Scythia and Colchis. The Hither India, commonly call'd Arabia Felix, was allotted to St. Bartholomew; into which Parts he carry'd the Gospel of St. Matthew. St. Matthew himself preach'd the Gospel in the Asiatick Ethiopia by Chaldea, Persia, and Parthia; But Parthia was more particularly allotted for St. Thomas, who also preach'd to the Hyr-canians, Bactrians, and Indians. St. James the Less being Bishop of Jerusalem, continu'd principally in that City, with so much amiable Goodness and Discretion, that his greatest Enemies had a Veneration for him. St. Simon had for his Portion, Aegypt, Cyrene, Libya, and Mauritania. St. Jude had Syria and Mesopotamia; and St. Matthias, Cappadocia and Colchis. Of all their Travels and Actions, we have but a very short and uncertain Account; tho' afterwards we shall say something more of each.

Saul and Barnabas begin their Circuit.

They come to Paphos;

Where they strike Elymas the Sorcerer blind;

And convert the Governor Sergius Paulus.

They remove to Perga:

In the mean Time the thirteenth Apostle Saul, having been separated with Barnabas by the immediate Command of Heaven, departed with him from Antioch to Seleucia, a City of Syria, adjoining to the Sea, from whence they took Shipping for Cyprus, a famous Island not far distant in the Mediterranean Sea. In Salamis, one of the chief Cities of the Isle, they first began the Ministerial Office; and tho' they were sent principally to the Gentiles, yet usually they first preach'd the Gospel in the Synagogues of the Jews; John-Mark, who accompany'd them thither, attending their Motions, and doing many Offices in the Church, especially about the Poor. And passing through the Isle, they arriv'd at Paphos, a large City on the Western Parts, and the Seat of the Roman Proconsul or Governor of the Isle, which was then Sergius Paulus, a Man of great Wisdom and Prudence, but unhappily seduc'd by the magical Illusions of a Jewish Sorcerer, nam'd Barjesus or Elymas. Upon their Preaching there, the Governor, having been inform'd of something extraordinary, sent to the Apostles to hear their Doctrine himself: But Elymas fearing to lose so great an Admirer, industriously oppos'd his good Intentions, and us'd all Methods to divert him from the Belief of Christ. Saul being in the Presence of the Governor, and inspired with a noble Zeal, fix'd his Eyes upon Elymas, and solemnly declar'd him a Child of the Devil, a Wretch full of Subtilty and Malice, and an Enemy to all Goodness, in perverting the right Way of the Lord: For which Reason the Hand of Heaven was upon him, which shou'd strike him blind, and deprive him of the Sight of the Sun for a Season. Upon denouncing these Words, the Magician was immediately struck blind, and cou'd not go without leading; the Vengeance of God justly punishing that Man with the Loss of his bodily Eyes, who had so wilfully shut the Eyes of his Mind against the Light of the Gospel, and had endeavour'd to keep others in so much Blindness and Darkness.

This was the first Miracle we find wrought among the Gentiles, which was so astonishing to the Governor, that he himself immediately became a Convert to the Christian Faith. Nor had it a less Effect upon the Magician, according to Origen and St. Chrysostom, who assure us, That his Punishment wrought such a Remorse in his Heart, that he repented and believ'd, and together with his Sight recover'd the Knowledge of Christ, and the Vision of the Sun of Righteousness. And from this Time, forwards, Saul was always call'd Paul, a Name possibly given him by the Household of Sergius Paulus, or perhaps at his Circumcision; so that tho' he was call'd Saul as long as he convers'd with the Jews, Syrians, and Arabians; yet afterwards, when he was in a special manner sent to the Gentiles, the Greeks, and the Romans, he then had the Name of Paul given him, as being more agreeable to them. After this successful Victory over the Power of Satan, Paul continu'd a while at Paphos, and probably made several Converts in that City, which had been remarkable for the Worship of Venus, the tutelar Goddess of the Island, who had a famous Temple dedicated to her here, wherein she was serv'd with the most wanton and immodest Rites and Solemnities. From this City Paul remov'd with all his Company, and leaving Cyprus, sail'd to Perga in Pamphilia, a Country in the lesser Asia, North-West from Cyprus; in which City was a remarkable Temple dedicated to Diana. Here John-Mark being weary of his itinerant Course of Life, and the Hazards and Dangers attending it, took his Leave of the Apostles, and return'd to Jerusalem; which laid the Foundation of an unhappy Difference that broke out between Paul and Barnabas afterwards. Here it is most probable Paul first took Titus to be his Assistant instead of Mark, a young Grecian Convert of the Isle of Crete.

14-41.

The two Apostles stay'd not long at Perga, nor in the adjoining Towns, A.D. 46. but travell'd 70 or 80 Miles Northwards to a City call'd Antioch, the Metropolis of Pisidia, another Province of the Lesser Asia; from whence they knew it wou'd be most proper to disperse the Knowledge of the Gospel into the neighbouring Regions. In this City, on the first Sabbath Day, they enter'd the Synagogue among the other Jews, where they were courteously invited by the Rulers of the Synagogue to make a Descant upon the Lessons out of the Law and the Prophets, just before read to the Assembly according to the Custom. Whereupon Paul took that Opportunity to preach Jesus Christ, and solemnly requiring the Jews Attention, he first declar'd the many signal Mercies and Favours that God in former Ages had shewn to those of their Nation, particularly, by a miraculous Deliverance of them from the Ægyptian Slavery; by patiently bearing with their forty Years Murmurings in the Wilderness; by expelling seven Nations out of the Land of Canaan, that They might enjoy so rich and pleasant a Country; by giving them a Succession of Judges and Deliverers, for four hundred and fifty Years; and by giving them Kings, especially David, a Person according to his own Heart and Mind, to whom he gave the Promise that the Messiah should be of his Posterity, which Promise he had lately fulfill'd in the Person of Jesus. For tho' that great Person, who was indeed the Saviour of the World, had met with cruel and barbarous Usage from their Brethren the Jews at Jerusalem, being crucify'd and slain by them; yet this was no more than what the former Prophets had foretold shou'd happen to the Messiah. And moreover, there were so many convincing Evidences to prove that Truth, that it cou'd not reasonably be question'd; for not only John Baptist, who was sent before to make Way for his Coming, and to qualifie Men for the Reception of him by the Baptism of Repentance, did openly and plainly declare Jesus to be the Messiah, which he had learnt by immediate Revelation; but also God himself gave a Demonstration of it, in raising him from the Dead, according to the Prophecies deliver'd concerning him, and in shewing him after his Resurrection to Multitudes of Witnesses then alive. All which was exactly agreeable to the Psalmist's Words, where God had declar'd him 'his Son, and that he shou'd not see Corruption; which was never accomplish'd in the Person of David. Wherefore since the Forgiveness of Sins, and Justification, which was not attainable by the Law of Moses, was now tender'd to them by believing in Jesus, they ought to beware how they contemn'd such free Mercy and Grace, lest they brought upon themselves that propheticall Curse, which God had threaten'd to the Jews of old for their great Neglect and Contumacy.

42-52.

This Discourse met with a double Effect; the Gentiles who were unacquainted with such kinds of Doctrine, desir'd better Information in the Truth of it the following Sabbath; and the Jews, who waited for Redemption in Israel, with the Profelytes of the Gate, believ'd and attended on Paul and Barnabas for farther Instruction; who earnestly exhorted them to persevere in the Faith notwithstanding the greatest Discouragements. The next Sabbath almost the whole City flock'd to the Synagogue to be their Auditors, which when the Jews saw, acted by a Spirit of Envy and Contempt, they proceeded to blaspheme, and to contradict the Apostles. Whereupon they, with no little Courage and Boldness, declar'd, That tho' they were commission'd to preach to the Jews first, yet since they had shewn themselves such obstinate Infidels, and render'd themselves unworthy of eternal Life, they were order'd to preach to the Gentiles, which they now resolv'd to do; that so Christ might prove a Light to the Gentiles, and his Salvation extend to the utmost Limits of the World. This extensive Promise was highly pleasing to the Gentiles, who magnify'd the Word of God, and as many of them as were prepar'd and dispos'd for eternal Life, heartily clos'd with it and embrac'd it. The Apostles not only preach'd in the City but also in the neighbouring Country with great Success, which still farther exasperated the Jews, who to carry on their Revenge, engag'd some of the devout and honourable Women, with some of the principal Men of the City, who being led by a blind Zeal, persecuted them, and forc'd them from the Place. Whereat Paul and Barnabas, shaking off the Dust of their Feet, as a Testimony against their Ingratitude and Infidelity, departed from thence; leaving many Converts behind them, who were fill'd with a spiritual Joy and the Gifts of the Holy Ghost.

Being disturb'd,
they remove to Iconium;

The two Apostles took their Journey Eastward, above a hundred Miles, <sup>Acts 14, 1-20.</sup> to Iconium, the Metropolis of Lycaonia, another Province of the lesser Asia, where they again enter'd the Jewish Synagogues, notwithstanding the ill Treatment they had receiv'd from the Jews in all Places. According to their usual Course they began their Preaching there, which was attended with such Success, that great Numbers both of Jews and Gentiles were converted to the Faith; and this encourag'd them to continue a long Time in that City, instructing and teaching the Believers more fully, and confirming their Doctrine by Signs and Miracles. But tho' they had gain'd a considerable Part of the City, yet there remain'd many unbelieving Jews, who according to their usual Malice, excited the Gentiles against them, and by Calumnies render'd them ill affected to the Christians; and being arm'd by the City Magistrate's Authority, they resolv'd to have the Apostles apprehended and stoned. But they two having warning of their Designs, timely withdrew themselves, and fled to the next Cities of the same Province, Lystra and Derbe; and there continuing, preach'd the Gospel to the Inhabitants of those Cities, and to the People of the adjoining Parts. At Lystra they saw an impotent Cripple, lame from his Birth, who had never walk'd; and Paul, perceiving by his attentive Behaviour at his Preaching that he had Faith to be sav'd, thought fit to add the Cure of his Body to that of his Soul; and that the Miracle might be more conspicuous, he spake out aloud in the midst of the Assembly, Stand upright on thy Feet! and immediately the Cure was effected, and he both walk'd and leap'd. This Miracle amaz'd all the Lystrians, who being sensible of a divine Power in the Work, cry'd out in the Lycaonian Tongue, That the Gods were come down to them in human Shape! taking Barnabas for Jupiter, and Paul for Mercury; the first for his venerable Gravity, and the other for his powerful Elocution. And according to the idolatrous Worship in those Times, they proceeded to offer Sacrifice to them; and the Priest of Jupiter brought Oxen and Garlands for that purpose. But as soon as the Apostles perceiv'd it, in Abhorrence of this superstitious Attempt, they rent their Clothes, and running in among the People, declar'd, That they were mistaken in the Object of their Worship; for that notwithstanding their Miracles, they were no more than Men, and of like Passions with themselves; and that the chief End of their Preaching was to turn them from the idolatrous Worship of Creatures to that of the living God, who had created Heaven and Earth and the Sea, and all Things contain'd in them; whom they had long defrauded of his due Honour, tho' he gave them convincing Arguments of his Being and Providence, doing them good, giving them Rain and fruitful Seasons, and so filling them with Food and Gladness. The Apostles having with much Difficulty restrain'd their Superstition and Sacrifices, the Peoples Minds in a short Time turn'd to the other Extream; and by the Instigations of some Jews who had seen the Apostles at Antioch and Iconium, they took Paul and ston'd him, and then drew him out of the City, supposing him dead. Thus Paul met with the same Punishment he had brought upon St. Stephen, tho' not so fatally; for as the

the Disciples were attending upon his Corps, he suddenly reviv'd, and returning first into the City, departed the next Day with Barnabas to Derbe. Acts 14. 21--27. The two Apostles having preach'd and converted many at Derbe, proceeded no farther in their Progress, but return'd back again to Lystra, Iconium, and Antioch in Pisidia, confirming the new Converts in those Places in the Belief and Profession of Christianity, earnestly persuading them to persevere, and to remember, That they were to meet with many Difficulties and Afflictions in the Way to the Kingdom of Heaven. And that all Things might succeed, and the Gospel flourish, with Fasting and Prayer, they ordain'd Presbyters and Pastors in every Church, and having recommended them to the special Protection of God, took their Leaves of them. From hence they pass'd through Pisidia, and thence came to Pamphilia; and having preach'd to the People at Perga, they travell'd down to Attalia, a Port and the Metropolis of the Province. And thus having at this Time finish'd the whole Circuit of their Ministry, they return'd by Shipping to Antioch in Syria, from whence they had set out about three Years before, when they were by the divine Command separated for this particular Service of converting the Gentiles. And being return'd thither, and having assembled the Church in that City together, they declar'd what God had wrought by their Hands, how he had co-operated in their Ministry, and how he had open'd a large Door of Faith to the Gentiles, so that great Multitudes of them were come in, and believ'd in Jesus Christ. Tacit. Dion. IV. In the same Year that Paul and Barnabas finish'd their Circuit, and return'd to Antioch, which was the 7th of Claudius, and just 800 Years after the Building of the City of Rome, the Emperor order'd the Celebration of the famous secular Games, as it were solemnizing the Birth-Day of the City: Which Games were the most solemn and magnificent of all others among the Romans, and were not regularly exhibited but once in a hundred Years, tho' there were but sixty four Years after the last under Augustus. To these, as at former times, all Persons were solemnly invited by an Herald, to be Spectators of such Shews as they never saw before, nor ever shou'd again, being attended with all imaginable Pomp and Splendor, with all Kinds of martial and cruel Exercises, and no less Variety of religious Rites and Pagan Superstitions; a sufficient Instance of the Prevalency of Idolatry in these Times. About the same Time, the Empress Messalina, who before by her impious Practices had caus'd infinite Mischiefs in the State, now began to appear more publick in her Lewdness, and triumphant in her adulterous Designs. After she had sacrific'd many of her Gallants, who were too deficiently serviceable to her unbounded Desires, she fell passionately in Love with C. Cilius, the most beautiful Youth in Rome, whom she oblig'd, tho' unwillingly, to divorce his Lady, that she might be free from all Rivals. And in the following Year they proceeded to a notorious Expedient, impudent beyond all Example, and almost all Belief; which was openly and publicly to marry each other almost in the Emperor's Presence, relying upon his stupid Blindness, and the transcendent Power she had over him. But Claudius shortly after being inform'd, or rather rous'd by his Favourites Narcissus and Pallas, assum'd so much Resolution, as to cause the Deaths of all her Confederates, and also of her self: But after such a careless and insensible Manner, that he rather seem'd to be a Stock than a Man, much less a Prince and an Emperor. The grand secular Games celebrated at Rome. A.D. 48. Claud. 8. The Death of Messalina.

In the same Year Claudius, or his Friends, made a Removal in the Government of Palestine, recalling Tiberius Alexander, after two Years Continuance, and sending Ventidius Cumanus in his Room, who was the ninth Roman Governor after the Banishment of Archelaus. Herod King of Chalcis, according to the Power given him, also made a Change in the High-Priesthood, removing Josephus Canus, and constituting Ananias the Son of Nebedæus, who was the 12th High-Priest after the Birth of our Saviour. Shortly after Herod dy'd; and tho' he left three Sons behind him, the Emperor out of his great Love to young Agrippa, gave his Dominions to him. About the same Time, the Feast of the Passover drawing near, Cumanus, according to the Example of former Governors, appointed Soldiers to guard the Porticos of the Temple, to prevent Tumults and Disorders, at the Time of such a Conflux of People. On the fourth Day of the Feast, one of the Roman Soldiers by his horrid obscene Behaviour and Discourse, highly provok'd all the Spectators, many of whom being rash young Men, and prone to Sedition, began with reviling Terms, and then proceeded to Stones; while others tumultuously repaired to Cumanus, requiring Justice against the Soldier. The Governor suspecting the Numbers and Fury of the Jews, immediately sent a considerable Force to seize all the Gates of the Temple; which caus'd all the People to fly, which they did with such Precipitation and Confusion, that great Numbers were trodden to Death, and above twenty thousand slain in the Sedition: So that the Festival was in all Places turn'd into Lamentations and Mournings. This Calamity was shortly after succeeded by another; for near Bethoron, about twelve Miles from Jerusalem, one Stephanus, Servant to the Emperor, being robb'd of several rich Goods, Cumanus sent Forces to pillage the neighbouring Villages, and bring the Inhabitants bound, for not pursuing and apprehending the Robbers. In one of the Villages, a certain Soldier finding a Book of the Holy Scriptures, cut it in pieces, and burnt it; which so enrag'd the whole Body of the Jews, that in vast Throngs and Multitudes they repair'd to Cumanus then at Cæsarea, requiring that the Soldier who had so highly affronted God and their Law, might not escape Punishment. Cumanus, perceiving that the Jews wou'd not be appeas'd without some Satisfaction, by the Advice of his Friends, commanded the Soldier to be beheaded in their Presence; which ended the Disturbance.

In this Year, it is most generally suppos'd that the Mother of our Lord, the ever-blessed Virgin, dy'd; tho' some think it was three Years before. But in this there is very little Certainty, no more than there is about the Place, or the Manner of her Death. As to the Place, some believe it Jerusalem, as it seems most probable, and others Asia Minor with St. John; as to the Manner, some think she dy'd a natural Death, and others that she suffer'd Martyrdom, grounding it upon Luke 2. 35. where it is said, A Sword shou'd pierce through her Soul. But those of the Romish Church have a particular and formal Account, That the Apostles were miraculously transported from divers Parts of the World to Jerusalem to be present at her Death, which was altogether without Pain; and that on the third Day after her Burial, she arose from the Dead, and ascended into Heaven in the Presence of the Apostles, Dionysius the Areopagite, Timotheus, and Hierotheus: In Memory of which they keep the 15th Day of August with great Pomp and Solemnity; but we cannot find any kind of Foundation in Antiquity for this or any Story like it. There are some Letters that are attributed to the blessed Virgin, as there is one to our Lord himself; but they are generally look'd upon as spurious, especially those of the Virgin's.

V. The two Apostles Paul and Barnabas, after their three Years Circuit, continu'd at Antioch and the neighbouring Places about a Year longer; during which Space Christianity daily encreas'd, and the Church of God flourish'd exceedingly. But at length it began to be greatly disturb'd, by means of certain Jewish Converts from Judea, who being unfound in the Faith, and led by their former Zeal and Prejudices, taught the Gentile Converts, That unless they observ'd Circumcision and the Mosaick Institutions, they cou'd never be sav'd. The Broaching of this Doctrine caus'd great Uneasiness and Disputes among the Brethren; and Epiphanius tells us, that the noted Heretick Cerinthus was the Ringleader of the Faction. Paul and Barnabas us'd all Methods to put a Stop to this growing Evil, which they found so prevailing by Reason of the strong Impressions the Jews had receiv'd in their Education, and their profound Veneration for their Law-giver Moses; and after many Conferences and Disputations, it was judg'd most requisite for them two, with some others, to go up to Jerusalem, there to consult the Apostles and Presbyters concerning this important Affair; which was not done without some Revelation from Heaven, as appears from Gal. 2. 2. And taking Titus, and some select Persons with them, in the Beginning of the following Year, being conducted part of their Way by the chief of the Church, they pass'd through Phœnicia and Samarina: In both which Provinces they were careful to relate what great Things the Lord had wrought by their Hands, in the Conversion of the Gentiles, to the great Joy and Comfort of all the Brethren in those Parts.

Paul arriving at Jerusalem, among the Apostles of the Circumcision, refus'd to circumcise Titus, because of several false Brethren, who watch'd all Opportunities to scandalize the Liberty of the Gospel; and he was unwilling to give Way to such by any Condescension, lest he shou'd have injur'd the Faith. For tho' he afterwards allow'd of the Circumcision of Timothy, and us'd some of the Mosaick Ceremonies himself, for avoiding any Offence to the weak, and to win others, yet he wou'd not comply in the least Degree with those treacherous Designers, who endeavour'd to find Matter to disgrace the Gospel. Paul and Barnabas first address'd themselves to the Apostles James, Peter and John, the Pillars and principal Persons in that Place; by whom they were kindly entertain'd and admitted to the Right Hand of Fellowship, as St. Paul himself expresses it. And perceiving by the Account that Paul gave them, that the Gospel of the Uncircumcision was committed to him, as that of the Circumcision was to Peter, they ratify'd it by Compact and Agreement, that Peter shou'd preach to the Jews, and Paul to the Gentiles, not forgetting the Poor of either. And whereas the Necessity of Circumcision and the Mosaick Law was also zealously asserted in Jerusalem as well as Antioch by many of the believing Pharisees, the Apostles thought fit to appoint a particular and solemn Assembly of themselves and Presbyters to determine this Matter. And this is the first, and also the purest Council in the Christian Church.

6-21.

When the Council was assembled, after many Debates and various Arguments, Peter at length stood up, and acquainted all the rest, That God having made Choice of him among all the Apostles, to be the first that shou'd preach the Gospel to the Gentiles, the same God, who was best able to judge of the Hearts of Men, had born Witness to them of his merciful Acceptance, by bestowing his Holy Spirit upon them as well as the Jews; having put no Difference between the one and the other, but equally purifying their Hearts by Faith. That therefore it was a tempting and a provoking of God, to lay a Yoke upon the Necks of the Disciples, which neither they themselves, nor their Fathers were able to bear: There being sufficient Ground to believe, that the Jews were to expect Salvation by the Grace of Jesus Christ, as well as the Gentiles. Peter having ended his Speech, after some Silence Paul and Barnabas gave an Account to the Assembly what Wonders and Miracles God had enabled them to work, in the converting of the Gentiles; a plain Evidence, that tho' uncircumcis'd, they were now accepted by God as well as the Jews with all their legal Rites and Privileges. After they had finish'd their Narration, James the Bishop of the Place stood up, and desiring the Attention of the rest, declar'd, That Peter had demonstrated, That it was God's Pleasure to visit the Gentiles, and out of them to take a People to bear his Name: All which was agreeable to what the Prophet Amos had foretold; namely, 'That God wou'd return and rebuild the House of David, which was fallen down, and repair all the Ruins and Breaches thereof; that the rest of Mankind, and all the Gentiles that were call'd in his Name, might seek after the Lord. And this had been declar'd by God, who knew all things from the Beginning of the World. After this he proceeded to determine the whole Matter, and to give Sentence, That the Jewish Rites ought not to be impos'd upon the believing Gentiles. But that the zealous Jews might have no Offence, and the Gentiles no Burthen neither, he propounded that the latter shou'd be requir'd the Observance of these four Things: First, to abstain from Meats offer'd to Idols, because it might seem a Participation in the Idolatry: Secondly, from Fornication, which the Gentiles accounted little or no Crime: Thirdly, from Things strangled, which were exceeding odious to the Jews: And fourthly, from Blood, which was suppos'd to have been forbidden to affright Men from Cruelty and Bloodshed. That these Things ought to be forborn, because of the Jews, who cou'd not but have an Abhorrence for them, since they heard the Writings of Moses, that prohibited them, read in their Synagogues every Sabbath Day.

The Decree of the Council.

The Determination of James, which was deliver'd with some Authority, was readily allow'd by the Council; and by the Consent of the whole Church, it was resolv'd, That Judas, and Silas or Silvanus, two eminent Men of their own Number, shou'd go over with Paul and Barnabas to Antioch, that by the Testimony of their own Commissioners, and the Letters and Decrees of the Council, the false Teachers might be silenc'd, and the believing Gentiles confirm'd in the Truth. By these four they wrote Letters to the believing Gentiles in many Parts, after this Manner. 'The Apostles, and Presbyters, and Brethren of Jerusalem, wish Happiness to the Brethren that are of the Gentiles in Antioch, in Syria, and Cilicia. Forasmuch as we are inform'd, that certain Persons who went from this Place, have disturb'd you with their Discourses, ensnaring your Souls, by declaring, That you are oblig'd to be circumcis'd, and to keep the Law; to whom we gave no such Instructions: It seem'd good therefore to us to send some select Persons to you, with our dear Brothers Barnabas and Paul, Men who have hazarded their Lives for the Name of our Lord Jesus Christ. Upon which Account we have sent Judas and Silas, who will tell you our Minds by Word of Mouth. For it seem'd good to the Holy Ghost, as well as to us, to lay upon you no greater Burthen than these at present necessary Things. THAT YE ABSTAIN FROM MEATS OFFER'D TO IDOLS, AND FROM BLOOD, AND FROM THINGS STRANGLED, AND FROM FORNICATION: Which you will do well, if you observe. Farewel. And thus concluded the Council of Jerusalem in the Year 49, and 9th of Claudius, about five Years after the Death of James the Son of Zebedee, and 14 after the Conversion of Paul, as appears from Gal. 2. 1. tho' some Chronologers by Mistake add the three Years mention'd Chap. 1. 18. which wou'd make the whole 17 Years.

I. THE Apostles Paul and Barnabas being dismiss'd by the Council A.D. 49. of Jerusalem, and taking Judas and Silas with them, carry'd Claud. 9. the decretal Epistle to Antioch, and presented it to the whole Body of the Church, which was receiv'd by all with great Joy and Satisfaction. Paul and Barnabas return to Antioch. Here Judas and Silas, being Men of eminent Gifts in teaching and interpreting the Scriptures, also employ'd themselves in confirming and establishing the Believers in the Truth of Christianity. After a short Continuance in the City, these two were with all Kindness and Civility dismiss'd by the Church, in order to return to Jerusalem; but Silas, for some Reasons, was not willing to depart so soon, but chose to tarry with Paul and Barnabas, who continu'd in this great City teaching and propagating the Christian Faith, with many others. Not long after Peter also came to Antioch, who having been a principal Person in deciding the Controversies in the late Council, consonant to the Gospel Liberty there confirm'd, convers'd freely for a Time with the Gentile Converts, eating with them, and living like them, and not as did the Jews, who still observ'd the Distinction of Meats prescrib'd by the Law. But in the Beginning of the following Year, when A.D. 50. certain Jewish Christians came to this City from James at Jerusalem, who Claud. 10. were tenacious of the Ceremonial Law, Peter out of Fear of Offence, began to separate himself from the Gentile Converts, refusing to eat with them, as if God had never taught him to call no Man common or unclean; which Practice of his confirm'd the Jews in their darling Opinions, and fill'd the Gentiles with new Doubts and Scruples: So that what was lately establish'd was in danger of being destroy'd; for many of the Jews, and even Barnabas, was carry'd away with the Stream of his Diffimulation, and follow'd his Example. But Paul perceiving this, and knowing that Peter did not walk uprightly, according to the Truth of the Gospel, bravely withstood him to the Face, and reprov'd him before the whole Church; declaring, That his Hypocrisie did great Injury to the Gentiles, by inducing them to live in Jewish Observations, when he himself, tho' a Jew, thought himself at Liberty to live as the Gentiles did: That he desir'd to be justify'd by Faith, and not by the Works of the Law, and yet impos'd that Yoke upon others; which was an Offence against Christ, and a rebuilding of that which had been once destroy'd. Paul rebukes Peter. Peter bore this sharp and impartial Reproof with Patience and Humility, and no doubt amended his Carriage upon it. Porphyry, one of the great Enemies of the Christians, took an Occasion from this Management to accuse St. Peter of Falshood, and St. Paul of Insolence: But St. Austin answers, That the Liberty of the latter, and the Humility of the former were both highly commendable; and that as one teaches us not to fear the reproving boldly any that hinder the Gospel, so the other teaches them to accept such Advice with Humility. This is the last Time that we read of St. Peter in the Holy Scriptures.

About

Paul and Barnabas part asunder.

About the same Time Paul, who desir'd not only to plant Churches but also to water them, propounded to Barnabas to go and visit the Cities they had converted, and confirm and establish them in the Truth they had receiv'd. Barnabas freely consented to such a pious Proposal, but was very earnest to take along with them his Kinsman John-Mark. But Paul oppos'd his Desire, because he had formerly found him defective in the Ministry; having either through Fear or an unsound Faith, deserted them at Perga in Pamphilia. Barnabas, whose natural Love to his Sister's Son caus'd him to oversee former Faults, and to hope for a better Management, was angry at this Refusal; and being both resolute in their Opinions, it not only occasion'd a sharp Contention between them, but also an intire Separation from each other. Thus were these two excellent Men by a small Punctilio parted, after a joint Labour of several Years Ministry: The Holy Spirit intending by this Account to shew us that the best Christians are still subject to the same Passions and Infirmities with other Men; and that therefore none ought to be too much elevated with an Opinion of their own Piety, or to despise others whom they imagine to be their Inferiors. God however turn'd all to the best; for tho' they differ'd about John-Mark, yet neither forsook his Office or Ministry, and tho' they were separated as to their Persons, yet not as to their Faith and Doctrine; and being thus parted, the Gospel was preach'd by them in more Places. Barnabas with his Kinsman sail'd to his native Country Cyprus, where he preach'd to the Jews, who were very numerous in that Island: From whence he is said to have gone and preach'd at Rome, and after in that Liguria, where he founded the Bishoprick of Milan. Baronius is unwilling to acknowledge the former, but seems very positive in the latter; yet we have but very little Certainty of either.

Paul circumcises
Timothy.

In the mean Time, Paul chose Silas for his Companion, and enter'd upon his Journey, being recommended by the Prayers of the Faithful to the Protection and Favour of God. He first visited the neighbouring Churches of Syria, then those of his own Country Cilicia, confirming them in the Faith with his Instructions and Exhortations. From hence he departed to Derbe and Lystra in Lycaonia, Cities he had converted three Years before, where he met with a young Man call'd Timothy, whose Father was a Grecian, but his Mother Eunice a Jewish Convert, by whom he had been brought up under all the Advantages of a pious and religious Education, and particularly in an extraordinary Skill in the Holy Scriptures: Which Accomplishments drew Paul's Affection to him; and knowing that so promising a Person wou'd be highly serviceable to him, he determin'd to take him for his Companion, and a special Instrument in the Ministry of the Gospel. Timothy was a Gentile born, and tho' Paul wou'd not permit Titus to be circumcis'd when perverse Men declar'd it necessary, yet here he thought it convenient for the Jews Sake to circumcise Timothy; being willing in lawful and indifferent Matters, such as Circumcision was at present, to accommodate himself to Mens Humours and Apprehensions for the saving of their Souls. In all the Places he pass'd through, he left the Christians a Copy of the Decrees made by the Apostles and Presbyters of Jerusalem, to confirm them in the right Use of their Christian Liberty; by which means the Churches were establish'd in the Faith, and daily increas'd in Number.

A.D. 51. From hence with his Companions Paul pass'd through Phrygia and Galatia, both Provinces of the Lesser Asia; in which latter Country he was entertain'd with as great Kindness and Veneration, as if he had been an Angel immediately sent from Heaven. And passing from thence into Mysia, they were forbidden by the Impulse of the Holy Spirit to go either into into Bithynia, or Asia Propria, the Country about Ephesus; therefore they went down to Troas, a Port upon the Ægean Sea. Here Paul had a Vision by Night from God, and saw a Man in a Macedonian Habit standing by him, and beseeching him to come over into their Country and assist them; a Vision and a Call different from all others he had found before. Hereupon he immediately resolv'd to pass from Asia into Europe, where he had never been before, concluding that God had call'd him to preach the Gospel in Macedonia, and the famous Country of Greece. And here it seems Paul was join'd by Luke, a Christian Convert of Antioch, admirably accomplish'd in all Parts of Learning and human Sciences, particularly Physick, if not Painting, who from this Time became Paul's inseparable Companion and Attendant, and afterwards one of the four Evangelists. Paul being thus accompany'd with Silas, Luke, and Timothy, sail'd North-Westward from Troas, and touching upon Samothrace, an Isle not far from Thrace; the next Day they landed at Neapolis, a Port in Macedonia; from whence they travell'd a few Miles to Philippi, a City famous for the Defeat of Brutus and Cassius, the Metropolis of that Part of Macedonia, and a Roman Colony. In this City they tarry'd a considerable Space, and Paul, according to his Custom, preach'd in a Proseucha, or Oratory of the Jews, which stood by a River Side at some Distance from the City, and was much frequented by the devouter Women of their Religion, who met there to pray, and to hear the Law. To these Paul deliver'd the Word of God, and by the Influence of God's Spirit converted, among others, a certain Woman nam'd Lydia, a Purple Seller, born at Thyatira; who being baptiz'd with all her Family, was so importunate with Paul and his Companions to lodge at their House, if they judg'd her sincere in her Conversion, that they cou'd not deny her Civility.

16-40.

So long as they remain'd in the City they continu'd their daily Course of worshiping God in the same Oratory, whither they were often follow'd by a Pythonefs, a Maid Servant, actuated by a Spirit of Divination, who openly cry'd out, That these Men were the Servants of the most High God, who came to shew the Way of Salvation to the World; so easily can Heaven extort a Confession from the Mouth of Hell. But Paul detesting the Testimony of Satan, commanded the Demon in the Name of Jesus Christ to come out of her. The evil Spirit obey'd, but immediately rais'd a Storm against the Apostles; for the Masters of this Maid, who formerly receiv'd great Advantages from her infernal Arts, finding the Loss of their Gain, in a great Rage drag'd Paul and Silas into the Forum before the Magistrates and Governor of the Colony, declaring, That these Men, who were Jews, had introduc'd many Innovations prejudicial to the State, and a Religion unlawful for the Romans to observe. The Magistrates being jealous of all Disturbances, were very ready to punish such as were accus'd by a Multitude, and therefore commanded their Clothes to be torn off, and them to be severely scourg'd as seditious Persons; after that they committed them to close Prison, giving a strict Charge to the Jaylor to keep them safely; who thereupon unmercifully thrust them into the Inner Dungeon, and made their Feet fast in the Stocks. These Sufferings were so far from abating their spiritual Joy, that at Midnight, they both pray'd and sung Psalms to the Almighty, so that all the Prisoners heard them; and God soon manifested the Effect and Power of their zealous Devotion, by causing a great Earthquake, which shook the Foundations of the Prison, open'd all the Doors, and miraculously loos'd every Man's Chains. The Jaylor awaking with this amazing Accident, concluded that the Prisoners were all fled; and to prevent the Sentence of publick Justice, was ready to execute himself by his own Sword; which Paul perceiving, cry'd out to him to hold his Hand, For that they were all there. The Jaylor being touch'd with the divine Power, came trembling in with a Light, and with no less Commotion in his Conscience demanded, What he must do to be saved? They without resenting the Severity he had us'd towards them, readily reply'd, That if he believ'd in Jesus Christ, he might be sav'd, and all his Family. The Jaylor, after a competent Instruction, receiv'd the Faith, and was baptiz'd with all his Houle; and as a Testimony of his Sorrow for his former Usage, he wash'd their Wounds, and joyfully entertain'd them in his Houle with the utmost Kindness and Civility. Early in the Morning the Magistrates sent Officers privately to release them, and the Jaylor deliver'd the Message, bidding them Depart in Peace; but the Apostles refus'd, declaring, That they were not only innocent Persons, but also Romans; that since they had been illegally scourg'd, they expected a Delivery as publick as the Injury, and an open Vindication of their Innocency, and that they themselves who had sent them thither, should fetch them thence. The Magistrates were extreamly affrighted at this, and being sensible of their Error, and the Strictness of the Roman Laws, repair'd to the Prison, and with all Submission desir'd them to leave the City. These holy Men, satisfy'd with this small Recompence, went to the House of Lydia; and having comforted the Brethren with the Proof of their Deliverance, they left the City, having there laid the Foundation of a very eminent Church, as appears from Paul's Epistle to the Christians of this City Philippi.

He goes to Thessalonica;

Paul and his Companions having left Philippi, they travell'd Westward through Amphipolis and Apollonia, and went to Thessalonica, the Metropolis of all Macedonia, about 120 Miles from Philippi. Here being a Synagogue of the Jews, Paul, according to his Custom, went in, and first preach'd the Gospel to them, and for three Sabbath Days successively plainly shew'd them, That according to the Scriptures the Messiah promis'd to the Jews ought to suffer and rise again, and that Jesus was the very Person. Some of the Jews were persuaded to believe and embrace the Faith, and associated themselves with Paul and Silas, as likewise did great Numbers of Grecians who were Profelytes of the Gate, and many Women of the better Rank and Quality. Here Paul instructed them, not only concerning Faith in Christ, but also concerning the future Apostacy of Anti-Christ and his Revelation; and here also he receiv'd Relief from the believing Philippians, being as little Burthenfom as possible to those of this City. But after some Time, several of the unbelieving Jews in this Place, according to their usual Perverseness, join'd with certain mean and lewd Persons, and assaulted the House of Jason, a considerable Man, where they lodg'd, intending to drag them out to the People, and possibly to stone them. But missing of them, they hal'd Jason and other Believers, after a tumultuous Manner to the Magistrates, crying out, That Jason had harbour'd those that wou'd overturn the World, and had set up one Jesus for King, in Opposition to Cæsar the Emperor. These Suggestions were sufficient to oblige the Magistrates to take Security from Jason; but the Brethren privately sent away the Apostles by Night to Berea, a City about 50 Miles South of Thessalonica. Here going into the Synagogue, they found the Jews of a more noble and unbiass'd Temper, ready to entertain the Christian Doctrine, but yet not willing to take it meerly upon the Apostle's Word, till they had first compar'd his Preaching with what the Scriptures said of the Messiah and his Doctrine. The Success was answerable, and great Numbers both of Men and of Women of the superior Rank were converted. But in a short Time they were pursu'd by the Malice of the Jews of Thessalonica, who coming to Berea rais'd great Disturbances; which which occasion'd the Believers to send Paul towards the Sea Side, as if they design'd to put him on Shipboard, and then to conduct him another Way, near 240 Miles Southwards, as far as the great City Athens. But Silas and Timothy, not being so much known or hated as Paul, continu'd some Time longer, to confirm the new Believers.

Athens was once the Metropolis of all Greece, and one of the most renowned Cities in the World for Arts and Arms; and tho' now much declining, yet was still the principal Academy in the Roman Empire for all kinds of polite Learning. The Inhabitants of it were very religious and superstitious, and so careful that no Deity shou'd want due Honour from them, that they had an Altar inscrib'd TO THE UNKNOWN GOD; which many believe was the Name which the Pagans generally gave to the God of the Jews. While Paul remain'd at Athens, expecting Silas and Timothy, by taking a particular View of the Place, he cou'd not but take Notice of the exceeding Progress of Idolatry, for Petronius says, 'It was easier to find Gods than Men at Athens; and he was deeply concern'd to see so much Zeal and Devotion misplac'd, and earnestly desir'd it might be fix'd upon a proper Object. Wherefore he us'd his utmost Endeavours for the Athenians Conversion, and not only on the Sabbath Days disputed with the Jews and Proselytes in the Synagogues, but took all Opportunities, where ever he met with a convenient Auditory, to instruct them in the Coming of the Messiah, and the Resurrection; which he often found in the main Forum, whither the Athenians and Foreigners daily repair'd to hear and tell News, which was the great Business of their Lives. His Doctrine was new and strange to the Athenians; and tho' they did not persecute him as the Jews did, yet he was entertain'd with Scoffs and Contempt by the Philosophers of the Stoick and Epicurean Sects, and by others of a more serious Temper, as a Discoverer of new Gods hitherto unknown; which tho' they were not unwilling to receive, yet because the Areopagus, the supream Court of the City, was to canonize all Gods that were to be allow'd publick Worship, they brought him before those Judges to give an Account of his Doctrine. Being brought before this grave Assembly, Paul with an Air of Majesty and Courtesie, declar'd to the whole Audiencce, That he cou'd not but observe how unhappily they were over-run with Superstition, finding an Altar among them inscrib'd to the unknown God; therefore in Compassion to their misguided Zeal, he wou'd declare to them the Deity which they ignorantly worship'd; which was no other than the great God, the Creator of all Things, the Supream Governor of the World, who was incapable of being confin'd within any Temple or human Fabrick. That no Image cou'd be made to represent him, who neither needed Gifts nor Sacrifices, being himself the Fountain from whence Life, Breath, and all other Blessings spring: That from one common Original he produc'd the whole Race of Mankind, wisely fixing and determining the Times and Bounds of their Habitation; and all this, that Men might be more strongly oblig'd to seek after him, and sincerely serve him; a Thing the more easily attainable, because he was so very near every one. That it was entirely from him that they had either Life, Motion, or Existence; which was acknowledg'd by one of their own Poets. Aratus by Name, in that Sentence of his, WE ALSO ARE HIS OFFSPRING. That therefore if they were the Offspring of God, it was highly irrational to suppose that their Creator could be the Work of their Hands, as an Image of Gold, Silver, or Stone was. That the divine Patience had long born with Mens blind Idolatries, but that now God expected a general Repentance and Reformation from the World; especially having by the Publication of the Gospel evidenc'd a future Judgment, and particularly appointed the Holy Jesus to be the Judge of the World, and having given sufficient Assurance of the Truth of it by his Resurrection from the dead. These last Words concerning the Resurrection were derided by some of the Philosophers; but others more gravely answer'd, That they wou'd hear him again upon the same Subject. His solemn Discourse, however contemn'd by some, had a happy Effect upon several, and those of the highest Rank amongst them; particularly Dionysius, one of the Senators and Judges of this Court, and Damaris, whom some think to be his Wife. It is generally believ'd that Dionysius was afterwards by St. Paul constituted the first Bishop of Athens.

The Jews banish'd by Claudius.

About the Time of Paul's Arrival at Athens, the Emperor Claudius by his own Edict banish'd all the Jews from Rome, by reason of their being continually in an Uproar and Tumult upon the Account of Jesus Christ, whom Suetonius calls Chrestus: And many are of Opinion, that under the Name of the Jews the Christians were also expell'd, among whom St. Peter has been improbably suppos'd to be one. Before Paul's Departure from this City, Timothy according to Order came to him from Macedonia, and brought him an Account, That the new Christians at Thessalonica were under Persecution from their Fellow-Citizens ever since he left them. Which was so great a Concern to Paul, that he design'd to return to them again, and by his own Presence to confirm them in the Faith, that none of them might be deterr'd or discourag'd by Persecutions, which he had formerly told them shou'd be the constant Attendants of their Profession. But being hinder'd by the Malice of the Enemies of the Gospel, he sent Timothy to them to supply his Office, and to establish them and comfort them in their Afflictions; and departed himself 50 or 60 Miles South-Westward to Corinth, a City situated upon the narrow Isthmus of Peloponnesus, then the Metropolis of all Greece, and the Residence of the Proconsul of Achaia. Being arriv'd at this rich and populous City, he met with Aquila and his Wife Priscilla, lately banish'd from Rome by the Decree against the Jews; and they being of the same Trade of Tent-making with himself, he join'd and wrought together with them, that he might not be burthensom to that Place where no Church was yet establish'd. On the Sabbath Days he taught in the Jewish Synagogue, and by his convincing Arguments brought many Jews and Grecians to the Faith: Stephanus and his Family were the First-Fruits of his Conversion, and baptiz'd by him with Crispus and Gaius, to be Ministers in that Office to the rest that shou'd believe; for he himself was not sent to baptize, but to preach. While he was thus busy'd in this City in Preaching the Gospel, in which he sustain'd many Labours and Troubles, Timothy arriv'd from Thessalonica, bringing Silas along with him, and gave him an Account of the stedfast Firmness and Perseverance of that Church; which extreamly pleas'd the Apostle, and was as a comforting Cordial to him in his Afflictions. This caus'd him to take some fresh Resolutions of going to visit them in Person; but in the mean Time he thought it convenient to write to them, which he did shortly after; and this was the first of all his Epistles, and the third, if not the second, or first of the Books and Writings of the New Testament. Tho' our vulgar Postscripts assert, it was written from Athens, yet the manifest Circumstances of the History prove it to be from Corinth. ' It was written in the Name of Paul, and Silas or Silvanus, and Timothy, and manifests an extraordinary Tendernefs and Affection for the ' Christians of Thessalonica, highly applauding their Courage and Zeal ' for their Faith in Christ, and exhorting them to a noble Constancy and ' Perseverance amidst their Afflictions. After which he commended their ' Charity to the Believers of Macedonia, adding many Instructions concerning a good Life and Conversation, urging them to the strict Practice of Holiness; particularly to use Marriage chastly and piously, to avoid Laziness, and be diligent in their Callings; not to be immoderate in their Grief for the Dead, as tho' there was no Resurrection or Hope of another Life; with many other pious Instructions and Exhortations. In this Epistle he also caution'd them about the Coming of Anti-Christ.

Paul, who by the Obstinacy of the Jews, was almost discourag'd from preaching to them, yet finding himself replenish'd with a fresh Zeal for them at the coming of Silas and Timothy, thereupon boldly testified again to them, That Jesus was the Messiah: But they opposing his most serious Assertions, and blaspheming both Christ and him, he took his Leave of them, as incorrigible Infidels; and shaking his Garment to denote their utter Rejection from Grace and Mercy, he solemnly declar'd, That their Blood shou'd fall upon their own Heads, for he was clear and innocent; and that from thence forward he wou'd preach to the Gentiles. And accordingly he left his Lodgings with Aquila the Jew, and made his abode with one Justus, a Profelyte of the Gate, whose House join'd to the Synagogue, being desirous that the Jews might see his Success among the Gentiles, and through Emulation be provok'd to believe. Nor did his pious Design want some Effect; for Crispus himself, the chief Ruler of the Synagogue, believ'd in Jesus, as did likewise all his House, and were baptiz'd into the Christian Faith. But his Preaching had far greater Success among the Gentiles than among the Jews; for by the Assistance of Silas and Timothy, great Numbers of the Corinthians were converted to the Faith and baptiz'd; so that in no long time a very considerable Church was founded in this City, tho' extremely over-run with Impiety and Idolatry, having a Temple of Venus so large, that above a thousand young Women were its constant Votaries and Attendants. The more the Gospel prosper'd in Macedonia by Paul's Labours, the more his Enemies encreas'd; who consulting and practising all Methods to destroy him, he was often reduc'd to very great Straits and Wants of bodily Necessaries, as he himself assures us, and liv'd in continual Fear and Terrours of Mind. But lest these afflicting Circumstances shou'd deter him from the Work he had undertaken, Jesus Christ was pleas'd to appear to him in a Vision by Night to comfort him, bidding him Fear nothing, but speak with all Freedom, for he was with him to protect and defend him, so that no Man shou'd set on him to hurt him; for that he had a numerous People in that City. This Assurance caus'd him to tarry in the Place a full Year and six Months, preaching the Word of God among them and in the neighbouring Parts; in which Space, besides the Doctrine he taught, he establish'd several Ordinances among them concerning Church Order and Matters of Decency; as that Women in their publick Prayers shou'd have their Heads cover'd with a Veil; that Men shou'd wear short Hair and Women long; with several others of the like Nature.

II. During the Travels and Labours of St. Paul, the rest of the Apostles were busily employ'd in preaching and propagating the Gospel in many other Parts of the World; but, what is to be lamented, we have but a very short and uncertain Account of their Actions. In this Year, the twelfth of Claudius, Baronius and some others place the Death of one of them, namely St. Philip, who after a happy Progress and making numerous Converts in the Upper Asia, part of Scythia and Colchis, suffer'd Martyrdom in Hierapolis, a noted City of Phrygia in the Lesser Asia. The Occasion and Particulars of his Death we have from no better Authorities than Metaphrastes and Nicephorus, who who tell us that the Inhabitants of Hierapolis, among their many trifling Deities, at this Time paid their Adorations to a Serpent or Dragon of prodigious Bulk; which highly mov'd the Pity and Indignation of this Apostle, who by his Prayers to Heaven procur'd the Death or Disappearance of the Serpent, and by his Preaching the Conversion of many of the City. This so exasperated the Magistrates, that throwing him into Prison, they caus'd him first to be severely scourg'd, and then to be hang'd by the Neck against a Pillar, tho' others say he was crucify'd; his Body being taken down and bury'd by the Apostle Bartholomew, who coming that Way escap'd with great Difficulty. If he dy'd this Year, it is most probable he dy'd the second of the Apostles, it being eight Years after the Death of St. James the Son of Zebedee: The Greeks and Eastern Churches keep his Feast on November the 14th, but Bede's and the other Martyrologies order its Celebration on May 1. with St. James the less. He was one of the Apostles who left no Writings behind him, the greater Part of them, as Eusebius observes, being so busily employ'd in their Functions, wanted Leisure to write: Tho' Epiphanius tells us, that the Gnosticks us'd to produce a Gospel forg'd under St. Philip's Name, which they abus'd to the Patronage of their horrible Principles and Practices.

Disturbances in Judæa.

About this Time, the Jews, who were continually pursued by the Venge-<sup>Joseph</sup>ance of Heaven, met with new Troubles and Disturbances, occasion'd by Dissentions between the Galileans and Samaritans, of whom the latter murder'd great Numbers of the former as they travell'd through their Country to the Passover. Whereupon the Magistrates of Galilee appeal'd to Cumanus the Governour, requiring Justice at his Hands; but he being brib'd by the Samaritans took little Notice of their Complaint. Which so exasperated the Galileans, that joining with the ordinary sort of the Jews, and being headed by a noted Robber call'd Eleazar, they made great Devastations in Samaria; but Cumanus with his standing Troops assisted the Samaritans, and made a dreadful Slaughter, killing and taking great Numbers of Prisoners. Quadratus Governour of Syria was likewise call'd in to their Assistance; who coming to Cæsarea, crucified all those whom Cumanus had made Prisoners; but coming to Lydda, and understanding that the Samaritans were the Aggressors, and that Cumanus was corrupted, he first commanded eighteen of the chief of the Samaritans to be beheaded, and then order'd Ananias the High-Priest, Cumanus the Governor, and Celer a Tribune to go immediately to Rome, and answer before the Emperour to all Accusations that shou'd be brought against them. Here they had a Day appointed them; Cumanus and the Samaritans had unquestionably prevail'd on the Weakness of Claudius, had not young Agrippa by the Assistance of the Empress Agrippina, oblig'd him to do Justice: which he did by the Execution of Celer and several of the Samaritans, and by the final Banishment of Cumanus. After which Claudius made some Alterations in A.D. 53. the Government of Palestine, and preferr'd Agrippa from Chalcis to a larger Claud. 13. Kingdom, making him King of all those Dominions formerly belonging to Philip the Tetrarch, adding also Abilene which belong'd to Lysanias. But in the Room of Cumanus he sent Felix, Brother to his Favourite Pallas, to be Governour of Judæa, Samaria and Galilee; a Person sufficiently noted for all Sorts of Vices and Corruptions. This Felix was the tenth Roman Governour of the Jews after the Banishment of Archelaus.

Paul brought before Gallio.

About the Time of these Changes, Gallio elder Brother to the famous Seneca, was sent to Corinth to be Proconsul of Achaia; a Person of celebrated Virtues and Probity. The Jews, who implacably hated Paul, thought this Governour a fit Judge of their Quarrel against him, and therefore having seiz'd upon him, in a tumultuous Manner they carry'd him him before Gallio's Tribunal, accusing him of introducing a new Way of Worship contrary to the Jewish Law and the Roman Government. The Apostle was ready to have pleaded his own Cause, but the Proconsul told them, That had it been a Matter of Right or Wrong, that had fallen under the Cognizance of the Civil Judicature, it would have been proper and reasonable for him to have heard and determin'd the Case; but since the Controversie was only concerning the Punctilio's and Niceties of their Religion, he would be no Judge in such Matters. But the Jews being still clamorous, he commanded his Officers to drive them out of the Court; and some of the Towns-Men seiz'd upon Sosthenes, the chief Ruler of the Synagogue, and the Head of Paul's Accusers, and publicly beat him before the Tribunal, the Proconsul not at all concerning himself with it. Thus did the Apostle's Enemies in vain attempt to injure him, God having warranted his Security, and promis'd, That no Man should be able to hurt him. Paul staid in Corinth a considerable Time after this Tumult was over, and before his Departure thence, he wrote his second Epistle to the Christians of Thessalonica, to supply the Want of his coming to them, which in his former he had resolv'd on, and for which he had in a manner engag'd his Promise. This was also written in the Name ' of Paul and Silas, or ' Silvanus, and Timothy; and because some took Occasion from what he ' had said of the Day of Judgment in his first Letter, or rather from an Epi- ' stle forg'd in his Name, to cause Men to believe that the Day of the ' Lord was at Hand, he warn'd them not to be seduc'd by those false ' Teachers, assuring them, That tho' the Mystery of Iniquity was then ' working, the Day of Judgment should not happen, till the Man of Sin ' was come and destroy'd. He also endeavour'd to confirm their Minds ' in the Faith, and to animate them courageously to endure Persecution ' from the unbelieving Jews, a lost and undone Race of Men, whom the ' divine Vengeance was ready to overtake, giving them Assurance that he ' continually pray'd for them; ordering farther, that all idle, disorderly ' and busie Bodies should be reprov'd, and avoided as Drones and In- ' cumbrances. In Conclusion, upon Suspicion that a Letter was counter- ' feited in his Name, that they might not be deceiv'd, he inform'd them, ' that he had sign'd this with his own Hand; which was the chief Token in ' every Epistle.

stle to the Thessalonians*

Paul having continu'd about two Years in Europe, of which a Year and an half was in Corinth, where he planted a considerable Church, resolv'd to return into Asia, particularly Syria. And taking along with him Aquila and Priscilla, at Cenchrea, the Port and Harbour of Corinth, He or Aquila (for Criticks are not agreed upon the Person) shav'd his Head, in Performance of a Nazarite Vow he had formerly made, the Time whereof was now expired. Having sail'd above 100 Leagues Eastward, he landed at the famous City Ephesus in Asia Propria, the Metropolis of those Parts, where he preach'd for a short Time in a Synagogue of the Jews, arguing with them concerning the Messiah. He was much desir'd to stay in this City, but being fully determin'd to be at Jerusalem at the Passover, either to consult with Friends, or to make more Converts, he left Aquila and Priscilla at Ephesus, promising to return again to them if God permitted. And sailing thence above 200 Leagues South-Eastward, he landed at Cæsarea, and from thence went up to Jerusalem, which was his fourth Journey to that City after his Conversion. Having visited the Church, and kept the Feast, he went down to Antioch in Syria; and after some little Stay, he travers'd the Provinces of Galatia and Phrygia, confirming the Disciples, and enjoining them to make Contributions to the Poor every Lord's Day. While Paul was taking this large Circuit, Providence took Apollos's Success.

took Care of the Churches of Ephesus and Corinth by the Means of one Apollos a Jew of Alexandria, eminent for his flowing Eloquence and his admirable Knowledge of the Old Testament, who coming to Ephesus, tho' he was only instructed in the Rudiments of the Christian Religion, and the Baptism of John, taught the Word of God with great Boldness, and a most powerful Zeal. And having been fully instructed in the Faith by Aquila and Priscilla, he resolv'd to pass over into Achaia, being particularly recommended by Letters from the Believers of Ephesus to those of Corinth. In this City he prov'd highly serviceable to the Church, and water'd what Paul had before planted, confirming the Disciples, and powerfully convincing the Jews, That Jesus was the true and only Messiah promis'd in the Holy Scriptures.

Paul returns to Ephesus.

While Apollos was thus happily employ'd in Corinth, Paul having visited the Churches in Galatia and Phrygia, return'd to Ephesus, according to his Promise, bringing several Companions along with him. Here meeting with twelve Christian Disciples, he enquir'd of them, Whether since their Conversion they had receiv'd the miraculous Gifts of the Holy Ghost? They intimated, That the Doctrine which they had receiv'd had nothing in it of that Nature; nor had they ever heard that any such extraordinary Spirit had of late been bestow'd upon the Church. Whereupon he farther enquir'd, In what Name they had been baptiz'd; since the Christian Baptism had ever been administer'd in the Name of the Holy Ghost. They answer'd, That they had receiv'd no more than John's Baptism; which tho' it oblig'd Men to Repentance, yet it did not speak explicitly of the Holy Ghost, or its Gifts and Powers. Upon this the Apostle let them know, That tho' John's Baptism did openly oblige to nothing but Repentance, yet it did implicitly acknowledge the whole Doctrine concerning Christ and the Holy Ghost. This Answer gave them such Satisfaction, that they receiv'd from him the compleat Christian Baptism, which was in the Name of the Father, and the Son, and the Holy Ghost. To which the Apostle added Confirmation, and laying his Hands upon them, they immediately receiv'd the Holy Ghost, in the Gift of Tongues, Prophecy, and other miraculous Powers which were conferr'd upon them. After this Paul enter'd into the Jewish Synagogue of this City, where for three Months he earnestly contended and disputed with the Jews; endeavouring to convince them of the Truth of those Things that concern'd the Christian Religion.

Peter goes to Babylon:

From whence he writes his first Epistle.

While this great Apostle of the Uncircumcision was thus diligently pursuing his Ministry, the other of the Circumcision, St. Peter, after his Departure from Antioch, preach'd the Gospel to the Jews in several Provinces of the Lesser Asia; and travelling Eastward, arriv'd at the ancient City Babylon in Chaldaea, above 700 Miles East of Jerusalem, where great Numbers of the Jews resided, having a famous Academy, and several Schools. In this City it is probable that Silas or Silvanus came to him, leaving Paul at Ephesus; and having the Evangelist Mark with him, from this Place, and in this Year 54, as Mr. Dodwell fairly conjectures, he wrote his first Epistle, which is call'd a Catholick or general Epistle. 'It is especially directed to the elect Strangers, dispers'd through Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Asia, and Bithynia; that is to say, to all the converted Jews dispers'd in those several Provinces; and was sent to them by Silvanus. In this Epistle, after a solemn Thanksgiving to God for their Call to Christianity, whereby they had a lively Hope of an eternal Inheritance in Heaven, he advis'd them to the Practice of several Virtues, as a Means to make their Calling and Election sure; namely, That they shou'd live in a constant Worship and Fear of God, and imitate their Master Jesus Christ in Holiness and Purity: That they shou'd love each other fervently

' vently and unfeignedly, as Brethren not only by Nature but Grace: That ' they shou'd be diligent Hearers of the Gospel, and grow up to Per' fection by it. That they shou'd lead exemplary Lives among the Gen- ' tiles, abstaining from the carnal Lusts so commonly practis'd among them,
 ' and carrying themselves modestly and innocently, that they might convince ' their Enemies that their Calumnies were unreasonable. That they shou'd
 ' behave themselves well under their respective Relations, submitting them' selves to their Governors, whether supreme or subordinate; that Servants
 ' shou'd obey their Masters, Wives be subject to their Husbands, and Hus' bands honour their Wives. That they shou'd live in Unity, sympathize ' with each other in their Afflictions, be compassionate and courteous.
 ' That they shou'd endure Persecution patiently, blessing God for ' making them like their Master in his Sufferings. Lastly, he exhorted
 ' the Pastors and Ministers of those Churches to take a special Care of their ' Flocks, to teach them diligently, and to govern them gently, not seek' ing for Gain, but to save their Souls. The whole is written with a Fervor and Zeal becoming so great an Apostle; and some have thought it was written in the Hebrew Tongue, but without sufficient Ground. As for Babylon, from whence it is dated, some believe it to be Babylon in Ægypt, others that it means Rome, and others Jerusalem; but the Opinion we have follow'd seems to us to have far greater Probability.

In this Year, the Emperor Claudius began to feel the fatal Effects of his Folly and Misgovernment. After he had been freed from a dangerous and infamous Wife, he became Captive to his own Niece Agrippina, a Woman of a vast Spirit, and unbounded Ambition, who being marry'd to him, soon procur'd her own Son Nero to be preferr'd before the Emperor's Son Br- Agrippina's tannicus; and she was so zealous for his succeeding in the Empire, that Desigs.
 when it was told her from some Oracle or Augur, That her Son shou'd be Emperor, but wou'd be the Cause of her Death, she answer'd, Let him, so he but reigns. She procur'd the Deaths of several Ladies of the highest Quality, who had been her Rivals for her Marriage with the Emperor, and made many Changes in the greatest Offices; but in a few Years the exorbitant Power she assum'd became not only distastful to the Nobility, but also very troublesome to Claudius himself; who, notwithstanding his strange Insensibility, began heartily to repent of his Marriage with her, and the Adoption of her Son Nero. Which Agrippina soon discover'd by his unusual Favours to his Son Britannicus, and by what he accidentally de-clar'd when he was heated with Wine, That he had ever been unfortunate in his Wives, but that none of them had escap'd unpunish'd. Whereupon Agrippina soon took a Resolution to procure her Husband's Death by Poison, but was very doubtful what kind to use; for she thought a strong Poison might make her Villany too apparent, and a slow one wou'd give the Emperor Opportunity of discovering so much of her Practices, as to prevent her Son's Succession; at length she fix'd upon some singular Potion, that wou'd distract his Senses, and not too suddenly end his Life. For this she wanted not her Assistants, who infus'd the Poyson into some Mushrooms, a Dish that Claudius lov'd beyond Measure; but that only indispo-sing him, Agrippina suddenly sent for Zenophon her Physician, who upon Pretence of making him Vomit, according to his usual Custom after his gluttonous Debauches, thrust a poison'd Feather down his Throat, which Claudius shortly after ended his Life. Whereupon Agrippina, as one overwhelm'd poison'd.
 by the Extremity of Grief, embrac'd Britannicus in her Arms, calling him, the dear Image of his Father's Face; and by many Artifices detain'd him and his Sisters Antonia and Octavia in the Chamber, placing a strong Guard

Guard at every Door and Passage, and often publishing, That the Emperor was still in an hopeful Condition, till she found a proper Minute for her Son's Advancement. Claudius dy'd in the Year 54, on the 13th Day of October, under the Consulships of Marcellus and Ariola, being in the 64th Year of his Age, and having reign'd 13 Years, 8 Months, and 19 Days.

NERO,
the sixth Roman Emperor.

III. On the same Day that the Emperor Claudius dy'd, the Palace Gates were suddenly set open, and young Nero accompany'd with Burrhus, Præfect of the Prætorian Guards, went out to the Cohort then attending, who at the Command of Burrhus receiv'd him with loud Acclamations, tho' not without some Enquiries after Britannicus, and carry'd him in a Chariot to the rest of the Troops; where, after a Promise of a Donative, he was saluted Emperor, and shortly after confirm'd by the Senate, and acknowledg'd by the Provinces. Nero, tho' but 17 Years of Age, began his Reign with the general Joy and Satisfaction of the City, which conceiv'd great Hopes from his outward Endeavours to serve the Publick. For first he promis'd to govern according to the wise Rules and Institutions of the great Augustus, and began both in Words and Actions to shew himself just, liberal and merciful; conferring Favours, and dividing Mony to the Citizens, moderating Impositions and Tributes, assigning Pensions to decay'd Senators, and using all Men with such Courtesie and Humanity, as that there seem'd no Reason to fear the succeeding Miseries. He shew'd such Clemency and Pity in the Execution of Justice and Punishments, that when he was to sign a Warrant for a condemn'd Person, he with a Sigh said, Wou'd to Heaven that I knew not how to write! And likewise such Modesty to the Senate, that when they applauded him for the Justness and Regularity of his Administration, he made Answer, Pray defer your Thanks till I deserve them. So that it seem'd as if Heaven had sent the Romans such a Prince as they desir'd; and his first five Years Government was so excellent in general, that the famous Emperor Trajan afterwards said, That for that Space all Government came short of his. But a great Part of this is to be attributed to the wise Conduct of Burrhus and Seneca, who were the young Emperor's Guides and Governors, in equal Authority, and equal Sharers in divers Faculties; Burrhus in military Discipline, and Gravity of Manners; Seneca in Precepts of Eloquence, and courteous Demeanors. Yet in this Space Nero fell into divers Kinds of Extravagancies and Impieties; and how abominably lewd and scandalous, how unnaturally cruel and barbarous, and how prodigious a Monster he prov'd in a few Years, we shall have a proper Occasion to say something of hereafter.

A. D. 55.
Nero.

In the first Year of his Reign, he made Aristobulus the Son of Herod of Chalcis, King of the lesser Armenia; and added to Agrippa's Kingdom four Cities with their Territories, Abila and Julias beyond Jordan, and Tiberias and Tarichæa in Galilee: So that the Dominions of Felix were somewhat abridg'd. At this Time Judæa began to be over-run with Robbers, Enchanters and Deceivers of the Vulgar, who daily became Sacrifices to this Governor; particularly Eleazar, who had commanded a considerable Troop for many Years, who was sent bound to Rome himself, and had all his Associates crucify'd. Tho' Felix seem'd thus careful of the Publick, yet he was a wicked Governor, and was guilty of many Impieties, and corrupt Practices. In the Beginning of his Government he was captivated with the Beauty of Agrippa's Sister Drusilla; and tho' she was marry'd to Azizus, King of the Emessenians, by the Assistance of a Magician call'd Simon, he perswaded her to quit her Husband, and marry him, him, and likewise to renounce her Religion, which was that of the Jews. Not long after Felix turn'd his Hatred against Jonathan, one of the Chief Priests, who having by his Interest procur'd him this Government of the Emperor, took the Freedom to reprove him for his frequent Mismanagements; which prov'd so uneasy to him, that he resolv'd upon his Death, and to effect his Design, by a great Sum of Mony, he corrupted one of this Priest's Confidants call'd Dora, engaging him to bring in a convenient Number of Assassins to murder Jonathan. Several of these resorted to Jerusalem, under the Colour of Devotion, with short Swords hid under their Garments, who mixing with this Priest's Family, first accosted him civilly, and then slew him: And because this Murther was unpunish'd, many, invited by this Licentiousness, repaired to the City at publick Times, hiding their Swords after the same Manner, and being in Throngs, freely kill'd such as were Enemies to them, or to their Friends that hired them; and this not only in the Streets and publick Places, but also in the Temple it self, where Men justly expected the greatest Security.

Thus was Jerusalem infested with Robbers and Murtherers: And as touching Magicians and Deceivers, they, according to our Saviour's Predictions, entic'd and drew great Multitudes into the Deserts, promising to shew them Signs and Miracles wrought by the Power of the Almighty; but such as were perswaded after them sufficiently suffer'd for their Folly, being pursu'd by some Troops from Felix, and cut in pieces. But a certain Egyptian Jew, a false Prophet, occasion'd far greater Mischiefs to the Jews: For being a Magician, he came into Judaea, and calling himself a Prophet, gather'd together almost 30000 Jews, of whom St. Luke names 4000 as Murtherers, Acts 21. 38. These Men following him as the expected Messiah, came from the Deserts to Mount Olivet, where he promis'd them, That they shou'd shortly see the Walls of Jerusalem fall to the Ground, from whence they shou'd drive the Roman Forces, and fix the Seat of his Empire there. But Felix being inform'd of his Progress and Designs, met him at the Foot of the Mountain with his Legions, and a great Number of other Jews; and engaging with him, many were kill'd, others taken Prisoners, and the rest dispers'd into the Country; but the Egyptian escap'd in the Battel, with some Followers, who were never heard of after. These being thus suppress'd, another Party, as it often happens in sick Bodies, began to arise: For some Magicians and Robbers being gather'd together, exhorted the People to shake off the Roman Yoke, and threatned present Death to such as suffer'd so shameful a Servitude; so that they constrain'd many to Disobedience, who were willing to submit. These Men being dispers'd all over the Country, robb'd and pillag'd the Houses of the Rich, killing many, and firing Villages; so that all Judaea was in extream Fear of them. After which there hapned a great Sedition and Disturbance in Cesarea between the Jews and Syrians in that Place, which ended to the great Damage of the former, and to the enriching of Felix, who never fail'd to make sufficient Advantages of all such Tumults: So that every Day the Jews felt the Beginnings of God's Vengeance, and the Fore-runners of their final Ruin.

IV. During these Troubles in Judaea, Paul diligently pursu'd his Ministry in the great City Ephesus; and after he had preach'd three Months in the Synagogue of the Jews, and found most of them obstinate in their Infidelity, he withdrew himself from their Assemblies, and repaired to a publick School of one Tyrannus, a Christian Convert, with the rest of the Disciples. In this Place he continu'd two whole Years, and converted so many many from all Parts of the World, who coming to this City upon the Account of Commerce and its renowned Temple, had Opportunity of hearing the Gospel, that partly by Persons sent on Purpose, and partly by accidental Conversation, all that dwelt in the Proconsular Asia heard the Word of God, both Jews and Greeks. Paul tarry'd longer in this City than in any other Place, meeting here with uncommon Difficulties in the Conquest of Philosophers, Magicians and other Superstitious Persons; which caus'd him to use more than ordinary Labour as well as Time. Upon which account he preach'd not only in Publick but in private Houses, concealing nothing that cou'd be useful to his Auditors, warning all Men, and instructing every one Night and Day with Tears, continually affording them an Example of Humility and Patience. God was pleas'd to join his Power to these Endeavours of the Apostle, working extraordinary Miracles by his Hands, and putting such a wonderful Virtue into his Body, that if Napkins or Handkerchiefs were but touch'd by him, and apply'd to the Sick and Possessed, they immediately cur'd them. Yet all these Miracles had but small Effect upon the obstinate Jews, till a new Accident awaken'd their Thoughts; which was occasion'd by seven Brothers, the Sons of one Sceva a Jewish Priest, who travell'd from Town to Town, as several other Jews did, to cast out Devils and cure Diseases by their Exorcisms for Money. Before our Saviour's Coming, the Jews us'd the Name of the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob to work these Effects; while our Saviour liv'd, they did it in his Name, and after his Death it still continu'd to be effected by some that were not Believers, as several of the Fathers testifie. But Christ wou'd not always suffer his Name to be abus'd through Vanity and Interest, and therefore made the Devil an Instrument to punish the Profanation of it: For when these Brothers exorcis'd a certain Demoniack, commanding him to come out in the Name of Jesus, whom Paul preached; the Devil reply'd, Jesus I know, and Paul I know; but who are ye? and setting upon them, tore off their Cloaths, wounded their Bodies, and scarce suffer'd them to depart with Life. This Accident being divulg'd in Ephesus, among both Jews and Gentiles, fill'd them with such a reverential Fear, that none dared to speak of the Name of Jesus but with profound Respect. This also brought many over to the Faith, causing them to confess their Sins, and forsake their wicked Arts, and burning so many Magical Books as amounted to 1500 Pounds of our Money, they became sincere Christians. Thus did the Gospel spread and prevail, and this was that great Door which St. Paul says was open'd to him at Ephesus; yet it was not without much Opposition and great Persecution from the Jews and some others, who daily laid wait for him, and sought to cast him to the wild Beasts. He hazarded his Life to save others, and dy'd daily that they might live for ever.

The Sons of Sceva defeated.

A.D. 57. Paul having continu'd above two Years in Ephesus, took up some Resolutions to return into Macedonia and Achaia, and winter at Corinth, and so Nero  $\frac{3}{4}$  pass to Jerusalem, where he design'd to celebrate the Feast of Pentecost: After which Circuit he intended for Rome, to visit the Church there, which he had desired to do many Years, and beg'd of God to direct his Way to them. But this Journey being deferr'd for some Time, he sent Timothy and Erastus into Macedonia, appointing the former to visit the Church of Corinth before his Return, and prepare their Alms for Jerusalem. Not long after Timothy's Departure, Apollos, Stephanus, Fortunatus, and Achaicus came from Corinth to Paul, bringing him an Account of the State of that Church from some Persons of the Family of Chloe, and also a Letter from the Church it self, desiring a Resolution of several Points concerning Marriage and Chastity; and some other Subjects.

By

By the Account from these Persons, he understood the distracted and bad Condition of that Church; That the Corinthians were unhappily divided into many Parties and Factions upon the Account of their Teachers, some adhering to Paul, others to Cephas or Peter, (who, as Clemens in his Epistle says, was at Corinth when Apollos was there) and others to Apollos; and others to Christ, separating from, and contemning each other, as not so well or edifyingly instructed: That many Disorders were committed at their Love-Feasts, and the Holy Sacrament corruptly and irreverently celebrated: That the Christians injur'd and defrauded each other, and went to Law at the Heathen Tribunals; and, that a Christian of their City had marry'd his Mother-in-Law, and that some deny'd the Resurrection. In Answer therefore to this Account and their Letter, Paul compos'd his first Epistle to the Corinthians, ' wherein he sharply reprov'd them for their
 ' Affectation, teaching them that they ought not to say, They were of ' this or that Person, but of Jesus Christ: That Ministers ought not to ' boast, or ascribe the Conversion of the People to their own Eloquence
 ' and Abilities; for that God did not convert the World by this human ' Wisdom, but by the Preaching of the Foolishness of the Cross. He ' inform'd them that they ought to excommunicate the incestuous Per' son, lest his Example shou'd infect others: He blam'd their litigious Law-' Suits, advising them to refer their Differences to some prudent Persons of ' the Church: To bring them to the right Use of the Sacrament, he pro-
 ' pounded the Institution, exhorting them to fit themselves for it by examin' ing their Lives. He answer'd their Questions concerning Marriage, Cele-
 ' bacy, and Meats offer'd to Idols; adding several Things concerning the ' Veils that Women were to wear, of the different Gifts of the Holy Ghost,
 ' of the Excellency of Charity, of the Gift of Tongues, of Prayer in a ' known Tongue, of the Truth of the Gospel, and the Certainty of the Resur' rection. This Epistle was written in the Name of himself, and of Softhenes; and was sent to Corinth by Stephanus, Fortunatus, and Achaicus; Apollos, tho' desir'd, being not willing to go along with them. Some are of Opinion that St. Paul wrote a former Epistle to the Corinthians, which they ground upon the Words of Chap. 5. 9. I wrote unto you in an Epistle, &c. but these Words may very well be referr'd to the foregoing Part of this Epistle. What Effect this Epistle had, the next informs us; it brought them to a serious Remorse for their Faults, and a careful Vigilance of doing their Duty for the Future; and none more than the incestuous Person, who fell into such Sorrow, that Paul fear'd he shou'd be swallow'd up with it.

Not long after Paul writ an Epistle to the Galatians, upon this following Occasion: He had preach'd twice in the Province of Galatia, first in the Year 51, and next in the Year 54, finding the Inhabitants very ready and compliant Auditors. And as they embrac'd the Faith readily, so God approv'd their Sincerity by bestowing on them the Holy Spirit; and running well, they made a considerable Progress in the Ways of Truth, and gave good Proofs of their Constancy, by suffering many Things for the Gospel. But after Paul's Departure, they deviated from the Truth, and began to entertain another Gospel: For certain Jews who had embrac'd the Faith, coming to Galatia, taught them, That Faith in Christ was not sufficient to save them, but that they must also be circumcised; pretending the Commands and Practices of the three great Apostles, Peter, James and John: And whereas the Galatians alledg'd, that they had receiv'd no such Doctrine from Paul; they told them, That he was not to be compar'd with those Lights of the Church, who had receiv'd their Doctrine from the Mouth of Christ himself, and were inspired with extraordinary Knowledge;

Knowledge; whereas Paul was no Apostle, but taught by them, or some others. These false Teachers pretended a great Zeal for the Salvation of the Galatians, tho' indeed they chiefly aim'd at their own Interest, and to bring them under the Mosaick Institutions; and the Galatians being a dull and ignorant People, cou'd not see through their fair Pretences, but suffer'd themselves to be carry'd away with their Doctrine. Paul having heard of this their Apostacy from the Truth and Purity of the Gospel, thought it necessary to write this Epistle to them. In which he manifested a Zeal proportionable to the Cause he undertook, charging them with Madness and Folly, to be led away with such extravagant Errors, that overturn'd the Foundation of the Gospel; and proving that he had his Doctrine and Apostleship from Jesus Christ himself, and that he found it necessary to reprove Peter at Antioch for his Dissimulation and too great Condescension to such Judaizers. After which he produc'd several Arguments from Scripture to convince them of their Error; demonstrating, that the Slavery of the Law brought a Curse with it, destroy'd their Christian Liberty, and that no Man cou'd be justify'd by it in the Sight of God: That the Law was not given for Justification, but to be subservient to it; not to leave Men under a Curse, but to shew them the Curse, and drive them from it; the Way in which Men were to seek for Justification, but not the Means to obtain it. Among his Reproofs and Arguments he mingled several Exhortations to that Church, full of Paternal and Apostolick Charity; and because he always took as much Care of their Manners as their Faith, towards the latter end he gave them many excellent Directions and Rules to moderate and govern their Conversation. He wrote this Epistle all with his own Hand, contrary to his ordinary Custom of dictating.

A little before Paul's Departure from this City, an Accident hapned that involv'd him in great Trouble and Danger. Ephesus above all the Cities in the East was celebrated for the famous Temple of Diana, a most magnificent Structure, which for Beauty, Riches and Capaciousness, was reckon'd one of the seven Wonders of the World; in which was a fam'd Image of this Goddess, so admirably wrought, that it was generally believ'd to have been form'd by Jupiter, and drop'd down from Heaven; for which Reason not only Ephesus, but the whole World had a mighty Veneration for it. Of this Temple and Image, either through Superstition or Curiosity, it was very usual both for the Citizens and Travellers to have Silver Shrines and Models: For the making of which great Numbers of Silver-Smiths were employ'd and maintained, among whom Demetrius was a leading Man, who foreseeing that if the Christian Religion encreas'd, their gainful Employment wou'd be ruin'd, immediately call'd together the Men of his Profession, and represented to them, That this Paul had not only perverted the City but the whole Province, and persuaded the People that the Images they made and worship'd were no real Gods; by which Means their Trade and Livelihood was in danger of being lost; and what was worse, the Honour and Reputation of the great Goddess Diana, whom all Asia and the World ador'd. Being fired with this Discourse, they all cry'd out, Great is Diana of the Ephesians! and the whole City was immediately in a Tumult and Uproar, who seizing upon Gaius and Aristarchus, two of Paul's Companions, hurry'd them into the publick Theatre, probably to cast them to the wild Beasts. Paul hearing of their Danger, not regarding his own Life, wou'd have ventur'd himself among them, had not the Christians, and even some of the Asiarchæ, Managers of the Theatrical Games, dissuaded him from it. Great was the Noise and Confusion of the Multitude, the major Part not so much as knowing the Reason of the Concourse. In which Distraction Alexander a Jew, being thrust forward by

by his Countrymen, endeavoured to make an Apology to the People, intending, no doubt, to clear himself, by casting the whole Blame upon Paul and the Christians. But the Multitude perceiving him to be a Jew, and thereupon suspecting he was one of Paul's Associates, began to raise a loud Out-cry for near two Hours together, wherein nothing cou'd be heard but Great is Diana of the Ephesians! The Noise being a little abated, the Town-Clerk or Recorder, a discreet and prudent Man, came forth, and calmly told them, That it was sufficiently known to all the World what a mighty Veneration the City of Ephesus had for the great Goddess Diana, and the famous Image which fell from Heaven, so that there needed not that Disturbance to vindicate its Reputation: That they had seiz'd on Persons who were neither guilty of Sacrilege nor Blasphemy against their Goddess; that if Demetrius and his Company had any just Charge against them the Courts were sitting, and they might prefer their Indictment; or if their Controversy were about any other Matter, it might be determin'd by such a proper Judicature as the Law appointed: that therefore they ought to be pacify'd, having done more already than they cou'd answer, and being in great Danger of being punish'd for that Day's riotous Assembly. With which prudent Discourse he appeas'd and sent home the Multitudes; but Paul, who he fell not into their Hands, yet was in so great Danger, that he speaks of it as of a miraculous Deliverance. 'We had the Sentence of Death in our selves, that we shou'd not trust to our selves, but in God who rais'd the Dead, who deliver'd us from so great a Death, 2 Cor. 1. 9, 10.

Shortly after the Disturbance was over, Paul having continu'd near three Years at Ephesus, and founded a very great and considerable Church, call'd the Christians together, and with all the Marks of mutual Love, took his Leave of them, having first constituted Timothy Bishop and Governor of the Church, as several of the Ancients testifie. He travell'd about 200 Miles Northwards to Troas before he took Shipping, expecting and desiring to meet Titus there; but missing him, he pursu'd his Voyage into Macedonia. In this Country he gave many Exhortations to a sound Faith and holy Life; and as he tells us himself, preach'd the Gospel round about unto Illyricum, some Parts of Macedonia bordering on that Province. He met with many Troubles and Dangers in this Journey, without were Fightings and Contentions, within were Fears and Suspicions; but God who comforts those who are cast down, comforted him by the Arrival of Titus, who gave him an Account of the good Effects his Epistle had at Corinth, how great a Reformation it had wrought, and how all the Christians separated themselves from the incestuous Person, and had deliver'd him to Satan; at which he was so much humbled, that he earnestly desir'd the Apostle's Absolution. Titus also assur'd him, that the Alms of the Corinthians for the Jews were ready; which he signify'd to the Macedonians to provoke them to a liberal Contribution, as he did theirs to the Corinthians. But notwithstanding the good Effects of his first Epistle, yet still several vain-glorious Teachers persisted in their Contumacy, vilifying the Apostle's Authority, and misinterpreting his Words and Actions; particularly they charg'd him with Levity in deferring his intended Coming to them, with Severity and Usurpation in his Dealings with the incestuous Person, and with Contempt and Carnality in overthrowing the Mosaick Law; and tho' he was imperious in Writing, his Person was abject and contemptible. Having receiv'd a full Account from Titus, he thought necessary to write a second Epistle to the Corinthians, which he sent by Titus and two other Brethren, this being the fifth Epistle that he writ. It was written from Philippi in Macedonia, in the Name of Paul and Timothy, thy, and directed to the Church of God in Corinth, 'and to all the Saints in Achaia; in it he excus'd his not coming directly to Corinth, for fear of occasioning their Sorrow, commended their Zeal against the incestuous Person, and allow'd them to be reconcil'd to him. After which he justify'd his Conduct, vindicated the Dignity and Ministry of the Gospel, and prov'd the Excellency of it above that of the Law; farther exhorting them to a liberal Contribution by the Example of the Macedonians, finding their Alms to come short of what he expected. He disclaim'd the false Teachers, who seduc'd them, and endeavour'd to estrange them from him, threatening them with his Apostolick Authority; and that he might secure them against their wicked Insinuations, he was oblig'd against his Inclination to glory in his Revelations, his extraordinary Labours and Sufferings for the Gospel; in Delivery of which he us'd much Eloquence, which was natural to his Pen. In a Word, he spoke to them with Authority, and testify'd that he was as firm and bold as ever.

His Epistle to the Romans.

Paul having pass'd over Macedonia came into Greece, that is, into Achaia,<sup>Act. 20.</sup> and continu'd there for the Space of three Months, residing principally at the Metropolis of it, Corinth. Here having gotten together a Contribution for the poor Saints at Jerusalem, just before his Departure he wrote his famous Epistle to the Romans, the largest and the sixth Epistle he wrote, tho' either for the Dignity of the City of Rome, or the Profoundness of its Subject and Matter, first plac'd in the sacred Canon. The Apostle had heard of some Disagreements both of Judgment and Affection among the Christians at Rome, who were partly believing Jews, and partly believing Gentiles. The former claim'd the Preference upon the Account of their great Privileges and Revelations, and the Messiah's coming from their Nation, and mingled the Law and Gospel together in point of Justification, zealously contending for the Necessity of Circumcision: The latter maintain'd that the Jews for the most part had rejected their Messiah, and continu'd Unbelievers, boasting of their own Philosophy and the Light of Nature; and because they were exempted from the Observation of the Mosaick Rites, they us'd their Christian Liberty not without some Offence. 'Whereupon the Apostle deliver'd his Judgment with that Wisdom, as to beat down all Opinion of Merit in both Parties, uniting them both in Jesus Christ as the chief Corner Stone, and shewing that God's calling either Jew or Gentile, was an Act of pure Mercy. He first humbled the Gentiles, by shewing them the Blindness and Impiety of their Philosophers; and then the Jews, by declaring that they themselves did what they condemn'd in the Pagans; proving also by the Example of Abraham, That a Man was justified by Faith only, but such a Faith as was actuated by Love; and that no Man was justify'd by Works, as the Jews affirm'd. Then he manifested the Effects of original Sin, and the Power it had even in the Regenerate; and explain'd the profound Question concerning Election and Reprobation, in his Discourse of the Calling of the Gentiles, and the Rejection of the Jews. To these Doctrines of Faith he added several Chapters concerning Moral and Christian Duties, chiefly the 5th, 6th, 12th and 13th Chapters; in which he produc'd many admirable Instructions, and Instances of Evangelical Obedience. He had not been at Rome when he wrote this Epistle, but being an Apostle of the Gentiles he look'd upon them as part of his Charge, tho' that Church was planted by some other Person. It was written by Tertius his Amanuensis, and carry'd to Rome by Phæbe, a Diaconess of the Church of Cenchrea.

Paul having continu'd three Months in Greece, at last resolv'd to go in-<sup>Act. 20.</sup>
A. D. 58. to Syria, to carry the Alms which he had gather'd in Macedonia and Nero 3. Greece, to the poor Christians in Judea. His first Design was to take the shortest cut by Sea, but having Information that the Jews design'd to intercept him by

by the Way, he determin'd to go about through Macedonia. He was accompany'd by Sopater of Berea, Aristarchus and Secundus of Thessalonica, Tychicus and Trophimus of Asia, Gaius of Derbe, and Timothy, as far as Philippi; from whence he sent them to Troas, ordering them to stay there till he came to them. At Philippi he continu'd with the Evangelist Luke and some others, till after the Passover, and celebrated the Feast with the Philippians, a very pious and charitable People; this being the third Time of his visiting that Church. Setting sail from thence, in five Days he landed at Troas, and there tarry'd seven Days. While he remain'd in this Town, the Christians met, according to their Custom, on the first Day of the Week, to celebrate the Lord's Supper and the other Parts of divine Worship. Here Paul preach'd to them; and because he was to leave them the next Day, he lengthen'd out his Sermon till Midnight, neither Preacher nor Hearers being tired; only a young Man nam'd Eutychus disturb'd their Devotion, who sitting in a Window, and falling into a deep Sleep, fell down from the third Loft, and was taken up dead. But God made use of this Accident to magnifie his Power and his Apostle's Ministry; for Paul going down, and falling upon him in Imitation of the Prophets Elijah and Elisha, immediately brought him to Life, bidding the Company not be concern'd since he was alive. Tho' Paul manifestly rais'd him from the Dead, yet through Humility, he seem'd to conceal the Miracle; and after that proceeded in the divine Offices, and the Celebration of the Sacrament, adding farther Exhortations till break of Day, when all departed to their Houses, greatly rejoycing for the young Man's Restauration.

Acts 20.

The next Day Paul departed from Troas, and went on Foot to Assos, a few Miles South of it, probably that he might give some Instructions to the Christians dwelling in the Way. At Assos he met with Luke and his other Company, whom he had sent before to meet him there by Sea, and taking Ship they all sail'd to Mitylene, a City in the Isle of Lesbos. The next Day they sail'd thence, and stood over against the Isle Chios, and the Day following arriv'd at Samos, another Isle in the Ægean Sea, and landed at Trogylum, a Promontory of Ionia, near Samos; and the next Day he went to Miletus, a City and Port of Caria, above 30 Miles South of Ephesus. Paul being desirous to be at Jerusalem before Pentecost, that he might celebrate the Feast, wou'd not go up to Ephesus, lest that Journey shou'd detain him too long, but sent for the Presbyters and Governors of the Church, thinking it necessary to give them a particular Charge of the Flock upon which he had spent so much Time, and which he knew not whether he cou'd see again. At their Arrival he put them in mind, With what Integrity and Affection, with what Humility and Fidelity, and with how great Danger and Trouble he had been conversant amongst them, and had preach'd the Gospel to them, ever since his coming into those Parts: That he had not fail'd to acquaint them both publickly and privately with whatsoever might be profitable to their Souls, urging both Jews and Gentiles to Repentance and Reformation, and an hearty Entertainment of the Faith of Christ: That now he was determin'd to go up to Jerusalem, where he knew not what particular Sufferings wou'd befall him, only he had been inform'd by the Holy Spirit, in every Place, that great Afflictions and Imprisonment attended him: But that all this did not move him, who valu'd not his own Life, so he might but successfully propagate the holy Gospel, and triumphantly finish his Course: That he knew that henceforth they shou'd see his Face no more, but he had this particular Comfort, that they themselves cou'd testify that he was clear from the Blood of all Men, and that no Soul had perish'd through his Negligence. He told them, that now he was to bid them finally adieu, the whole Care of that Flock of God was devolv'd upon them; wherefore he adjur'd them to be infinitely tender and careful of them- selves and of that Flock, over which the Holy Ghost himself had made them Overseers, and for which Christ had paid no less a Purchase than his own Blood. For that after his Departure, there shou'd arise Seducers, who like devouring Wolves, shou'd enter upon their Flock, and make a Prey both of their Estates and Souls; of whom many shou'd spring from themselves, whom they had least Reason to suspect: That therefore they shou'd be vigilant, remembering with what Tears and Sorrow, he had for three Years successively warn'd them of these Things. He concluded his Discourse with a solemn Recommendation of them to God's special Grace and Protection, wishing them all the Benefits of the Gospel, Perfection of Knowledge here, and an heavenly Inheritance hereafter, and cautioning them against Avarice and making a Prey of their Flocks, which he himself had avoided, who had chosen rather to work with his own Hands than be too Burthensome to them; that so ought they also to act so as they might support themselves and others, being mindful of that excellent Saying of the blessed Jesus, 'It is more blessed to give than to receive. After this farewell Sermon, the Apostle kneel'd down, and concluded all with a solemn Prayer: Which done they all melted into Tears, and with the liveliest Expressions of Sorrow attended him to the Ship; tho' that which made the deepest Impression upon their Minds was, that he had told them, That they shou'd see his Face no more.

His last Journey to Jerusalem. Having sail'd from Miletus, Paul and his Companions came with a strait Course to Coos, and the next Day to Rhodes, two Isles in the Ægean Sea, and from thence to Patara, a Port and Metropolis of Lycia, where they chang'd their Ship, and enter'd a Vessel bound for Tyre in Phœnicia; and leaving Cyprus on the left Hand, they landed at Tyre after five Days sail. Here meeting with some Christians, Paul was advis'd by those among them who had the Gift of Prophecy, that he shou'd not go up to Jerusalem: But he cou'd not yield to their Proposals; and having staid with them a Week, he proceeded in his Journey, the Christians with their Wives and Children accompanying him to the Ship, where before his Entrance, he embrac'd them and pray'd with them on the Shore, as he had done at Miletus. From Tyre they sail'd a few Leagues to Ptolemais, a City of Phœnicia near Galilee, where only saluting the Brethren, they came the next Day to Cæsarea. Here they lodg'd in the House of Philip the Evangelist, one of the seven Deacons that were first set apart by the Apostles, who had four Virgin Daughters, all endu'd with the Gift of Prophecy. During their short Stay here, Agabus a Christian Prophet came down thither from Judæa, who taking Paul's Girdle bound his own Hands and Feet with it, solemnly shewing them, That by that external Symbol the Holy Ghost did signifie and declare, That Paul shou'd be thus treated by the Jews at Jerusalem, and be by them deliver'd over to the Hands of the Gentiles. Whereupon they all earnestly besought him, That he wou'd divert his Course to some other Place; but the Apostle having an invincible Courage ask'd them, What they meant by those compassionate Dissuasives to add more Affliction to his Sorrow? That he was now ready not only to suffer Imprisonment at Jerusalem, but also Death it self for the Sake of Christ and his Religion. Finding his Resolution fix'd and immoveable, they importun'd him no farther, but left the Event to the divine Will and Pleasure. And all Things being in Readiness, Paul and his Company set forwards for Jerusalem, and arriving at the City, they were kindly and joyfully entertain'd by the Christians there, lodging at the House of one Mnason of Cyprus, an old Disciple, and one of the Seventy. This was St. Paul's last Journey to Jerusalem that we are certain of, and the fifth from his Conversion: His first was in the Year 28, his second in 44, his third in 49, his fourth in 54, and this his last in the Year 58, about 23 Years after his Conversion, and nine from the Council of Jerusalem.

them to the House of the Apostle James the Bishop, where the rest of the Presbyters and Governors of the Church were met together. After mutual Salutations, Paul gave them a particular Account with what Success God had bless'd him in propagating Christianity among the Gentiles, for which they all glorify'd the Almighty; but withal inform'd him, That he was

It was now the Feast of Pentecost, and the seven Days for these Sacrifices beginning to be accomplish'd, some Jews from Asia, who had been Op-him, call'd out to the rest of the Jews for their Assistance, crying out,

That this was the Man that in all Places had vented pernicious Doctrines

there to have put a Period to all his Troubles, had not Claudius Lysias, Commander of the Roman Garrison in the Castle Antonia, fearing a Sedition, come in with a considerable Force to his Rescue and Deliverance; and concluding him to be more than an ordinary Malefactor, commanded a double Chain to be put upon him, tho' as yet he was altogether ignorant either of his Person, or of his Crime; wherein he cou'd receive no Satisfaction from the clamorous Multitude, who call'd for nothing but his Death, following the Cry with such Crouds and Numbers, that the Soldiers were oblig'd to take him into their Arms to secure him from the present Rage and Violence of the People. As they were going up into the Castle, Paul ask'd the Governor, whether he might have the Liberty to speak to him? Who, finding him to speak Greek, enquir'd of him, Whether he was not that Egyptian Rebel, whom Fælix had not long since defeated, who headed a great Party, of whom four thousand were Assassinated? The Apostle reply'd, That he was a Jew of Tarsus, a Freeman of a rich and honourable City; and therefore beg'd of him, That he might have leave to speak to the People. Which being granted him, Paul standing upon the Stairs near the Door of the Castle, and making Signs for Silence, began to address himself to the People in the Hebrew or rather Syriack Tongue; which when they heard, they became more calm and quiet, while in a formal Oration he gave them a particular Account of his Birth, of his Education in his Youth, of his extraordinary Zeal for the Rites and Customs of their Religion, and with what a Passionate Earnestness he had persecuted all the Christians he cou'd find, of which the High-Priest and the Sanhedrim were sufficient Witnesses. Next he gave them an entire and punctual Relation of the miraculous Manner of his Conversion; and how afterwards, tho' he extreamly desir'd to have continu'd at Jerusalem, yet he receiv'd a Vision and an immediate Command from God himself to depart that City, and to go and preach Salvation to the Gentiles.

The People patiently gave him Audience in the former Part of his Discourse; but when he proceeded to defend his Practice in preaching to the Gentiles, they cou'd contain themselves no longer, but unanimously cry'd out to have him put to Death, it not being fit that such a Villain shou'd live upon the Earth. And the more to express their Fury, they threw off their Cloaths, and cast Dust into the Air, as if they immediately design'd to have ston'd him. To avoid which Violence and Tumult, Lysias the Captain, greatly at a Loss, commanded him to be brought within the Castle, and that he shou'd be examin'd by Scourging, till he confess'd what he had done, that had so much enrag'd the Jews against him. While the Lictors were binding him with Thongs in order to the Punishment, Paul, who ever took the Benefit of Laws, demanded of the Centurion that stood to see it executed, Whether they cou'd justify the Scourging a free Citizen of Rome, and that before any Sentence legally pass'd upon him? The Centurion immediately intimated this to the Governor of the Castle, advising him to be very cautious in his Proceedings against the Prisoner, for that he was a Roman. Whereupon Lysias himself came, and ask'd him, Whether he was really a free Denizon of Rome? And being answer'd in the affirmative, he reply'd, That it was a great Privilege, a Privilege which he himself had purchas'd with a very large Sum of Mony. To whom Paul answer'd, That it was his Birth-right, and the Privilege of the City where he was born and educated. Hereupon they gave over the Design of Scourging him, the Commander himself not being a little startled, that he had bound and chain'd a Citizen of Rome. But however from this very Time Paul became a Prisoner to the Roman Power, for above four Year successively.

Acts 22.
30.
Chap. 23.
1-10.

Lysias being still desirous to know the Certainty and Nature of the Apostle's Crime, took another Method, namely, to have him examin'd by the Jewish Sanhedrim, which he order'd the next Day to meet for that purpose, and presented Paul before them, Ananias being High-Priest, and President of that Assembly. Paul being plac'd in the midst of the Council, began to apologize for himself; declaring, That to that very Day, he had ever liv'd in all good Conscience before God and Man. These Words being offensive to the High-Priest, as if he had reproach'd the Justice of the Court, he commanded the Officers that stood by, to strike him in the Face. Paul, tho' ready to turn the other Cheek and to suffer all Things for the Gospel, yet considering the illegal Practice of this Magistrate, severely reply'd by a Prophetick Spirit, That God shou'd strike him, Hypocrite as he was, who under a Pretence of judging according to Law, had commanded him to be punish'd contrary to Law. Whereupon some Persons present reprov'd him, for reviling God's High-Priest; to which he calmly return'd, That he did not know, or own Ananias to be an High-Priest of God's Appointment: However being a Person in Authority, he confess'd it unlawful to revile him, God having commanded, 'Not to speak evil of the Ruler of the People.' The Rulers proceeding in his Examination, were act'd by so much Prejudice, that the Apostle, who always retain'd the Innocency of the Dove, was constrain'd to make use of the Wisdom of the Serpent for his own Preservation; for perceiving the Council to be divided among themselves, and to consist partly of Pharisees, and partly of Sadducees, he cry'd out, That he was a Pharisee, and the Son of a Pharisee, and that the main Reason of his Trial was his Believing and Asserting a future Resurrection. This prov'd a Ball of Contention, and immediately divided the Council, the Pharisees being zealous Patrons of the Resurrection, and the Sadducees violent Opposers of it. The Doctors of the Law, who were Pharisees, thereupon stood up to acquit him, affirming, That he had done nothing amiss, that possibly he might have receiv'd some Revelation by the Holy Spirit, or an Angel; and if so, their opposing his Doctrine wou'd be a Fighting against God. At length the Contention grew so violent, that Lysias was constrain'd to take the Apostle from among them by Force, and bring him into the Castle, lest he shou'd have been torn in Pieces in the Tumult; for this Commander thought himself oblig'd to secure a Roman Citizen from Danger, tho' he was willing to gratifie the Jews in punishing him, if he was justly condemn'd.

By the Order of Lysias, he is

Acts 23.

At Night, to comfort him after all his Fears and Troubles, God was pleas'd to appear to him in a Vision, encouraging him to Constancy and Resolution; assuring him, That as he had born Witness to his Cause at Jerusalem, so he shou'd certainly live to do the same at Rome it self. The next Morning the Jews, who were restless and implacable in their Malice, finding these dilatory Proceedings did only cross their Designs, resolv'd upon a more expeditious Dispatch. To which End above forty of them enter'd into a wicked Conspiracy, which they ratify'd by Oath and Execration, never to eat or drink till they had taken away his Life; and having acquainted the Sanhedrim with their Design, they beg'd of them to importune the Governor of the Castle, that the next Day he might be brought down again before them, upon a Pretence of a more strict Examination; and that they themselves wou'd lie in Ambush by the Way, and not fail to dispatch him. But the divine Providence brought this Design to the Knowledge of Paul's Nephew, who desirous of his Uncle's Security, immediately went into the the Castle and discover'd it to him: Paul wou'd not make the Information himself, lest Lysias shou'd suspect some secret Design, but sent his Nephew to the Captain, to give him a full Relation of it; who gave such credible Proofs and Circumstances of it, that Lysias believ'd him, and dismiss'd him with a Charge of Secrecy. Thus the great Apostle, tho' he had infallible Security of his Protection from Heaven, yet thought it necessary to use all proper Means for his own Preservation. Lysias, to prevent all future Mischiefs, immediately commanded two Parties of Foot, 200 in each, and 70 Horsemen, to be ready by nine a Clock that Night, who carefully conducted Paul first to Antipatris, and then to Cæsarea, where Felix the Governor had his Residence; writing a Letter to his Excellency, to signify, That Paul was a Freeman of Rome whom the Jews had violently persecuted, and conspired against his Life; tho' he cou'd find nothing in him that deserv'd Death or Imprisonment: Therefore to prevent Violence, he had sent him to his Excellency, ordering his Accusers to appear against him at Cæsarea. Felix receiv'd the Letter with much Civility, and finding that Paul belong'd to the Province of Cilicia, he promis'd him to allow him a fair Hearing as soon as his Accusers shou'd come down, commanding him in the mean Time to be secur'd in the Place call'd Herod's Hall.

Who for Security is sent to Cæsarea:

His full Answer.

About five Days after, Ananias the High-Priest, with some others of the Sanhedrim, being disappointed of their Designs at Jerusalem, came down to Cæsarea, accompany'd with an Orator or Advocate nam'd Tertullus, hoping to engage Felix to join with them in this Matter. Paul being brought forth to his Trial, Tertullus stood up for his Accuser; and in a flattering Speech first celebrated the worthy Actions of Felix, under whom, since they had enjoy'd such a happy Tranquility, and such noble Benefits, which they accepted with the profoundest Gratitude, they cou'd not now doubt of his Clemency, and Readiness to hear them a few Words. Then he accus'd Paul of being a pestilent Mover of Sedition, an Heretical Ringleader of the Nazarenes, and an impious Profaner of their holy Temple: That they wou'd have sav'd him the Trouble of his Hearing, by judging him according to their own Law, had not Lysias the Commander violently taken him from them, and sent both him and them down thither. To all which the Jews present readily gave their Vote and Testimony. Paul having leave from Felix to make his Defence, and having declar'd how much he was satisfied that he was to plead before one, who for several Years had been Governor of that Nation, calmly and distinctly answer'd to the several Parts of the Charge. And first for Sedition, he shew'd, That it was now but twelve Days since he enter'd Jerusalem, where he was neither found disputing in the Temple, nor exciting the People either in the Synagogues, or in any other Place of the City. Secondly for Heresie, he ingenuously confess'd, That he worship'd God after the Way that they accounted Heresie, but very unjustly, since he acknowledg'd the same Scriptures for the Rule of Faith and Manners, and believ'd the general Resurrection of the Dead as they did: In Expectation of which, he was careful to live with an unblamable Conscience towards God and Man. Thirdly for prophaning the Temple, he shew'd, That his Coming to Jerusalem was to bring charitable Contributions to his distressed Brethren; that he was indeed in the Temple, but not as some Asiatick Jews suggested, either with Multitude or Tumult, but only purifying himself according to the Mosaic Law: And that if they or any other cou'd affirm the contrary, they ought now to do it in open Court. And farther, he appeal'd to those of the Sanhedrim then present, whether he had not been acquitted by their own Court in Jerusalem, where nothing had been laid to his Charge but by the Sadducean Party, who condemn'd him for asserting the Doctrine of the Resurrection.

Felix

25-26.*

Felix gave them the Hearing on both Sides, and was better inform'd of the Nature of the Christian Religion by Paul's Discourse; but refus'd a final Determination, till Lysias himself came down, of whom he would be more fully inform'd of the Controversie; commanding in the mean time that Paul shou'd be under the Guard of a Centurion or Captain, but yet in so free a Custody, that none of his Friends shou'd be hinder'd from visiting him. Not long after Felix being with his infamous Wife Drusilla, Sister to Agrippa, and once a Jewess, summon'd Paul again to appear before him; and as if he had desir'd a farther Knowledge of the Christian Doctrine, desir'd him to speak more largely concerning the Faith in Christ. Paul not seeking the Favour of any Potentate, freely discours'd and insist-ed on those Virtues in which this Governor was extremely defective, particularly Justice and Temperance, adding withall some Discourse concern-ing the Judgment to come, wherein Men shou'd be eternally rewarded or punish'd. Felix was so rous'd by the Force of the Apostle's Reasonings, that he fell a trembling, and caus'd him to break off abruptly, promising to hear more of those Points at a convenient Season. Upon which Pretence he often sent for him, not that he desir'd to profit by his Discourse, but in hopes that Paul wou'd have given him Mony for his Deliverance. But because neither the Apostle out of the Alms, nor any of the Christians sought to redeem him, he was kept two Years in Prison to gratifie the Jews, whom Felix had before incens'd by his frequent Oppressions and Tyrannies. Ananias the High-Priest, not long after his Accusation, was depos'd by Agrippa, and Ishmael the Son of Phabeus put in his Room; and afterwards Ananias came to a miserable End, according as St. Paul had solemnly denounc'd the Vengeance of Heaven against him.

II. Rome and the Empire had for a few Years been well and happily govern'd, principally by the Means and Directions of Seneca and Burrhus; but now Nero encreasing in Years and Extravagancies, the City began to feel the ill Effects of wicked Princes. In the second Year of his Reign this Emperour had basely poison'd his Predecessor's and Father-in-Law's Son Britannicus; which he perform'd with the Dexterity and seeming Carelessness of an abler Politician. After which, contemning his Mother Agrippina's Authority, he divested himself of his Majesty and Quality, and in the Habit of a Slave, with many lewd Companions, nightly committed all kinds of impious and scandalous Actions: So that the City became infested with infinite Violences and Tumults, occasion'd not only from him and his Associates, but from his Example and the Encouragement he gave to others. Then taking Poppæa Sabina from the Bed of her Husband Otho, because his Mother was still some Restraint to his Enormities, in the fifth Year of his Reign he resolv'd upon her Death; beginning with Poisons, which three Times prov'd ineffectual, by reason of her Antidotes and Preservatives. Whereupon he invented a Ship so artfully contrived that it shou'd suddenly split in two, and let her perish in the Water; then dissembling a Reconciliation, he caus'd her to sail to the Coasts of Calabria, under Colour of some publick Solemnities in which he himself was Assistant. Finding this Plot also ineffectual, she her self escaping, when many of her Company perish'd, he now resolv'd to put her to Death openly; and for that Reason caus'd a Report to be spread, That she had conspired against his Life, and a Dagger was dropt at his Feet by one who pretended a Command from Agrippina to dispatch him. Under which false Pretext he commanded certain Tribunes to murder her; upon whose unsheathing their Swords, Agrippina pointing to her Belly, cry'd, Strike me here; for this Part has deserv'd it, since it has conceiv'd and brought forth forth such a Monster as Nero, and immediately expir'd with the Wounds she receiv'd: And we are told that Nero came immediately after to view his dead Mother, and stood gazing upon her naked Body, praising and dispraising her several Parts and Limbs, adding withal, That he did not think she had been so beautiful. Thus impiously did Nero treat his own Mother, tho' she had given him not only Birth but Dominion also, and for his Advancement had sacrific'd both her Conscience and Honour; the Horrour of which Fact became afterwards a Scourge to his Mind, he often confessing, That he was frequently disturb'd by the Apprehensions of his Mother's Ghost, and tormented by the infernal Furies.

A.D. 60. As Rome was a Sufferer from its Prince, so Judæa was much more from its Governor Felix, whose Management, together with the Degeneracy and Corruptions of the Inhabitants, caus'd frequent Ravages, Seditions and Bloodsheds. But in the following Year Felix was remov'd, after he had been Governor above seven Years; and tho' he endeavour'd to oblige the Jews by leaving Paul in Prison, yet they accus'd him of many Crimes before the Emperour, and he escap'd Punishment only by the Intercession of his Brother Pallas, who at this Time was again in Favour with Nero. Pontius Festus succeeded in his Place, who was the eleventh Procurator of Judæa after the Banishment of Archelaus, and the fifth after the Death of King Herod-Agrippa, a Person of a much better Character than his Predecessor. Three Days after his Arrival at Cæsarea, Festus went up to Jerusalem; where the High-Priest and Sanbedrim hoping to find new Favours from their new Governor, brought fresh Accusations against the Apostle Paul, petitioning him to permit him to be brought and try'd at Jerusalem, designing to assassinate him by the Way. Festus told them, That he himself was returning shortly to Cæsarea, and that if they had any Thing against the Prisoner, he wou'd them give a fair Hearing to any Accusation they shou'd bring. And accordingly after ten Days Stay, Festus being return'd to Cæsarea, and sitting in open Judicature, the Jews gathering round about Paul, renew'd their Charge with the utmost Violence, and laid many heavy Accusations against him, to the same Effect as they had done before Felix. But Paul defended himself so well, by manifesting, That he had neither offended against the Jewish Laws, nor against the Temple, nor against the Emperour; that their Charge soon fell for want of sufficient Proof. However Festus being willing to gratifie the Jews in the Entrance upon his Government, ask'd him, Whether he wou'd go up and be try'd before him at Jerusalem? But the Apostle well understanding the Consequences of that Proposal, courageously declar'd, That he now stood at the Emperour's Judgment Seat, where he ought to have had a final Trial: That he did not at all decline Death, if he deserv'd it; but that since he had injur'd none of the Jews, and they had prov'd nothing against him, he ought not to be deliver'd over to their Malice: That therefore, as he was a Roman, he appeal'd to the Emperour himself. Festus being a little surpriz'd at this, conferr'd first with the Jewish Rulers concerning the Matter, and after that told Paul, That since he had appeal'd to the Emperour, he shou'd go to him.

Not many Days after King Agrippa with his Sister Bernice, and a numerous Train, came to Cæsarea, to make a Visit and Compliment to the new Governor, and to continue with him some Time. After a considerable Stay, Festus entertain'd him with a Discourse concerning Paul's Case, acquainting him with his being left a Prisoner by Felix, and that the chief of the Jews had vehemently accus'd him, and earnestly petition'd for Justice against him: But that he had told them, That he cou'd not do it by the Roman Laws, without first hearing the Cause, and bringing the Accusers and Accused Accused Face to Face. That this therefore he had done, and that upon bearing of both Parties, contrary to Expectation, he had found that their Accusation related only to Matters of their own Superstition, and to one Jesus, who being dead, Paul affirm'd to be alive: And that being himself unacquainted with such Controversies, he had referr'd the Prisoner to the Jewish Sanhedrim; but that he declining their Judgment had appeal'd to Cæsar: Whereupon he had kept him, till he could conveniently send him to the Emperor at Rome. This Account excited the Curiosity of Agrippa, who was very desirous to see and hear this Person; and accordingly the next Day, the King and his Sister, accompany'd with Festus, and other Persons of Quality, came into the Court with a pompous and magnificent Retinue, where Paul was brought forth before them. Festus acquainted the King and the illustrious Assembly, How much he had been solicited by the Jews both at Cæsarea and Jerusalem, concerning the Prisoner at the Bar, that as a notorious Malefactor he might be put to Death; but that having found him guilty of no capital Crime, and the Prisoner having appeal'd to the Emperor, he was resolv'd to send him to Rome; but yet was willing to have his Case again discuss'd before so skilful a Person as Agrippa, that he might be furnish'd with some material Instructions to send along with him; since it was very preposterous to send a Prisoner to the Emperor, without signifying his Crimes.

Paul brought before them.

Hereupon Agrippa told the Apostle, That now he had Liberty to make his own Defence. To whom, after Silence made, he particularly address'd his Speech; first protesting, without Compliment, That he thought himself happy, that he was to plead before a Prince so exactly vers'd in all the Rites and Customs, the Questions and Controversies of the Jewish Law. That as to his own Case, all the Jews his Accusers well knew the Course and Manner of his Life, and how he had been educated under the Institutions of the Pharisees, the strictest Sect of their Religion: That he had been particularly arraign'd for asserting that which had been the constant Belief of all their Fathers, and in Hopes of which their twelve Tribes had been Day and Night instant in their Devotions; and which was also a Thing not incredible in it self, and sufficiently reveal'd in the Scriptures, viz. the Resurrection of the Dead. Next he gave him an Account of the Effects of his Education, and with what an implacable Zeal he had formerly persecuted Christianity; and how by an amazing Light, and a wonderful Voice from Heaven, he was stop'd in his Proceedings, and commanded to diffuse the Rays of God's Bounty to the Illumination of the Pagan World. That therefore since he cou'd not disobey that heavenly Vision, he had preach'd Repentance and Reformation first to the Jews of Damascus and Jerusalem, and after that to the Gentiles. That it was for this Cause alone, that the Jews apprehended him in the Temple, and design'd to have murder'd him; but that being supported by a divine Power, he still continu'd in that Testimony, asserting nothing but what was agreeable to Moses and the Prophets, who had plainly foretold, That the Messiah shou'd be put to Death, and rise again, and by his Doctrine enlighten both the Jewish and the Gentile World. While Paul thus confidently and warmly apply'd his Discourse to Agrippa, Festus, unskilful in these Matters, cry'd out to the Apostle, That he was transported besides himself; that too much Learning had turn'd his Brain. But the other calmly reply'd, That his Words were not the Effect of Madness, but of Truth and Soberness; for which he appeal'd to the King, who cou'd not be unacquainted with the Life of Jesus, all Things being transacted in such an open and publick Manner; that he was confident that his Majesty believ'd the Prophets, and therefore cou'd not be ignorant that those Prophecies were accomplish'd in Christ. His Discourse had so great an Influence upon Agrippa, That he openly declar'd, That he had almost persuaded him to embrace the Christian Faith. To which Paul return'd, That he heartily pray'd, that he and the whole Auditory were not only in some Measure, but altogether, tho' not Prisoners, yet as much Christians as himself. This done, the King and the Governor, and the rest of the Council withdrew a while, to confer privately about this Matter. And finding by the Accusations against him, that by the Roman Laws he was not Guilty of any capital Crime, nor of any that deserv'd Imprisonment; Agrippa told Festus, That he might have been releas'd if he had not prolong'd his Tryal by appealing to the Emperor at Rome.

Paul and others sent towards Rome.

It being upon this Appeal now finally resolv'd that Paul shou'd be sent to Rome, in order thereto, He and some other Prisoners of Note were committed to the Charge of Julius, a Centurion or Captain of a Company belonging to the Legion of Augustus; being accompany'd in his Voyage by the Evangelist Luke, Aristarchus a Macedonian, Trophimus, and some others. In the Month of September, they went on board a Ship of Adramyttium, a Port of Mycia, which probably being a trading Ship, was to sail along by the Coasts of the Lesser Asia. Having sail'd about 25 Leagues Northward, they cast Anchor at Sidon, where Julius civilly gave the Apostle leave to go on Shore to visit his Friends, and refresh himself. Putting out from thence, they were oblig'd to sail under the Island Cyprus, because the Winds were contrary; and when they coasted by the Provinces Cilicia and Pamphilia, after 180 Leagues sail from Sidon, they landed at Myra, a Port in Lycia, where this Ship finish'd its Voyage. Here having left their Vessel, they went a board a Ship of Alexandria, bound for Italy, carrying to the Number of 276 Persons. The Winds were still contrary, and sailing Westward, it was several Days before they got 70 Leagues over against Cnidus, a City and Promontory of Caria; from whence they turn'd Southward, and after 30 Leagues sail, stood over against Salmon, a Promontory of Crete; and at last coasting the Isle, came to a Place call'd The Fair Havens, near the City Lasia or Thalassa. This Port was inconvenient to Winter in; but Sailing grew now very dangerous in those Seas, the Fast of the Jews Expiation being over, at which Time this Sea was generally very tempestuous; Paul therefore urg'd them to stay there that Winter, and told them by the Spirit, That if they proceeded in the Voyage, the Ship and Goods wou'd not only be in Danger, but their Lives also. Nevertheless the Captain gave less Credit to Paul than to the Master and Owner of the Ship, who encourag'd them to go on to Phenice, another Haven of Crete more convenient, about 50 Leagues Westward; especially since the Company of the Ship in general desir'd it, and a gentle Gale then blowing favour'd their Design. And thereupon loosing from thence, they still coasted along the Isle; but shortly after there arose a violent North-East Wind, which so furiously bore upon them that the Seamen could not govern the Ship, but were compell'd to leave it the Mercy of the Winds and Waves, which carry'd it to a certain Islet call'd Clanda, on the South-West of Crete; where with much Difficulty they sav'd the Boat, and with no less Labour undergirt the Ship to secure it from splitting. And being still more violently toss'd by the Storm, the next Day they lightned the Ship by parting with the Merchants Goods, and two Days after threw also the Tackle and Furniture of the Vessel overboard: And being depriv'd of the Sight of the Sun, Moon and Stars for many Days together, and being entertain'd with a continu'd Scene of Horror and Amazement, they utterly despair'd of escaping. After a long Abstinence, the Apostle put them in mind how ill advis'd they had been in not taking his Counsel; yet he

He and his Company are in great Danger by a Storm.

he desir'd them to be of good Courage, for that God whom he had serv'd and worship'd, had the last Night purposely sent an Angel from Heaven, to let him know, that notwithstanding the present Danger, he should be brought safe before the Emperor; that they shou'd be shipwreck'd indeed, and cast upon an Island, but that for his Sake God had promis'd to spare all the Lives in the Ship, so that not one shou'd be lost, and that he doubted not but that what had been foretold him wou'd infallibly come to pass.

Acts 27.
27-44. In the fourteenth Night, having been driven along the Adriatick, or rather Mediterranean Sea, above 230 Leagues West from Crete, the Seamen founded, and finding but twenty Fathom of Water, they concluded they were near some Land: And sounding a second Time, and finding but fifteen Fathom, they durst not venture any farther, but let down four Anchors at the Stern, and earnestly wish'd for Day. In the mean Time the Seamen, who best understood the Danger, under Colour of casting Anchor, were letting down the Skiff, designing to trust themselves to that and escape to Land: Which Paul perceiving, told the Captain and the Soldiers, That unless they staid to assist in the Ship, the rest cou'd not be safe; for tho' God had promis'd certainly to save their Lives, yet it was to be with their concurrent Diligence in managing the Ship. Whereupon the Soldiers, for their own Safety, ran and cut the Ropes of the Skiff, and let it fall off into the Sea. And while the Day was approaching, Paul, with the utmost Care and Tendernefs, besought the Company to eat and refresh themselves, that they might the better grapple with the Difficulties they were to encounter, having in all the Time of Danger kept no ordinary and regular Meals; assuring them, That not a Hair of their Head shou'd be lost. Then taking Bread himself, he bless'd God for it, and began to eat, the rest following his Example with great Chearfulness; so great a Comfort and Blessing was this poor despis'd Prisoner to the whole Company. Having well refresh'd themselves, to lighten the Ship, they threw all the Provision that was left into the Sea. In the Morning they discover'd Land, not knowing what Country it was; but discerning a Creek with a kind of a Haven, they resolv'd, if it were possible, to thrust the Ship in there, or at least to bring it as near Land as the Shore wou'd permit. Whereupon the Mariners weigh'd Anchor, loos'd the Rudder Bands, hoisted up the main Sail to the Wind, and made directly for Shore. In their Passage they unexpectedly fell into a Place where two Seas met, where the Vessel ran a-ground; so that the Head of the Ship being fix'd and immovable, the Stern was soon broken in pieces with the Torrent and Violence of the Waves. Awakned with the Danger they were in, the Soldiers cry'd out to kill the Prisoners, to prevent their Escape; but their Captain having some Sense of Paul's Worth, prevented their Design, and commanded that such as could swim shou'd throw themselves first into the Sea, that they might be more helpful to others. And the Issue was, that part by Swimming, part on Planks, and part on broken Pieces of the Ship, they got all safe to Shore. They are cast upon Melita.

Acts 28.
1-10. The Country upon which they were cast was an Island, as Paul had foretold, call'd Melita, now Malta, between Sicily and Africk; the Inhabitants of which were Carthaginians, but subject to the Romans, who receiv'd them with great Civility and Kindness, making them Fires to dry their wet Clothes, and cherish their Bodies benumm'd with Cold. While Paul was busied in throwing a Bundle of Sticks upon the Fire, a Viper dislodg'd by the Heat, came out of the Wood, and fastned on his Hand. Which being espy'd by the Barbarians, they by the Light of Nature concluded, That he was some notorious Malefactor or Murtherer, whom the They are civilly treated by the Inhabitants.

divine Vengeance, tho' it had sav'd him from the Sea, yet had reserv'd for a more publick and solemn Execution. But when they saw him shake that venomous Creature into the Fire, without any succeeding Swelling, or any other Hurt, they chang'd their Sentiments to the other Extream, and cry'd out, That he was a God. And thus was God pleas'd by a new Miracle to confirm the Apostle's Authority, and to make way for the Propagation of the Gospel in this Isle. The Shipwreck of Paul and his Companions being made known to Publius the Roman Governor, he out of Compassion to their Misfortunes, entertain'd them three Days, and lodg'd them with all Civility. Paul gratefully acknowledg'd the Hospitality of this great Man, and requited his Kindness with the miraculous Cure of his Father, who lay sick of a Fever and a bloody Flux at that Time, which he did by Prayers and laying on his Hands. This he did also to many other of the Inhabitants, who by this Miracle were encourag'd to bring their Diseased to him: Whereby great Honours were heap'd upon him, and for which afterwards both he and his Company were furnish'd with Provisions and Conveniencies for the rest of their Voyage. Nay Publius himself is said by some Writers to have been hereby converted to the Faith, and by St. Paul to have been constituted Bishop of the Island; and that it was this Publius that succeeded Dionysius the Areopagite in the See of Athens, and was afterwards crown'd with Martyrdom.

The Death of St. Matthew.

In this Year 60, it is believ'd by several that the Apostle and Evangelist St. Matthew, after an abstemious Life, and innumerable Labours in the Countries of Æthiopia, Persia and Parthia, suffer'd Martyrdom in the City of Naddaber in the Asiatick Æthiopia, being slain with an Halbert. But the Time of his Death is very uncertain, and so likewise is the Place and Manner of it; some reporting that he was martyr'd in Parthia, and others that he died a natural Death. His Feast in the Greek Church is kept on the 16th of November, but the Latin Church celebrates it on the 21st of September. Several Books besides his Gospel, are attributed to him, as the History of the Infancy of Christ, much us'd by the Valentinians, his Æthiopic Liturgy, with some others cited by Metaphrastes; but they are rejected as false and spurious. We have somewhat more Certainty of the Death of the second Evangelist St. Mark, in the following Year, and 8th of Nero, being attested by Eusebius and St. Jerom. This Evangelist having parted from Peter, probably about the Year 54, went to Alexandria in Ægypt, in which City and the Neighbouring Places he converted Multitudes of both Sexes to Christianity. From whence he travel'd Westward to the Countries of Marmarica, Libya, and other barbarous Parts of Africa; where by his Preaching and Miracles he not only made Way for the Gospel, but rooted it in the Minds of those People, and confirm'd them in the Profession of it. After this, returning to Alexandria, to establish that Church by providing Pastors and Governors; in the Time of Easter, while he was employ'd in the Divine Worship, the great Enemy of God and Man rais'd the Promoters of Idolatry into a Tumult against him. It being the Time that their great Solemnities of Serapis were to be celebrated, the prophane Ægyptians, to vindicate their Grand Idol, violently broke in upon Mark, and drag'd him on the Ground through the Streets into Prison; where in the Night he had the Comfort of a Divine Vision. The Rage of the People being yet unsatisfied, they came again the next Morning, and dragging him again after the same Manner, his Flesh was miserably torn, and he expir'd in their Hands. Nor did their Fury end here, for according to Metaphrastes, they also burnt his dead Body, whose Soul had burnt with a fervent Zeal for the Glory of God, and the Salvation of Mankind.

The Death of St. Mark.

As

As for the Θεομαρτυροὶ of Ægypt of whom Philo writes, that they were Christians of St. Mark's Conversion, as Eusebius and Baronius imagine, we can see no Reason to believe. After his Death the Presbyters of the Church made Choice of Anianus to be Bishop in his Room, a Man most eminent for his Piety, and all other Qualifications, who held this Bishoprick 22 Years, from the 8th of Nero to the 4th of Domitian. Anianus succeeds him in Alexandria.

Acts 28.
11-16.

III. The Apostle Paul having made many Converts, and planted a Church in the Isle Melita; at the end of three Months Stay, being generously furnish'd by the Inhabitants, he and his Company left the Place, and set sail for Rome in a Ship of Alexandria, nam'd the CASTOR and POLLUX, which had winter'd in the Isle. In their Passage Northwards, after 40 Leagues sail, they put in at Syracuse, a famous City of Sicily, and tarry'd there three Days; after which they sail'd 54 Leagues farther to Rhegium, a Port and City of Calabria in Italy, from whence by the South Wind they sail'd 80 Leagues farther, and in two Days arriv'd at Putcoli, a Port of Campania, in Italy near Naples, where the Ships of Alexandria usually landed. Here Paul meeting with some Christians, at their Request, tarry'd with them a Week, and then proceeded on his Journey to Rome by Land, which was near 100 Miles. The Christians at Rome hearing that the Apostle was coming to that City, went out to meet him, tho' a Prisoner, some as far as Apia-forum, 51 Miles from Rome, and others as far as the Pace call'd The three Taverns, 33 Miles; and when Paul saw them, he bless'd God, and took Courage, believing that Christianity was not so much hated at Rome as he fear'd; since they had so much Liberty, as that they durst come thus publickly to own him. Arriving at Rome, Julius the Captain deliver'd his Prisoners to the Prætorian Præfect, the Head Commander of the Emperor's Guards, who was then Burrhus, a Man of a good Disposition and Reputation. It is uncertain how he treated the other Prisoners, but he was very obliging to the Apostle, permitting him to dwell in his own hired House or Lodgings, with a Chain and a single Soldier to secure him, more from the Jews, as it's believ'd, than from any Escape. In these Lodgings all were freely admitted to him; and he continu'd in this manner of Living for two Years, teaching and Preaching without any Obstruction. Paul leaves Melita.

17-20.

Rome was now the Metropolis not only of the Roman Empire, but of the whole World, for People and Extent, and for Riches and Magnificence; but the Inhabitants were extremely corrupted in their Morals, by a long Security and bad Princes, and more particularly by the Impieties and Enormities of the present Emperor Nero. This caus'd Paul to be more diligent in his Ministry, but according to his Custom he first offer'd Salvation to the Jews; and three Days after his Arrival he sent for the Heads of their Consistory there, whom he acquainted with the Cause and Manner of his coming, That tho' he had been Guilty of no Violation of the Law of their Religion, yet he had been deliver'd by the Jews into the Hands of the Roman Governors, who wou'd more than once have acquitted him as innocent of any capital Offence, but that by the Perverseness of the other, he was constrain'd, in his own Vindication, without designing to charge his own Nation, to make his Appeal to the Emperor: That now being come, he desir'd some Conference with them, to let them understand, That it was for his constant asserting the Resurrection, the Hope of all true Israelites, that he was bound with that Chain which they saw. The Jews reply'd, That they had receiv'd no Advice concerning him, nor had any of the Nation that came from Judæa, brought any Charge against him: Only for the Religion which he had espous'd, they desir'd to be a little better inform'd concerning That, it being in all Places decry'd He arrives at Rome.

decry'd both by Jew and Gentile. Accordingly the Apostle appointed a set Day, upon which great Numbers of the Jews came to his Lodgings, where he open'd to them at large these two Points; First, That the promis'd Kingdom of the Messiah was a spiritual, and not an earthly Kingdom; Secondly, That Jesus of Nazareth was the true Messiah: Both which he prov'd by Testimonies out of the Law of Moses, and out of the Prophets; continuing his Discourse from Morning till Night. The Effect of it was, that some were convinc'd by the Force of his Arguings, but others persisted in their Infidelity; so that they parted in some Difference and Disagreement among themselves. At their Departure the Apostle to rouse the Unbelievers, told them, That God had accomplish'd in them that propheticall Curse in Isaiah, namely, 'That they shou'd hear with their Ears and not understand, and see with their Eyes and not perceive: For that their Hearts were grown stupid, their Ears deafened, and their Eyes clos'd; lest their Eyes shou'd direct them, and their Ears inform them, their Hearts instruct them, and convert them, and God shou'd heal them. Concluding all with this solemn Declaration, Be it known unto you all, That the Salvation of God is sent unto the Gentiles, and they will undoubtedly hearken to it. Upon their Departure, the Jews had great Disputing among themselves about the Apostle's Discourse, some opposing, others as zealously defending the Truth of it.

His Success.

St. Luke's Gospel written.

During the two Years that the Apostle was a Prisoner at Rome, he receiv'd all that came to him, either out of Curiosity or Kindness, and preach'd the Gospel of Jesus Christ with all Confidence, without any Opposition or Discouragement; infomuch, that his Imprisonment very much promoted the Propagation of the Gospel, and made him famous even in the Emperor's Court where he converted several to Christianity. Many also of the Brethren taking Courage from his Success, grew bolder to preach the Word without Fear; tho' some did it with a pernicious Design of making him more severely persecuted, exciting Nero's Fury at the Progress and Fame of Christianity. Some report, That while Paul continu'd at Rome, he had a Correspondence with the famous Seneca by Letters; but those Letters which now bear their Names, are rejected as spurious by all the learned World. And now the Apostle's Companion Luke being at Leisure, set about the third Gospel, which he compos'd by the particular Assistance of St. Paul; and it is generally believ'd that this is what the Apostle primarily intends when he so often speaks of his Gospel. The Evangelist dedicated it to one Theophilus, with the Title of Most Excellent, who probably was some Magistrate of Antioch, converted and baptiz'd by him. The Occasion of it was partly to prevent those false and fabulous Relations which even then began to be obtruded upon the World, and partly to supply what seem'd wanting in the two former Evangelists; tho' it is not certain whether he had seen St. Matthew's Gospel when he wrote this. It begins at the Angel Gabriel's foretelling John Baptist's Birth, and ends with the Ascension of our blessed Saviour; so that it is an History including, according to a precise Reckoning, 38 Years wanting one Month; four Years more than the vulgar Account: All containing much more Variety, and written in purer Greek than the former Gospels; tho' not wholly free from Hebraisms or Syriacisms. He mainly insists upon what relates to Christ's sacerdotal Office, and tho' recording other Parts of the Evangelical Story, yet it is ever with a peculiar Respect to his Priesthood; a Thing properly aim'd at by him who was a Gentile, and assisted by an Apostle of the Uncircumcision, because it shew'd the Christian Priesthood to be more excellent than the Jewish. Therefore in our Saviour's Genealogy, he design'd not so much much to shew him to be the Seed of Abraham, in whom the Jews trusted, as the Seed of the Woman, in whom Gentiles were also to expect Salvation; and in other Parts of his Gospel he is very particular in those Discourses or Parables of our Saviour which relate to the Rejection of the Jews and the Call of the Gentiles. As to those Passages concerning our Saviour's weeping over Jerusalem, and concerning his sweating Drops of Blood, which were wanting in some Copies, they are abundantly supply'd in others more ancient; and 'tis believ'd that they were scrupulously omitted by some who were afraid of ascribing to Jesus Christ any Marks of human Weakness. Some are of Opinion that this Gospel was written eight Years before, at Corinth when St. Paul was there; but the Time that we have fix'd seems much more probable, viz. in the Year 61, which was 28 after our Lord's Ascension.

In this Year, Judæa being grievously infested with Robbers and Murderers, the Governor Festus prov'd very serviceable to the Nation in quelling and suppressing them; especially those, who with their short Swords hid under their Garments, committed intolerable Outrages even in Jerusalem it self. And as the People were ready to follow after all false Messiahs and Impostors, so great Numbers were led into the Desert after a Magician, who promis'd them a Deliverance from all their Troubles; but Festus by a strong Party of Horse and Foot, at once destroy'd both the Deceiver and the Deceived. About the same Time, Agrippa now residing at Jerusalem, erected a stately Building within the Palace, which formerly belong'd to the Asmoneans, being situated on a high Place with a pleasant Prospect, from whence the King with Delight cou'd behold not only the City, but also what was done within the spacious Courts of the Temple. The chief Men of the City were highly disgusted at this Building, since the Law had forbidden any Man to behold the Sacrifices and Oblations; therefore to prevent such Prophanation, they erected an high Wall upon the Top of the Western Cloysters, which not only hinder'd the Prospect of the King's House, but of that Building also where the Roman Soldiers on publick Days kept Guard. Agrippa was highly offended at this, and Festus still more, who commanded the Wall to be pull'd down; but they beg'd Leave of him first to send their Ambassadors to the Emperor, alleging, It was Death to them to pull down any Part of the Temple. And sending ten of their Nobility with Ismael the High-Priest, and Chelcias the Treasurer, Nero by the Intercession of Poppæa, not only pardon'd what they had done, but also order'd that their Building shou'd continue. But Ismael and Chelcias were detain'd as Hostages; and Agrippa, who had the Power of disposing of the Priesthood, remov'd Ismael, after he had continu'd in that Office near four Years, and plac'd Joseph, surnam'd Cabis, the Son of Simon a former High-Priest, in his Room, who was the 14th High-Priest after the Birth of our Saviour. But in a very short Time Agrippa commanded him to lead a private Life, and advanc'd in his stead Ananus the Son of Annus, who was one of the five Brothers who all enjoy'd this Dignity.

About the same Time the Apostle James, tho' particularly Bishop of Jerusalem, yet having by his apostolical Function an unlimited Commission, thought it suitable to his Office to take Care of all the Converted among the twelve Tribes of Israel dispers'd in all Countries; and accordingly he wrote an Epistle to them, which in the sacred Canon is plac'd first of those call'd Catholick Epistles. We are assur'd, That not only in the most ancient Latin Copies, but also in some of the Greek Copies, he has the Title of an Apostle given him in the Inscription, tho' in ours it is otherwise. The Occasion of his Writing it, as St. Austin says, 'was to suppress

‘ and confute a dangerous Error then growing up in the Church, That a ‘ bare naked Faith was sufficient to secure Men’s Salvation, tho’ good Works ‘ were neglected; as also another Doctrine of as bad a Source, That ‘ God was the Author of Sin; and likewise to comfort the Christians ‘ against the frequent Troubles and Persecutions rais’d against them by ‘ the worldly Powers, and to awaken them out of their stupid Security,
 ‘ when Judgments were at the Door: To compass which Ends he fill’d
 ‘ his Epistle with many excellent Exhortations, to bear Afflictions, to hear ‘ the Word of God, to mortifie their Lusts, to bridle their Tongue and ‘ avoid Swearing; to get right Apprehensions of the Nature of God, and ‘ to adorn their Christian Profession with a good Conversation, with ‘ Meekness, Peace and Charity; lastly, teaching them how to behave ‘ themselves in Times of approaching Miseries. He likewise intimated ‘ something concerning the Jewish Custom of Anointing the Sick, and of ‘ the Confession of Faults which Christians ought to make to each other.
 The whole is wrote with abundance of Simplicity and Substance, full of engaging, solid and natural Thoughts, worthy of an apostolical Pen.
 This is one of the Epistles that have been a little doubted; but tho’
Eusebius and St. Jerom have observ’d, that some Persons question’d the Authority of it, yet ’tis certain that in their Time it was in the Canon of the new Testament, as they themselves own; and it is also found in all the ancient Canons of the Greek and Latin Churches, and quoted by the Fathers of the second and third Century.

 of Judæa.

Not long after, the Governor Festus dying in his Province, Nero sent <sup>12th</sup> Albinus in his Room; who was the twelfth Governor of Judæa after the <sup>Engl.</sup> Banishment of Archelaus, and the sixth after the Death of King Herod Agrippa. Before his Arrival, in this Interval, the unbelieving Jews, who having been disappointed in their Designs against Paul, had turn’d their Fury against James, now found an Opportunity to effect their Purposes; which they did by means of the High-Priest Ananus, a bold and daring Sadducee, who call’d a Council of the chief Men of the Jews, who were Enemies to Christianity. James and several others were brought before this Council; but the People had so great a Veneration for the Justice and Sanctity of James, that they durst not attempt him by a formal Accusation, and therefore the Pharisees assaulted him another Way, and by subtle Insinuations thought to insnare him. Wherefore complaining to him, That the People were miserably deceiv’d, and led away with some Errors concerning Jesus being the Messiah; they earnestly desir’d him that he wou’d recover them from their Errors by his Word; which they were all ready to believe, because they had such an Opinion of his Virtue and Sincerity, that they wou’d immediately yield to his Judgment. It was now the Time of the Passover, and the Multitude was come together to the Feast; wherefore setting him upon some of the Battlements of the Temple where all might hear him, they said, Tell us, O just Man, in whom we all put our Confidence, what we are to believe concerning Jesus, who was crucify’d? To whom the Apostle made Answer with an audible Voice, Jesus the Son of Man, after whom you enquire, now sits at the right Hand of the divine Majesty, as the Son of God, and shall come again in the Clouds of Heaven. The People below hearing it, glorify’d the blessed Jesus, and openly proclaim’d Hosannah to the Son of David! The Scribes and Pharisees now perceiving their Mistake, and that instead of weakning they had confirm’d the People in their Opinion, in a great Rage resolv’d to dispatch him immediately, that his sad Fate might terrifie others from believing him. Whereupon suddenly crying out, That Justus himself was seduc’d and become an Impostor, they threw him down from from the Place where he stood. Tho' much bruised, he was not kill'd by the Fall, but recover'd so much Strength, as to get upon his Knees, and pray to Heaven for their Pardon, for they knew not what they did. Thus did not satisfy their Malice, but inrag'd at their Disappointment, they fell afresh upon the poor Remainers of his Life; and while he was yet at Prayer, and a Rechabite stood by entreating them to spare a just and righteous Man who was praying for them, they began to load him with a Shower of Stones, till one more mercifully cruel than the rest, with a Fuller's Club beat out his Brains. His Death prov'd to the infinite Regret of all good Men, and of all sober and just Persons among the Jews themselves; he being a Man of that divine Temper, that he was the Love and Wonder of his Age, and upon the Account of his strict and pious Life, was universally stil'd James the Just. His Temperance was admirable, abstaining both from Flesh and Wine; and he was so frequent in his Devotions, that his Knees became hard and brawny as a Camel's; and Josephus himself confesses that his Death hastned the Ruin of his Nation. His Feast by the Latin Church is celebrated on May the 1st with St. Philip's, but by the Greek Church on the 23d of October.

*St. James's

Diseb. The Bishoprick of Jerusalem being void, according to Eusebius, the providing for that Place was so far thought the Concernment of the Christian Church, that the Apostles and Disciples of our Lord are said to have come from all Parts to advise and consult about a fit Successor in his Room. None was thought a fit Candidate for the Place but one of our Saviour's own Relations; and accordingly with one Consent they devolv'd the Honour upon Simeon or Simon, St. James's own Brother, about 75 Years of Age, and one of the Seventy Disciples, whom they all judg'd most worthy of the Dignity. At the Time of St. James's Martyrdom, we are told by some, that Ananus the High-Priest apprehended the Apostle Matthias in Galilee, and had him brought before him, and making a long Speech to him, after he found him contrary to his Exhortations asserting Jesus of Nazareth to be the Messiah, he condemn'd him to be stoned, and the Sentence was immediately executed. But of this, or of any other Account of St. Matthias's Death, we have but slender Authorities. He was one of those Apostles who left no Writings behind him; tho' a Gospel and some few other Things have been ascrib'd to him. The Greeks celebrate his Feast on the 9th of August, and the Latins on the 24th of February. As for Ananus, his Actions and Proceedings against St. James were so very displeasing to all good Men in the City, that they not only complain'd of him to King Agrippa, but also several of them went to meet with their new Governor Albinus in his Way to Alexandria, remonstrating that he had not only acted unjustly, but also exceeded his Authority. Upon which Albinus wrote an angry Letter to Ananus, threatening him with Punishment; and for the same Cause Agrippa dispossest him of his High-Priesthood, after he had held it three Months, and establish'd Jesus the Son of Damnæus in his Room, who was the 16th High-Priest after our Saviour's Nativity.

Joseph. Not long after the Settlement of Albinus in his Government, being at Jerusalem at the Feast of Tabernacles, when that City for a while enjoy'd both Peace and Plenty, four Years before the Jewish Wars, and seven Years and six Months before the Siege of the City, there hapned the first great Prefage of its Ruin. And this was from an ordinary Countryman, one Jesus the Son of Ananus, who coming to the Feast, began suddenly to cry out, A Voice from the East, a Voice from the West, a Voice from the four Winds; a Voice against Jerusalem and the Temple, a Voice against new marry'd Persons, a Voice against all this People ! And thus crying Night and Day about the Streets, some of the Nobility growing uneasie, caus'd him to be very severely scourg'd ; which he endur'd without any Intreaties or Complaints, but continu'd repeating the same Words. The Magistrates then fearing it some divine Impulse, led him to Albinus, where being beaten till his Bones appear'd, he never shed one Tear, but framing a weeping Voice, at every Stroak he cry'd, Woe, woe, to Jerusalem ! Albinus then ask'd him, Who, and what he was, and why he made that Outcry ? but he made no Answer, but still continu'd to bewail Jerusalem ; till the Governor thinking him mad, suffer'd him to depart. He cry'd thus mostly on the Feast Days, for above seven Years together, without being hoarse or weary, till the Siege began. And leaving for some Days, he once more cry'd, Woe to the City, Temple and People, adding also a Woe to himself ; and immediately after was kill'd with a Stone shot out of an Engine. Shortly after the Feast of Tabernacles, Agrippa gave the High-Priesthood to Jesus the Son of Gamaliel, and the other Jesus parting with it unwillingly, it caus'd great Mischiefs and Disturbances in the City. And great Numbers of Robbers and Assassins taking the Advantage of troublesome Times, from that Time the Jewish State grew worse and worse, and the Seeds of their future Destruction were now sown. Albinus also prov'd an intolerable Governor, not only taking away private Mens Goods under Pretence of Justice, but also burthening the Nation with extraordinary Tributes ; and then being brib'd by all Kinds of Villains, he became the Encourager of infinite Ravages and Disorders.

IV. During these Troubles in Judaea, the Emperor Nero more and more proceeded in his Enormities and Cruelties, the Cares of Burrhus and Seneca now nothing availing. In this Year, and the ninth of his Reign, Burrhus dy'd, not without Suspicion of Poison from Nero's Agents, which so weakened the Interest and Authority of Seneca, that seeing himself despis'd, he prudently desir'd Permission to withdraw himself, offering also to deliver up his large Estate, which had created him so much Envy ; but Nero having learn'd and practis'd the Art of Dissimulation, under Colour of Respect, deny'd his Petition ; but Seneca from that Time alter'd his Course of Life, admitted of few Visits, and always appear'd with a very small Retinue. For Nero now began to display his sanguinary Temper without Mercy or Discretion, and unjustly put many eminent Persons to Death, among the rest Rubellius-Plautus and Pallas, the former for being of the Julian Family, and the latter for being rich, a Crime for which many suffer'd ; then proceeding in his Cruelties, he divorc'd and banish'd his Wife and Predecessor's Daughter Octavia, upon the Account of his Concubine Poppaea, whom he now marry'd ; and when the People murmur'd at this Injury, he afterwards caus'd her to be put to Death. In the midst of these uncomfortable Times in Rome, the Apostle Paul, still under Confinement, proceeded in his Ministry with indefatigable Diligence, and no less Success, tho' not without many Crosses and Afflictions from obstinate and designing Brethren. The Christians of Philippi in Macedonia, where he had been three Times, who before had been very bountiful to him, gave him special Signs of their Care of him during his Imprisonment at Rome ; for they sent to him Epaphroditus their Bishop, with a large Supply of Money, and to assist his Person in their stead, in effecting of which he was expos'd to so many Dangers, that he fell into a Disease that endanger'd his Life, and detain'd him a long Time at Rome. The Philippians heard of his Sickness, and were much troubled ; for which Reason, the Apostle sent him to Philippi,

Philippi, as soon as he was recover'd, and with him an Epistle to the Philippians, which is that which now bears that Name. It is written in the Name of Paul and Timothy, and particularly directed to the Bishops, or rather Presbyters, and Deacons of the Church; ' manifesting a special Love ' and Tenderness for them, and Joy for their Bounty to him, not so much ' for his own Sake, who had learnt to endure the extremest Want, as for ' theirs, who shou'd receive so great a Reward from God. He writ to them ' as a Father, exhorting them to walk as Children of the Light, and to shine ' as Stars among the Gentiles with whom they were mix'd; warning them of ' Judaizing Teachers, who were Enemies to the Cross of Christ; and advi- ' sing them to live in continual Obedience to Christ; to avoid Disputations, ' to delight in Prayer, to be constant in Afflictions, to be full of Joy and Peace. ' He besought them also to live in perfect Union; and since Union cou'd not ' be preserv'd without Humility, which caus'd Men to prefer others before ' themselves, he propounded the Example of the blessed Jesus, who so far ' humbled himself as to become obedient to Death, even the Death of the ' Cross: Particularly recommending this Union to Evodias and Syntiche, ' two pious Women of that Church, and his Fellow-Labourers in the Go- ' spel, who notwithstanding had some Difference with the Brethren, desi- ' ring one of the chief Pastors, whom he call'd his Yoke-Fellow, to compose ' the Dissentions. He likewise told them, That he design'd to send Timothy ' to them, and afterwards hop'd to see them himself; for tho' he long'd to ' die and to be with Christ, yet he knew that God wou'd continue him in ' Life, for their Comfort, and the Encrease of their Faith. This was the seventh Epistle that the Apostle wrote; having writ nothing for above five Years before.

St. Paul's Epistle to the Philippians.

Shortly after the Apostle turn'd his Thoughts towards the Christians at Ephesus, among whom he had labour'd more, and continu'd longer than in any other City, namely, three Years, from 54 to 57. He had been inform'd that the Believers of that Church continu'd in the Faith, and in Charity; but fearing that they might suffer themselves to be surpriz'd at length, either with the Fables of heretical Teachers, or by the Discourses of those converted Jews, who wou'd oblige the Christians to observe their Law, he wrote an Epistle to them to encourage them to continue firm in the Doctrine which he had taught them. It is written only in his own Name, and directed not only to those of Ephesus, but also to other Believers; so that it is generally believ'd, that it was a circular Letter directed to the Church of Ephesus, for all the Churches of the Proconsular Asia: And probably for this Reason the Heretick Marcion afterwards intituled it, The Epistle to the Laodiceans. ' In this Epistle he first commends the Faith and Charity of the Ephesians; ' but his main Design was to instruct them fully in the great Mysteries of ' the Gospel, their Redemption and Justification by the Death of Jesus Christ, their gratuitous Election, the Calling of the Gentiles, the Union of ' the Jews and Gentiles in one Body, of which Jesus Christ was the Head, ' and the glorious Exaltation of that Head above all Creatures both Spiritual ' and Temporal. This is the Subject of the three first Chapters, where the ' Style is somewhat hard and obscure, by Reason of the Sublimity of the ' Matter there handled, his Tongue being not able to express fully the ' Depth and Greatness of his Thoughts. It is believ'd that here he oppos'd ' not only the Judaizing Christians of that Church, but also the Scholars ' of Simon Magus, and other Hereticks, who now began to assume to them- ' selves the Name of Gnosticks, who held that Angels were Mediators be- ' tween God and Man instead of Jesus Christ, and that Persons ought ' to have Recourse to them for Reconciliation. And since these Hereticks ' did no less oppose an holy Life, than they did the Truth, therefore the

 ‘ Precepts for the ordering of a Christian Life in all Conditions. This Epistle was sent by Tychicus, to whom the Apostle gave the Character of Dear Brother, a faithful Minister of Jesus Christ, and his Companion in the Service of the Gospel, that he might take Care of the Ephesian Church in the Absence of Timothy their Bishop.

Onesimus converted.

Amongst other of the Apostle’s Converts at Rome was Onesimus, who of a Slave, Renegado and Thief, became a faithful Servant of Christ; and was thought worthy to be call’d by Paul, His dear and faithful Brother, his Son, his Boswells, Himself. He was a Native of Colosse, a City of Phrygia, near the Metropolis Laodicea, and a Servant of Philemon, an eminent Christian there, and an intimate Friend of the Apostle’s. Onesimus, always a bad Servant, at length robb’d his Master, and fled to Rome, where by Paul’s Endeavours he was converted, instructed and baptiz’d; after which he became remarkably pious, and extremely serviceable to the Apostle in his Imprisonment, so that he was very desirous to have kept him with him, but because he had not his Master Philemon’s Consent, he sent him to Colosse, writing a short Epistle to him at the same Time, ‘ desiring him to pardon him, and notwithstand‘ ing his former Faults, to use him as a Brother; promising also, that if he ‘ had wrong’d him or ow’d him any thing, he wou’d repay it. And that ‘ this Epistle might the more easily obtain what he desir’d of Philemon, in ‘ the Title he saluted his Wife Apphia, and his Partner Archippus the Pastor ‘ of the Church: letting him know that he hop’d to be freed, and be with ‘ him in a short Time. This Epistle was sent by Onesimus and Tychicus; and

His Epistle to the Colossians.

at the same Time he sent another Epistle to all the Christians in the same City Colosse; a City where this Apostle had never preach’d, but the Gospel which had spread it self in all the World, had taken Root amongst them, and brought forth much Fruit. Epaphras had been their chief Instructor, who also had given Paul an Account of their Conversion, and mutual Love in the Spirit, being then a Prisoner with him at Rome; and Paul being satisfy’d of this, always remember’d them in his Prayers, desiring of God that they might be fill’d with all spiritual Wisdom, and walk worthy of their Vocation. But the Enemy had sow’d among the good Corn the Tares of Philosophy, and a false Humility; for the Seducers of those Times endeavour’d to persuade the Colossians, that they ought not to go to God by Jesus Christ, being so far exalted above them, but by Angels, whom they asserted to be their Mediators in such a Sense as only agreed to the Son of God: Which Error seems to have been deriv’d from the Plato- nists; but because they who then held it added some Jewish Observations, they are rather to be reckon’d among the Scholars of Simon Magus, or of some Jews who sought to mix the Law and the Gospel together. Paul perhaps had heard this partly from Epaphras, and partly by a Letter he receiv’d from the Church of Laodicea; and therefore having a common Concern for all the Churches of Christ, both as a Minister and an Apostle of the Gentiles, he had a great Desire to comfort their Minds, and unite them in perfect Charity, by an Epistle, the Design of which was in some Measure the same with that to the Ephesians. ‘ In it he most magnificently sets ‘ forth the Messiah and all the Benefits flowing from him, as being the I‘ mage of his Father, the Redeemer of all Mankind, and Reconciler of ‘ all Things to God, the Head of the Church, which gave Life and Vi‘ gor to all its Members. He commended the Doctrine preach’d to them ‘ by Epaphras, exhorting them not to suffer themselves to be beguil’d of ‘ their Reward in Obeying, by being led away with the Reasonings of hu‘ man Philosophy, by superstitious Practices of making Differences of ‘ Meats and Drinks, and by worshiping of Angels. In the three last ‘ Chapters.

- Chapters, he gave them an Abstract of many chief and principal Duties of
- the Christian Life, especially such as respected the Relations of Parents,
- Wives, Masters and Servants.

After the Apostle Paul had been above four Years a Prisoner to the Roman A.D. 63. Power, of which two were spent at the City of Rome, he was then freed from all Confinement, being found not guilty of the Breach of any Roman Law. Ner.  $\frac{2}{10}$
 About which Time the Evangelist Luke wrote his second History call'd The Acts of the Apostles, which he dedicated to the same Theophilus to whom St. Luke writes the Acts of the Apostles. he had dedicated his Gospel; the one containing the Miracles of Jesus Christ, and the other those of the Holy Ghost. In the first he wrote such Things as he had from the Relation of others; in the second, those of which he had been in part an Eye-Witness. It is entitled Acts, Πράξεις, of the Apostles, because it contains the History of what the Apostles did at Jerusalem and Judæa, for about a dozen Years after the Ascension of our Saviour. After which he continues his History with the Travels, Actions and Sermons of St. Paul, till the End of his two Years Confinement at Rome. So that it is an History of thirty Years Transactions; the former Part principally containing the Acts of the two Apostles of the Circumcision Peter and John, with the Preaching of the Gospel to the Jews, and the latter those of the two Apostles of the Uncircumcision Paul and Barnabas, with the Planting and Progress of the Gospel among the Gentiles. He says nothing of the Travels and Progress of the other Apostles, because he had not been a Witness of them, and cou'd not learn them from his Master St. Paul. It is writ both with Eloquence and Art; and the Narrative has no less Sublimity than Simplicity. And St. Jerom says, That all the Words of that Work, compos'd by one who was a Physician by Profession, were as so many Cures for a languishing Soul.

The Apostle Paul being now releas'd from his Bonds, remembering that he was an Apostle of the Gentiles, and had a larger Diocess than Rome, left the City to travel into other Parts of the World, having made a plentiful Harvest in that vast Place. About the Time of his Departure, or immediately after, being in Italy, upon the Return of Timothy, he wrote his famous and most elaborate Epistle to the Hebrews, that is, to the converted Jews dwelling in Jerusalem and Judæa, the Jews of other Countries being call'd Hellenists; and many think that he design'd it for a Treatise and not an Epistle; for tho' it be one of the longest of his Pieces, he yet excus'd its Brevity, Chap. 13. 22. These Hebrew Converts now dwelt in an accurs'd Land, surrounded with many Troubles and Calamities, heavy Persecutions both from Jews and Gentiles pressing in upon them on every Side, besides a specious Train of plausible Insinuations to reduce them to their ancient Mosaick Institutions, to which many had turn'd of late, apostatizing from the Purity of the Christian Faith. Wherefore partly to warn and instruct them, and partly to encourage and support them, he wrote this celebrated Epistle; but he neither prefix'd his Name nor Title to it, as well because these Believers themselves had entertain'd a Prejudice against him, as because he was not properly their Apostle; Clemens Alex. adds, because of the Reverence he bore to Jesus Christ himself, who was the Apostle of the Hebrews. St. Paul's Epistle to the Hebrews.
 • His Design in this Epistle, as in those to the
 • Romans and Galatians, was principally to prove, That Justification was
 • not by the Law, but by Faith in Jesus Christ, who had communicated
 • his Spirit to them; and this he does by shewing the Insufficiency of the • Legal Sacrifices for that End, as he had done in the Epistle to the Ro-
 • mans of the Moral Law and Works perform'd without the Grace of • Christ, and in that to the Galatians of the Ceremonies and Circumcision.
 • To make this Truth plain, he represented to them the Dignity of the • Son

' Son of God, as far above all Angels and created Beings; and as to his ' Office of Messiah, he prov'd him to be a greater Lawgiver than Moses,
 ' a greater Priest than Aaron, and a greater King and Priest than Melchisedeck.
 ' He demonstrated, That the Ceremonies, the Sacrifices and the Observa' tions of the Law, cou'd have no Virtue in themselves, but only as they ' were Types and Figures of a better Sacrifice Jesus Christ; and that they ' were accomplish'd in his Person and by his Ministry, and consequently ' were finally and totally abolish'd. He shew'd by the Examples of the Pa' triarchs and Prophets, That Justification was by Faith alone; and in the ' whole Epistle he mingled many excellent Precepts for the Regulation of ' their Lives; exhorting them in the midst of their Sufferings to repose an ' immovable Trust in Jesus Christ, and arming them against Apostacy from ' that excellent Religion wherein they had so happily engag'd themselves.
 This Epistle is full of excellent Allegories, and of noble Thoughts ex-press'd in a sublime Manner; and in a Word, it is the most accurate and methodical of all his Epistles, the most equal in all its Parts, and where he treats of the same Matter in the profoundest Way, and with the largest Extent. This is the 11th Epistle that St. Paul wrote, which many think was originally in the Hebrew or Syriack Tongue, and shortly after translated into Greek by some other Hand; and others think that St. Paul dictated the Matter to St. Luke, by whom it was form'd into an elegant Style.
 Indeed the Want of the Inscription has given Occasion to some particular Men to dispute the Author of it, and also its being Canonical; some attributing it to St. Luke or Clemens, others to Barnabas: But St. Jerom as-surcs us that all the Eastern Churches and Greek Fathers receiv'd it as St. Paul's, and the Latins have follow'd them; and Theodoret reproves the Arians for rejecting this Epistle contrary to the Authority of the Church. In short, the Epistle it self, as well as the Churches Authority, shews it to be St. Paul's; and all the Disputes about it began in the third Century, and vanish'd in the fifth.

The Apostle having left Rome and Italy, according to his Promise in his Epistle to the Romans, sail'd Westward and preach'd the Gospel in Spain, as we learn from St. Clemens, Theodoret and others; and many are of Opinion that he went as far as Britain, which indeed is very uncertain. After he had preach'd about eight or nine Months in these Western Parts, he return'd again Eastward, and leaving both Sicily and Greece, arriv'd at Crete, probably about the latter End of the Year 63. After he had preach'd a while, and establish'd some Churches, in the Beginning of the following Year, he constituted Titus Bishop of the Island, to manage the Government and Administration of it, as all the Ancients assure us. St. Paul also tells Titus in his Epistle, Chap. 1. 5. That for that Cause he had left him in Crete, namely to set in Order the Things that were wanting, and to or-dain Presbyters in every City, as he had appointed him. By Presbyters or Elders, both St. Chrysostome and Theodoret say he means Bishops; the former adding, That the Apostle was not willing that the Administration of so large an Isle shou'd be left to one Person, but that every City might have its proper Governor to inspect and take Care of it, that the Burthen might be lighter, and the People attended with greater Diligence. After this Settlement Paul leaving the Isle, is suppos'd to go with Timothy into Judea, to visit the Chri- stians in those Parts, according as he design'd Heb. 13. 23. but of this we have no great Certainty.

St. Peter settles
at Rome.

V. In the Beginning of this Year, and the 10th of Nero, or in the latter End of the last, the Apostle Peter in all Probability came and settled at Rome;
 and that he did settle there, we have the Authority of most of the Ancients:
 That

That it was in the latter Part of his Life, and in Nero's Reign, we are assur'd from Origen and Lactantius: That it was not before the Year 63, is highly probable from St. Paul's Silence in his Epistles from Rome; and that it was not after the Year 64, is apparent from Lactantius; who says he came before Nero's Persecution, which began in that Year, and was one main Occasion of it. This Apostle, besides the Eastern Parts formerly mention'd, is said to have preach'd in Africk, Sicily, Italy, and also in Britain, making great Numbers of Converts in all Places. Arriving at Rome, he found the Peoples Minds strangely bewitch'd, and hardned against Christianity by the infernal Arts of Simon Magus, whom he had formerly defeated at Samaria; who after infinite Mischiefs in other Places, at Rome had so insinuated himself into the Peoples Favour that according to Justin Martyr, they erected him a Statue with this Inscription, Simoni Deo Sancto, To Simon the Holy God. But the Credit of this Inscription seems much weakned, tho' we cannot say overthrown, by another found in the last Age in the same Place, very like this, viz. Simonis fango Deo fidio, &c. However it is certain, that this Simon by Means of his Sorceries obtain'd a great Veneration from the Romans, and no small Favour from the Emperor Nero, who was a profess'd Patron of Magicians, and all such as maintain'd secret Ways of Commerce with the infernal Powers. His great Progress provok'd the Indignation of Peter, who finding him still pretending himself some great Person, yea and the Messiah, cou'd not but zealously oppose his presumptuous Arrogancy. But Simon, more incens'd by the Opposition, made some bold Challenges to the Apostle; in which being continually worsted, he at length offer'd to give the People such an evident Demonstration of his Power, as was beyond Contradiction; for he wou'd, he said, immediately ascend up into Heaven as the Son of God: Whereupon he rais'd himself up into the Air by the Help of two invisible Devils, as in a Chariot of Fire like Elijah, and by his Magical Power seem'd to be posting to Heaven. The Apostle seeing this Delusion betook himself to Prayers, and obtain'd of God that for the Honour of his Son, the Impostor shou'd be discover'd. Whereupon his two Spirits were taken from him, and being deserted, he fell Headlong to the Ground; and was so bruised and wounded, that he dy'd shortly after. This Story, related at large by Hegesippus the younger, is by most thought fabulous; but it is generally acknowledg'd by good Writers, that Simon Magus did really receive an intire Defeat from this Apostle at Rome.

His second Defeat of Simon Magus.

And here it may not be improper to take some Notice of the Dogmata and Heresies first broach'd by Simon, and then vented and propagated by his Disciples and Followers; who tho' passing under different Titles, yet all center'd afterwards in the Name of Gnosticks. One of their Opinions was, That God did not create the World, but that it was made by Angels, and that therefore divine Honours were due to them, and they were to be ador'd as subordinate Mediators between God and Man: An Opinion from which the Church was not freed for several Ages. Another Principle was, That Men might freely and indifferently eat what had been offer'd to Idols, yea and sacrifice to the Idol it self, it being lawful confidently to abjure the Faith in Time of Persecution. Besides these, Simon and his Followers made the Gate yet wider, maintaining an universal Licence to sin, That Men might act as they were inclin'd, That Women might be common, That there wou'd be no Resurrection of the Body, tho' the Soul was Immortal, That to press the Observance of good Works was inconsistent with the Gospel Liberty; That if Men believ'd Simon and his Concubine Hellen, they had no Reason to regard Law or Prophets, but shou'd be sav'd by Grace without any Works. As the Consequence of their Principles, Irenæus tells us, they liv'd in all Lust and Impurity, and wallow'd in the most horrible and unheard-of Bestialities. By these and such like Principles and Practices, of which many more might be enumerated, they corrupted the Faith of Christians, distracted the Peace of Christ's Church, and stain'd and defil'd the Honour and Purity of the best Religion in the World.

Nero's Enormities.

The Defeat of Simon, and the Success of Peter was highly displeasing to Nero; who now more and more abounded in his Enormities and Vices. After he had imbru'd his Hands in the Blood of his Brother, his Mother, and his Wife, and many of the Nobility, he so wretchedly debas'd himself as to become a common Player, a Charioteer, and a publick Singer; and this Year fell into prodigious Impieties, and unheard-of Pollutions: And as nothing is so monstrous as Lust when it is unconfined, so it brought him into the most extravagant Follies, and unnatural Inconsistencies, that cou'd enter into human Minds. After he had exhausted his Invention in his lewd Feasts and Banquets, having attir'd himself in the Habit of a Woman and a Bride, he was wedded to one of his abominable Companions call'd Pythagoras, and again to his Freed Man Doriphorus; after which he became an Husband to a Boy call'd Sporus, who being emasculated, was cloath'd with all the Ornaments of an Empress, and accompany'd by the Emperor in the most publick Places: Which occasion'd several to say, That the World had been happy, had Nero's Father been marry'd only to such a Spouse. His unbounded Lust and exorbitant Luxury daily encreas'd the Rage of his fierce and bloody Mind, and he became cruel even to a Proverb, destroying such Numbers, that he rather appear'd a Devil Incarnate, than a Man; likewise boasting of his Actions, and saying, That none of his Predecessors knew their own Power. He often said, That he had rather be hated than lov'd, because Men lov'd him according to their own Humors, but hated him according to His; and when a Person in his Presence said as a Proverb, When I am dead let the World be burnt; Nay, reply'd he, let it be while I am alive. And not long after this, being offended at the Narrowness of the Streets and Irregularity of the Buildings, or ambitious of founding a new City, he caus'd Rome to be set on Fire in several Places; getting himself upon Mecænas's Tower, beholding the miserable Desolation with infinite Pleasure and Delight, and in a Player's Habit sung, The Destruction of Troy. The Fire continu'd above six Days, consuming innumerable Rows of stately and glorious Buildings and Temples, with Riches, Goods and Merchandise of inestimable Value; destroying great Numbers of People, and laying near three Quarters of this vast City in Ashes. This Fire began on the 19th of July, and the Year 64, and almost immediately preceded, and was one wicked Occasion of, the first General Persecution of the Church, which happen'd 31 Years after our blessed Saviour's Ascension.

The FIRST GENERAL PERSECUTION.

Tacit.

IMMEDIATELY after the Emperor Nero had committed the execrable Fact of burning the most glorious City in the Universe, he seem'd to have some Remorse, and began to fear the Rage and Resentments of an injur'd People. Therefore he not only us'd the utmost Expedition in re-edifying the City, but likewise all other Methods that human Policy cou'd suggest: Large Gifts were bestow'd on the meaner Sort; the Books of the Sybils were consulted to appease the incenied Gods; Processions and publick Prayers were made to Vulcan, Ceres and Proserpine; the young Ladies, to propitiate Juno, made Sacrifices at the Capitol; and the marry'd Women celebrated solemn Vigils to the Honour of other Deities. Yet all these Gifts, Largesses, Ceremonies and Sacrifices, were not sufficient to save the Emperor's Reputation, or remove the Suspicion of his being the Author of this strange Tragedy. Wherefore to divert the Suspicion from himself, being excited by an infernal Malice, he turn'd all the Odium upon the innocent Christians, who he knew were hated in the utmost Degree by the looser Sort, and proceeded against them as the Incendiaries and the Actors in this Calamity. Lactantius adds, That St. Peter being now at Rome, by his many Miracles and his numerous Converts excited Nero's Fury against the Christians; and finding that great Multitudes, not only in Rome, but in all other Places, were daily falling from Idolatry, and were turning to this new Religion, and being transported by his brutal Tyranny to all Sorts of Cruelty, he set himself first of all to destroy this Religion, and to persecute the Servants of God. So that this is properly call'd, The first general Persecution of the Church; not but that the Church had often met with Persecution from particular Nations and People; but, as Tertullian expresses it, Nero was the first who drew the Imperial Sword against the Christians, then greatly flourishing in Rome. Tiberius seem'd a Favourer of the Sect, Caligula did not disturb them, and Claudius, tho' he banish'd several from Rome, yet it was under the particular Denomination of Jews.

A.D. 64.
Nero <sup>10</sup>/<sub>12</sub>

As for the Particulars of this Persecution, Tacitus tells us, That at first several were seiz'd who made Profession of this new Religion; and by their Confession infinite Numbers of others were detected and executed, whom the common Hatred, and not the Burning of the City, had made criminal. He adds, That they were treated with all the Instances of Scorn and Cruelty; some of them were wrapt up in the Skins of wild Beasts, and worry'd and devour'd by Dogs; others were crucify'd; others burnt alive, being clad in Paper Coats, dipt in Pitch, Wax and such combustible Matter; that when Day-Light fail'd they might serve for Torches and Illuminations in the Night. Nero exhibited these Spectacles in his own Gardens, impiously joining to them the Diversions of the Cirque, and appearing himself publickly in the Habit of a Charioteer, sitting in his Chariot; which yet the People entertain'd with more Pity, than Pleasure, knowing that they were not done for the publick Benefit, but meerly to gratifie his own private Rage and Malice. Thus barbarously were the Christians treated at Rome; among whom in the ancient Martyrologies we find the Names of Tecta, Torques, Torquatus, Marcellus, and several others. We are inform'd by Sul. Severus and Orosius, that not long after the Persecution began in Rome, the Emperor issu'd out Edicts against the Christians through most if not all the Provinces of the Empire; but in this Mr. Dodwel is singular, believing that the Persecution was confin'd to Rome. However we find the Names of some Martyrs in Milan and other Places; and an Inscription was found at Clunia in Spain, dedicated to Nero in Memory of his having clear'd the Province of such as had introduc'd a new Superstition among Mankind. How long this Persecution lasted it is hard to determine; but in all Probability it was abated at Rome in a very short Time, tho' in some of the Provinces it might continue longer; and the Christians were in less Safety than formerly throughout the rest of Nero's Reign. And here we may not improperly take Notice out of Tacitus of some Calamities that befel Rome and Italy shortly after. Campania was destroy'd by Whirlwinds, which beat down Villages, tore up Woods and Corn, and spread its Fury almost to the Gates of Rome; whilst the City was expos'd to a most dreadful Pestilence, which rag'd without any Sign of a corrupted Air: Houses were fill'd with dead Bodies, and the Streets with Funerals; neither Age nor Sex escap'd, both Slaves and Freemen promiscuously perish'd: Parents and Children while they lamented each others Loss, often themselves made up the Funeral Pile: Knights and Senators, tho' they indifferently perish'd, were less lamented, having as it were by a common Fate escap'd the Cruelties of their Emperor.

Rome and Italy
afflicted.

St. Andrew.

The Preaching and Success of the Apostle Peter was one great Occasion of this Persecution, therefore his Life was especially aim'd at; but by what Means he escap'd in the Heat of it, we have no Account. It is probably conjectur'd by some, that part of that Storm which he avoided, in this Year, fell upon his Brother Andrew in the Province of Achaia; tho' the Year must be acknowledg'd to be much more uncertain than the Place. This Apostle having preach'd the Gospel, and wrought many Miracles in the wild Northern Countries of Scythia and Sogdiana, and afterwards in some of the Provinces of the lesser Asia, at length came into Greece, Epirus and Achaia, where he still added more Converts to the Christian Faith. In the City of Patrae in Achaia, he confirm'd all those Truths he had preach'd by the Effusion of his Blood, being condemn'd to be crucify'd by Ageas, the Proconsul of that Province; which Sentence was shortly after executed on November the 30th. All the particular Circumstances of his Death are very largely describ'd in a Letter, attributed to the Priests and Deacons of Achaia, his Disciples, of which Dr. Cave has given us an Extract; but the Authority of that Piece is not to be rely'd on, having been condemn'd by the Ancients, as being compos'd by Hereticks. The Year of his Martyrdom is very uncertain, some placing it in the Persecution under Domitian, about 30 Years after this Persecution, and others in this; which to us seems the most probable. The modern Greeks attribute to him the Founding of the Church of Bizantium, since call'd Constantinople, and the Ordaining of Stachys, whom St. Paul calls his beloved Stachys, first Bishop of the Place; which is expressly asserted by Nicephorus Callistus and Nicephorus Patriarch of Constantinople: But this not being mention'd by the Ancients, many doubt of the Truth of it. The Church has always rejected the Acts said to be written by this Apostle, as spurious, and also a Gospel attributed to him.

In the midst of these Times of Persecution, the Apostle Paul continu'd Paul's journey. the Course of his Ministry with indefatigable Toil, wading through all Difficulties without Fear of the greatest Dangers. Having been some short Time in Judæa, according to Bishop Pearson, he pass'd from thence into the Proconsular Asia, where Timothy met him at Ephesus; a City which he formerly thought he shou'd never have seen again. Then journeying about 80 Miles Eastward, he made a Visit to the Colossians, whom he had never seen before; taking Lodgings with Philemon and his Wife Apphia, with his Fellow-Soldier Archippus. After a considerable Stay, he return'd back to Ephesus, and shortly after took a Voyage over into Macedonia. Before which Voyage, he undertook to settle the Church of Ephesus, and first excommunicated Hymeneus and Philetus for denying the Resurrection of the Dead, and other Articles of Faith. After that he order'd Timothy to have his Residence at this great City, and to take the Charge of all the Proconsular Asia. But whether this was the precise Time of Timothy's being constituted Bishop of this Place, or whether it was when the Apostle took his Leave of the Ephesians, as we hinted in the Year 57, we leave to the Determination of the Learned.

II. Towards the latter End of the same Year that Rome was burnt, Florus the 13th Governor of Judæa. Gessius Florus was sent into Palestine in the Room of Albinus, being preferr'd by the Empress Poppæa's Interest. He was the thirteenth Governor or Procurator of Judæa after the Banishment of Archelaus, and the seventh after the Death of King Herod Agrippa. About the Time of his Arrival, the Levites, who sung Hymns in the Temple, petition'd King Agrippa, to allow them the Use of the Linnen Robe, which solely pertain'd to the Priests; alledging, That such a Favour wou'd perpetuate the Memory of his Reign. Whereupon the King, by the Advice of his Council, permitted them to lay aside their former Habit, and assume that of the Priests, appointing other Singers in their Room. Which Innovation being so contrary to the Jewish Laws and Ordinances, it was not to be expected, as Josephus intimates, but Vengeance wou'd shortly follow. About the same Time the magnificent Buildings of the Temple were all finish'd, The Temple finish'd. 80 Years after their being begun by Herod the Great; and the People perceiving that by this above 18000 Workmen wou'd want both Employment and Bread, and fearing the Holy Treasury shou'd become a Prey to the Romans, apply'd themselves to Agrippa to repair the Eastern Porticos, a stupendous Pile, and the Work of King Solomon, hanging over a deep and narrow Valley, and supported by a Wall of four hundred Cubits high, consisting all of vast white Marble Stones of twenty Cubits in Length, and six in Thickness. But the King finding it an Undertaking of extraordinary Difficulty and Expence, deny'd their Request, but permitted them to employ themselves in paving the City with broad white Stone. After this he took away the High-Priesthood from Jesus the Son of Gamaliel, and gave it to Matthias the Son of Theophilus; who was the Matthias the last High-Priest. 18th High-Priest after our Saviour's Nativity, and the last of the Sacerdotal Order.

Florus being establish'd in his Government, in a short Time shew'd himself so rapacious and tyrannical, that in Comparison with him, his wicked Predecessor Albinus might have been thought a Benefactor. For the other acted all Things secretly, and with Signs of Shame, but Florus openly, Florus's wicked Government. and publickly glorying in his greatest Violences; in which he behav'd himself more like a common Executioner than a Governor, omitting no Rapines nor Oppressions that might afflict the People. He was inflexible to all Entreaties, and insatiable in his Profits, equally grasping at small
